MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVED

Graves of Fallen Soldiers Decorated and Tributes Paid to Their Memory.

S. S. SWACKHAMER THE ORATOR

Patriotic Songs Rendered by Children's Chorus—Lincoln's Gettysburg Speech Read.

The observance of Memorial Day was almost wholly confined to the program as prepared by Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., the Women's Relief Corps and John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans. Despite the weather condition the veterans carried out their program as planned. Early in the morning a large detail under the direction of Commander J. F. Berg went to Scotch Plains, where Post services were held. The detail was accompanied by the Plainfield Band, which afterwards led the parade in the city.

The line formed on West Second street, right resting on Central avenue, when this line of march was followed: Central avenue to Front street to Watchung avenue to Chatham street to North Plainfield Cemetery; returning to Chatham street to Somerset street to Front street to Park avenue to Second street and Post headquarters.

The veterans were escorted by John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, and Company K, which has been the annual custom and although there was a notable absence of the veterans of the Civil War, several having died during the past year, there was a good attendance and all were filled with the spirit of the day.

The Post re-assembled at Reform Hall at 2:30 for public exercises at that place. The hall was filled with defenders of the Union, Women's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans and public spirited citizens who thoroughly enjoyed the excellent program provided. The Plainfield Band was present and discoursed a number of patriotic selections. Commander Berg was in charge of the exercises, which consisted of the reading of President Lincoln's Gettysburg address, the official Memorial Day orders from National Headquarters of the G. A. R., and the impressive ceremony of honoring the graves of the unknown dead, as well as paying due respect to the members of the Post who have died during the past year.

An enjoyable feature of the afternoon was the singing of patriotic songs by a large chorus of children, which was under the direction of the Women's Relief Corps.

The orator of the day was S. S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield, who delivered a carefully prepared address on the scenes and incidents of the Civil War in which all of the veterans had a part. He recalled vividly important engagements and actions all tending toward the successful campaign on the part of the Union forces, not forgetting to praise the brave leaders and generals who so wisely directed the soldiers in their efforts to wipe slovery from the country.

Mr. Swackhamer did not omit the praise due President Lincoln for the part he had in freeing the negro from bondage and he aroused a deep feeling in the old soldier as he touched upon this and that incident which they so promptly recalled as having a great bearing upon the result of the struggle.

Following the exercises in the main part of the hall the children adjourned to the basement where they were served with ice cream and cake by the Women's Relief Corps. Aside from the part taken by the women in training the children for the exercises, they also gathered the flowers for decorating the graves and furthermore they presented each veteran with a bouquet tied with a small piece of white ribbon. The members of the band were also remembered in a similar way. During the exercises the orders for the day and those from National Headquarters were read by the adjutant, H. Craig Smith.

Patrick Boylan Returns Home.

Patrick Boylan, the motorman employed by the Public Service Corporation, who was severely injured by being thrown from his car at Lincoln last week, was able to leave the hospital, yesterday and return to his home. His recovery is now assured, although it will be several days before he wil be able to return to work.

S. A. Meeting.

Howard T. Scheskeer, superintendent of the Elizabeth City Mission, will be the speaker at the Salvation Army Hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. All are invited.

URGE FULL ASSESSMENT

State Tax Board Will Enforce Law for Full Valuation in Somerset.

MEANS MORE SCHOOL MONEY.

Mayor Townsend, Senator Frelinghuysen and Major Lentz Speak at Somerville Meeting Friday.

As the result of a meeting of the State Board for the Equalization of Taxes and the assessors of the various taxing districts, held at Somerville Friday, the county board will make an effort to have assessors all over the county make their assessments at ful valuation, in order to secure a larger share of the railroad tax money for the public schools. At the meeting were Mayor Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield, Tax Assessor Justus H. Cooley, Maj Carl Lentz, president of the State Board for Equalization of Taxes, Former Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the Board, and State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen.

Mayor Townsend, Senator Frelinghuysen, Major Lentz, P. V. Van Doren, S. A. Kenney and Former Mayor Smalley went to Somerville Friday morning and spent the morning in an automobile tour of several of the adjacent taxing districts. They visited Raritan, Bedminster and Bernardsville, inspecting properties and comparing the assessment values submitted. After lunch, they went in conference with the county assessors, among whom was J. H. Cooley, of the borough.

At the afternoon session, Mr. Townsend, who is an active worker to bring an increase in the railroad tax apportionment to the borough, spoke, stating that the increase, to be effective, must be the universal action of all the assessors. He spoke of the rivalry between the assessors and the attempt of each one to force his neighbor to assess on a higher valuation. "The assessors should all pull together," said Mr. Townsend, "that these values may be raised. The best interests of the county demand this."

President Lentz, of the Board, spoke of the State law requiring full assessment, and stated that the Board would get after the assessors in an effort to secure the enforcement of this law. Senator Frelinghuysen had some definite figures about certain properties which were obviously under-assessed, and his remarks were in explanation of the duty of tax assessors. He quoted figures showing that Somerset is not receiving its full share of school railroad money, because of this practise of under-assessment.

MUCH BUSINESS FOR CITY FATHERS TONIGHT

Action will be taken tonight by the Common Council on the proposed issue of $95,000 worth of bonds for the suggested new primary schoolhouse at Darrow avenue and Essex street. The Board of School Estimate will recommend that the city fathers order such an issue.

It is also probable that some action will be taken on a petition to prevent minors selling newspapers from entering bar-rooms. This is prohibited by the Bishop's law but has never been enforced to the letter here. Something may also be done to rid the city of dogs running at large during the warm weather.

The question of spending large sums of money for street improvements by issuing bonds will also be discussed. Mayor Fisk, who recently vetoed an ordinance for such purpose, will send to the Common Council a special message on the subject.

Funeral of Mrs. La Porte.

The funeral of Mrs. Alfred E. La Porte was held this morning in St. Joseph's church, where she had acted as organist for many years. It was conducted by Rev. Father Miller and during the mass musical numbers were rendered by Father Dietrich and Miss Justina Smith. There were numerous floral offerings, the set pieces including tributes from the Knights of Columbus, the local postoffice employes and the State Letter Carriers Association, of which Mr. La Porte is secretary and was to have been in attendance at the annual convention Saturday. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, the following acting as pall bearers: Michael O'Keefe, Andrew E. Kenney, William Dunn, Cormack McDonough, John J. Hines and Fred Lasher.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Powlison, of Somerset street, are planning to leave town this week for Jerseyville, where they will spend a couple of months.

NEW ORGAN A MEMORIAL

Costly Instrument to Be Placed in Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church.

IN CHARLES HYDE'S MEMORY.

To Be One of the Two Finest in the State—Improvements to Be Made in Edifice.

In memory of her husband, the late Charles H. Hyde, former president of the First National Bank, Mrs. Hyde, whose daughter is the wife of State Senator Everett Colby, has arranged to give a handsome new organ to the Crescent Avenue church, of which her husband was a member for many years. The organ, which will rank with the finest in the State, the instrument at Peddie Memorial church, Newark, is to cost between $15,000 and $20,000 and will be installed in connection with extensive interior changes to be made at the church.

The announcement of the gift was made by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the church, at the morning service yesterday. The contract for the construction of the instrument has not yet been awarded. The organ will be in three sections. Of these one will be on either side of the pulpit and the third will be the echo organ above the back gallery. This echo organ will be equipped with a full chime of bells. The new instrument will be as fine as the one now at Peddie church acknowledged the best in the State.

Further details of the new organ will be made public at the special meeting of the Crescent Avenue church congregation to be held Wednesday night, at which time carefully prepared plans for the renovation of the church will be presented, and such steps taken as may be deemed advisable to provide means for carrying out the plans submitted.

SOCIALISTS ANGRY OVER SOME ARRESTS

The Socialist Party at its State Convention in Elizabeth yesterday passed resolutions instructing its State Committee to begin a vigorous fight against the City of Paterson, which recently had the temerity to lock up a couple of Socialist agitators. The resolutions adopted denounce Mayor McBride and urge a fight to a finish. The State Committee will meet tonight in Newark, and will arrange for another speaker to defy the Paterson authorities. They will then have a lawyer on hand to take care of their interests. The convention adopted its State platform containing the usual Socialistic planks and voted for the retention of voting machines.

They came pretty near not having any place to meet in yesterday. Hugo Baum, who runs Saenger Hall, thought he would not have to be particular what he got up for a lot of Socialists, and served a dinner on Saturday night that created a rumpus. Such a rumpus in fact, that at 3 o'clock yesterday morning Baum said he wouldn't have a Socialist in his place. However, the Trenton delegation used its persuasive powers and at 8 o'clock Baum agreed to let them have have a hall if 125 men agreed to pay 40 cents each for dinner. They did.

PLAINFIELD BEST REGULATED EXCISE CITY IN THE STATE.

The New York Tribune says today: "The commission appointed by Governor Fort to inquire into the excise question made a wise move when it chose Mayor Charles J. Fisk of Plainfield as its chairman. Plainfield has the reputation of having the best excise government in the state. A system of regulation, rather than of prohibition, has been used in this city, and its success is undoubted. If the example set by Mayor Fisk were followed by the heads of other cities throughout the state, the excise problem would be nearer solution, and the distasteful injection of the saloon into the campaign at election time would be obliterated.

Evils of Child Labor.

The Young Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church met Friday afternoon at the home of Miss Bessie Flanders on Grove street, when a paper was presented on "The Evils of Child Labor," written by Miss Marguerite Serrell and read by Miss Helen Armstrong. The devotional exercises were led by Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, who gave a helpful talk. A social hour followed when refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon M. Hannaford, of 72 Randolph road, are wearing a broad smile. It's a boy.

GEO. P. MELLICK IN NEW BANKING FIRM

George P. Mellick, of East Seventh street, who has been a member of the New York banking firm at Ladenburg, Thalman & Co., has withdrawn to become a partner of the new firm of Carlysle, Mellick & Co., which has just been organized.

All of the five partners of the new firm are members of the New York Stock Exchange, each having been pecialists at one time or other in some leading stock. The new firm will make a speciality of fractional lots. The partners are J. F. Carlysle, George P. Mellick, Daniel A. Loring, Charles F. Samson, C. F. Runyon, Jr., and Ira Richards, Jr. David C. Halsted, formerly partner of Wasserman & Co., is the office member of the firm.

SENTENCES IMPOSED BY JUDGE SCHENCK

In the Somerset courts Friday, Judge Schenck disposed of a number of cases. Louis Jackson, charged with carrying a concealed weapon, was arraigned on allegation and pleaded guilty. Sentence was deferred until next Friday.

Walter Savoye, who had pleaded guilty to charges of assault and battery on Jacob Johnson and John S. Bennett, of Middlebush, was given five months in the county jail on each, sentence to run concurrently.

Andrew and Michael Straka and Andrew Kolar of Raritan, who had forfeited their probation, were arraigned. The first named was continued on probation and thre other two were ordered sent to the State Home for Boys.

Frank Kolbeck, of Bound Brook, was granted a wholesale license.

H. K. CARROLL ENDS EIGHT YEARS SERVICE

Elections for the remaining secretaries and for the assistant secretaries of the various boards of the Methodist Episcopal church were continued at the general conference of that denomination at Baltimore on Saturday. The Rev. Dr. A. B. Leonard, for twenty years secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions, was retained.

The Rev. Dr. Thomas Nicholson, president of Dakota Wesleyan University, at Mitchell, S. D., was elected secretary of the new Board of Education, which will have its office in New York city.

The Rev. Dr. J. P. Maveety, field secretary of the former Board of Education, Freedmen's Aid and Sunday Schools, was named as the additional secretary.

Dr. Homer C. Stuntz was elected assistant secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, displacing Dr. H. K. Carroll, of North Plainfield, who had held the office for eight years. Dr. Ward Platt was chosen assistant secretary of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension.

The judiciary committee has dismissed the charges of maladministration brought by the Rev. George A. Cooke against Bishops Goodsell, Moore, Berry and McDowell, on rulings adverse to Mr. Cooke in the matter of his charges against Chancellor Day and others at the annual conference presided over by the bishops named.

An invitation was extended to the General Conference to hold its next quadrennial session in Salt Lake City.

REVOLUTIONARY MEMORIAL SOCIETY PLANS CELEBRATION.

The annual meeting of the Revolutionary Memorial Society of New Jersey will be held at the Wallace house in Somerville next Saturday, commencing at noon, when a luncheon will be served under the stately elms at this historic Washington headquarters. It is expected that members of the Daughters of the Revolution from all over the State will also attend in large numbers.

At the public exercises Richard F. Stevens, of Newark, the President of the Revolutionary Memorial Society of New Jersey, will be in charge and make an address. Other speakers scheduled for the occasion are Justice James J. Bergen, of Somerville, Mrs. Donald McLean and Rev. Dr. Minton.

END THEIR CONFERENCE

East Association of Seventh-Day Baptist Churches Close Four Days' Session.

ADOPT ELEVEN QUESTIONS.

Rev. Dr. A. E. Main Chairman of Committee Which Presents Articles on Church Polity.

The conference of the East Association was continued at the Seventh-Day Baptist church Sabbath morning with a sermon by Rev. Dr. Arthur E. Main, followed by an offering for the mission, tract and educational societies. In the afternoon at 2:45 o'clock, the Bible School session was held, conducted by Orra S. Rogers, superintendent, with an offering for the Sabbath-school Board. At 3:45 o'clock the Young People's Board hour and Christian Endeavor Society was conducted by Miss C. Isabel Randolph, of the home church. This service was a memorial to Rev. Dr. A. C. Davis, of West Edmeston, N. Y., who was killed last week in an accident at that place. He was president of the Young People's Socity of the church, and greatly beloved by all. The burial took place at Shiloh on Saturday, Rev. D. B. Coon, the pastor of the church there, being called home to officiate.

Sabbath evening following a praise and prayer service, the Women's Board hour was conducted by Mrs Reune Randolph, associational secretary. In connection with this several papers and letters were read, one from Miss Susie Burdick, of Shanghai, China, telling of the mission work there; a paper by Miss Ethel Titsworth on "Missions and Mission Study;" a letter from Mrs G. H. F. Randolph, of Fouke, Arikansas, concerning the women's work in the west, and a paper by Mrs. Orra S. Rogers on "The Organization of Women's Work in the Churches," all of which were exceedingly helpful and contained many practical suggestions for the advancement of women's work.

These papers were followed with an able address by Mrs. William Steele, who is in charge of an orphanage at Knoxville, Tenn., which is supported by the denomination. She gave a very interesting talk of her work there which aroused the sympathies of all who heard her.

Preceding the regular morning service yesterday, there was a brief business session, but as several matters were not ready for report, they were deferred until later in the day. The service began with praise and prayer, preceding the Missionary Society hour which was conducted by Rev. E. B. Saunders, corresponding secretary. The progress of the past year was reviewed and helpful suggestions offered. The sermon of the morning was preached by Rev. A. J. C. Bond, delegate from the Western Association, which was followed by an offering for the missionary, tract and education societies.

After a praise and prayer service in the afternoon, there was a brief discussion of "Eleven Questions," suggested by the "Committee of Fifteen," led by Dr. A. E. Main. According to the action taken previously in the conference these questions were referred to a committee of three of which Rev. Dr. T. L. Gardiner was the chairman, and they formulated a report which was unanimously adopted.

They referred particularly to denominationtl polity and are intended to more clearly define the relationship between the churches and the General conference and re-arrange the committees. They have been dicussed at other conferences and for that reason were referred to a committee to save time in discussion.

The afternoon service closed with a sermon by Rev. W. L. Burdick who took Rev. D. B. Coon's place on the program, the latter having been called to Shiloh.

The conference closed last night with a prayer and conference meeting, conducted by Rev. Judson G Burdick, and was purely of a religious character. The sessions which were chiefly for the development of the spiritual side of the church were very helpful and the conference was considered one of the best yet held by the denomination. All day yesterday the attendance was large, many members being present from New York and New Market.

READY FOR HORSE SHOW

Twenty-two Cars Loaded with Blue Ribbon Animals Arrived Yesterday.

VANDERBILT'S DUE WEDNESDAY

Stables of Judge Moore, Paul A. Sorg, Otto Kahn and Others Now on the Way.

The advance guard of valuable thoroughbred horses arrived in Plainfield yesterday afternoon from Philadelphia, for the fifth annual exhibition of the Plainfield Horse Show which opens on Thursday for a three days event. It required twenty-two cars, making up the special train, to convey the horses and carriages, which were ready to come to this city. And this is not all. Early Wednesday morning, special cars carrying the entries of Judge W. H. Moore of Brooklyn, Reginald G. Vanderbilt, of New York, and Paul A. Sorg, of Pittsburg, will reach here.

With the entries received yesterday the horse show grounds present a lively scene. A majority of the box-stalls are now occupied and there is a small army of men on hand to look after the prize-winners. Among the exhibitors whose horses have already arrived are Tonzo Sauvage, Rufus L. Patterson, Miss Emily H. Bedford, George W. Watson, Jr., Miss Mabel Hooley, W. J. Buttfield, J. T. Pratt, Sidney Halloway and several others.

At an early hour this morning the grooms and stablemen were hard at work getting their charges in condition for Thursday. There will be no letup from now until after the show, for every effort will be made to capture the great many cash prizes, and the valuable trophies. All told there will be nearly five hundred entries in the various classes, a greater number than anticipated by the Plainfield Riding Club. It was found necessary to turn down some of those desiring to enter horses, because of the lack of accommodations.

While the entries are arriving and preparations are going on for the exhibit, the club has a large force of men employed putting the show grounds in condition for the event. Every convenience will be provided to both exhibitors and patrons of the show and there is every indication that it will far exceed any previous one in the history of the club.

Among the important exhibitors will be Otto Kahn, of Morristown. His entries will come to Plainfield tomorrow or Wednesday overland and they are sure to be factors in the various classes.

All of the private boxes have been sold for the show, but there will be plenty of seats in the grandstand for those desiring to attend and tickets can be purchased at the Casino, where Major Maze Edwards is in charge of them.

The entry list is so large that it has been decided to hold the show Friday and Saturday mornings, beginning at 10 o'clock, so that all may be given an equal chance to compete for honors. During the show the officials of the club will give the customary dinner at the Casino for the exhibitors and this promises to be a decided feature in connection with this year's exhibition.

G. D. Johnson to Edit New "Times."

George D. Johnson, news editor of New Brunswick "The Daily Home News" and widely known in New Jersey as a newspaper man and editor, has obtained an interest in New Brunswick "The Daily Times," formerly a Democratic local paper, which was purchased recently by the Rev. L. E. Wheeler, formerly pastor of the First Baptist church. Mr. Johnson, who had served the "The Home News" as reporter, city editor, and later as news editor, for fourteen years, severed his connection with that paper on Saturday. He will be secretary and treasurer as well as assistant editor of "The Times," which was formerly conducted by Francis W. Daire. It will now become independent in politics.

Mrs. Clara W. Kaji Will Speak.

The women of the foreign and home missionary societies of the First M. E. church are considered fortunate in securing Mrs. Clara W. Kaji for a talk on Japan, tomorrow afternoon in Vincent chapel, at 3 o'clock. Her long residence in Tokio and her close relationship with the highest and lowest classes of the Japanese enable her to give many interesting facts about the home life and of the women of this newly awakened empire. Mrs. Kaji will gladly answer any questions which the women may ask, answers to which cannot be found in books. Women of all denominations are cordially invited. A silver offering will be received.

—Peerless Orchestra will be at Debele's Hall, Chatham street, tonight. Every one welcome. Come and enjoy the concert. No admission charged. Seats free. •••

WATCHUNG CLUB'S RACES

Mud and Rain no Barrier to the Fourth Annual Steeplechase.

BIG CROWD IN ATTENDANCE.

Spills Frequent but No Serious Accidents—Farmers' Event Provides a "Thriller."

Despite the fact that the track was a miniature canal and a driving rain at times almost hid horses and mounts from view, the Watchung Hunt Club conducted its fourth annual race meet at the Driving Park Saturday afternoon. It was almost impossible for the runners to keep their feet at turns or jumps and spills were frequent though no serious accidents occurred. The grounds about the Park were one vast sea of rich, oozy, juicy, Jersey mud and the only half-dry place was the grandstand where at least 500 enthusiasts cheered their favorites.

Six races were on the card, three flat and three steeplechase, and although the conditions were against good time, the results were well worth the trip out. The best event was undoubtedly the steeplechase for the Watchung cup, won by Charles W. Fisk's speedy little brown gelding, "Apple Jack." Five horses faced the starter with the winner and W. H. Wildey's "Silver Twist" the favorites at odds of 2 to 1. "Silver Twist" took the lead at the start and held it twice around the course but was overhauled in the finish by "Apple Jack." The two came down the home stretch neck-and-neck but the Fisk horse went under the wire slightly in the lead. The cup must be won twice to become the winner's property and as Charles D. Freeman, who took it with "Strongheart" last year, is no longer eligible to compete, Mr. Fisk has first leg on it.

In the first race, five furlongs on the flat for the Netherwood cup, there were four starters. At the second turn, George Watson, Jr". "Merry Kiss," slipped in the mud and threw her rider, Harvey Fisk. He rolled clear of the others but the horse continued on around the track and went under the wire at the finish at the heels of the winners. Charles Pfizer's "Spring Beauty" took first money after a sharp go with H. A. Bourne's "Mrs. Bessie Fullum."

Seven horses were entered for the Middlesex cup, the first steeplechase, but three were scratched, Singleton VanSchaik's "Cayotte," Charles Pfizer's "Gen' D'Arme" and Rufus C. Finch's "Mercy Me." In this race, Harvey Fisk was again thrown twice. He lost his hold in the jump in the south field but quickly regained his saddle only to be pitched off at the in-and-out barrier. His mount, Miss Mabel Hooley's "Maid-of-all-Work," swerved suddenly at the second take and he was hurled against the bars, dazing him for the time being. He was assisted from the course and recovered within a half hour. W. C. Eckerson's "Rollo," at odds of 2 to 1, was the winner although Peter Hauck, Jr.'s. "Modiste" would undoubtedly have gone under the wire first but for his refusal to take the jumps.

There were only four starters in the Farmer's event and as in previous years, it was filled with excitement, most of it furnished by Richard Curran on a bay skate called "Dick." Directly after the first turn, Curran lost both stirrups and in his efforts to bring his mount to a stop he broke a bridle. The animal was running away by that time and Curran saved himself from a bad throw by wrapping himself around "Dick's" neck and clinging there until the race was finished. Scott Terry's "Gray Billy" took first money and W. H. Clark's "Dexter" second. Third money went to "Dick," supposed to belong to a "Richard McCullough," of New Market, but an investigation would probably show that the owner is an East End hackman.

The race for the Union cup, one and one-half miles on the flat, brought out five starters and served to introduce Marcus Hoyt as a jockey, having secured a special dispensation to ride for the day. It was a good event closely contested, but Hoyt's horse, "Ida G," was handicapped in being smooth-shod while the others were spiked up. Hoyt was compelled to keep in the rear to avoid a fall down in front and as a result came in fourth with two acres of the track in the form of mud clinging to him. Charles Pfizer's "The Miser" surprised the wise ones by beating out the favorite, John Shield's "Hunter Raine." The latter was in the lead much of the way and "The Miser" pulled up while the run was over one of the hardest parts of the course.

The sixth and last race, steeplechase for the Somerset cup, was the only fizzle on the card. The starters dwindled from five to three and the contest narrowed down to Martin J.

DRYDEN WANTS MURPHY FOR VICE-PRESIDENCY

A statement, in which he expressed the wish that Franklin Murphy would receive the Republican nomination for vice-president was made by former United States Senator John F. Dryden, Saturday. Mr. Dryden has already expressed a preference for William H. Taft for first place on the ticket and he says there are many reasons why Murphy should be named as Taft's running mate and none why he should not.

Mr. Dryden declares that no member of the Republican party is more worthy of recognition by his State or by his party than Mr. Murphy. He adds:

"As a representative American manufacturer, as a staunch and earnest worker for many years in the ranks of the party and as a member of the National Republican Committee, as a former Governor of the State and identified with many important public undertakings, his name would add strength and dignity to the national ticket.

"I shall consider the Republican party to be extremely fortunate if its convention at Chicago selects Mr. Murphy. Such action by the party's representatives will be an honor to the State. It will make certain an overwhelming expression of satisfaction by the voters. It will be evidence of the purpose of those delegates to give the people a party ticket sincerely representative of all that is patriotic and honorable in the party."

The Effect of Imprisonment.

Editor, Daily Press:—

Kindly allow me sufficient space in your daily to ask through its columns a question which I have heard debated on different occasions and which has resulted in the majority deciding in the affirmative. The query is, "Does punishment by incarceration tend to elevate one's morals?"

The above interrogation refers to such lesser offenses as drunkenness, larceny, vagrancy, etc. Have in mind at this writing of several cases whereby prisoners, upon the expiration of their sentences have chosen to lead a straightforward and profitable life while others are traveling the road to degradation and ruin.

Would like the opinions of others on this subject.

MILLIONS MADE HONESTLY.

Schwab Denies That the Millionaires of America Are Dishonest.

Detroit, June 1.—Charles M. Schwab startled the delegates to the Boilermakers' Convention recently by declaring that American millionaires have made their money honestly.

"There is not a dishonest man among all of them that I know of," declared Mr. Schwab, with considerable emphasis. "I can name you a great many that have made their money by speculation, some in purchasing ore lands in the North with an anticipation of increasing values, and others by dabbling in stocks. There is not much difference in either deal, as both are speculation. A large part of money getting is speculation anyway, no matter how you get it, but all of my millionaire friends are honest even though they are speculators."

When Mr. Schwab was asked why men of wealth continue to accumulate wealth he replied:

"It's the love of the game. The man that makes his own money and has been a worker cannot reconcile himself to becoming a drone. As long as a man's blood flows red in his veins he likes to be up and doing. It's different with those who inherit their wealth."

NEGRO STUDENT TO WED A WHITE GIRL.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 1.—Joseph Antonio Maceo, a negro student at Syracuse University, and Alice Isabel Mackley, a white girl, procured a marriage license here Saturday. The groom gave his birthplace as Jamaica, West Indies, and says that he is the son of the Cuban insurgent general, Antonio Maceo, and that the Cuban government is defraying his college expenses.

The family of Miss Mackley strongly oppose the marriage. Both intended bride and bridegroom are Catholics, and expect to be married in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception here.

It was stated yesterday at the home of Bishop Ludden that the church had no power to refuse to countenance a marriage between a negro and a white woman.

After Gun-Carriers.

Judge Booraem, of New Brunswick, who is trying to put down serious crime by punishing the carrying of concealed weapons today ordered that notices be printed in English, Italian, Hungarian, Polish and Slavish that he will imprison all persons convicted of carrying concealed weapons. The prosecutor has been directed to have the notices posted in the saloons and factories of the county.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

A rainy Decoration Day put the kibosh on the outdoor festivities and the three baseball games scheduled were called off. There were various local social functions, public and private, among which the reception and dance by members of Camp Washington, P. O. S. of A., at Apgar's Hall in the evening proved the greatest attraction. A neat sum was netted at the first strawberry festival of the season, held in Friendship Hall, New Market, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist church. At the various churches, special Memorial Day services were held yesterday, and patriotic sermons were preached at the Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptist churches. These services were attended by local G. A. R. men, who decorated their comrades' graves the previous day.

The day's services at the Seventh Day Baptist church were postponed Saturday to allow the members to attend the sessions of the conference being held in Plainfield, and a large delegation of Sabbatarians also attended the closing sessions yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sturman, of Grove street, announce the engagement of their daughters, the Misses Byrde and Lillian Sturman, to Doctors Samuel L. and David Short, of New York.

Tahoon Demarest and daughter, Miss Sadie Demarest, of Paterson, were Decoration Day guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius D. Taylor.

The Misses Barrett, of Brooklyn, were guests at the home of Misses Jessie and Amy Haynes for the week-end.

Miss Cora L. Dayton will entertain the G. E. Club tonight at the home of her brother, Mahlon R. Dayton.

SOMERVILLE.

Mrs. John T. Amerman and daughter, Miss Irene Amerman, of Millstone, are guests at the home of H. N. Amerman.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hartwell, who spent the winter in New York, have retunred to their home, East Cliff street.

Mrs. Frank McConaughy, of East High street, is visiting her brother in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Harper Smith left Saturday for Atlantic City.

RARITAN.

John F. McCarthy, formerly connected with the Hudson River Military Academy, near Raritan, has established a summer camp at Delaware Water Gap.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered in the Third Reformed church yesterday morning. Preparatory service was held Saturday evening.

William Kallaher, of Westerly, R. I., has returned to his home, after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Driscoll.

William F. Greene has been a guest this week of relatives in Newark.

LITERARY

Five hundred photographs of President Roosevelt all assembled in one big double-page picture, 13 by 19½ inches in size, is an extraordinary feature of the June Woman's Home Companion. The five hundred photographs were taken in almost every state in the Union, at all periods of Roosevelt's public career, and show his wonderful versatility and energy.

In the June Companion appear the first chapters of Harvey J. O'Higgins' great story, "A Grand Army Man," based on Belasco's famous play of the same name, in which David Warfield starred all last winter.

The June number of Scribner's Magazine begins Will H. Low's "Chronicle of Friendships," which is almost the first example of artist memories in American letters. Low's recollections have to do with the present generation of American artists, many of whom are at the height of their career. It is a charming circle into which he introduces the reader in the first number—Theodore Robinson, R. A. M. Stevnston, Ridgway Knight, Wyatt Eaton,—with the life in the studio of Carolus-Duran, and in the court where these artists lived with their foreign fellow-students. The paper is fully illustrated, some of the sketches by contemporaries.

Lincoln Steffens heads the list of contributors to the Fifth Anniversary number of Everybody's with a powerful exposition of the views of President Roosevelt, Secretary Taft, and Senator La Follette, upon "What the Matter is in America, and What to do About It." He has put a lot of leading questions to these men, and their answers are wonderfully instructive. The article has been illustrated by remarkable photographs, taken specially for the magazine. There is also an article by Charles Edward Russell.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The Thoroughfare Grange will hold its annual picnic at National Park on June 29.

John Howell was bitten on the leg by a dog in Camden yesterday. The dog was shot by Mounted Policeman Krown.

Mrs. Mary Johnson, of Millville, is searching for her son Harold, who she claims left home taking $20, two watches and some clothing of his brother.

Miss Leona Elliott, of Millville, was bitten by a dog yesterday, and in her efforts to escape fell against a fence and fractured her right arm. The dog was shot.

Rev. Charles D. Parker, who accepted a call to the Woodstown Baptist church, moved his family there Saturday from York, Pa., and preached his first sermon yesterday.

Mrs. Anna V. Straugh, of near Roadstown, was found dead from apoplexy, near the rural free delivery mail box, Thursday night, by Charles Shimp, who was driving along the road.

Harry Blamford was struck on the head by a falling crowbar at the Whitall Tatum Glass Works, Millville, and knocked unconscious. He was resuscitated by Dr. Kirk, who found a long, deep scalp wound.

Mrs. Lewis Krebs, of North Maryland avenue, Atlantic City, appealed to the police to locate her husband, driver for an express company, who left his home to attend a circus two weeks ago and has not been seen since.

Falling from a haymow while walking in his sleep at the farm of Richard Taylor, two miles west of Millville, William Anderson, of Millville, sustained a fracture at the base of the skull, which will probably result fatally. He was removed to the County Hospital.

Arraigned in the Camden police court Saturday on a charge of assault and battery on his wife, Julius Reggler, of 1265 Lemon street, said his wife had disappeared since the alleged assault. He was committed to jail until the police are given a chance to locate the woman.

Colonel Charles W. Fuller, of Bayonne, Friday evening entertained at his home the committee which had charge of the recent dinner given for the colonel, at which he received a silver loving cup. His guests included Justice Swayze, of the Supreme Court; Judge John A. Blair and Mayor Pierre Garven.

Norman Shinn, member of the Atlantic county bar, who fell a month ago and injured his spine, is still in the City Hospital, Atlantic City, suffering from partial paaralysis, but the surgeons say that he is now in a condition which makes them believe he will be restored to full health before he is discharged.

Charged with violating the naturalization law, John D. Agostino and Guiseppe Parenti were held in $500 bail each by United States Commissioner Morgan in Camden Saturday. The complaint was made by Jerome C. Shear, chief examiner of the naturalization department of the National Bureau of Commerce and Labor.

Charles Dixon, employed by Frank Horner, near Woodstown, was held up late last night by two masked men and robbed of $50. Dixon had just returned from Woodstown and was putting up the carriage when the two highwaymen, who were hiding in the barn, pounced upon him and beat him up badly. The robbers escaped.

Culinary Hints.

In preparing stuffing for game of any kind, always add a little ground ginger; this imparts a nice flavor and makes the seasoning digestible.

Always hang meat from hooks in the larder, never lay it on dishes. Wrap bacon and ham in greased paper, and keep it the same way.

The hot plate of the kitchen stove may be cracked when very hot by cold water being upset on it when a heavy boiling pan is placed on the stove.

Stained enameled saucepans should be rubbed with coarse sand and lemon pulp, and not cleaned with boiling soda water. After squeezing lemons, save the pulp for this purpose.

To keep cake from sticking to baking pans, after greasing pans well sift in some flour, shake the pan so that the flour will get all over grease, and then turn out what does not stick to the pan and put in your batter.

Maund and Maunder.

Neither maund, a basket, nor maunder, to whine or grumble, is obsolete. Both are still in common use in South Notts and Leicestershire, at any rate. The former is used only, howevxer, of a particular kind of basket, used for carrying butter to market. The basket is nearly square in shape and has two lids opening from the middle part, where the handle is, and it is called the "butter mawn" (maund). Maunder is usually heard in such sentences as "What are you maundering at?" A Northumbrian will say, "He's maundering old fool," when the man of whom he is speaking strings words together in a senseless sort of way somewhat akin to maudling.—London Notes and Queries.

Walter Nelson, of New Market, who recently returned from Bridgeport, where he played for a time with the Connecticut State League club in that town, was engaged to catch for the Clinton Avenues, Saturday morning and after accepting the terms of the management, notified Manager Dorflinger later that he had decided to catch for New Brunswick, where he had been offered two games with more money. It was a disappointment to the Clinton Avenues that Nelson decided to cast his lot elsewhere, for he would have strengthened the team materially.

GOLF.

At the annual meeting of the Hackensack Golf Club, held recently, the treasurer's report showed the club to be in a flourishing condition. W. D. Moffat was elected president and E. Palmer will try his luck as captain. The full ticket was as follows: President, W. D. Moffat; vice-president, G. G. Ackerson; secretary, George E. Wells; terasurer, T. H. Thomas; captain, E. Palmer; governors for two years, H. Myers Bogert, Frank H. Hall, H. Paul Mehlin and Henry F. Harrison.

Alec Campbell, the professional of the Country Club of Brookline, will compete in the open championship tournament of the Western Golf Association, to be held at the Normandie Country Club, St. Louis, June 18 and 19. The day before the tournament he will meet Fred McLeod in a special match. McLeod is oper champion of the Western Golf Association, and Campbell holds a similar title in the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association.

R. L. VanDyke won the 18-hole handicap match at the Westfield Golf Club, Saturday morning, defeating W. J. Bogart, Jr., by 8 up. The latter played from scratch, while Van Dyke had a handicap of eight.

R. C. Smith, with a net score of 168, won the thirty-six hole medal play handicap at the Cranford Golf Club, Saturday, winning the prize offered by the vice-president, which was a traveling bag.

Plainfield Council, No. 294, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tonight and receive several propositions for membership.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt C. Ivins, of Hillside avenue, are planning a trip abroad this summer.

OBITUARY.

Thomas C. McNair.

Thomas C. McNair, aged eighty-one years, died this morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Albert Giddes, of Codington avenue. He had been ill a long time. Mr. McNair was born at Churchill, Bucks county, Pa., and had made his home in the borough for some time. Beside Mrs. Giddes, he is survived by one son, Samuel McNair, who lives in New York State. The funeral will be held at his late residence, Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock and burial will be in the Methodist cemetery.

Mrs. Sarah A. Allen.

Mrs. Sarah A. Allen, widow of Daniel L. Allen, died at her home on East Second street, Saturday night, following a long and tedious illness. Mrs. Allen was seventy years old and had lived the greater part of her life in Scotch Plains. She leaves a family of seven sons and four daughters, several of them residing in the city or borough. The funeral will be held at her late home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 and burial will be at Hillside.

Ambrose Male.

Ambrose Male, a former local resident, died Saturday at his home in Martinsville. He was sixty-seven years old and came to Plainfield from Canada shortly after the death of the late Job Male, to whom he was related and was one of his heirs. He leaves a wife and several children, one of the latter being Mrs. William Ross, of this city. The funeral will be held at his late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

William H. Maury.

William H. Maury, colored, died Saturday at his home on Webster place. He was twenty-five years old. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

P. O. Building Seems Certain.

Having been passed by both houses of Congress, the bill appropriating $100,000 for a postoffice building in Plainfield is awaiting the President's signature. It is believed he will sign the bill for which credit is due solely to Senator John Kean.

DISCOURSES ON CREED

Rev. Dr. Herring Interprets Meaning of "I Believe in the Holy Catholic Church."

THE NINTH OF HIS SERIES.

The Pastor Argues That the Word "Catholic" in This Connection Means "Universal."

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, delivered the ninth sermon in the series on "The Apostles Creed," at the church, last night, the theme being "I believe in the Holy Catholic church." Dr. Herring emphasized the importance of one having the proper belief in the Christian church and the significance of this part of the Creed. He spoke as follows:

"Perhaps you are not quite so sure of the clause in the Creed 'I believe in the Holy Catholic church.' Do you believe in the Holy Catholic church? You think of the Catholic church as a church distinct from the Protestant church—perhaps the particular variety of the church to which you belong, say Presbyterian,—but there is something very significant in this part of the Creed and you should say it and say it from the heart. Let us start to study it by first saying, 'I believe in the church itself,' and why do you believe in the Christian church? Perhaps you say you can be a Christian without the church, but our Lord founded the church and organized it for the purpose of bringing the Gospel to the world. The church then is His plan for gospelizing the world. If I am interested in His truth I should be interested in His plan.

"Paul spoke of man as the symbol of Christ's relation to His people; Christ is the head, the body with its members is the church. As there are many parts of the human body, so there are many parts of the Christian church. They are mutually helpful as the various parts of the body are mutually helpful, but are all under the control of the head, and Christ is the head. You believe in the church then because it is God's method of ministering to the needs of the world.

"Again you believe in the church because you know you cannot be religious alone. God rules His people by association. Your association with religious people stimulates the religious feeling. Our Lord Himself said that "where two or three are gathered together in My name there am I in the midst." He therefore urged religious association as a stimulus to religious life. A burning coal, if you separate it from the mass of burning coal, will soon die out. It maintains its heat by association Spiritual life is maintained by association.

"Of course the church is not perfect, neither is the human body perfect; but we bear with the imperfections of the human body and so should bear with the imperfections of the body of Christ, i. e., the church. Paul says, 'Bear with them until we come to the perfect man.' He means by this the church in its perfection.

"We go a step farther and say we 'believe in the Catholic church.' The Standard Dictionary thus defines the word Catholic as that which is 'universal in reach.' It is said that 'the church is essentially Catholic and only incidentally national.'

"The name Catholic was applied to the church in the Creed long before there was any division of churches into Catholic and Protestant. The though therefore in the minds of Christian thinkers at that time, was simply this, that the Christian church was to be the universal church. You can conscientiously subscribe to that though; you believe in one universal church. You do not believe that Buddhism is good enough for China; Hinduism for India, and Mahometanism for Turkey; but you do believe that dominion of Christ is to be to the ends of the earth. There is a missionary thought therefore in that word 'catholic,' for the word is nothing but another word for universal.

"You add further this thought that the church in which you believe is 'holy.' Is the church 'holy?' Why shouldn't it be so? It is the body of Christ and as devoted to Him, it is holy. The church of Christ is His force for conquering the world. You have just stated your faith in the Holy Ghost, and have said that the important work of the Holy Ghost is to make men holy. The Holy Spirit's activity is spent in the church and He makes the church holy. What is the church?—the body, of which Christ is the head. That body consists of the whole number of Christian believers; of men of like calibre with Peter who confessed that Jesus was 'the Messiah, the Son of the living God.' Upon confessors like Peter the Lord builds His church, and our Lord assures us that this church will never be destroyed, for the Gates of Hades shall not prevail against it.

"The whole body of devoted Christian believers in the world today is Christ's force for the conquest of the world. That force is under the power of God's Holy Spirit, and is going forth conquering, and to conquer until Christ is King of Kings and Lord of Lords."

Aylward's "Rosebank," ridden by Marshall Clapp, and C. F. Wildey, Jr.'s, "Harry Baylor" carrying W. H. Wildey. Leonce Fuller's "Golden-Arms," Charles Bulkley up, was left behind almost at the start and after once around the course threw his rider at the in-and-out by falling. "Harry Baylor" repeatedly refused to take barriers and "Rosebank" won in a walk.

The ultimatum issued by the Hunt club that no book-making would be tolerated kept all betting under cover. Several "bookies" were on hand, one member of the craft coming all the way from Scranton to get some "easy money," but the presence of Middlesex county officers put a damper on their efforts to quote odds. A little of it was done some distance away from the grandstand and runners placed the money.

The summary of the races:

First race—Netherwood cup; for Galloways, fifteen hands or under. By subscription of $10 each, of which 60 per cent and the cup to the winner and 40 per cent to the second. About five furlongs on the flat: First, Spring Beauty (Charles Pfizer, Bernardsville); second, Mrs. Bessie Fullum (H. A. Bourne, Westfield; third, Chinch (Peter Hauck, Jr., Newark).

Second race—Middlesex cup; steeplechase for bona fide hunters. By subscription of $10 each, of which 60 per cent and cup to the winner and forty per cent to the second. About three miles over a fair hunting country: First, Rollo (W. C. Eckerson, Brooklyn; second, Tobassa (Louis Batjer, Elizabeth); third, Modiste (Peter Hauck, Jr., Newark).

Third race—Farmers' event; for work horses, the property of farmers in the vicinity of Plainfield. Purse of $40, of which $10 to the second and $5 to the third: First, Gray Billy (Scott Terry, Alton); second, Dexter (W. H. Clark, Alton); third, Dick (Richard McCullough, New Market).

Fourth race—Union cup; for hacks or hunters. Purse of $100, of which $25 to the second; one and one-half miles on the flat: First, The Miser (Charles Pfizer, Bernardsville); second, Hunter Raine (John Shields, Bound Brook); third, Mysterious (Louis Batjer, Elizabeth); fourth, Ida G. (William Gross and brother, Fords).

Fifth race—Watchung cup; (must be won twice before becoming winner's property). Steeplechase for horses that have been regularly hunted with the Watchung Hunt, to be ridden by members of that club. About two and one-half miles over a fair hunting country; First, Apple Jack (Charles W. Fisk, Plainfield); second, Silver Twist (W. H. Wildey, Plainfield); third, Sweetheart (Rufus C. Finch, Plainfield).

Sixth race—Somerset cup; steeplechase for hunters, qualified under the rules of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association; about three miles over a fair hunting country: First Rosebank (Martin J. Aylward, Bernardsville); second, Harry Baylor, (C. F. Wildey, Jr., Plainfield).

The following acted as officials for the meet: Stewards, Charles J. Fisk, H. L. Herbert, S. A. Cruikshank, Charles Pfizer and P. F. Collier; judges, William C. Cammann and Frederick W. Jones, Jr., starter, Jack Wilmerding; paddock and patrol judge, Lewis E. Waring; clerk of the course and scales, E. C. Smith; race committee, C. E. S. Bellows, Peter Hauck, Jr., Harvey Fisk, Lewis E. Waring, Charles F. Wildey, Jr., and H. A. Bourne.

Relative Submergence.

"My poor man, you look as if you might have seen better days."

"You are right, ma'am. I have."

"And now, I suppose, you are among what we call the submerged tenth."

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Decoration Day exercises this year was the best held here in a number of years. The local fire department and school children turned out and met the delegation of veterans, who came from Plainfield on the 8 o'clock car. The veterans were accompanied by a brass band. The line of march was a short one, being from the trolley to the cemetery and return. At the cemetery the school children sang national hymns and an address was made by Rev. W. W. Detrick, pastor of the Methodist church.

Rain prevented the fans from enjoying ball games Decoration Day. The Kenilworths who were to be visitors in the morning arrived in town, but before the time for the game the downpour began and continued all day.

Mrs. Daniel Allen, a former well-known resident here but for several years past residing in Plainfield, died at her home on East Second street Saturday night.

William Deegan, landlord of the "Inn," entertained friends at a dance and chicken supper Friday night in the pavilion adjoining the hotel.

La Pere Beekon led the weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. held in the parlors of the church last night. Subject, "Missions in the West."

Robert Guttridge, the local bicycle rider, finished second in the Plainfield 10-mile road race held Decoration Day in the morning.

Many of the local fans who missed their games Saturday journeyed to New Brunswick or Elizabeth yesterday to enjoy a game.

Rev. Edwin P. Farnham, of Brooklyn, occupied the pulpit at the Baptist church at both services yesterday.

David R. Clark was the guest over Sunday of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Clark, of Prospect avenue.

The bad weather kept the majority of the residents at home Decoration Day.

THE AGREEABLE WOMAN.

Any One Can Be Pleasant When Life Is Merry.

Whatever else you are in life, be agreeable.

There is so little sense in being anything else.

It doesn't pay in any kind of coin to be snappy or sarcastic or backbiting. Whether you are in business, pleasure or wisdom bent you will find the woman who goes out of her way to be nice to others carrying off the prizes of social, literary or financial life.

It's really no more trouble to be agreeable once you get into the way of it than to be disagreeable. If it does not come natural to you to say or do the pleasant thing (unfortunately there are some of us who are downright "ugly" by nature), then practice it.

Don'tp ut off that practicing either till another time when you are feeling more in love with your fellows. Begin at once.

Any one can be pleasant when life is as merry as the fellow who has just been paid a bad debt, but remember.

"The man worth while is the one who can smile when everything goes dead wrong."

So begin trying to be agreeable the next time existence seems to have just about as much humor as some comic operas. You will be surprised how much better you will feel, not to speak of those who must put up with you.

It isn't really hard to be agreeable, especially if your digestion has not been trifled with. All that is necessary is to think pleasant thoughts and then put them into working order.

If you can't be agreeable, be as agreeable as you can.

You will be surprised to find how soon it will become easy to be pleasant all the time instead of snarly and generally hateful.

It will be an equal surprise when you find you are liked instead of detested and that the popularity you once professed to despise makes this world a much more agreeable place to worry along in.

Dr. Johnson Gives Brilliant Sermon on "Fidelity" at Trinity Church.

DURING PATRIOTIC SERVICE.

Local Grand Army Men Present in a Body—Edifice Decorated with Flags and Patriotic Music a Feature.

With a delegation of forty members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief Corps in atendance Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson preached a powerful and dramatic sermon on "Fidelity" at Trinity Reformed church last night. The service was in connection with the local observance of Memorial Day, and the church was handsomely decorated with American flags, large and small. Music was a feature of the service during which patriotic airs and hymns were impressively rendered by the quartet, choir of the church, Organist Arthur L. Titsworth officiating.

In his discourse, Dr. Johnson emphasized the militant duty of the Christian soldier to God and the church, drawing a parallel with the faithfulness of the American soldier in service to the country. Taking his text from Revelations 2:10,—"Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life," Dr. Johnson said in part:

"Fidelity is the one infallible test of life; it is the safest test because it is the simplest, the highest, because it is the severest and the fairest, because the broadest. The fidelity of the American soldier is a fidelity that fears nothing in the self-sacrifice of following where duty calls. A fidelity that perseveres unto death is required by Christ by the patroitic soldier and by the Christian soldier, each of whom must discharge his duty unshrinkingly.

"There is no calling that so exemplifies the divine sacredness of life as the soldier's calling. Would that we could make the military simile most realistic, realizing our Lord's commands as orders, not as mere suggestions. There can be no real greatness or goodness to anyone who has not learned to obey. Soldiers have a reverence for duty and for those who command them; it is so too with the Christian,—what he learns to obey, he learns to revere and worship.

"The soldiers of '61 and '98 have given a new lesson of the meaning and mission of our flag, and as long as their memory is fresh, that banner shall be dear to us. The fidelity of the American soldier has led him to learn to be faithful unto death, to hold life not dear unto himself if only he can lead his course to his Commander. The spirit of personal abandonment of self to the cause should impregnate the Christian soldier as well as the American soldier. Great blessings come to us only by the self-sacrifice of others, and the more we make our lives a blessing to others, the more we will be honored, respected and loved.

"Those who have sacrificed their lives that our flag may be preserved are not absolutely dead and forgotten. It doesn't need even Decoration Day to keep their deeds fresh in our minds. Those dead soldiers are still members of the Grand Army of the Republic, only they are camping now on the Plains of Peace. Be then faithful unto death, and thereby win the crown of life."

Mayor Issues Proclamation.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk announced today that according to the city ordinance, any unmuzzled dog found running at large, will be impounded and shall not be redeemed without a payment of a penalty of $1, in addition to the charge of twenty-five cent a day for the animal's keep. All dogs not claimed at the expiration of four day will be put to death. Any person who owns or harbors a dog and violates the ordinance will be subject to a fine of ten dollars for each offence.

Gave Farmers a Dinner.

Following the fourth annual steeplechase under the auspices of the Watchung Hunt Club, Saturday, the club entertained the farmers at a big dinner at the Plainfield Driving Park. As president, Charles J. Fisk, was in charge of the affair and the farmers enjoyed themselves greatly.

Cooking Class Dined Board.

Members of the Plainfield High School cooking class tendered a banquet to the Board of Education and faculty at the Whittier School Friday night. A regular course dinner, coked by the pupils, was served.

Washing Baby's Garments.

To wash the little silk and wool shirts for baby or the tiny white stockings, is not a difficult task. Use cold water in which some borax has been dissolved, and the garments not only will not shrink but will never grow yellow.

Sky High.

"I see no reason why a professional aeronaut should not be admitted into the best social circles. "What claim has he to such social recognition?" "I am sure he is a man of very high descent."

Six Weeks in Europe for Three Hundred Dollars.

A well-known gentleman of Plainfield, not in the excursion business, is forming a small party—from five to ten—which he will conduct for a six weeks' trip to Europe this summer. The itinerary will include England, France, the Azores, Gibralter, Rome, Naples, Venice, &c., or instead of Italy, Holland, Belgium and Switzerland, as the party may prefer. The total cost need not exceed $300. This covers ocean passage on "one class" steamer, all railway and other travelling expenses, hotels, &c.
The plan is to start late in July or about the first of August. Anyone interested may address "European," care of The Daily Press. 5-29 6-1-6

AIDS TO BEAUTY AND HEALTH.

Thin arms are often helped by being washed twice a day with a thick lather of soap, rinsed well, dried thoroughly and then rubbed vigorously. This treatment will bring the pores into action and induce a healthy condition. At nights a good skin food may be rubbed in.

An excellent lotion for the skin, to take away the drawn feeling, is made from cologne one dram; fresh lemon juice, oned ram; elder flower water, one ounce. The face can be wiped with this every day or even twice a day.

It will often be found that acne pimples are caused by to coarse soap that has removed too much of the natural oil of the skin. Change your soap until you find one that agrees with your skin.

Care in Use of Colors.

While perfect harmony is the rule that governs the color scheme, many contracts are noted, as, for instance, the scarlet sunshade with the all-black costume. The vivid green vest against the whitenes of a linen or the electric blue leather belt with sombre brown. These little touches, corectly done, are smart in the extreme, but it is so easy to fall into error about them that many times it is beter to leave them out.

Slight Mistake.

It was at the old New England farm drama.

"Dear me!" exclaimed Mrs. Stubb, clapping her hands, "isn't the blizbard scene realistic? Just listen to the wind howling through the trees."

"'Sh, Maria!" chuckled Mr. Stubb, as he hid his face behind a program, "That's not the wind. It is a man noring behind a post."—Chicago News.

The Irrepressible Conflict.

"O Lord," prayed the Yale chaplain at the morning exercise, "we are poor, miserable creatures, not fit to address Thee, confirmed as we are in evil and unrighteous ways—"

"Say, Billie," whispered one freshman to another between his fingers, "what does the Revvy think we are, anyhow—a bunch of Harvard men!"—Life.

My Policies.

"Is the phrase 'my policies' of recent origin?" asked the man from abroad.

"No," answered the philogist, "there is an impression that it originated during the present Administration, but it was really invented by a man in the insurance business named Hyde."—Washington Star.

Provocation.

"Why Jimmie, is it true that you gave little Bobbie a black eye?"

"Y-Yessum."

"What excuse have you for such a brutal act?"

"W-well, he provoked me."

"How did he provoke you?"

"He hit back."—St. Louis Republic.

Vain Butterfly.

Knew Her Way.

"That was a pretty parasol your sister had yesterday."

"Yes, my wife is going to get one like it."

"Did she tell you so."

"No, but I told her not to."—Philadelphia Press.

How it Happened.

"True, the night was dark, but he appeared to jump deliberately in front of the automobile."

"Force of habit. The poor fellow was an actor, and naturally dived for the spotlight."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Retort Courteous.

The Writer—Ah, laugh at me if you will, but I will write of you in my journal that which will make you sick!

The Artist—Everything that M'sieur writes makes me sick.—Life.

Unanswerable.

"Women have suffered in a thousand ways."

"There's one way they haven't suffered."

"How is that?"

"In silence."—Chicago Tribune.

More to the Point.

Conceited Amateur—I learned to play the violin when I was eight years old.

Crusty Professional—Indeed! How old were you when you forogt?—London Tit-Bits.

Its Uses.

That Wall street land quoted at $30,000,000 an acre is not especially good for tillage, but it's a great place fro separating the farmer from his money.—Louisville Coufier-Journal.

Made a Detour.

"Yes," said Mr. Tambo, "I passed around the hat today."

"And why," inquired Mr. Bones, "did you pass around the hat today?"

Persistency.

The New Jersey physician who travelled 1,500 miles to recover his dog has persistence enough to try to get a stolen umbrella back.—Buffalo Express.

VARIOUS HINTS ON HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

Towels—Never stint your stock of towels for silver, glass and china, and coarser grades for the pots and pans. Keep good soap and washing powder, a bottle of strong soda to flush out the sink pipes, a hammer and nails and a ball of cord, with a place for each and each in its place.

Dull Mirrors—If mirrors be very dull and speckled, the following method is excellent: Take a small portion of whiting and add sufficient cold tea to make a paste; rub the glass with warm tea, dry with a soft cloth; rub a litle of the paste well on the mirror, and polish dry with tissue paper.

Finger-Marks on Painted Doors—These unsightly marks are a great annoyance to the tidy housewife, and should be removed with a soft flannel wrung out in water in which a few drops of ammania have been mixed, and then rubbed with soap. Having removed the stains, the paint should be washed with clear water and thoroughly dried.

To Keep Fish Fresh—Clean the fish and sprinkle the inside with brown sugar. Keep the fish in a horizontal position, so that the sugar may soak into it as much as possible. Half an ounce of sugar will be found quite sufficient for three pounds of fish. If fish is treated by this method before salting and smoking the flavor is much imjroved.

Brushes and Combs—Soap and soda soften the bristles of a brush and turn an ivory back yellow; a tablespoon of ammonia in a quart of warm water is sufficiently cleansing. Combs should not be washed if it can be avoided, as water is apt to split the teeth. They can be kept clean with a small brush which is sold for the purpose, and rubbed with a cloth or towel.

First Aid to the Corn.

For home treatment of corns remove all the hard skin that you can, then soften it in warm water and rub with cold cream, vaseline or any softening salve you prefer. Let this be done at night. The next night begin by softening the corn in warm water, rubbing with a pumice stone, finishing with cold cream. If you will persevere with warm water, pumice and salves every night you will be at peace. Even dry rubbing with pumice is good, with the salve both night and morning. When the feet are weary and tender, through long standing or walking during the day there is nothing which will give more relief than a warm footbath in which has been dissolved a handful or two of sea salt. Bathe the feet and legs with this for about ten minutes and then rub them well with a good rough towel. The effect is delightfully refreshing, and if you do this just before going to bed insomnia for that night, at any rate, is not likely to troubel you.

Pretty Slips for Summer.

The old-time slips for furniture of striped linen with seams bound in red braid have been supplanted by very much more decorative coverings These are made of pretty flowered cretonnes or art tickings and are fitted in with little plaits, thus avoiding so many long seams. The necessary seams are managed in a perfectly simple way. They are stitched upon the wrong side, creased, turned and stitched on the right side, forming a tiny welt not an eighth of an inch in width. The bottom of cover for chair or couch is finished with a box plaiting. The effect is of an upholstered chair rather than of a slip, which, however, is really is, being made to protect the moe costly covering and to give a color "feel" to the furniture for warm-weather uses. Adopting such slips might serve the purpose of hiding worn upholstering pending the time when one feels like having the furniture "done over."

Balzac and the Thief.

A story, said to be new, of Balzac is related by a French contemporary. A burglar gained admission to Balzac's house and was soon at work, by the light of the moon, at the lock of the secretaire in the novelist's chamber. Balzac was asleep at the time, but the movements of the intruder aroused him. The burglar, who was working most industriously, paused. A strident laugh arrested his operations and he beheld by the moonlight the novelist sitting up in bed, his sides aching with laughter.

"What is it that makes you merry?" demanded the burglar.

"I laugh," replied the author of 'Pere Goriot,' "to thing that you should come in the night without a lantern to search my secretaire for money when I can never find any there in broad daylight."—Westminster Gazette.

When You Are Tired.

Don't grit your teeth and work harder. Ease up a little.

Don't talk any more than you can help. Talking takes vitality.

Lie down in a dark place, if only for fifteen minutes.

Don't read anything in which you are not interested.

Don't feel that everything must be done in one day. There are 364 more.

Realize that it is better to leave things undone than overdo yourself.

Avoid people and their woes at that time. Seek some one frivolous.

Don't try to improve yourself. Give your mind a rest.

And don't forget that a little lemon juice in cold water in the morning is a great help.—Chicago Journal.

PRETTY NEGLIGEES TO BE MADE AT HOME.

Given a few scraps of pretty lawn and a few bits of lace, almost any woman can make herself dainty dressing sacques after this season's models. Indeed, an organdie, Swiss or any summer dress that has seen its best days can assist at the evolution of a fascinating little negligee and scarcely know itself in its new guise. It will pay you to put on your thinking cap and see if you haven't frocks long past their usefulness that can be utilized for this purpose.

The dressing sacques this year are short, reaching but little below the waist line. They are made of alternate bands of material and lace insertion, both back, front and the short fluffy sleeves—delightfully cool and filmy in effect, and equally delightful for using these dress leftovers. They hnag straight like a box coat, but this prim effect is bewitching since they are otherwise so delightfully feminine.

For those who do not care for this style, r do not need to make their negligee as inexpensively as possible, are fitted sacques, belted in snugly at the waist with sewed-on embroidery or beading ribbon-run, the part below frequently being slashed like the venting of the sem-fitting coats. The effect is very smart.

Sacques with handkerchief collar and cuffs are again seen—a picturesque style.

A dainty trimming on a high-priced sacque which any woman clever with her needle can copy easily, is a yoke of bands of fine lace insertion finished at the bottom with oval lace medallions. It is a most graceful ending off for the yoke and a little note of elegance as well for the sacque.

Of course the Japanese effects are seen in sacques, just a few broad folds of the goods over the shoulders giving the wide, lose armhole and the suggestion of a sleeve, a delightfully cool fashion, by the way.

The quintessence of sacque beauty is seen in lovely mazes of Cluny or Valenclennes lace and hand embroidery. But unless you can do this needlework yourself, you will part with a twenty dollar bill and more to own one of these aristocratic beauties.

The New Fad.

One of the most fashionable cults of the day is said to be caravanning. The thing has grown so popular that there is to be a grand caravan meet at Ockham in Surrey next week. Caravan enthusiasts are subject to much annoyance at times from people who will try to befriend and rescue them. One of the leaders of the movement, for instancve, was besought by a friend to come in out of the rain and have a comfortable dinner and bed in a house near which she was encamped. She declined, of course, but her friends could not see the point and still urged their hospitality. The object of the caravanner is not to have a good dinner or a comfortable bed; it is part of the excitement to go without these conventions, and this is what some outsiders cannot be made to understand.—London Saturday Review.

Noiseless Berlin.

Berlin is said to be the quietest city in Europe. Railway engines are not allowed to blow their whistles within the city limits. There is no loud bawling of hucksters and the man whose wagon gearing is loose and rattling is subject to a fine. The courts have a large discretion as to fines for noise-making. Strangest of all, piano-playing is regulated in Berlin. Before a certain hour in the day and after a certain hour in the day and after a certain hour in the night the piano must besilent in that musical city. Even during the playing hours a fine is imposed for mere pounding on the piano.—New Orleans States.

Only One Way to Save the Party.

We have not given up hope that the candidacy of Mr. Bryan will be abandoned at Denver. Unless it be true that he is really the only man in the party the convention at Denver will not put him at the head of the Democratic ticket. If it shall again sentence the party to follow his leadership there will be a new adjustment of party lines in the Presidential campaign of 1912. Unless the Democratic party intends to go out of business permanently as a militant political organization Bryan must be defeated at Denver.—Charleston News and Courier.

Buttons and Buttons.

Beware button trimming on your summer gowns unless you have quantities of pretty buttons to use. Half a dozen buttons of ordinary style scattered on a blouse and a dozen more on a skirt make no showing whatever. On the summer coat you may use two or three large, showy buttons on the front, but if you are trimming a gown with them you must have dozens of small buttons arranged in groups or designs. Neither are plain butons used except on severely tailored suits. The crocheted button is most popular.

What Light Does.

People still talk about the illuminations at the World's Fair. The recent illumination of The World building in New York on the occasion of their twenty-fifth anniversary attracted 40,000 people from residence districts many miles away. The outlining of the new Singer building tower attracts more attention than the Statue of Liberty, and the Great White Way has magnetized the world.—Illuminating Engineer.

"I'm glad you' [illegible] feel better, pa," she sa[illegible] [illegible]ey would. But, of c[illegible] [illegible]t come in for mon[illegible]ouths yet. I guess it's tim[illegible] start in on the dyspepsy line."

She took a piece of paper out of her dress waist and unfolded it. "I sent a dollar to a doctor that advertised in the People's Magazine," she says, "and I got this. It's for dyspepsy, pa, and particular nervous dyspepsy. 'A careful diet and plenty of exercise,'" she read. "We'll begin on the dieting. 'In severe cases patient should take nothing but hot milk.' We've got plenty of milk—such as 'tis. That's a comfort."

Her dad had been setting on the wash bench back of the kitchen. Now he jumped up off it like 'twas red hot. "Do you have the face to tell me," he screams, "that I can't have nothing to eat but milk? Why, that's—"

"Doctor's orders, pa," says Eureka. "I'm going by doctor's orders, and see what they've done for your lungs already."

"I can't live on milk! I ain't a baby. I hate the stuff! I don't believe no doctor'd ever—"

"Well, we'll call Dr. Penrose and see what he says. I'll bet he'll back me up."

Washy didn't take the bet. He knew what Dr. Penrose thought of him and his ailments.

"Aw, Reky, please—" he begs.

"For your own good, pa," says his daughter. "I'll fetch you the hot milk."

She did—a quart of it. He drank it 'cause there wa'n't nothing else. For another week he lived on hot skim-milk and cold fresh air. He pleaded with the Heavenlies and me, but we hadn't any pity for him. He tackled Scudder, but Nate never pitied anybody unless there was money in it. He tried smuggling letters to Agnes, getting Lycurgus to carry 'em; but Lys was in with his sister and the letters never got any further than Eureka's pocket.

'Twas fun for the rest of us, but a kind of nuisance in some ways. You see the sight of us eating three square meals a day was horrible tantalizing to a dyspeptic with an appetite like Washy's. He'd peek in through the dining room windows while we was at the table, and groan steady and loud till dessert time. Van said it reminded him of what he called a "tarble dote" at a Hungarian restaurant in New York. He said there was music at both places, but that, on the whole, Washy's music was the best of the two.

The Sunday of the week following was a mean day. A cold rain and considerable wind; more like October than August. The invalid set in the tool shed with the door opened and an umbrella keeping off the rain that leaked through the cracks in the roof. He looked as happy and snug as a locked-out cat in a thunder storm.

"Aw, Eureka," says he, when me and his daughter went out to the shed with the noon bucket of steaming milk. "Aw, Eureka," he says, "won't you let me have something hearty? Only a hunk of bread, say? I've drowned my insides with that thin milk till I feel like a churn. I can't keep on drinking the stuff. The mere sight of a cow would make me seasick."

But Eureka wouldn't give in. "It's all for your good, pa," she said. That was what Van told him every chance he got. I cal'late them words had come to be almost as sickening to him as the milk.

Next morning I got up early and come downstairs. 'Twas blowing hard and still raining. Eureka hadn't turned out yet. I opened the door of the kitchen and there I see a sight.

In the rocking chair by the kitchen stove was Washy Sparrow, sprawled out fast asleep. His feet was on the hearth of the stove, a piece of pie-crust was on the floor by his hand, his head was tipped back and his mouth wide open. And his face—oh, say! It was perfect peace and comfort.

The critter, so it turned out afterwards, had hunted around in the night till he found a cellar window unlocked. Then he'd crawled in and tip-toed up to the kitchen.

I went upstairs again and routed out the Heavenlies. I wanted 'em to see the show. We stood in the door and looked at it. Just then Eureka come along.

"My soul and body!" she sings out.

Her dad heard her and woke up. First he just opened his eyes and stretched. Then he set up straight and turned round. He turned pale.

"Well, pa!" says Eureka, sharp, "what sort of doings is this? What do you mean?"

Sparrow stared at her; then at us. He started to speak. Then he happened to notice my fist; and he never said a word.

"The idea!" says Eureka. "After all I've done to cure you. Roasting in this hot kitchen and eating—is that apple-pie crust by your hand?"

She stepped across and opened the pantry door.

"My sakes alive!" she says. "I swan to man if he ain't ate everything in the buttery!"

"I—I—" stammers Washy, wild like. "I—I—I didn't mean to, but I was starved and—and half drownded, and—"

"Pie!" says Eureka. "Well, I never! Now we're in a nice mess; and all to do over again."

"I'm all right now, anyway," says Washy. "I ain't coughing none and the grub don't distress me a mite. Not half so much as that cussed blue milk."

"All to do over," says Eureka. "And I don't know as we'll ever cure you now. Get out door this minute. And you mustn't eat a thing, not even milk, for three or four days. Open that outside door, please, Mr. Pratt."

I opened the door. The rain come beating in, with the wind back of it. It hit Washy like a cold wave.

"I'm all right, I tell you!" he yelled. "I feel fine. Better'n ever I was, don't knows I ain't."

"Are you sure, pa?"

"Sure? Course I'm sure. Don't I know? I'm all cured."

"Well, that's a mercy," Eureka says. "I knew 'twas the right receipts, but I didn't think they'd work so quick. Mr. Van Brunt, pa's cured. He'll take that job at the hotel this very day; just as soon as it clears up a little."

The Heavenlies shouted and so did I. The cured man looked tolerable uneasy. He choked up and begun to sputter.

"Course you mustn't go if you ain't real well and cured for good, pa," says his daughter. "Maybe you'd better try the toolhouse and the milk a spell longer."

The door was still open. And the wind and rain was driving in. Washy swallowed, and answered slow:

"I'll—I'll go," he says. "But I'll have to work sort of easy first along, so's—"

"Oh, no! you must work real hard, so's to get the exercise, or you'll have a relapse. Mr. Pratt, you'll tell Mr. Brown to see that pa works the way he'd ought to, won't you?"

I nodded. "He'll work," says I, decided.

At ten o'clock 'twas clear and I rowed the ex-consumptive dyspeptic over to the main and led him up to the hotel. I give him some advice as I went along.

That afternoon the Twins did nothing but tell Eureka that she was a wonder.

"Yes," says she, "I cal'late he's cured, at least for a spell. Anyhow, that 'Everybody works but father' song don't fit our family no more."

CHAPTER XVI.

The Natural Life.

Washy Sparrow's going to work was the biggest surprise Wellmouth had had since old man Ginn, owner of the Palace Billiard, Pool and Sipio parlors, got converted and joined the Good Templars. Nobody would believe it, of course, without seeing him do it with their own eyes, and there was so many folks round the hotel that Peter Brown said he was thinking of charging admission. Agnes Page heard the news and come posting over to find out what sort of cruelizing her pet invalid had had to bear. Van Brunt done the explaining; it was right in his line.

"It was the invigorating atmosphere of Ozone island that did it, Agnes," he said. "When we have finished ruralizing here I'm considering turning the place into a sanitarium. One week of Pratt's chowder and Eureka's corn muffins, coupled with the bay breezes and the odor of clam flats and seaweed, would make an Egyptian mummy turn flip-flaps. I have to lay violent hands on myself every day, or I, too, would be seized with the laboring fever."

She looked at him, kind of odd. "That is most alarming news," says she, "if true. I confess I hadn't noticed the symptoms. Your temperature appears to be normal at present."

"It is," he says. "I flatter myself that I am making a magnificent fight against the disease. My most rabid attacks are in the early morning, before I get out of bed. Then I feel the insane desire for work, hard work, creeping over me. But I am firm. I reason thus: 'The governor is sixty odd and his heart is weak. Think of the shock that the news would be to him? Think—' and so forth. So I resolve to keep up the fight. By the time I am dressed and have had breakfast all yearning for work has left me. Don't you think I deserve credit?"

She said he did. Only he must be careful and not get up and work in his sleep. I listened with my mouth open as usual. Such crazy drivel from grown up men and women was too many for me. It wa'n't intended to be funny, of course, because they never smiled. It beat me altogether, and Eureka said the same. 'Twas her notion that all the lunatics that was crowded out of the asylums, or was too rich to be put into 'em, was sent to New York. It sounded reasonable enough to believe, sometimes.

Agnes saw Sparrow, of course, but Brown was by when she see him and Washy didn't dare say but he'd gone to work of his own accord. I cal'late that he figgered that the gang of us would have killed him if he had. So the Page girl went back to Eastwich satisfied. And Eureka went home again nights and kept house for Lycurgus and her dad. But Hartley looked out that the most of the old man's ten dollars a week was turned over to her.

The Heavenlies' quiet Naturalness had pretty nigh disappeared altogether now. They was restless all the time. Mail was heavy and the telegram envelopes in the coal hod and around was thicker than ever. And Scudder come to Ozone three times a day.

By September 1 thougnt sure they'd be ready to quit and go home. They acted to me as though they was tired of the whole thing. I thought I'd sound 'em, so I says:

"I s'pose likely you'll be for shutting up this shop and getting back to the city 'most any day pretty soon now, won't you?"

Van Brunt looked at his chum and Hartley looked at him. Then they caught themselves doing it, and looked away quick.

"Why, skipper!" says Van, "what makes you say that?"

"Oh, nothing 'special," says I. "Only it seemed to me that you was kind of nervous and fidgety lately. Didn't know but you was anxious to be 'dealing' them stocks of yours, or something. You've been away from 'em a good while."

It was Hartley that answered. "Van is done with the stock market," he says, quick. "He has sworn never to touch it again."

"That's so," says I. "I remember hearing him swear that every ten minutes when we first come. But he's kind of knocked off swearing lately, so I forgot. But I did think you fellers weren't quite so keen on the Natural Life business as you was. You ain't read the gospel for a considerable spell."

They both looked sheepish and guilty.

"That's so," says Van. "We haven't. But we've been so confoundedly busy, gunning, and white plagueing, and so on, that we haven't had time. And we've mislaid the book. If I knew where it was I should be—"

"Here 'tis, right on the mantelpiece," says I, reaching for it and knocking off the dust. "Why don't you take a set at it now? It's too foggy to do much outside."

So they done it, Hartley reading and Van listening. But 'twas a short session. When I come in, about 15 minutes later, the book was bottom up on the floor and the Twins was dealing what they called "cold hands" with cards for a quarter a hand.

That week was when we reaped our harvest from the garden. Two middling lean cucumbers and a tomatter that was suffering from yellow jaundice. They was pretty sick vegetables, but the Heavenlies seemed to think they was something wonderful. They made more fuss over 'em than if they was solid gold. And they digested as if they was, too.

News come that Dewey, the Sparrow baby, was sick with a cold over to the Fresh Air school and Eureka was worried. Finally she decided to go over there for a day or so and see to him. Lycurgus would look out for pa. So she went and me and the Twins was left alone.

The day she went was beautiful and clear. Hot as July, and not a breath of wind. It acted to me like a weather breeder, and I said so; but all I got for the prophesying was Van's calling me a Jeremiah again. He had planned a gunning cruise for the next day.

That night I woke up about 12 o'clock and Marcellus' old slab castle was shaking like as if it had the palsy. The wind was roaring and screeching and the rain was just swashing against the windows. I turned out and put in a lively half hour shutting blinds and making things fast. Usually September is a pleasant month down our way, but sometimes we get a regular gale, and, when we do, we get all the back numbers without subscribing for 'em. I was soaking wet when I got to bed again.

Next morning 'twas worse than ever. The bay looked like a tortoise-shell cat in a fit, just a whirligig of black and white and yellow water. Scudder managed to get across, but his milk cans had upset in the dory and he said he wouldn't risk another trip till she faired off some.

Along about noon the tool-shed—the late lamented Washy's boarding house—blew down with a bang. Then the Dora Bassett broke loose from her moorings and drove into the cove head first. She was bound to bang herself to flinders unless somebody got to her quick, so out I went into the storm. I did think maybe the Heavenlies would offer to turn to and help, but they was pitching half dollars at a crack in the floor and was too busy to think of anything else.

I had a sweet time plowing through the sand against that wind and rain, and when I got to the cove my job was cut out for me. The sloop was hard and fast aground on the flat and the tide was coming in. She couldn't stay where she was, so I worked for two hours up to my waist in ice water, and more a-pouring on to me from the clouds, getting her off and made fast. The Twins did help me long towards the last part of it. That is to say, they set in an upstairs back window and pounded on the glass and made signs—superintending, as usual. I wish they could have heard some of the language I hove back at 'em. Then they'd have realized how grateful I was.

I got supper without changing my wet clothes, and when I woke up next morning I decided without no argument that something else had happened. I was took with the galloping rheumatiz—my old trouble—and couldn't move, scarcely, without howling same as a dog with his tail shut in a door. The fire was out—the old chimney had unloaded half of its top rigging in to the wind—the storm was bad as ever, and there I was laid up on the corn-husks. The Heavenlies was worried. Breakfast was somewheres 'round the next corner.

"Too bad, old man," says Hartley. "What can we do?"

"Do?" I answers, between yells. "I don't care what you do. Only don't bother me. Ow! O-o-o-o! my shoulder!"

"But what'll we do for eatables?" ask Van Brunt.

I liked them fellers first rate and they knew it. But now they made me mad.

"Do?" says I. "Do? Why, scratch for your living, same's I've had to do all my days! Work, consarn you! work!"

I said considerable many other things. 'Twas a sort of jerky talk—I had to stop every minute to attend to my shoulder—but there was meat in it. They heard some plain truth that nothing but rheumatiz could have fetched out of me. I didn't skip nothing—leastways I tried not to. I hope it done 'em good; it seemed to help me a heap.

They went to work, but they was way down in the primer class so far as that branch of learning was concerned. I could hear things falling around in the kitchen and a million matches, more or less, a-scratching, and I judged that Hartley was trying to build a fire. And under my window there was the dickens of a thumping and a most astonishing number of cuss words, so I gathered that Van was chopping wood.

I managed to hobble downstairs about half past ten, but I was in plenty of time for breakfast. I was feeling too mean to have any appetite—which was a mercy, and I'm thankful for it. We had smoked mush, Wall street style, and fried eggs with cinders, and one cup of coffee for three. But that cup was strong enough—owing to Hartley's letting it bile for two hours—so nobody wanted any more.

The Twins was pretty well wore out by this time, so neither of them would wash dishes. They chucked 'em into the kitchen sink and left them there. Then they put in three or four hours looking out of the window and swearing at the weather. I stayed in the armchair by the fireplace and did little or nothing but groan and rub alcohol on my lame shoulder. 'Twa'n't a joyful kind of experience, but 'twas the first real daytime rest I'd had since I got Naturalized. And, I own up, I got a good deal of comfort watching the Heavenlies try to do for themselves.

Mind you, if the thing had happened when they first lit on Horsefoot Bar, when they was full of simplicity and the love of it, I cal'late they'd have stood it better. But now they was about sick of the island anyway, only one was afraid to say so and t'other dassent. So the more the work piled up the uglier they got.

Dinner was served at four o'clock; scorched eggs again, and coffee. No dish-washing. 'Twas storming hard as ever and the draft kept both the stove and fireplace roaring, so more wood had to be chopped.

"Martin," says Van Brunt, "go out and cut that wood, will you? The ax is by the woodpile—that is to say, it's there if this blessed cyclone hasn't blown it out to sea."

Hartley was poking at the stove, with his face and clothes all covered with ashes.

"Cut it yourself," says he, brisk. "You're doing nothing."

"I cut it before," snaps his chum. "Think I'm a steam engine?"

He grabbed up the day-afore-yesterday's newspaper and went to reading. Hartley poked at the stove a spell and then went to the closet and got a cigar. Van looked up and saw him.

"Hand me one of those," says he, motioning towards the cigar.

"There isn't any more. This was the last one in the box."

"The devil it is! And you take it? Well, by George!"

"Now, see here. I saw you take four this forenoon, and this is only my second. Don't be a prize pig."

The stove ashes got into his mouth and nose just then, so he had a fit of sneezing. When 'twas over he slammed the poker into the corner and went to the window.

"Where's that idiot Scudder?" he asks.

"You mean Nature's Nobleman?" says I, smooth and calm. "Oh, he won't show up for a day or so. See's too high to risk his dory. Dories cost money."

Van sat up straight. "You're bluffing, aren't you, skipper?" he asks, troubled. "It isn't possible that that rascal will stay at home and not come near us."

"Rascal?" says I. "Rascal? Oh! yes, yes. No, the 'rough diamond' won't trust himself afloat this weather. He's too expensive a jewel for that. We'll have to do without milk."

"Milk be hanged! It's my mail I want. Why, I'm expecting—"

He bit the sentence in two and looked quick at his partner. But Hartley was scowling and staring out of the window. I guess he hadn't heard.

"That fireplace needs filling," says I, after while. "It'll be mighty damp and chilly here if the fire goes out."

"Why don't you chop that wood, Van?" asks Hartley, kind of fretful.

"Chop it yourself. My hands are blistered enough already."

"No more than mine. That confounded stove has fixed me. Where I'm not burned I'm scraped raw."

Then there was another spell of saying nothing.

"Fire's most gone," I suggests, by and by.

"Let it go," says Van. Hartley didn't speak.

"Now see here," I says, decided. "I've got the rheumatiz and I don't want to get any more cold. You fellers have pretended to think something of me. If you don't want my remains on your hands, and a funeral to pay for, you'll chop that wood."

COUNTRY CLUB GOLFERS COMPETE IN MEDAL PLAY

The chief event of interest at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday was a thirty-six holes, medal play, handicap, with prizes for the best gross and net scores, and out of a field of nearly forty players, several good scores were returned. Many who started out in the morning were caught by the rain and did not return in the afternoon to finish. The course was thoroughly water-soaked, making record playing impossible. However, there were players who braved the elements and went eighteen holes.

In class A, W. Lester Glenney won the best gross score prize with a 159, while Frank O. Reinhart received the prize for the best net score, with a 154. In Class B, D. H. Rowland was awarded the prize for the best gross score, a 191, and Hugh F. Fox received the prize for the best net score, a 167.

The best scores are as follows:

Class A—W. Lester Glenney, 159, 8-151; Frank O. Reinhart, 162,8-154; H. D. Hibbard, 173, 18-155; W. T. Glenney, 167, 18-158; C. B. Morgan, 18?, 14-166; Leighton Calkins, 183, 16-167; Dudley H. Barrows, 179, 8-171.

Class B—D. H. Rowland, 191, 40-151; Hugh F. Fox, 211, 44-167.

While the players were on the course contending with the elements there was a large crowd at the clubhouse enjoying the social features. Steward Hartz served a great many luncheons and in the evening a number remained for dinner and the social features provided by the house committee.

PARK GOLFERS PLAY DESPITE DRIVING RAIN.

Despite a driving rain throughout the afternoon there was a good field out at the Park Golf Club Saturday, to take part in the various competitions. A portion of the course was covered with water, but this did not prevent the contestants from finishing and returning fairly good scores.

The events included the qualifying rounds for the Hydewood Park Challenge cups and four other challenge trophies, the same to be subject to challenge at any time. Those who qualified for the five trophies are as follows:

Hydewood Park cup, Walter M. McNaughton; trophy number one, W. V. Byard; number four, Dr. A. W. Anderson.

In the regular play for the President's and Golf Club cups, the leading scores were as follows:

Walter M. McNaughton, 110, 18-92; W. R. Faber, 108, 12-96; Charles B. Morse, 112, 12-100; W. V. Byard, 113, 13-100; Dr. A. W. Anderson, 120, 15-105.

Owing to the weather conditions the approaching and putting contest was postponed for one week, the women who expected to take part deciding that the course was too wet for them.

BASEBALL.

The Highland A. C. game with the Dunellen A. C., at Dunellen, Saturday, had to be called during the last half of the second inning on account of rain. Neither side had scored. Wunderlich and Winters were the battery for the Highlands and Harney and Dodwell for Dunellen. Althouhg but two innings were played the Highlands' outfield took part in two brilliant plays. Kyle nailed a long fly with one hand after a hard run and Higgins picked a low long drive which looked good for three bases. The Highlands afternoon afternoon game with the Somerset A. C., of Belle Mead, was postponed on account of rain.

The Social A. C. has changed its name and will hereafter be known as the Plainfield A. C., the rest of the season. Nelson Lutherman, the clever twirler, has been engaged and James McClinton will fill an outfield position. On Saturday afternoon the club will play a double-header, the first game with the Central A. C., of Jersey City, and the second with the Monroe Avenue team.

The Junior baseball team played the Mono A. C., Saturday morning on Hope Common, one inning, when the rain interfered. The score was 3 to 0 in favor of the Juniors. The batteries were Van Arsdale and Dixon for the Juniors and Davis and Bird for the Monos.

WINNERS AT DOG SHOW

A. G. Hooley's Thoroughbreds Capture Gold Medals at Brighton Beach.

GET NUMEROUS FIRST PRIZES.

Rev. T. Moore-Smith's Irish Water Spaniels Awarded Highest Prizes—Hooley Gets De Mund Cup.

Abram G. Hooley, of Rockview Terrace, with his string of thoroughbred dogs, was a prominent entrant in the seventh annual dog show of the Long Island Kennel Club, at the Brighton Beach race track, Brooklyn, on Decoration Day, his entries receiving numerous first prizes in the different classes. Rev. T. Moore-Smith, formerly of Scotch Plains, but now of Lincoln, won in all classes that he showed in with his champion Irish water spaniel, Champion Erin's Dr. Terry, and Champion Erin's Molly Malone; also won first and reserve with the above named dogs, and a gold medal for the best dog or bitch, and the J. H. Dorian cup for the best brace of sporting dogs.

The entries from the Meadowview Kennels, owned by Mr. Hooley easily received several firsts, as follows:

Class 108, English setters, limit. dogs, Meadowview Earl; Class 109, English setters, limit. dogs, bred in the United States or Canada, Meadowview Kennels; Class 110, open, dogs, United States or Canada, won by Meadowview Don; Class 113, open, dogs, broken, Meadowview Don; Class 114, dogs bred by exhibitor, Meadowview Don; Class 115, winners, first, Meadowview Earl; Class 118, limit. bitches, first, Meadowview Beatrice; Class 119, limit. bitches, United States or Canada, Meadowview Beatrice; Class 120, open, bitches, bred in United States or Canada, first, Lady Allister; Class 121, open, bitches, Lady Allister; Class 122, bitches, broken, Lady Allister; Class 123, bred by exhibitor, Meadowview Beatrice; Class 124, winners, bitches, first, Lady Allister; reserve, Meadowview Beatrice.

The Meadowview Kennels also won the Dr. J. E. DeMund cup for best English setter with Lady Allister, and the club gold medal with Meadowview Earl, and a club gold medal with Meadowview Beatrice. They also won the President's cup for the best team of sporting dogs, open to all; also two bronze medals.

SHERMAN HABERLE WINS CYCLE CLUB'S ROAD RACE

Sherman Haberle, riding scratch, won the ten mile handicap road race of the Plainfield Cycle Club, held early Saturday morning in a drizzling rain. He covered the couree in 29 minutes, 11 seconds and received a Crawford bicycle as first prize. Fifty feet from the finish line, he sustained a puncture and crossed the tape with a flat front tire. Robert Guttridge, who also rode scratch, finished second.

Despite the heavy condition of the roads, there were seventeen starters in the ten mile grind, and the scratch men started from Netherwood avenue and East Front street at shortly after 8 o'clock. Edward Bimble and George Adams were the only contestants to sustain accidents, both taking tumbles. Adams was but slightly hurt, but Bimble was painfully cut about the face and arms. He pluckily remounted his wheel and finished seventh. Prizes were awarded the first nine riders to cross the line. The order of finishing with the handicaps, follows:

Sherman Haberle, (scratch), Robert Guttridge, (scratch), Harry Hook (1 minute), Henry Viebrock, (1 minute), Harry Warren, (1 minute), George Adams, (scratch), Edward Bimble, (2 minutes), Percy Haberle, (2 minutes), Eugene Caffery, (3 minutes), Walter Cubberley, (1 minute), Aaron Higgins, (3 minutes).

FEAST OF STRAWBERRIES

Season's First Strawberry Festival Held at Trinity Reformed Church.

PRETTY MILITARY PANTOMIME.

Members of Young Women's Mission Band, Who Netted Neat Sum for Missions, Take Part in Successful Drill.

The season's first strawberry and ice cream festival, held Friday night in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church under the auspices of the Young Women's Mission Band of the church, proved a decided success, and the receipts will be devoted to the work of the organization in aiding foreign and domestic missions. The affair was of a patriotic nature, American flags predominating among the decorations, causing much favorable comment.

During the evening, a military drill by sixteen young women of the Band was given as was also a pantomime in connection with the reading of "The Charge of the Light Brigade," by Miss Etta Raybert. This drill proved a feature of the affair, and was most creditibly executed by a squad of sixteen girls, "uniformed" in blue dresses with white straps. They wore regulation fatigue uniform caps and carried swords. They went through various marching and charging manoeuvers which won merited applause. Miss Helen Woodruff and Miss Ethel Vail were the leaders and the others taking part were the Misses Helen Roberts, Madoline Strader, Rosamond Rogers, Helen Crane, Gertrude Enander, Gertrude Schlief, Hazel Patrick, Edna Oliver, Edna Stillwell, Emma H. Ryno, Cora Gano, Alice Vroom, Edna Coles, Edith Richards. These young women also acted as waitresses, assisted by the Misses Edna Debele, Juliet Hill, Annetta Wilson, Florence Wilson, Miss Maas and Miss Dennis. During the evening Elmer and Lawrence French played a piano duet, which was well received.

Another pleasing features was the singing by sixteen sweet young girls all dressed as fairies. Those taking part were the Misses Madeline Blair, Emma H. Ryno, Dorothy Martin, Bertha Bodine, Mary Bennett, Mildred Conover, Irma Codington, Marielle Dunham, Margaret Hoagland, Helen Hummel, Flora Krausse, Julia Rowley, Florence Small, Mattie Smith, Zeta Voorhees, and Helen Woodruff.

Candy was sold at a prettily decorated booth in charge of the Misses May VanFleet and Aschah Holmes; at the cake table were Mrs. A. Krymer, Mrs. Cora Ryno, Mrs. H. Cook and Mrs. A. Zeisz. Miss Lillian Dunn and Miss Edna Cole were in charge at the lemonade well. Costumed as "Uncle Sam," Raymond Cutter acted as keeper of the grab bag. The decorating committee included Mrs. G. Mantz, Mrs. L. Townley, and Mrs. William Olmsted, and those assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. H. C. VanEmburgh, Mrs. A. B. Davis, Mrs. L. Townley and Miss M. Wilson. The general committee in charge of the affair was composed of Mrs. F. S. Cutter, Miss Lillian Force, Miss Etta Raybert and Miss Edna Dilts.

Ball Games Stopped by Rain.

The rain interfered with all of the local baseball games on Saturday, and in consequence they were postponed to other dates. The Clinton Avenues have arranged to play the West Ends of Somerville on Saturday, June 13 at Somerville, and on Saturday, July 11, the Somerville aggregation will play on Crescent Oval. Next Saturday the Clinton Avenues will meet the Elizabeth A. C., on the oval in the second game of the season. The first one resulted in a victory for the county seat boys, and Manager Dorflinger hopes to reverse the score. The Elizabeth team has been considerably strengthened since its last appearance here.

Plainfielders Going Abroad.

Among those who will sail tomorrow on the steamer Moltke for Naples, will be Miss Hope Ivins, daughert of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt C. Ivins; Miss Evelyn Butts, of Vicksburg, Miss.; Miss Edith Mellick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Mellick; accompanied by Miss Helen Louise Wait, of New York. They go for months of travel and study abroad.

Fined on Wife's Charge.

Robert Johnson, colored, was arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning, charged by his wife with taking on a holiday jag Saturday night and trying to break up housekeeping. He was fined $3, the money being paid by a daughter to save him from going to jail.

HARTRIDGE SCHOOL PLAY

"The Winter's Tale" is Presented on the Old Johnston Estate Lawn.

SOME DELIGHTFUL MUSIC.

Various Dances Given During the Play—Refreshments Served—Many Pretty Effects.

Before an assemblage of five hundred people, including guests from New York, Philadelphia and the Oranges, The Hartridge School presented its bi-ennial open air play Friday afternoon at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Mali on East Front street. This time the young actors gave the Pastoral or the last two acts of "The Winter's Tale." The weather which was threatening during the morning cleared before 3 o'clock and the effects of light and shade were beautiful.

Preceding the play was a prelude, the Haydn Largo, charmingly rendered by a string quartet. Dr. Leonard Waldo took charge of the music for the entire program and obtained the services of A. M. Weingartner, concert-master of the Lehigh Valley Philharmonic Orchestra. Others who kindly assisted were Dr. Waldo's daughter, Mrs. Beech, Miss Patterson, Miss Hyatt and Miss Seward.

This was followed by one of the Gilbert School dances, the tiny dancers being dressed as Jesters in yellow and white costumes. One of the actors then gave a synopsis, and the play began. Miss Elsie Goddard, who coached the players, deserves warm congratulations for the unqualified success of the performance. Not only were the girls' lines perfect, but they took their parts with spirit and with real feeling. Following is the program:

Polixenes, Alice Ross; Camillo, Alice Gernon; Autolyeus, Helen Besler; Clown, Dorothy Adams; Florizel, Florence Stiles; Perdita, Helen Joy; Shepherd, Lena Fox; Dorcas, Frances Iredell; Mopsa, Gladys Chase; Leontes, Helen Potievent; Herminone, Edith Mellick; Paulina, Margaret Drayton; Phocion, Margaret Rushmore; Cleomenes, Clara Pittis; Archadamus, Florence Zelle.

During the play various dances were given, one of the most attractive being that of the Satyrs, sixteen little boys dressed appropriately in brown costumes with shaggy skins over their shoulders and reed pipes in their hands. In the corresponding dance were sixteen little girls dressed as wood fairies. The older pupils as shepherds and shepherdesses performed a country dance and the play closed with a minuet by the court ladies and gentlemen. For these the children were trained by Miss Laura M. Kennish, teacher of calisthenics in The Hartridge School. Following the play Miss Hartridge entertained her guests in a delightful manner. Refreshments were served and the social features were greatly enjoyed.

JERSEY COAST TO BE "DRY."

Monmouth's Prosecutor Says He'll Allow No Liquor Selling on Sunday.

Hotel men in prohibition Asbury Park and the owners of licensed resorts throughout Monmouth County are worried over an open letter issued by Prosecutor of the Pleas Henry M. Nevius of Freehold, in which he says that detectives connected with his office will see to it that the so-called Bishops' law, forbidding the sale of liquor on Sunday, will be enforced to the letter this summer in Monmouth County.

At the same time the Prosecutor calls upon the Mayors, Chiefs of Police, and other officials in the Monmouth County municipalities to see to it that the Sunday closing law is observed. If necessary, however, he will go over the heads of temporizing officials and send his detectives to obtain evidence to convict violators of the law.

The enforcement of the Bishops' law, it is declared, will be a serious financial loss to many of the resort owners, who depend largely on the patronage of Sunday motor car parties.

POLICE MAKE RAID AT HUSBAND'S REQUEST.

On complaint of William Redd, colored, who stated that his wife had a habit of entertaining undesirable company at their home on Arlington avenue while he was at work in Bayonne nights, the police raided the house at 3:30 yesterday morning. Patrolman Messler arrested Mrs. Redd, Miss Emma Epps, Miss Alice Taylor and William Oliver. Harry and George Hatchett and Mary Waldron, who were also in the place, escaped by way of a back door.

In the city court this morning, Mrs. Redd and Oliver were sent to jail for sixty days and the others had sentence suspended. The court room was packed almost to suffocation by friends of the prisoners.

A WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lynch Entertain Fifty Friends at a Delightful Affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lynch, of West Fifth street, entertained fifty friends at their home, Friday night, in honor of the eighth anniversary of their wedding. The house was prettily decorated, the prevailing colors being blue and white in the parlor and dining room and red, white and blue in the sitting room.

Features of the aqair were a donkey party euchre party, dancing and music by an orchestra. Prizes for the games weer awarded as follows: Donkey party, women, Mrs. LeMatty first, Mrs. Moran second; men, Mr. Clarkson first, Walter Knowlton second; consolations, Miss Ethel Clarkson and Earl Moran; euchre party, women's Mrs. James McKeon first, Mrs. John McKeon second; men's, Mr. Squier first, James McKeon second; consolations, Mrs. Daniel Courain and Mr. Feiring.

Supper was served at midnight by caterer Demolli. Mr. and Mrs. Lynch received numerous gifts of silverware, cut glass, linen and china.

DOGS SNAPS AT SMALL BOY, NARROWLY MISSES HIS EYE.

Edward Brown, the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, of Somerset street, was bitten on the left cheek by "Black" a hound belonging to George Gould, who lives in the same apartment. Decoration Day morning.

Young Brown, with the Gould lad, was playing on the porch of the Gould apartment with the dog at about noon, when the animal made a dive and his teeth scratched Edward Brown, making abrasions of the skin above the eye and piercing the eyelid. Dr. Clawson was summoned by telephone and cleaned the wound, carefully bandaging the eye. The dog's teeth missed the eyeball by the merest fraction of an inch.

CLEVELAND MUCH BETTER.

Makes Trip from Lakewood to Princeton in Auto.

Former President Grover Cleveland threw a surprise into the residents of Lakewood between 5 and 6 o'clock last evening, when he emerged from the hotel at which he has been stopping for some time and, entering an automobile, was whirled away to Princeton. Mrs. Cleveland returned from New Hampshire last night, where she went to place her children for the summer months, and found Mr. Cleveland so much improved that after a consultation with Dr. Lockwood Mr. Cleveland decided that he felt strong enough to take the trip.

Italians in Stabbing Affray.

John Mutti, a young Italian, was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, last night, following a stabbing affray on Elm place in which he was slashed with a knife. The police arrested Lora Salvino as being implicated in the affair but he denies being the assailant and the victim maintains silence. Salvino was arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning and was remanded until tomorrow. The stabbing followed a mixed-ale party somewhere in the borough and took place in front of the house where the men board. Mutti's condition is not serious.

Endeavorers Present Playlet.

Members of the Hope chapel Christian Endeavor society presented a playlet, "Just for Fun," Friday night. It was cleverly acted and was witnessed by a large audience. Those taking part were the Misses Elizabeth Slorah, Mary Radford, Bertha Jones and Elsie Rimmer; Donald C. Mortimer and Frank Rimmer. Mrs. G. Stuart Simons acted as coach and during intermissions Miss Nellie Gage gave mandolin selections.

W. C. T. U. Trip.

The members of the Plainfield W. C. T. U. will pay a fraternal visit to the Port Richmond, S. I., union on Wednesday. The program for the day includes a luncheon served at the home of the president of the Port Richmond union followed by a social meeting. Those members intending to go on Wednesday will take the 10:30 car at the trolley station.

STREET BOND VETO EXPLAINED BY MAYOR

Collect Benefits First and Save Unnecessary Expense to Taxpayers, Says Mr. Fisk.

AS ECONOMICAL MEASURE.

Include in Original Cost, Asphalt Oil as a Binding—Some Logical Reasons Are Advanced In Message.

As foretold in The Daily Press, Mayor Charles J. Fisk returned to the Common Council, last night, without his approval the ordinance providing for the $17,000 issue of bonds for macadamizing streets. When announcement was made of this, Mr. Gloak, chairman of the street committee, moved that the ordinance be referred to his committee. No further report was made on the matter during the evening, and just what action is proposed by the members is not known.

In this connection, Mayor Fisk set forth his views regarding street improvement work in a message to the Common Council, being particular to impress upon the members that he is not opposed to permanent improvement of streets. The message, which is as follows, was referred to the street committee, and the clerk was instructed to furnish each member of the Council with a copy:

Referring to the question of permanent improvement of certain streets in the city with macadam pavement, there are several matters that I desire to call to your attention.

I am not opposed to permanent street improvement, as it might seem by returning without my approval, the ordinance of May 4. I am opposed, however, to the method of raising money for the improvement of streets in the outlying sections of the city by the issue of short-term bonds and the appointment of commissioners to assess back the benefits on the property owners particularly benefitted. Especially when the request or petition to the Common Council to have improvements made only represent a small percentage of the property owners interested. In the case of the ordinance above referred to, an examination of the records in the City Clerk's office shows as follows:

North avenue: Berckman street to Terrill road. No petition on file.

Leland avenue: South avenue to Front street; property interested, 6,900 feet; petition only 1,359 feet.

Netherwood avenue: East Front street to East 2d street; property interested, 1,416 feet; petition only 350 feet.

Monroe avenue: West Seventh street, to West Eighth street; no petition on file.

West Eighth street: Monroe avenue to city line; property interested, 2,280 feet; petition only 1,207 feet.

West Third street: Monroe avenue to Clinton avenue; property interested, 3,280 feet; petition only 930 feet.

Clinton avenue: West Third street to city line; no petition on file.

A large proportion of this property is unimproved, low-priced property and should not be loaded down with assessments for improvements unless agreed to or petitioned for by a large majority of the property owners.

Several of our nearby cities got themselves into serious financial difficulty, not many years ago, by issuing bonds for street, sidewalk and other improvements in the outlying sections of the city in advance of the requirements. Plainfield should take care and not make the same error.

A large majority of the streets in the city—between 35 and 40 miles—have been improved with macadam pavement without the issue of bonds. The method used up to a few years ago, was for property owners to petition the Council to improve the roadbed; this petition being referred to the Street Committee, and after the City Engineer or Street Commissioner had surveyed the street and made an estimate of the cost, the property owners would agree between themselves and the city to pay into the City Treasury a certain portion of the cost, which in most cases amounted to about two-thirds of the cost of the work. An ordinance was then passed directing the street to be improved after first applying the direct amount substituted by the

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE TALK

Large Audience Hears Judge Hanna Explain Mother Eddy's Theories.

"THE RELIGION OF THE BIBLE."

Lecturer Tells of Healing and Explains Away Many Statements Circulated About the Faith.

Explaining the tenets of the Christian Science faith, Judge Septimus J. Hanna, of Colorado Springs, Colorado, delivered a lecture on "Christian Science, the Religion of the Bible," at the New Plainfield theatre last night. The audience was composed of more than 600 hundred persons, many of whom came from out of town. A delegation of thirty came in a special trolley from Cranford, and there were others from New Brunswick, Passaic, Dover, New York and the Oranges. The faith is strongly organized in this city, where regular services are held twice a week in rooms at the Babcock building with an average attendance of thirty-five. The lecturer was entertained at dinner by Robert Corey, of Park avenue.

Judge Hanna was introduced by F. Coulson Fairchild, of Passaic, of the publication committee in this state. He said that the object of the lecture was to explain the teachings and correct the erroneous ideas circulating about Christian Science. The lecturer said in part:

"The subject of my lecture indicates fairly well its scope and purpose, "Christian Science, the Religion of the Bible." We do not mean by this that Christian Science is the only religion which claims biblical authority, but are aware that it is one thing to claim scriptural authority in a general way and another thing to prove such authority from the Scriptures.

"Before proceeding to this branch of my remarks, however, and acting upon an assumption that there are more or less present who are not of our faith—some, maybe, who are investigating, but not thoroughly convinced, some who are skeptical as to whether Christian Science is what it purports to be, yet others who have come for the first time to hear the subject publicly presented, I will say that Christian Science has a text book. It is a treatise on healing through the power of God or the Divine Mind. Or, as we claim, it is a thorough exegesis of the Scriptural method of healing all manner of diseases, and of curing all manner of sin through the understanding of God as all-present, all-powerful, all-wise. In short, it is a spiritual interpretation of the Bible.

"Christian Science teaches that God is in truth Almighty. If He is Almighty then surely He is correctly defined by the other terms Omnipotent, Omnipresent, Omnicient, Supreme and Infinite. He who is all powerful is always all powerful. He who is omnipresent is never absent. He who is all wise is never less than that, could not be by the very necessity of His all wisdom.

"The Christian Science definition of God does not describe a more impersonal God, as that term is commonly used and understood, than does the orthodox definition as contained in the Westminster Confession of Faith. This definition is substantially accepted by all churches calling themselves Evangelical. I do not hesitate to say that the Christian Science definition of God is even more personal, in the correct sense of the term, than is that of the orthodox churches as set forth in their creeds or articles of faith.

"We believe in just such a God as the Psalmist sings of in the 103d Psalm. A God who possesses the power to forgive and who does forgive all the iniquities of His children, a God who possesses the power to heal and who does heal all the diseases of His children, who redeemeth their life from destruction, who crowneth them eternally with loving kindness and tender mercies.

"When we think of all the great works that Jesus did during His earthly career, how He overcame and destroyed all kinds of sin, how He healed all manner of sickness and disease, how He raised the dead, how He walked the waves and stilled the tempest, we may well be astonished at the words which I now quote as they are recorded in the 14th chapter of John, 12th verse: 'Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that believeth in me, the works that I do shall he do also.' Plain words. I do not see how words could be plainer. It seems to be only a question as to whether we shall accept them or reject them. We might well suppose that when Jesus had made so startling a declaration He would have ceased.

"But He did not stop there He went further and uttered these yet more astonishing words: 'And greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto the Father. If these

UNION'S CLUBS LEAGUE

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Chosen Treasurer of County League of Republican Clubs.

COLBYITES BECOME ACTIVE.

Local Ward Organizations of New Idea to Form a Local Republican Club on Friday Night.

The Union County League of Republican Clubs has been organized by the election of Charles A. Trimble, of Elizabeth, as president; John W. Cleft, of Summit, vice-president; William Freeman, of Rahway, secretary, and Walter L. Hetfield, of this city, treasurer.

The executive committee, which will practically be the board of governors for the league, will consist of one member from every regularly organized Republican club in the county. Mr. Hetfield, who is assistant prosecutor of Union county, is a member of the board of governors of the Plainfield Republican Club.

Closely following the formation of this club, comes the announcement that a meeting of the four ward branches in this city of the Union Coutny Republican League for Equal Taxation, will be held in the Coward building, No. 109 Park avenue, on Friday night, at which meeting a proposal will be submitted to reorganize said ward branches into a single organization to be known as the Plainfield Republican League for Equal Taxation, and to perfect the organization of said league.

WANTS DEFINITE REPLY FROM WATER COMPANY

Not being satisfied with the reply of the Plainfield-Union Water Company to the report of the fire and building committee relative to its alleged failure to provide adequate water supply to fight the fire at the Letcher house last winter, Chairman Hibbard, of the committee, at the June meeting of the Common Council last night, offered another report, a copy of which he requested be sent to the company.

In this report the committee declares that the letter received from President Frank Bergen of the water company is evasive and shows no intention of the concern to comply with the notice previously given to the effect that all hydrants must be kept in first-class condition and methods adopted to prevent their freezing in winter. It furthermore states that Mr. Bergen's letter is not relevant to the case and that according to the terms of the agreement between the city and the company it is painly the duty of the latter to make proper inspection of hydrants and to be vigilant at all times in furnishing an adequate water supply.

Mr. Hibbard explained that the company must be more efficient in this matter and upon his motion the clerk was instructed to send a copy of the report to the concern with a request to make reply at the earliest possible date.

CITY FATHERS CHANGE COUNCILMANIC RULES.

Three amendments were made to the rules of the Common Council at the June meeting, last night, all being in accordance with suggestions made by Councilman Frederic E. Mygatt at a previous meeting. The first amendment to rule sixteen provides that an aye and nay vote may be called for by two members, instead of three as heretofore. Councilmen Buxton and Gloak voted against this change, but it was adopted, seven votes being cast in its favor.

The second amendment was to rule twenty-nine, and the words "prevailing side," were substituted for "majority," the object being to escape the possibility of a tie vote. Mr. Mygatt explained that the United States Senate is governed by this rule and the Common Council being a small body he thought it wise to adopt this provision. This change was adopted by a unanimous vote as was also the amendment to rule thirty-eight, which changed the word "lay" to "lie," referring to matters placed on the table.

"Jack" Hall Hikes to 'Patcong.

John P. Hall, proprietor of Ram's Horn camp at Lake Hopatcong, last summer, left for the resort this morning to prepare for the coming season. He will ocuupy the old site on Halsey Island. Mr. Hall was accompanied to the lake by Frank Schuck and Edwin Bellis, who will be his guest for the next two weeks.

AUTO CRASHES INTO TREE, DR. GESSWEIN IS HURT

Steering his automobile into a tree in an attempt to avoid running down Brunson McCutcheon, son of C. W. McCutcheon, of Rockview avenue, Dr. C. A. Gesswein was thrown heavily on the sidewalk on Watchung avenue, at the Watchung school late yesterday afternoon. His nose was broken, his left wrist sprained, his cheek painfully cut by his eyeglasses and his left knee bruised. Jess Morrow, the doctor's brother-in-law from Hamilton, Ohio, who was riding in the car with Mrs. Morrow, his wife, was not thrown out, but the two were bruised and cut by the shock of the collision.

The accident took place at Watchung and Mountain avenues at about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The doctor's machine was proceeding slowly on the right side of Watchung avenue toward the mountain. Young McCutcheon, who was riding his bicycle from Somerset street along Mountain avenue, attempted to turn at the school corner in front of the automobile. Dr. Gesswein, who was at the wheel, turned the auto sharply into the curb to avoid running down the cyclist. The machine struck the bike, smashing the rear wheel and throwing McCutcheon, who was only slightly bruised. The automobile crashed into a tree at the curb and was badly damaged. Chief Howard Woolston, of the borough fire department, saw the accident and took Dr. Gesswein and the auto party home in his rig.

COUNTRY CLUB HOUSE COMMITTEE RESIGNS

At a meeting of the trustees of the Plainfield Country Club, last night, the resignations of L. G. Timpson, Henry L. Hall and Frederic W. Butler, comprising the house committee, were received and accepted. Willard Wadsworth was elected a trustees and also chairman of the house committee, taking Mr. Timpson's place. He was present at the meeting and will announce the names of the new members of the committee in a day or two. The plans of the new committee will include the addition of several new social features this season, besides continuing the Saturday evening dances. It is also the intention of the committee to provide an up-to-date restaurant service.

George S. Ring was elected a trustee and chairman of the buildings and grounds committee. As previously announced, R. S. Rowland was recently elected a trustee and chairman of the golf committee. The resignations of Messrs. Timpson, Hall and Butler come somewhat as a surprise. They hold similar positions at the new home of the Watchung Hunt Club, and take the position that they are not able to devote the necessary time to both.

The Country Club has just added about twenty-five new active members and many additional associate and junior associate members. The trustees expect in the near future to add to the eight tennis courts now in use at the club. The golf course is in finer condition than at any time in its history and prominent Metropolitan golfers, who have recently played here, pronounce it, up-keep and quality, the equal of all but two or three of the very best in the East, and as needing only additional length to make it in all respects a championship links.

ASK CITY FOR ONLY $35,000 FOR SCHOOLS

In a communication to the Common Council at its June meeting last night, the Board of School Etimate presented a certified copy of the amount needed to run the public schools for the coming year, the sum being $35,000, exclusive of that apportioned by the county superintendent of schools. The report was received and filed.

It being in the opinion of the police board a matter for its supervision, Councilman Hall of that body offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing that the committee on police shall comprise the committee to look after the construction of new police headquarters' building. They will act instead of the fire and building committee, it being understood that the latter committee will exercise its authority in the matter as in all cases of building.

OFFICIALS ARE ACCUSED

Prosecutor Tells Grand Jury to Investigate Charges Made in Editorial.

SUMMONS THE SUMMIT EDITOR.

John J. Lane Must Explain Basis for Serious Accusations In His Editorial.

Prosecutor Swift today asked the Union County Grand Jury to begin an investigation of the charges of pollution involving all the county authorities who have anything to do with the prosecution of crime. Charges against many of these officials were made in an editorial in The Summit Record, of Saturday, May 30. Alfred J. Lane, editor of the Record, has been summoned to appear before the grand jury and Chief of Police Brown, of Summit, will also have to appear, it is reported.

The editorial in the Record scores Judge Atwater for his light sentence in the case of Charles Hopes, the negro who attempted to outrage a little girl here last summer, and scores Judge Bergen for his sentence of five years, meted to Salvatore Delucca last week for murdering an Italian at Summit. The editorial urges the investigation by the Grand Jury as a means for finding out if posible if there has been a conspiracy among all the men involved to not only give light sentences but actually to have guilty men released and an innocent person accept the sentence in return for a money consideration.

In this connection, it is stated that Delucca agreed to assume the guilt for the crime when he was given to understand that his sentence would be a light one.

APPROPRIATE $95,000 FOR A SCHOOL BUILDING

Rescinding all previous action as to the appropriation of $90,000 for the erection of the proposed new public school building at Darrow avenue and Essex street, which was requested by the Board of School Estimate, the Common Council at its June meeting last night, adopted a resolution authorizing the appropriation of $95,000 for this improvement. This change is in accordance with the new plans and the lowest bid received from Lanning & Co., of Trenton, for building the school.

It was important that the Common Council should act on this matter last night as the Board of Education was in session at the same time and was unable to award the contract to the Trenton firm until an appropriation was made.

The resolution which was offered by Mr. Hibbard, provided for an issue of $95,000 worth of bonds, bearing 4 per cent. interest. They are to be of $1,000 denomination each and are to run from July 1, 1908, to July 1, 1958, payable semi-annually. Another resolution was also offered and adopted providing that the Columbia Trust Company of New York, prepare not only the bond for the $95,000 issue, but also for the $40,000 brick pavement bonds and the $25,000 worth of bonds for the new police building, at an expense not to exceed $225, and Delafield & Squires, of New York, bond experts, were authorized to approve the bonds after they are made at an expense not to exceed $250.

Corporation Counsel Marsh was not quite ready last night to prepare matters so that a time for receiving bids for the bond issue could be fixed and it was arranged to hold an adjourned meeting Monday night, June 8, for that purpose.

Mrs. Sophia E. Mullins.

Mrs. Sophia E. Mullins, a former well known resident of this city, died early this morning at her home in New Rochelle, N. Y. She was the daughter of Alicia and the late Francis McIntyre, of Plainfield, and sister to John McIntyre, of North avenue. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

Gladys Dushanek.

Gladys Dushanek, the ten-year-old daughter of John C. and Bessie Dushanek, of Fanwood, died last night after a long illness. The father is agent at the Fanwood station and the funeral will be held at the residence there Thursday afternoon at 1:45. Burial will be in Evergreen cemetery, Elizabeth.

Elks to Entertain.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., will have a special social session tomorrow night, during which the members of the recent minstrel troupe will be accorded a reception. An informal program and supper will be features of the gathering.

FOR UNDERGROUND WIRES

In Special Message, Mayor Argues City Should Place Wires Beneath Surface.

BOTH POLICE AND FIRE WIRES.

He Believes That Such Action Should Be Taken to Set Example to the Utility Corporations.

Believing that the city should not be derelict in making improvements required of electric light and telephone companies in the matter of placing overhead wires underground, Mayor Charles J. Fisk, in a message to the Common Council, last night, urged that steps be taken looking to the placing of the police system and fire alarm wires underground in the business section, at least. Mr. Fisk's position in the matter is set forth in the following message, which was referred jointly to the fire and building and police committees:

"While the city is using every effort and doing everything possible for the protection of the citizens and property in the city, by having the wires used by the various public companies, telegraph, telephone, electric lighting, etc., placed underground in the business sections, and the wires properly strung in other parts of the city, it seems to me that we should look at once to the wires under city control, the Gamewell Police system and the fire alarm system, these are about the only wires in the business part of the city, which are now overhead.

"The ordinance entitled "An Ordinance granting permission to the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company * * * to lay and maintain underground conduits * * * approved Nov. 1, 1897," provides, Section 6, that the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company shall provide sufficient space in said subways or underground conduits to accommodate the telegraph or telephone wire or conductors operated from time to time by the police, fire and other departments of the city of Plainfield.

"These conduits now cover very nearly the entire city and the Common Council should take the necessary action to, as soon as possible, have all police and fire alarms wires placed underground.

"If we expect other corporations to take certain action in regard to an important matter, as above referred to, the city must take similar action in having their own wires taken down out of the air. This matter is not only important for this reason but is of more importance for the protection of our fire and police alarm systems to prevent serious breakdowns, which occur nearly every time we have a storm.

HOLY CROSS LAWN FESTIVAL A SUCCESS.

A successful lawn party and sale was held on the grounds of Holy Cross church yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Junior Auxiliary of the church. The receipts from the affair were $42.22, and as the expenses are light, most of this money can be devoted to the work of the organization. Fancy articles were sold at various booths and ice cream and cake were served.

Those at the various booths follow: Embroidered articles, Mrs. Creasy and Miss Hazel Cumback; candy, Miss Helen Harrington and Miss Dorothy Langford; bead-work, Miss Clarie Kenworthy; dolls, the Misses Lena Rilling, Anna Kreutzfeldt, Etta Bremmer and Louise Saalfield; ice cream, Miss Ruth Burt and Miss Agnes Van Norden. The directors of the organization constituted a general committee in charge of the affair as follows: Miss Iola Moore, Mrs. Creasy, Mrs. G. A. Warner, Miss Ruth Burt, Miss Gertrude Pierson and Miss Miriam Carman.

MAN WANTED IN STABBING AFFAIR SURRENDERS HIMSELF

Frederick Periano, one of the Italians wanted by the police in connection with the stabbing affray on Elm place, Sunday night, surrendered himself to the police this morning. He was arraigned before Judge Runyon and was later paroled in the custody of his counsel, Robert Newton Crane, to appear at a hearing set for 4 o'clock this afternoon. Iora Salvino, arrested directly after the stabbing, will be arraigned at the same time.

John Mutti, the victim of the mixup, is still at Muhlenberg Hospital, but his condition is not serious. He was slashed in several places in the lower part of the back.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bushnell, of 831 Central avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Frances Bushnell, to David Allen Roberts, of Moorestown.

FISK FOR INTERURBAN SEWAGE DISPOSAL BEDS

Mayor Outlines Scheme for Suggested Joint Plant for City and Surrounding Communities.

ONE PLANT FOR ALL HIS IDEA.

Includes Fanwood, 'Plains, North Plainfield, Dunellen, Bound Brook, Somerville and New Brunswick.

One of the most important matters brought to the attention of the Common Council at its meeting last night by Mayor Fisk, was that in reference to the probable necessity of building additional contact beds at the sewage disposal works, not only to provide for the seven and a half miles of sewer extension recently installed, but North Plainfield as well, in case that municipality decides to join the city system as proposed.

It is suggested that one large plant be built and that Fanwood, Scotch Plains, North Plainfield, Dunellen, Lincoln, Bound Brook, Somerville, Raritan and New Brunswick, together with Plainfield, unite together in one sewer and obtain disposal works at a suitable point below New Brunswick, where the sludge could be loaded on scows and disposed of out to sea. Accompanying Mr. Fisk's message in reference to this subject, was a letter from City Engineer A. J. Gavett, who first called the Mayor's atention to the question. The message and letter, which follow, were referred to the street committee.

"The Engineer of Sewers, Andrew J. Gavett, informs me that in the near future, probably within a year, it will be necessary to provide some additional contact beds, in order to take care of the seven and one-half miles (7½) of the sewers now under construction and about completed, and that the cost of the same will be about $40,000.00. Negotiations are now pending with the Borough of North Plainfield, which, if consummated, would probably require some further addition.

"I understand that the committee expects to have the advice of George W. Fuller on the question of cleaning and enlarging the contact beds above suggested. I also understand that Mr. Fuller is advising the Borough of North Plainfield in regard to their sewage system and system of disposal.

"The question of sewage and sewerage disposal is now under consideration with a number of municipalities in this community and, while Plainfield has successfully taken care of this matter for a number of years, the time is not far distant when an addition to our own disposal works will be needed, and there will be various other plants located on the borders of the city, unless some arrangement can be made for the various places to join together in the use of one common plant.

"The problem of securing satisfactory locations for disposal beds is becoming very difficult and it seems to me that, if a site could be secured for a single large plant that the cost of operation would be much less than in the case of a number of smaller plants and that it would be much better, not only for our own city, but for the other communities, if we could all join together.

"I would suggest therefore that this matter be referred to a special committee with instructions to take up the subject with the Board of Health of the State of New Jersey, in connection with Fanwood, Scotch Plains, North Plainfield, Dunellen, Lincoln, Bound Brook, Somerville, Raritan and New Brunswick, with the object in view of uniting together in one sewer and securing disposal works at some suitable point below New Brunswick, where the sludge or heavy matter could be loaded on scows and disposed of out at sea.

"This, of course, would involve an investigation into various legal and engineering problems, which, if it could be brought about, would solve the question in this part of the State and be of the greatest benefit for all of the communities interested.

"I annex a copy of the letter on this subject from our engineer, Andrew J. Gavett, who first called this matter to my attention.

Gavett's Reply.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

As the result of a holiday trip to Trenton, George Penrose, a deaf mute living in New Market, is minus a gold watch and scarf pin, stolen from his room in the Barlow Hotel, where he was spending Sunday. Frank Wildman, a room-mate of Penrose, was relieved of $6 in money and no traces of the thieves could be found when the two returned to their apartments. Penrose had hidden his money under the mattress and it was untouched upon his return. The theft was committed Sunday afternoon, while the two were out walking. The men reported their loss to the Trenton police, but as yet neither jewelry or money has been recovered.

The township voters will choose three lighting commissioners for each lighting district and vote on the appropriation for lights at a special meeting held in the barber shop at New Market this afternoon and tonight. The polls close at 7 o'clock.

Five Big Waist Makers Contribute the 10,000 White Waists in This Sale.

We Are Going to Sell Them at Half Price and Less Beginning Tomorrow.

There are fully 10,000 beautiful white waists ready for this sale which begins tomorrow morning and which will likely be the biggest event we have ever conducted.

When you think that these waists are the product of five of the best makers who regularly supply the beautiful waists we sell; when you think that they are made in the newest models and in abundant variety of choice; when you think that the materials employed are of the most dependable sort—sheer Persian Lawns and Fine Mercerized Batistes, and excellent laces and embroideries; when you think that the prices we make are just about half what the waists should sell for, you will appreciate the fact that this sale has an important bearing on your interests if you are of an economical turn of mind.

Go back a year if you can, and recall the sale of waists we held last June just about this time—a sale made up of the product of a single maker—and good as that was, compare it with the five great lots you will see here this year, and you will say that this sale far surpasses the one held last June.

We will not attempt to give detailed descriptions of the many styles in the various lots. Suffice it to say that there are many exquisite novel and panel effects. Some elaborated with insertions of Valenciennes, Filet and other fashionable laces and embroideries; some with elaborate yokes, embellished with medallions; others with entire fronts of embroidery; many smartly tailored with dainty pin tucks or large plaits, with open fronts and long sleeves, tho most of them are open back and short sleeves.

.65—Six dainty models of all-over embroideries with short sleeves, lace trimmed; up-to-the-hour in style; excellently made; worth $1.25 to $1.50.

$1.00—Ten new models; some in smartly tailored styles, others with fronts all-over embroideries; still others with elaborate yokes; worth $2 to $2.50.

$2.00—Nine beautiful and elaborate models with fronts of exquisite all-over embroideries, charming yoke effects; worth easily $3.95 to $4.50.

$1.50—Seven pretty styles, made of tailored cross-bar Swisses, mercerized batistes and sheerest lawns; yokes and panel effects of fine embroideries and laces; worth $3 to $3.30.

$2.95—Twelve handsome and exclusive models, made of sheerest lawns and batistes; yokes embellished with insertions of Val. lace and dainty embroideries; worth $5.50 to $6.50.

HEBREWS THIS WEEK KEEP THE PENTECOST

The Jewish Pentecost, or Feast of Weeks, will begin on Thursday evening. At the synagogues a large number of young people will receive the rite of confirmation on Friday, and in all the synagogues there will be special musical programs.

Orthodox Jews observe Pentecost as a two-day festival, but it terminates on Friday evening among Reformed congregations. The fifty days indicated by the term "Pentecost" are reckoned from the Passover. Pentecost was originally the festival of wheat harvest. According to Exodus xix, it was in this month that the Jews received the Law at Sinai. The festival thus became associated with the giving of the Law, and after the destruction of Jerusalem and the settlement of the Jewish people in countries where the harvest came in the autumn, the promulgation of the Sinaitic law at this season became the special teaching commemorated by the festival.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The Misses Edna and Eunice Eckert, of Monroe avenue, entertained a number of friends at their home Saturday afternoon at a May Day party. It included a number of novel features that were thoroughly enjoyed by the guests. Refreshments were served in conclusion.

—Dr. B. F. Leonard, established a new record at the Independent Gun Club range Saturday, breaking 39 out of 40 blue rocks in the season's yearly contest of members. The shooting was especially remarkable because of the heavy downpour and high wind. Dr. Leonard is well in the lead in the season's holiday shoot.

—A capacity audience greeted Miss Grace George and her capable company at the New Plainfield theatre, Saturday night, when "Divorcons" was presented. The play met all expectations and the clever star, who is a great favorite with local playgoers, was repeatedly encored. At one instance there were eight curtain calls. The audience at the afternoon was also large and equally enthusiastic.

FARM WORK BEHIND TIME BECAUSE OF RAINY MAY.

New Jersey farmers are much concerned over the weather prospects. The superabundance of rain which fell during May had the effect of greatly retarding work on the farms, and if June should be wet much damage will be done to all kind of crops. Discussing the situation, Franklin Dye, of Trenton, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, said:

"If this wet weather keepss up much longer the conditions will be a matter of much concern. As it is, very little corn has been planted, although ordinarily corn planting begins about May 1 in South Jersey and is finished by June 1, even in the northern end of the State. The planting this year will be very late, with the corresponding danger that early frosts may nip the crop before it ripens. In many cases even where the ground has been prepared the work will have to be done over again, because the earth has been so thoroughly soaked with rain that it is likely to cake when it dries out again.

"Potatoes are planted and are not damaged, but they will not stand for much more wet weather. The hap crop will be benefited rather than harmed by the overabundance of rain. Grass, however, is so watery that the farmers have had to feed their cows on meal longer than usual this spring. Garden truck and small fruits have been retarded by the wet weather."

For the first time since he has been with the Cubs, Artie Hoffman holds a regular position. Manager Chance announces that he will play Artie in center permanently. He succeeds Jimmy Slagle, who is nearing the end of his rope.

Cleveland has a new catcher in Thomas Doran, who was with the Rochester Club, of the Eastern League, last year. He will get a chance when Clarke and Bemis want a rest.

They say that Jack Thoney is worthless because of a sore arm. Thoney can make his salt merely batting in pinches for some of Boston's weak sisters.

It might be a good idea for Connie Mack to sign Jimmy Barrett, who would fill in very excellently in the Athletics' outfield pending the recovery of Oldring and Seybold.

Walter Johnson, the Montana wonder, has notified Joe Cantillon that he will report at Washington June 9. The Nationals already fine staff will be stronger than ever when he is available.

Detroit is well equipped with outfielders. Few teams have a quartet as formidable as McIntyre, Crawford, Cobb and Jones.

Jimmy Williams himself put the Highlanders on the blink twice by hard hitting in the recent series. It does a ball tosser good to throw the harpoon into a team which has cut him off.

The accident to Sid Smith is an immense loss to the Athletics. Smith is not only an intelligent, finished backstop, but helped the House of Mack greatly with his batting.

Out West they say that Mathewson is a wreck and that he will never be the winning pitcher that he was in 1905.

Some of these days Eddie Collins, the pinch kid, will hold a regular position on the Athletics' inner works.

Roy Thomas is with the Phillies, waiting for something to turn up.

Boston seems to have all the better of the deal which sent Tenney, Bridwell and Needham to New York in exchange for McGann, Bowerman, Dahlen, Browne and Ferguson. That is if one goes by results.

Mike Madigan, the former Montreal outfielder, who was recently sold to Scranton, is seriously ill in a Scranton hospital as the result of being struck on the head with a pitched ball while playing against Albany last Monday. Madigan is suffering from a fractured skull and will be operated on to-day.

The expected break in the Union League came last week, when it was announced in Philadelphia that the Wilmington and Baltimore clubs had disbanded. The league, it is said, will continue with six clubs.

GOLF.

There will be an open championship tournament of the Metropolitan Golf Association this year, and the scene of action will be the links of the Baltusrol Golf Club. September 24, 25 and 26 are the dates selected.

This will come as welcome news for the professionals of the district, who had come to regard an open Metropolitan Golf Association tournament as a thing of the past. The first Metropolitan open championship was decided at Fox Hills in 1905, when Alec Smith won after playing off a tie with Willie Anderson. The following year George Low, of Baltusrol, won the title at Hollywood, but last season no club offered to handle the attraction, with the result that the tournament was not held.

Since then the association has shown a disposition to become more liberal. It is now willing to contribute $250 toward the expenses, and as the revenue from entrance fees is considerable it has been figured that the club giving the tournament will not be called upon for more than $250 or $300 at the most. Conditions call for seventy-two holes of medal play for the championship proper, open to amateurs and professionals. On the third day amateurs and professionals will team up in four-ball foursomes.

Programs are out for the third annual championship tournament of the Women's Eastern Golf Association, to be held at the Oakley Country Club on June 9 and 10. This will immediately precede the tri-city competition for the Griscom trophy over the same links. This Eastern championship will consist of thirty-six holes medal play, eighteen holes each day. On the morning of the first day there will be a driving competition while on the following morning the side event will consist of an approaching and putting contest. Later in the day there will be an eighteen hole medal play handicap.

It is extremely doubtful whether Miss M. B. Adams, of Boston, will be on hand to defend her Eastern title, as she was one of the party of visiting Americans who recently competed for the woman's championship of Great Britain at St. Andrews. Even so, the Bay State association will be represented in nearly its full strength, and so will the Philadelphia body. This section will probably be represented by Mrs. W. Fellowes Morgan, of Baltusrol, and Mrs. E. F. Sanford.

The annual meeting of the Women's Eastern Golf Association will be held at the Oakley Country Club on Tuesday, June 9, at 9 a. m. The nominating committee, consisting of Miss M. B. Adams, of Boston; Miss F. McNeely, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. M. D. Paterson, of New York, has presented the following ticket:

President, Mrs. E. F. Sanford, New York; vice-president, Miss Maud K. Wetmore, Washington; treasurer, Mrs. C. L. Tiffany, New York; secretary, Miss Louisa A. Wells, Boston.

Executive committee, the above officials and Miss Georgianna Bishop, Bridgeport; Miss Harriet Curtis, Boston; Mrs. Caleb F. Fox, Philadelphia; Mrs. Franz Zerrahn, Boston; Mrs. William H. Hilles, Wilmington, and Mrs. R. H. Barlow, Philadelphia. The competition for the Judge Endicott cup has been going on now for nearly a year, and unless the members of the association send in a report of their winnings it will be impossible to find an owner for the trophy. The year will expire on June 9. All reports should be sent to Mrs. E. F. Sanford, No. 112 West 72d street, New York city.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 7:21, rises 4:26; moon sets 10:38 p. m.

The Councilmanic finance committee has made a new record. It has held just two meetings so far this year.

Possibly Mr. Charles N. Fowler can tell us just what part he played in getting that $100,000 item for a new public building here.

The Elizabeth Journal springs a boom for John Kean for chairman of the Jersey delegation to Chicago. A better selection could not be made.

That interurban sewage disposal scheme appears on the face to be a wise one; at least it warrants an investigation by the interested communities.

Plainfield's Common Council has amended its rules by changing the phrase "a motion may be made to lay it on the table" to "a motion may be made to lie it on the table." Grammarians please note.

One only has to walk along one of our streets these days to become convinced of the wisdom of Mayor Fisk's suggestion for the use of asphalt oil in all future macadam work. Street sprinkling under present methods has proved most unsatisfactory and the city fathers should do all in their power to hasten the day when oil is substituted. It would not only be much more economical in the long run but be a decided improvement over the existing conditions.

Mayor Fisk is all right so far as he goes when he urges that the city place its fire and police wires underground, but how about those dangerous P. S. C. wires on Plainfield avenue and Second street. Either one is a thousand times more deadly and nothing has been done to compel that corporation to remove them. It might be well for the local authorities to use some drastic action if this corporation continues to show its utter disregard of the public safety. This condition is not the fault of the Mayor. The blame is on the Common Council.

Discuss Auto Bus Plans.

A joint committee representing the Board of Trade and the Merchants Association and composed of A. E. Force, Milton Mendel and A. S. Herr, met with Mayor Fisk by appointment, last night, to discuss the auto bus line as proposed between Plainfield, South Plainfield, Oak Tree and Metuchen. The executive assured the committee that he heartily favored the project and in a municipal way would do all possible to assist in furthering it.

Miss Lottie Wilson, of Lebanon, is visiting friends in this city.

Miss Nancy Van Deventer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Van Deventer, of Netherwood, is visiting friends in Philadelphia.

Among the automobilists touring the Berkshires who were registered on Sunday at the Hotel Wendell, Pittsfield, Mass., were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Greene, of West Seventh street; A. H. Greene, Miss Bessie Brenan and Edward Abell, of this city.

CITY FATHERS' ROUTINE

Buxton Acts as President and Wean as City Clerk During Lengthy Session.

MANY PETITIONS PRESENTED.

Team of Fire Horses to Be Purchased—Usual Monthly Reports Are Filed.

Numerous petitions were received at the June meeting of the Common Council, last night, and these matters, together with many more important ones which caused considerable discussion, made the session a lengthy one. In the absence of President Tolles, Councilman Herbert Buxton took the chair, while George B. Wean filled the position of city clerk in the absence of J. T. MacMurray.

Among the petitions was one from Ernest Sharp, asking for an adjustment of assessments on his property in the Netherwood section of the city, in the vicinity of Park Terrace. A portion of this property was formerly owned by Mrs. Edith Hyde-Colby, but now belongs to Mr. Sharp and he asked to have the assessment transferred. He also requested the refunding of an assessment paid in error on other property on East Seventh street and Leland avenue. The petitioner furthermore referred to the fact that Gresham road had been dedicated as a public thoroughfare and he had granted the right of way there for a sewer. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

The alleged nuisance of having the trolley tracks on one side of Arlington avenue, between Fourth and Fifth streets, instead of in the centre of the road, was complained of by B. F. and W. J. Tallamy, as well as other property-owners there and the petition was referred to the committee on public affairs.

Public hearings were granted on an amendment to an ordinance to improve sidewalks and the ordinance to vacate an unknown street leading out of Elmwood place, but no one appeared to speak for or against them. The ordinance to vacate the street was adopted on third reading.

In the general discussion on the subject, suggested by Mr. Montgomery and supported by Mr. Mygratt, it was agreed that the rules should be strictly enforced in that all petitions and communications should come to Common Council through the proper committees.

Protesting against the proposition of the Public Service Corporation to build a gas plant on property owned by the company on Watchung avenue, Charles H. Hand informed the Common Council that if he suffered any loss or damage in consequence, he would hold the city liable. This was referred to the fire and building committee.

The Hand Storage & Express Company which has been furnishing a team of horses for the steamer in the fire department, stated in a communication that owing to the fact that a number of fire boxes had been added to "steamer calls" it would hereafter make a charge of $50 a month for the team or $25 a month provided the city purchased the feed. The matter was referred to the fire committee. Later in the evening a resolution, offered by Mr. Hubbard and adopted, authorized the committee to purchase a team of horses for the steamer at a cost not to exceed $700.

The petition of W. J. Counihan for permission to build an extension to the front of Reform Hall, which he proposes to transform into what will be known as the Orpheum theatre, was referred to the proper committee. He submitted a drawing of the proposed change and it is very attractive.

The Public Service Corporation informed the Common Council that electric lights as ordered had been placed on East Second street, West Seventh street, Denmark road and Hillside avenue.

Mayor C. J. Fisk appointed William Christoffersen a special policeman, it being at the request of residents in the Netherwood section. The appointment was confirmed. He also appointed Charles A. Peterson poundmaster, and the action was confirmed, Councilmen Montgomery and Buxton alone voting in the negative.

The appointment of Robert A. Meeker, S. P. T. Wilbur and H. B. MacDonald as commissioners to make sewer assessments, was confirmed, while an order of the court approving the appointment of Thos. J. Hughes, H. B. MacDonald and A. J. Gavett as commissioners in the assessment of macademizing was filed.

Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh submitted abstract titles and deeds of transfer in the matter of property purchased on South avenue for the proposed fire house and the property on East Fourth street for the new police headquarters building and the same were filed.

The granting of fifty-four sewer permits between April 1 and May 20, was reported by City Engineer Gavett. Horace G. Adams, clerk of the district court, reported receipts for the past month of $170.67, disbursements of $55.42, with a balance of $115.25. Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that twenty-eight permits were granted in April and twenty-three in May, while Overseer-of-the-Poor A. D. Ayers reported total expenses of $410.21 for the past month. All of these reports were filed.

Mr. Hibbard reported back several petitions and on the advice of Corporation Counsel Marsh they were denied. They included one from Julia V. Keely, administratrix, asking for the reduction of a sewer assessment. Another one was from the Highland Realty Company, similar request, and a third one was from C. K. Mason, asking that a dog tax be remitted. Mrs. Dorothy M. Stewart petitioned to have a sewer assessment refunded. In each case Mr. Marsh stated that the petitioners had their remedy in an appeal to the County Taxation Board, the State Board of Taxation or the Supreme Court, but had not availed themselves of the privilege.

A resolution offered by Mr. Gloak and adopted, authorized the street committee to place a circular curb at Arlington avenue and West Eighth street. Mr. Gloak also offered plans and specifications for the extension of the sanitary sewer system, under an old ordinance, and Monday night, July 6, was fixed as the time when the Common Council will meet to receive bids for the work. This action was approved through the adoption of a resolution.

In response to petitions from J. D. Loizeaux and others, Mr. Hibbard offered a resolution which was adopted, authorizing the placing of two hydrants in the West End, one on West Front street, between Rock and Jefferson avenue and the other at Clinton avenue and West Sixth street. On motion of Mr. Mygratt Council adjourned to meet on Monday night, June 8, to further the new school bond issue and arrange for advertising for bids.

JILTED PRINCETON GIRL SUES FOR $15,000 BALM.

A suit for breach of promise, with damages placed at $15,000, has been entered in the Superior Court of Worcester county, Mass., on behalf of Irma Johnson, an attractive blonde. The respondent is John Chandler, aged 70, and accredited with being one of the wealthiest residents of Princeton, N. J., where Miss Johnson also resides.

Attachments have been made on Chandler's property in Princeton, Fitchburg, Worcester and Boston, special attachments being made on money he has on deposit in the last three named cities.

The True Baby Outfit

When we consider how tender and sensitive a baby's skin is, the importance of selecting the right kind of garments is emphasized. The fine knit fabrics of the "ARNOLD" goods are especially made from soft twisted yarn chemically treated so as to make them highly antiseptic, sanitary and very absorbent; soft and pliable as old and much used linen.

Mothers in seeking the best for their babies will recognize at once that the "ARNOLD" Knit Garments, from their beauty of finish, perfect shape, softness of textures and highly absorbent and non-iritating qualites, are the ones she should by all means adopt.

The "ARNOLD" Knit Goods comprise the largest assortment and variety for a baby outfit, of any concern in the country.

INTERURBAN SEWAGE BEDS

city's sewage disposal works, I would say that the upper contact beds will require cleaning soon, and as there will be many buildings to be connected with the seven and a half miles of sewers now under construction, it will probably be necessary to provide some additional contact beds. The septic tanks will not need enlarging at present, their capacity being now equal to 24 hours flow of sewage. The committee expects to have the advice of George W. Fuller on the question of cleaning and enlarging the contact beds. Mr. Fuller is also advising the Borough of North Plainfield in planning a sewerage system.

Plainfield will probably soon have, in addition to her own disposal works, other plants on her border, (unless the towns join in the use of the Plainfield plant) viz.—those of North Plainfield, Fanwood and Scotch Plains, (the two latter works would be naturally located not far above the works of the Plainfield Union Water Company). Would it not be timely to investigate the possibilities of a comprehensive sewerage plan for the whole of the Raritan drainage area?

North Plainfield is now considering the relative merits of disposal works located west of the Borough and of a connection with the city's system (provided the Common Council should agree to the latter plan). Lincoln and other towns were notified by the late State Sewerage Commission to discontinue the discharge of raw sewage into the streams and no doubt the remaining municipalities in this watershed will be obliged to provide disposal works before many years.

Is it not probable that trunk sewers could be constructed which would serve Fanwood, Scotch Plains, North Plainfield, Dunellen, Lincoln, Bound Brook, Somerville, Raritan and New Brunswick, with disposal works at some suitable point below New Brunswick?

The problem of securing satisfactory locations for disposal works in the vicinity of towns is becoming increasingly difficult, and it would seem that the site for a single large plant could be more easily obtained and that the cost of operation would be much less than in the case of a number of smaller plants.

Of course it would be necessary, before approving such a plan, to investigate the various legal and engineering problems involved.

Yours respectfully,

ANDREW J. GAVETT.

Gave Progressive Euchre.

Watchung council, Knights of Columbus, gave a progressive euchre in the council rooms last night that was participated in by 150 players. The prizes were awarded as follows: Women's, first, Miss McAfee; second, Miss Keely; consolation, Miss Burke; men's, first, William Hurley; second, P. J. Reville; consolation, Patrick Connolly. At the conclusion of play, music and refreshments were enjoyed.

New Way to Prepare Onions.

Peel a dozen small onions of equal size, put them in a well buttered frying pan with a little soup stock. Let them simmer gently by the side of the fire, taking care to often turn the onions so as to gice them an even color all round. When cooked serve with meat.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

John Ball and family, of Metuchen road, have left for Shelter Island where they will spend the summer. Mr. and Mrs. William Pace will occupy the Ball residence during the family's absence.

Lillian Norman has returned from a two weeks' stay in Brooklyn, and her brother, Edward, is also back home from a visit to his grandmother in South River.

Mrs. Harris has been spending a pleasant holiday at Staten Island with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Winship. She rode there and back in her new automobile.

There will be a strawberry and ice cream festival Thursday evening, June 4, under the auspices of the new Dover M. E. church in the church.

Clarence Taylor, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital for two weeks, has been discharged cured and is now at work on the Sunswick poultry farm.

Sidney E. Morse, who has been entertained by his daughter, Mrs. Rufus Delafield, of Plainfield avenue, has returned home to New York.

The second anniversary of the Young People's Social Club will be held at the residence of Miss Verna Allen on Wednesday evening.

"The Monk who shook the World" will be the subject of Rev. C. W. F. Attlee's address at the Baptist prayer-meeting this evening.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Charles French, of New Providence, was arraigned before Judge Clark yesterday charged with assault and battery and attempt to kill, the complaintant being David Clark, of Murray Hill. French pleaded not guilty. The court, however, found that the evidence produced by Clark was corroborated by witnesses, so French was held under $200 bond for the next term of court.

Justice Clark has issued summons in the contract case of Walsh vs. Reall, summons is returnable Thursday, June 4. S. Koelstler is attorney for the plaintiff.

John Miller has given up his cigar and candy business, corner of Park avenue and the trolley and removed to the Baptist church property on Park avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dean, of Summit, have been visiting Mrs. Dean's mother, Mrs. Charles M. Mooney, of Valley road.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Muir and child were the guests over Sunday of Mrs. Muir's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Meyer.

Master Cecil Hurley, who has been spending several days with Mrs. W. R. Buckley, has returned to his home in Brooklyn.

Joseph Worster and family, of Rahway, have been visiting Mrs. Augusta Miller, of Front street.

The local ball team play the Parkway of Newark Saturday afternoon on the home grounds.

P.S.C. MAY IMPROVE ITS TROLLEY ROADBEDS

With a view to preventing the dust nuisance along the local lines of the trolley in this city and having the roadbeds repaired properly, Mayor C. J. Fisk, communicated with the Common Council, last night, and informed that body that he had been in conference with the P. S. C. officials regarding the proposed improvements, and the latter had received them favorably. Mr. Fisk's message, which was referred to the street committee, was as follows:

"I have taken up with certain officials of the Public Service Coporation, the matter of the repair of the streets through which their tracks are now laid for the trolley railway, with the object in view of having these streets put in good repair, the Public Service Corporation paying for their proportion, and then having the roadbeds treated with an asphalt oil or similar finish that would not only lay the dust but would preserve the service of the roadbeds.

"This suggestion has been received favorably by the officials with whom I have taken the matter up, and I recommend that the Common Council, through their proper committee, take this mater up direct with the Public Service Corporation and I have no doubt that an arrangement can be reached that will be satisfactory to the city and a great relief to the property owners along the line of the road.

"I ask that you give this matter your prompt attention, if any action is to be taken, it should be done at once, securing the benefit as soon as possible."

Chief Kiely Attending Convention.

Chief of Police Kiely left yesterday for Detroit, Mich., where he will attend the convention of the Police Chiefs' Association of the United States and Canada. He will be gone about a week. During his absence Captain Frederickson will be in charge.

BOND VETO EXPLAINED

property owners, city paying the balance. In this manner the money due from the property owners was collected and paid in advance of the work, without the necessity and expense of Commissioners appointed by the court, and the expense of assessment maps, and the delay in collecting the assessments.

Under the plan now, and which has been in use for the last few years, an ordinance is passed for the improvement of certain street or streets and in order to pay the same, assessment bonds are issued to run for a period of three years, and after the work is finished commissioners are appointed by the court to assess the benefits. The work as provided by the statute must be advertised and given out by contract to the lowest responsible bidder. These contractors may be local men or men from out of town, and they may use local labor or labor from out of town, as is most advantageous to themselves, while the city is barred from doing the work themselves and employing local men even in the case where there are laborers in the city needing work and when the work could be done for less money and to better advantage directly by the city. I therefore advise that in all permanent street improvements, at least for this year, we return to the method used in former years, that of having the property owners portion subscribed for, in advance. We have a large number of men out of work and this would give an opportunity to give some of them employment.

The city has a contract for cracked stone, at a lower price than they have been able to buy stone for several years, and I feel sure that the city could do the work better and at less cost than they could by contract. The streets that have been improved by contract during the last few years, are not a success, some of them have already given out and are cut up into ruts, showing that there is some defect somewhere. I also advise that all new streets be furnished with an asphalt oil or some similar finish that will bind the upper surface and keep down the dust, and that the cost of this be made a part of the original cost of the improvement. In regard to the repair of our present macadam streets, there are a number of miles of streets that need careful attention. Some of them have been opened and dug up for sewers and sewer connections, and for other reasons, and are in very bad repair. These streets should be gone over carefully and put in as good condition as possible with the funds at the command of the committee, and the surface on all out macadam streets should be treated, as rapidly as city funds will allow, with an asphalt oil or some similar preparation, not only to keep down the dust, but to bind the surface and lessen the cost of repair. I am well aware that this cannot be done all at once, owing to the cost, but the main thoroughfares could be treated first and the other streets later, and in a few years we would be practically a dustless city and streets that would require a very small amount to keep in repair.

$5,000 ADDED TO NEW SCHOOL APPROPRIATION.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Education, last night, a resolution was passed rescinding the previous appropriation of $90,000 for the Darrow avenue school and making a new one of $95,000. The cost of the building will aggregate $88,000, but the added amount is necessary because of architects' fees and grading. The step was taken after the matter had been given full consideration by the Board of School Estimate.

The school budget of $35,000 for the coming year, as prepared by the Board of Estimate, was also presented and approved.

In the regular order of business it was reported that arrangements for the annual commencement exercises on June 18 had practically been completed. The speaker for the occasion has not been secured but Superintendent Maxson has been in communication with several eminent orators and will make his selection within a few days. Music for the occasion will be furnished by Frank's orchestra, of New York, which will also furnish the program for the customary dance and reception to follow. The commencement will be held in the New Plainfield theatre.

Mr. Woodhull, as secretary, was authorized to sign the contracts for the Darrow avenue school erection as soon as the successful bidders' bonds are filed and other legal formalities complied with. Miss Elizabeth Chadbourne and Oscar Fay Adams were appointed as judges to review the prize compositions from the schools, these two to select a third.

The custodian of school money reported a balance of $19,352.40 and the tax collector the receipt of $940.35 during the past month. Bills aggregating $1,000 were ordered paid.

Dinner for Bride-Elect.

Mrs. J. P. Truitt, of Greenbrook road, gave a dinner party at her home Sunday night in honor of Miss Barlow, whose marriage to Edward Hobbie, will take place tomorrow night. Covers were laid for sixteen. Favors, consisting of small boxes of rice, containing gold stock pins for the men and gold pins for the women, were given. Miss Barlow received a silver card case and Mr. Hobbie a silver cigar cutter.

Miss S. Etta Raybert, of East Second street, left yesterday for a few days' visit with friends at Tarrytown, N. Y.

PROCLAMATION Concerning Dogs.

MAYOR'S OFFICE.

June 1, 1908.

It is a penal offence under a City Ordinance to permit any dog to run at large in the City unless the dog is so muzzled as to prevent biting. Any person who owns or harbors a dog and violates the ordinance referred to is subject to a fine of ten dollars for each offence.

In addition to the foregoing; it is provided that any unmuzzled dog found running at large shall be impounded and shall not be redeemed without a payment of a penalty of one dollar to be paid to the pound master in addition to the charge for the dog's keep of twenty-five cents per day or a fraction of a day, while in charge of the pound master.

The Ordinance further provides that all dogs unclaimed or unredeemed at the expiration of four days after being impounded shall be put to death in the most merciful and humane manner possible.

This Ordinance will be rigidly enforced.

CHAS. J. FISK, Mayor.

TO DRESS WELL ON A SCANTY ALLOWANCE.

The secret of the well-dressed woman, who often spends less on her wardrobe than her dowdily clad sister, has suddenly been revealed. It lies in very slightly altering the way of wearing a gown or hat each time it is put on.

A dressmaker explained how these trifling changes are effected.

"The woman who aspires to be smart and has not a large dress allowance," she said, "makes a special study of novel details, which alter the appearance of a frock or hat.

"As an example, I must site an order we recently received for a gown.

"It has been made of the new suede brown eolienne, with a plain skirt, and a kimono bodice. We have provided a hat in brown straw to match. This costume can appear under six different guises.

"In the first place the bodice can be worn over an inner vest of burnt orange crepe de chine, powdered with gold spots, and the hat will be trimmed with a wreath of wallflowers.

"The orange waistcoat can be removed when a change of costume is required, and replaced by a frilly vest and sleeves of spotted net, while bands of peacock blue embroidery will be hooked on the bodice, and the wallflowers on the hat replaced by a cluster of peacock's feathers.

"Costume number three will show a waistcoat of floral silk, patterned in bunches of violets, and the brilliant straps of embroidery have been replaced by bands of sober brown velvet. The hat will be trimmed with a large market bunch of purple violets.

"The fourth costume can be carried out by wearing a suede brown chiffon blouse under the kimono bodice, and a bunch of scarlet quills in the hat, to match the narrow scarlet velvet tie; the sixth by substituting a blouse of sky blue crepe de chine, embroidered with bronze daisies, and arranging a trail of bronze daisies and forget-me-nots on the hat."

The home dressmaker may take hints from this, and deceive her friends completely as to the extent of her wardrobe.

The Ideal Hand.

The palm plump, but not pincushiony.

The fingers long and tapering.

Slender but not scrawny in shape.

Wrist rounding and delicate and wristbone hidden.

The fingers rounding and not thick at the base.

Nails transparent, small and oval, with a decided half-moon.

Movements of the hand graceful and the wrist action easy.

Skin firm, white and smooth, with veins showing but slightly.

Knuckles inconspicuous and the line of the fingers almost straight, without prominent middle joints.

The fingers not thick and compact, but with each one separated from the other, with the little finger curling slightly.

Touching Gratitude.

"Don't tell me," said the resident surgeon, "that the poor are ungrateful. We have daily proof here of the gartitude of the poor.

"Time and time again it happens, after we have removed a cancer from the face of some old washerwoman, or assuaged the insomina of a white-bearded watchman, that the patient says:

"'I'm to poor to do much for your hospital, sir, but I'll tell you what I will do—I'll leave directions when I die for my corpse to be given you for dissection.'

"Yes, that happens often," said the surgeon, "and many a free specimen reaches our dissecting room that way."

A Simple Cleaning Process.

Many of us embroider linen or lawn shirt waists or linen center pieces and doilies, for our friends. Many of us too, though naturally neat, will find our work soiled before it is finished. But if one desires to make up the material or give it to a friend without washing it may be made perfectly clean by sprinkling thickly with French chalk and rolling up for a few days. The chalk may then be easily shaken out, and an immaculate gift presented without destroying the original finish to the fabric.—Harper's Bazar.

Washing the Hair Brush.

A hair brush can be easily and quickly washed, as nothing is needed but some warm water and a small piece of soda. Dissolve the soda in the water and then dab the bristle part of the hair brush into the water three or four times, or until it is clean. Rinse the brush well in cold water and wipe it as dry as possible. Then set it to finish drying in a window where the wind will blow in on it if possible.

Monuments for M. D.'s.

Dr. Griffin—I must say the world is very ungrateful toward our profession. How seldom one sees a public memorial erected to a doctor!

Mrs. Golightly—How seldom? Oh, doctor, think of our cemeteries!—Stray Stories.

The Grape Fruit Knife.

The grape fruit knife has a blade curved just so it will slip between the pulp and the skin of this fruit, making it quite possible to remove the pulp without any great trouble.

"Why are you so sorry for Mrs. Brown's baby?"

"Took the prize at a baby show."

Put This Stove in Your Kitchen

It is wonderfully convenient to do kitchen work on a stove that's ready at the instant wanted, and out of the way the moment you're done. Such a stove is the New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove. By using it you avoid the continuous overpowering heat of a coal fire and cook with comfort, even in dog-days. The is so constructed that it cannot add perceptibly to the heat of a room; the flame being directed up a retaining chimney to the stove top where it is needed for cooking. You can see that a stove sending out heat in but one direction would be preferable on a hot day to a stove radiating heat in all directions. The "New Perfection" keeps a kitchen uniformly comfortable. Three sizes, fully warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo Lamp is the ideal lamp for family use—safe, convenient, economical and a great light giver. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

AMAZON MOTHERS.

Peculiar Custom of Half Burying Babies in Sand.

An English officer who has been on many exploring trips through South America told recently of a surprising scene he had witnessed for in the interior of the Amazon country.

"I had come to a point," he said, "where my best guides were dead or sick. I needed help to push on to my goal. An Amazon village was near, and to this I repaired.

"Not a man was at home. The village was in charge of the women—tall, bronze colored, handsome females—each with one or two babies at her heels. They were jolly babies, if born in slavery. They laughed up in your face, and they were clean, because they did not wear clothes and were taught to live in the water as much as on the land.

"I made the women understand that I wished to be guided over ten miles more of the stream, and four of them volunteered to do the work for me for the equivalent of $2 in our money. I accepted.

"Then came the funny things about their babies. Each woman had two. They scooped out holes in the sand in the shade and set the babies in them. Then they heaped sand about them until it rose to their armpits. Their heads, arms and hands were free. I inquired if the babies could not dig their way out. My informant said they would not try to. They would play with the sand about them until they were asleep, but would not attempt to get away.

"The mothers guided us well and when we were safe, with a wave of their hands, plunged into the bush and started on a dog trot for their village. I have seen babies roped up, caged and harnessed to keep them in bounds, but this was the first time I ever saw them planted."

The Centenary of the Waltz.

It is said in Paris that this year of grace 1908 marks, among other anniversaries of more or less interest, that of the valse, or waltz. A certain M de Trenis, "the irrestible Trenis," as he was often called, is credited with the introduction of the waltz, having for his partner a beautiful creole named Hamelin.

After stately minuets and solemn quadrilles everybody climbed on the chairs and tables to see this pair perform, and when it was over De Trenis would define the art as "requiring the amalgamation of two dancers who ought to flow over the floor like over polished marble."

It seems, however, to have been some time before society took to waltzing, both men and thier partners being somewhat shy of an exhibition which was apt to end in a disaster, such as that which happened at Mme. Recamier's when an impetuous novice upset a chiffonier covered with precious porcelain.

Poor M. de Treis himself was never destined to see his invention popularized. He had turned so often and so swiftly in the mazes of his waltz that he lost his brain.

To Whiten Handkerchiefs.

To keep handkerchiefs a good color, instead of dampening them in the usual way before ironing try this method: In two quarts of tepid water put five drops of blue and a small piece of lump starck. Pour in a basin. In this mixture dip each handkerchief separately, thoroughly wetting it and then squeezing it as dry as possible. When all the handkerchiefs have been treated in this way sperad them out smotohly on a clean cloth or towel until they can be ironed.

Threats.

I consider it am ark of great prudence in a man to abstain from threats or any contemptuous expressions, for neither of these weaken the enemy, but threats make him more cautious, and the other excites his hatred and a desire to revenge himself.—Machiavelli.

Scratches on Furniture.

Where small scratches appear on highly polished furniture, do not attempt to varnish the surface or you will ruin the piece. Instead, dip a small camel hair brush in shellac varnish and cover only the blemish. It will make a decided improvement.

Queer World.

The Man of Ease—When I compare the one or two creditors I have with the millions and millions of people to whom I owe nothing, I wonder why in the world those fellows make such a confounded fuss about it.—Fliegende Blaetter.

Daily Thought.

Half the world is on the wrong scent in the pursuit of happiness. They think it consists in having and getting and in being served by others. It consists in giving and serving others.—Henry Drummond.

Too Suggestive.

Dusty Rhodes—Weary use ter jest about live on celery an' lettuce, but he's quit eatin' 'em now altergether.

Happy Harry—How is dat?

A Tale of the Cape Cod Fisher Folk

Joseph C. Lincoln

Martin got down from the window seat, moving stiff and lame.

"You're right, Sol," says he. "We are ungrateful beasts. I'll chop that wood."

"Hold on, old man," breaks in his chum. "You sha'n't be the only game sport. I'll match you for the job."

So they matched cents and Van Brunt got stuck. He yanked on his hat and coat and went out, banging the door. Hartley tackled the cook-stove again. 'Twas time to be thinking of supper, if we was going to have any.

Van was gone a long time and he come in soaked with sweat and rain and broke up generally. The wood looked like it had been chewed. I cal'late they don't do much chopping in the Street.

He slatted himself into a chair, wet clothes and all. Then he commenced to cuss the island and everything that grew or moved on it.

"What we ever came to this lonesome fag end of creation for, anyway," says he, "is—"

"What?" I hollers. "I don't understand you. You can't mean—what place are you talking about?"

"This place. This sand-scoured, blown out heap of desolation. Ozone Horsefoot Bar island, or whatever you call it."

"Well!" says I. "Are you crazy? Mr. Van Brunt, I've heard you yourself say that this island was all that's lovely."

"Oh, shut up!" he snaps.

"Jolliest old ark you ever saw," I went on, quoting from memory. "'Air to breathe, veranda to set on, ozone by the keg. Man alive, it's Paradise!'"

He ripped out an order for me to go somewheres as far away from Paradise as a feller could think of.

Supper was ready by seven. All we had to eat was a hunk of dry cornbread and two eggs. Oh, yes! and the tea. Hartley biled some tea that was a kind of herb mush. Strong and thick enough for a stick to stand up straight in. And there wa'n't clean dishes to go around, so some of 'em had to be washed.

I was having a fairly good time. Wood must be chopped again and they matched cents. Blessed if Van didn't get the short end, as usual. His talk was pretty nigh pitiful. It would have brought tears to a mule's eyes; I know it did to mine. The sight of Martin's upsetting the tea-kettle and getting next door to scalded was the only thing that comforted him.

He got a letter out of his pocket and went to reading it. The envelope dropped on the floor. It had printing on one corner and Hartley happened to glance at it. Then he tiptoed up behind his chum and peeked over his shoulder.

"Ed Van Brunt!" he sings out. "What's that you've got there?"

T'other Twin jumped and looked scared. He stuffed the letter back into his pocket.

"It's nothing," says he, stuttering. "Nothing but an old letter."

"It's a broker's letter," says Hartley. "You villain, you've been speculating!"

First off, Van Brunt was for denying everything. But 'twas no use. His chum had read the letter.

"You've been trading in stocks," he says, solemn. "You, that have sworn over and over again never to touch the market! You!"

"I'm mighty sorry, Martin," begs Van. "It was a miserable cheap thing to do. I don't know what you must think of me, old man. But, you see, it got so deadly dull here, and when I saw the Post that day, it said that Tea Lead was a good purchase. I wrote Smythe and he—"

"Tea Lead?" breaks in Hartley. "Have you been buying Tea Lead?"

"Yes I have. I'm carry a pretty good load of it, too, worse luck. Scudder has been bringing my letters and telegrams, and now that he doesn't come, why—"

"Wait a minute! Has Scudder been looking out for your wires and orders?"

"Yes, he has. Oh, I've played you mean and low enough, Martin. Might as well make a clean breast of it, though it will probably smash our friendship. I've paid Scudder three dollars a day to attend to things and say nothing to you. It's—"

Hartley didn't seem to hear nothing but the last sentence. Now he interrupted.

"Three dollars!" he says, low. "Three dollars! Why, the confounded grafter's been charging me five!"

And there it was! The cat out of the bag and both Heavenly Twins tarred with the same brush. That's what Nate's secrets and the talks behind the barn, and all, had meant. Van Brunt had been bucking the Tea Lead deal ever since he read the Post that day, and Martin had begun after his row with Agnes. And both of 'em bribing Nate Scudder to keep his mouth shut.

First they was provoked and mad at themselves and each other. Then they got to laughing.

"Whew!" says Van, wiping his forehead; "you and I came here to rest and break off from business worry. And I've worried more in the last month than I have before since my big deal. It's hard to teach old dogs new tricks, isn't it, Martin?"

"You're dead right, old chap," says Hartley.

They was going to turn in soon after this, but when they went upstairs they found the rain had leaked in through the ell roof and their feather beds was sopping wet. Down they come again, mad clean through and calling Marcellus' heirloom everything but a nice place.

"You'd better set down and rest yourselves a spell," says I. "It'll do you good. I'm sorry I ain't been able to help you more to-day, but there's one thing I can do; I can help you do what you call 'improve your minds.' I'll read you some out of that Natural Life book. Hand it to me, will you?"

Van jumped for the book. But he didn't hand it to me. Not much! He drew back his arm and banged that book into the fireplace so hard that I thought 'twould knock the bricks out at the back.

"Well!" says I, my mouth opening like a clam shell. "Well! The Natural Life!"

"The Natural Life be d——d!" says Edward Van Brunt.

And Martin Hartley says "Amen."

CHAPTER XVII.

Across the Bay.

"Martin, says Van Brunt, "I guess it's the only safe way. I'll go out on the next train."

We was at the dinner table when he said it. 'Twas one o'clock of the day after the Natural Life sermon went up in smoke. The weather was still pretty mean, the sky being all clouded over and the sea running high. But it had stopped raining and the gale seemed to be petering out. I was a whole lot better and was able to turn out and work.

I had my hands full that morning, too. All three of us was close to starvation, after 24 hours of short rations, and it took some time to get us filled up. Then I had the pig and hens to see to. The poor critters' lives had been more Natural even than ours—they hadn't had nothing to eat. The pig was in particular trouble. The rain had turned his pen into a sort of lake and he was playing Robinson Crusoe on a seaweed island in the middle of it. The way he grunted for joy when I looked over the fence was human—yes, sir, human.

Scudder hove in sight about ten and the Heavenlies fairly fell on his neck when he stepped out of the dory. But they warn't so happy when he'd spun his yarn. It seemed that the gale had blown down the telegraph poles and tangled up the wires and no messages could get through either way, and wa'n't likely to for two or three days.

'Twas that that upset the Twins. The Tea Lead market might be tied up in a knot, for what they knew, and their "friends" in the Street might be robbing 'em right and left. I picked up from their talk that now was the most ticklish time, something about "passing a dividend," or the like of that. So that's what they argued about at the dinner table; and it was decided that Van should go to New York right off and pick up what might be left after their chums and the rest of the forty thieves had got through shaking the contribution box.

"I'll leave at once," Van says; "and be in town to-morrow morning. If all goes well I'll be back here next day. Meanwhile, you, Martin, can be arranging matters with Scudder."

He meant arranging for our quitting Ozone island for good. They was as anxious now to get out of "Paradise" as they had been to move into it. If I mentioned a word of Natural Life they all but threw things at me.

I expected for sure that they'd lick Nate Scudder for charging his dry-season rates for secret keeping. But they never mentioned it to him. When I spoke of it to Van Brunt, he laughed.

"Oh, Scudder's all right," he says. "He had a corner in secrets and squeezed the shorts, that's all. That's legitimate. Scudder has a talent of his own."

"Yes, and he's making it ten talents in a hurry, like the feller in Scripture," says I.

"Well, he doesn't hide it in a napkin, anyway," laughs Van.

"No," says I. "I believe he uses one of Huldy Ann's stockings."

About three o'clock we got into the skiff, the three of us, and rowed to the main. 'Twas a hard wet row. I judged the gale wa'n't all over yet. We walked up as far as Nate's and there he was waiting in his buggy to drive Van Brunt to the Wellmouth depot. Martin and Van said good-by and had a final pow-wow over the Tea Lead.

"Good-by" says I. "Ain't got any real gilt-edged expensive secrets you want kept while you're gone, have you? I'd like to squeeze a short or two, myself."

You ought to have seen Nate Scudder bristle up and glare at me. But his passenger only laughed as usual.

"No," he says, "not a one. My conscience is clear. But I may unearth a few while I'm away."

Well, he did. But not the kind he expected.

I had to step into Nate's house to get a few eggs. Our own hens was too weighted down under the Natural to be working overtime. Huldy Ann had the remnants of a nicked blue set of dishes that was handed down from her great aunt on her grandmother's side, and she thought maybe Hartley'd be interested at a dollar a nick. It took so long to make her believe he wa'n't, that we wasted an hour or more there. When we got to the hill by the beach 'twas 'most five o'clock.

"The wind's hauled clear around," says I. "We ain't had all the dirty weather yet. This'll be a bad night in the bay."

Just then from behind us come the hattling of a wagon and the thumping of a horse's hoofs. Somebody was driving our way like all get out.

"Who in time—?" I says. "Runaway, ain't it?"

But 'twas no runaway. In another minute, a horse all lather, hauling a buggy all mud, comes bouncing over the hummocky road and down the hill. A girl was driving it.

"Whoa!" she screams, shrill. The horse stopped like he was glad of the chance.

"Eureka Sparrow!" I sings out. "What in the name of gooiness—?"

'Twas Eureka, and the team was the one that the Fresh Airers had hired for the season. The girl looked as if she'd been through the war. She had a shawl pinned 'round her, but it had slipped down 'most to her elbows, and her hat was over on the back of her neck.

"What's the matter?" I asks. "Is Dewey—"

"Dewey's all right," she says, leaning from the buggy. "It's little Dennis—Redny. He's awful sick—and—where's Mr. Van Brunt?"

"Gone to New York," says Hartley, stepping up to the wheel. "What is it? Tell me about it."

She was almost crying. "The poor little feller," she says, "he was took this morning. Pains, and such suffering. We sent for Dr. Bailey, and he was sick in bed himself. Then James drove over for Dr. Penrose, and he'd gone up to the city to a medical society meeting. There wa'n't nobody left but that new doctor at West Eastwich, Dr. Duncan, and nobody likes him. I wouldn't have him to a sick cat. He says it's appendi—appendi—something or other."

"Appendicitis?" asks Hartley.

"Yup. That's what he says. And he wants an operation to-morrow. And Miss Agnes don't trust him, and she's all upset. She thinks more of that boy—! And she sent me for Mr. Van Brunt, and—"

"Sol," asks Martin, quick. "Is this new doctor a good one?"

"No, no!" says I. "If he said I had diphthery I'd be sure 'twas gout. And there ain't another doctor nowheres around."

"There's one," says Eureka, "if we could only get him. Miss Talford read in the paper day before yesterday that Dr. Jordan, the big sturgeon—"

"Surgeon," says I.

"All right, surgeon then. He's at the Wapatomac house for a week. But he probably wouldn't come and the telegraph wires are down and nobody thought to write in time. And that Dr. Duncan thing, he says he'll operate to-morrow morning. If he does he'll kill the boy, just as he done to Emeline Macomber's child. What shall we do? Poor Miss Agnes! Can't nobody help her?"

"How can I get to Wapatomac?" asks Martin, sharp and quick.

"You can't," says I. "Not in time to get the doctor. He must reach Eastwich on that morning train or 'twill be too late. The last train has gone to-night. There ain't another till eight o'clock to-morrow. If you took that 'twouldn't reach Wapatomac till ten, and that's no good."

We was silent for a second. Then Eureka jumped up in the buggy and clapped her hands.

"You can get him!" she cried, her black eyes snapping sparks. "Oh, you can!"

"How?" Martin and me said together.

She pointed towards Ozone island.

"The sailboat!" she said. "The Dora Bassett! Sail over in her. Then he'll come on the morning train."

I swung around and looked at the waves and the clouds. Wapatomac was clear across the bay miles and miles away. And a night like this was likely to be!

"Lord!" says I. "It's crazy! We'd never live—"

But Martin Hartley was already half way to the skiff. Of course he didn't know the risk, and I did, but—well, there.

AFTER LIVELY DEBATE RAISE ASSESSOR'S PAY

Failure on the part of the Councilmanic finance committee to hold regular meetings caused a spirited debate at the June meeting of the Common Council, last night, when Mr. Hibbard attempted to secure the adoption of a report from Corporation Counsel Marsh relative to the payment of C. M. Meeker's bill amounting to $4,953.64. Mr. Marsh approved the bill, but his resolution provided that it should not be paid until the contractor furnish the city with satisfactory affidavits regarding any claims against him.

This action was the result of claims that have been presented to the city against Mr. Meeker, one from Ernest T. Hand, for $500 being received last night, he having furnished the contractor with sand for the brick pavement work and claiming that Mr. Meeker had refused payment.

The discussion began when Mr. Mygatt wanted to know whether the resolution from Mr. Marsh had been before the finance committee, of which he is a member. Mr. Hibbard's declaration that it was from the corporation counsel and was all right, did not satisfy him and he protested against action on the matter unless considered by the committee. He wanted it referred back to the committee. He declared he did not propose to have such things presented to the Common Council without having definite knowledge concerning them. The discussion became so animated that at the request of some of the members a recess was taken. When the session was resumed the resolution was adopted.

There was another lively debate when Mr. Hibbard offered a resolution giving H. C. Van Emburgh, one of the city assessors, $225 for a year's work in taking care of the official maps of the city, correcting them to date and indicating all new buildings since last year. The resolution was offered in connection with the provision that the maps be readopted, according to the annual custom.

Last year Mr. Van Emburgh received $200 for the work, and Mr. Mygatt could not understand why he should receive extra money now, when there was apparently no more to be done.

Mr. Hibbard seemed to have the idea that Mr. Van Emburgh was to receive $125 and for some reason did not realize that the resolution carried with it an appropriation for another $100. Mr. Suydam moved that the resolution be referred back to the committee and the motion prevailed, Mr. Buxton alone voting in the negative.

It was then explained by Mr. Buxton that the action would delay the work of making assessments as the maps could not be corrected to date, whereupon efforts were made to take another vote so that the resolution could be passed. Mr. Buxton declared that inasmuch as the resolution was in the hands of the committee any member could report it out again, but this proposed action met with protests from Mr. Mygatt and Mr. Suydam. Mr. Buxton insisted on maintaining his stand and Mr. Mygatt appealed from his decision. Then an effort was made to take a vote as to whether the chair should be upheld in its decision. Some of the members refused to vote, claiming that they did not understand the situation.

After continued discussion, Mr. Suydam finally succeeded in having the matter reconsidered, and Mr. Hibbard again introduced the resolution and it was carried unanimously.

BISHOP O'CONNOR TO CONFIRM CLASS TODAY

In preparation for the bi-annual administration of the sacrament of confirmation, 162 children received Holy Communion at 8 o'clock mass in St. Mary's church this morning. They have been under instruction from Fathers Bogan and Westman for the past three months and all but eight were successful in the catechism examination.

The confirmation will be administered by Bishop O'Connor in St. Mary's church at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Beside those who passed the examination this morning, eight other children and twenty-four adults who formed a class last year, will also be confirmed. The number of applicants is much in excess of previous ceremonies of this nature.

REVISE BLDG. ORDINANCE URGES MAYOR C. J. FISK

Failure on the part of the fire and building committee to revise the city building ordinance, as suggested by Mayor C. J. Fisk early in the year, called forth a message from the chief executive at the June meeting of the Common Council, last night. He urged that immediate steps be taken to properly revise the ordinance and bring it up to date, and if necessary have a special committee appointed to do the work. He also suggested that $500 be appropriated to secure proper advice on the proposed changes. The message, which follows, was referred to the fire and biulding committee:

In my annual message of January first, I called your attention to the report of the building inspector and suggested that some prompt action be taken in regard to his recommendation for revision of the building ordinance, stating that the present building ordinance was most excellent at the time it was adopted and up to the present time has been a great benefit to the city but what was all right twelve or fourteen years ago, today needs revision to bring it up to date and keep pace with the improvements and new conditions in the building line.

Five months of the year have passed and as yet no steps have been taken in regard to this very important matter. In order that this work may be done properly requires a great deal of thought and attention and the city should receive some expert advice in order to prevent, as far as possible, mistakes.

I therefore recommend that the Council appropriate out of any unappropriated funds, the sum of $500 for the purpose of securing the proper advise and that the Fire and Building Committee be requested to take up this matter and give it very prompt and serious consideration. Should this committee for any reason not have the time to give the attention that it demands, I recommend that you appoint a special committee for that prpose, as it is one of the most important matters the Council should consider and one that should be settled before the end of the year.

words are true, we must believe that the Christ power and the Christ spirit were never withdrawn from this world. Jesus went unto the Father, into a better understanding of divine law whereby he did his mighty works upon the earth, and by virtue of which those who believe on him were to do not only the works that he did, but greater. Here, I say, is Jesus' great commandment to his disciples. Christian Scientists are not responsible for it. Mrs. Eddy did not write it. We are not responsible for it, but we are responsible, together with all other professing Christians, for either accepting or rejecting the plain teachings.

"Often when Jesus healed a sick person He said to him in substance: "Go and sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto you." He evidently recognized a connection between some kind of sin this man had been committing and the sickness which was upon him. In recognizing the fact that sin was the cause of much of the sickness of His time, to say the least, Jesus was only recognizing that of which we are bound to take notice today, if we take notice of anything.

"Having thus briefly referred to the causes of sickness and its consequences, what shall we say of the real remedy therefor? Can we hope for final and radical healing of sickness and disease resulting directly or indirectly from the causes referred to, through any power or efficacy contained in inanimate drugs? Can the surgeon's knife cut out wrong mental conditions or remove wrong appetites and passions? The utmost that is claimed for it is that it may in some cases remove the physical effects of these. In saying this, I wish to cast no reflections upon the professions of medicine and surgery. From their standpoint they are doing the best they can. Their purpose is right, for it is to alleviate human suffering and stay the ravages of diseases. But can inert drugs and medicines or the surgeon's knife really heal diseases which are the result of wrong thoughts, wrong mental conditions, or wrong habits of thinking?

"In speaking of sin and its consequences, we do not wish to be understood as saying that all who get sick are sick as the result of any conscious or willfull wrong-doing on their part, for some of the best people in the world seem to suffer most, some of the most refined and sensitive natures seem to succumb most rapidly to the ravages of disease; but what we do wish to be understood as saying, is, that we are all suffering in greater or less degree as the result of long ages of wrong human conditions or human error; long ages of living too far away from God and his divine law; long ages of too great failure to study and understand and apply the teachings of the Bible, and especially the teachings of the great Founder of the Christian religion. Hence the need of the establishment of that church whose purpose and mission are to 'reinstate primitive Christianity and its lost element of healing.' This is the purpose of the Christian Science church. This is the single life-purpose of the Discoverer and Founder and Leader of Christian Science, Mary Baker G. Eddy.

"May we not fairly ask our friends of all Christian churches: If it is right to do or to undertake to do a part of the works which Jesus said must be done by those who believe on him, is it not right in a greater measure to do, or to undertake to do all of such works?

"Christian Scientists do not claim to be able at this period to do all the works that Jesus and some of his diciples did, but they do sincerely claim to be making an honest and united effort in that direction. And even thus far their labors have been crowned with such wondrous and gratifying success that they may well be encouraged to go on and on in the Christ way, with the full hope and expectation and knowledeg that if they are true to their sacred trust, sooner or later there shall be accomplished here upon this earth all of the gerat works that Jesus did and taught his disciples to do, and through them the whole world al,l the nations thereof. Not only so, but the greater works of which he prophesied shall also be likewise accomplished."

WHY NOT A VAN ARSDALE SHOE?

My Shoes and Oxfords for men have more style in them this year than ever before, and there isn't a well dressed man hereabouts who won't welcome the chance to buy an Oxford closely modeled after the best custom-made Shoes for $4.00. I have the styles and shapes this season which will surprise the man who isn't a regular patron of VanArsdale's.

FOURTEEN N.P.H.S. PUPILS TO RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Supervising Principal Krebs today announced the list of graduates of the North Plainfield High School in the class of 1908. This is the first graduating class made up entirely of four year pupils.

The graduation exercises this year will be held at the New Plainfield theatre, Friday night, June 19. Rev. Charles L. Mead, of Newark, will be the speaker. The list of graduates with the diploma designation of each pupil, follows:

Agnes Murray Cooley, classical; Edna Catherine Swain, classical; Ethel Mildred Webster, modern languages; Mary Louise Andrews, modern languages; Roberta Mildred Fountain, modern languages; Ida Leontine Engelhardt, modern languages; Helen Fuller Parsons, modern languages; Edna Dorothy Doughty, modern languages; Lulu Mae Acken, commercial; Rebecca Thompson Kline, general; Fred Hillman McClintock, classical; Eldon Davidson Miller, modern languages; Clarence Runyon Steiner, general; William Everett Day, general.

Y. M. H. A. Elect Officers.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association, incorporated, elected these officers at a business meeting last night: President, Samuel Rothberg; vice-president, Harris Siegal; secretary, Henry Rosenbaum; treasurer, Herman Mann; sergeant-at-arms, Morris Rosenbaum. Closing exercises of the Bible School will be held on Sunday, June 14, at the Synagogue on New street. Several noted speakers will attend and a social time will follow.

No New Fire House Now.

Believing that there was still a possibility of obtaining an appropriation for the erection of the proposed East End fire house Mr. Hibbard, was successful in getting a recess of the Common Council, last night, to discuss the question. It was decided not to undertake the improvement until after the proposed ordinance calling for an issue of bonds for street improvements is disposed of.

To Enforce Spitting Ordinance.

The North Plainfield Board of Health ruled at its meeting last night that the anti-spitting ordinance be strictly enforced by the North Plainfield police. The police will also put the "kibosh" on some scavengers' wagons, which leak and will take special precautions against the careles transportation of garbage through the borough streets.

Science Away Off.

"The disease known as eczema," said the medical college instructor ti his class, "is caused by an excess of salt in the blood."

"I am afraid there is some mistake about that," put in a student in the back row.

"How so?" asked the instructor.

"Why, I know a chap that's always had eczema bad and he's the freshest person you ever saw."—Chicago News.

Mental Struggle.

"A great struggle takes place in a woman's mind when another woman asks what her new gown cost," remarked the thoughtful thinker.

ON EVE OF HORSE SHOW

Valuable Equines from Out of Town Have All Arrived for Prize Exhibit.

ENTRY LIST CLOSE TO 500.

Special Exhibit on Saturday Morning to Facilitate Judging—Time for Appearance of Classes.

The gentleman who gives advance information on the weather having stated that clear skies will prevail for the remaineder of the week, nothing now stands in the way of complete success for the fifth annual horse show of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club which begins tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. With an entry list close to 500 and the pick of the blue ribbon horses and ponies in the various classes, it promises to be the greatest exhibition of equine aristocrats outside of Madison Square Garden or St. Martin's Green. All the boxes and auxiliaries have been taken and the sale of reserved seats is exceptionally brisk. La Vere's band will furnish music at all the sessions.

At the first compilation of entries it was thought that morning sessions would have to be held on all three days of the show but it has since been found that this will be necessary only on Saturday. The judging will start at 10 o'clock and close in time for lunch before the regular afternoon program commences. Holders of tickets for this day can attend both sessions without extra cost. Tomorrow and Friday the first calls for entrance will be given at 1 o'clock.

A second special train bearing horses belonging to Judge W. H. Moore, Reginald Vanderbilt and Paul Sorg reached the city this afternoon. It came through from Philadelphia where all the animals competed last week and brought also many thousands of dollars worth of vehicles to be seen in the ring with the harness classes. Special passenger trains will leave New York for the convenience of show attendants on all three days, at 12 o'clock from Liberty street and 11:50 from Twenty-third street. The Arlington avenue trolley line passes the south gate of the grounds.

Beside the competition that will naturally take place between the Vanderbilt, Moore, Hooley, Watson and Sorg horses, keen interest has been aroused in the announcement that Sidney Halloway will bring all his hunters and jumpers to the exhibition. They are considered the finest string in the country and are generally ridden by the owner, an expert in putting horses over high barriers.

The following list of judges has been announced: Roadsters, Rensselaer Weston and Theodore Frelinghuysen, New York; harness horses and ponies in harness, James G. Marshall and Louis Haight, New York; saddle horses and ponies under saddle, Joseph Larocque, Jr., Bernardsville; Louis Haight, New York; hunters and jumpers, H. L. Herbert, New York; veterinary judge, Dr. E. R. Voorhees, D. V. S., Somerville. The horse show committee is composed of R. A. Fairbairn, chairman; W. J. Buttfield, George Mellick, Charles W. Smith, Daniel Runkle, Edwin S. Hooley, Lewis E. Waring, Lewis G. Timpson and Harry L. Finch.

Following is the time-schedule for each day of the show as announced in the official program by the club:

Thursday.

Class 14—Three pairs harness horses (novice), 1:00 p. m.; Class 16, three pairs harness horses (novice), 1:10 p. m.; Class 35, six saddle horses (novice), 1:20 p. m.; Class 9, nine pairs harness horses, 1:35 p. m.; Class 26, five ponies in harness, 1:50 p. m.; Class 55, six horses and runabouts (local), 2:00 p. m.; Class 22, four pairs horses (Lawson cup), 2:15 p. m.; Class 1, six roadsters (maidens), 2:30 p. m.; Class 4, fourteen harness horses, 2:45 p. m.; Class 31, nine saddle horses, 3:10 p. m.; Class 28, seven horses, shown to Victoria, 3:30 p. m.; Class 33, six ladies' saddle horses, 3:45 p. m.; Class 2, four pairs of roadsters, 4:00 p. m.; Class 20, seven tandems, 4:15 p. m.; Class 44, seven hunters or jumpers, 4:35 p. m.; Class 42, ten ladies' hunters, 5:00 p. m.; Class 25, combination saddle and harness horses, 5:30 p. m.

Friday.

Class 47, five pairs harness horses (local), 1:00 p. m.; Class 7, six pairs harness horses, 1:15 p. m.; Class 13, nine harness horses (novice), 1:30 p. m.; Class 36, ten saddle horses (novice), 1:50 p. m.; Class 46, ten harness horses (local), 2:15 p. m.; Class 27, eight ponies in harness, 2:40 p. m.; Class 32, eight saddle horses, 2:55 p. m.; Class 19, five tandems, 3:15 p. m.; Class 23, nine harness horses (Blue Book Cup), 3:30 p. m.; Class 5,

SELECTING SITE FOR P. O.

Method of Choosing Location for Building Here Announced by Treasury Dept.

FOLLOWING THE REGULATIONS.

Bids Will Be Advertised for in a Local Paper—Just How the Government Proceeds.

Now that the $100,000 appropriation for a Federal building for Plainfield seems assured, inasmuch as the bill passed by Congress now awaits the President's approval, many inquiries are being made by local property owners and business men interested in the upbuilding of the town as to how a site is selected. For the benefit of the local public, The Daily Press has obtained an official statement of the methods employed by the Treasury Department in securing such sites for public buildings.

The statement follows:

Upon the enactment of a law authorizing the acquisition of a site for a Federal building the Treasury Department invites, through a local newspaper, proposals for the sale or donation of a suitable corner. This advertisement gives such information as to the dimensions of the site and the general requirements as will enable intelligent preparation of proposals.

The offers are opened in Washington at the time stated in the advertisement, and as soon tereafter as practicable an agent of the Department is sent to make a personal examination of the proposed locations and such others as he deems desirable. Upon this report, togeter with representations in writing from other sources, the Department selects the site and, if the property is to be acquired by purchase, accepts the offer of the successful bidder, subject to the conditions stated in the advertisement and the Attorney-General's approval of the title.

When ever the Department is unable to purchase an acceptable site at a reasonable price, or where acceptable title can not be secured by voluntary conveyance, a selection is made and the title acquired by condemnation proceedings, in which the price to be paid is judicially determined.

The buildings (if any) on the site should be reserved by the vendor, to be removed upon notice after payment for the land has been made. Generally, notice to move is not given until the construction of the Federal building is about to begin, if the vendor is willing, pending such removal, to pay a reasonable ground rent.

Plans for public buildings are taken up in the order in which the titles to the sites therefor are vested in the United States, and the contracts for their construction are let at as early a date as practicable.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY.

Bail Fixed at $300 Each in Cases of Italians Implicated in Stabbing Affray.

Frederick Periano and Loro Salvino, the two Italians implicated in the stabbing affray on Elm place, Sunday night, were arraigned before Judge Rinyon yesterday afternoon. They were charged with felonious assault and entered pleas of not guilty. Bail was fixed at $300 in each case. Periano, represented by Robert Newton Crane, secured the amount but Salvino is still locked up. Walter L. Hetfield is his lawyer.

John Mutti, the man who was stabbed, told the police at the hospital yesterday, that the fight was the outcome of a quarrel that had its beginning last summer and was renewed, after a speak-easy party in the borough Sunday afternoon.

Missionary Work in Review.

The review of devotional topics for the past eight months by Mrs. J. A. Chambliss formed the main exercise of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room. The subject for the devotional service was "Bible Characters, our Teachers and examples" and the comments of Mrs. Chambliss were full of interest and instruction. By request, Mrs. B. J. Shreve read the report of the work for foreign missions of the Baptist women of New Jersey, presented at the annual meeting held at New Brunswick May 7.

MISS WHITNEY'S RECITAL

Nearly 600 People Hear Piano Selections by Her Pupils at Truell Hall.

WM. N. SEARLES, JR., ASSISTS.

Newark Basso Cantante Sings Several Selections—Meritorious Work of Miss Whitney's Pupils.

Pupils of Miss May Vincent Whitney rendered a delightful program of piano music at Truell Hall last night, at the annual recital of the class. The ball-room of the hall was crowded with music-lovers, who came in great numbers; it is estimated that nearly six hundred people were at the hall for the recital, which ranks as the most successful of the class.

William Nelson Searles, Jr., basso cantante and precentor of St. Paul's church, Newark, assisted in the recital by his rendition of "Vision Fugitive" from Massenet's "Herodiade," and Bailey's "The Calm and the Storm," as well as two songs in the second part of the program. Mr. Searles has sung before Plainfield audiences several times, but his work last night was of exceptional merit, the selections being especially suited to his large range and establishing him as a most effective singer.

Of the pupils, Miss Frances Rittenhouse, who played selections from Chopin and Liszt, and Miss Muriel Collins, who rendered one of Chopin's ballads, deserve especial mention for their playing. Miss Helen George showed perfect appreciation in her two selections. The playing of the other pupils showed careful interpretation of the pices rendered. All the playing was from memory and played with accuracy and expression of careful instruction.

The rendition of "The Evening Star" from Tannhauser" by Miss Elizabeth Martin was one of the most enjoyable features of the progrom, which follows:

Andante from Sonaina Op. 4, No. 1, (Lichner); "Curious Story," (Heller), by Miss Dorothy Stelle; Berceuse, (Grieg), Octave Study in A, (Preyer), by Miss Martine Weeks; Rondo in F, (Clementi), "The Tulip," (Lichner), by Miss Mildred Burnett; Minuet in B Minor, (Schubert), by Miss Florence iDckerson; "Vision Fugitive" from "Herodiade," (J. Massenet), "The Calm and the Storm," (E. H. Bailey), by Mr. Searles, accompanied by Miss Whitney; "The Evening Star" from Tannhauser," (Wagner-Spindler), by Miss Elizabeth Martin; Berceuse, (Thome), Air de Ballet in G, (Chaminade), by Miss Mary Radford; Valse Chromatique, (Leschetizsky), by Miss Ethel Pryor; "The Ghost in the Chimney," (Kallak), Gavotte in B Flat, (Handel), by Miss Julia Rawley; "Oh, Promise Me," (De Koven-Rogers), Norwegian Bridal Procession Passing By, (Cheig), by Miss Marguerite Van Zandt; Romanze, (Orth), Valse Entraint, (Wachs), by Miss Edith Hamilton; Impromptu in F sharp, (Chopin), Le Regata Venazania, (Liszt), by Miss Frances Rittenhouse; "Forest Song," (Conradin Kreutzer), "Asthore," (H. Trotere), by Mr. Searles; "Hark, Hark the Lark," (Schubert-Liszt), Chromatique Valse, (Godard, by Miss Helpen George; Ballads in A Flat, (Chopin), by Miss Muriel Collins.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The social committee of the Young Women's Christian Association has sent out invitations for supper tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock to all members of the association. If through oversight, the name of any member has been omitted she is asked to accept a general invitation. This is the first social occasion which has been given exclusively for members. The committe in charge consists of Mrs. Elliot T. Barrows, Mrs. Frederick Andrews, Miss Marion McCutcheon and Mrs. William A. Conner.

More Murder Suspects.

Two more negroes have been lodged in the county jail at Somerville on suspicion that one of them may have been the party who murderously assaulted aged John Bussi at Mt. Bethel about a month ago.

Mrs. Bussi, who was badly injured at the same time, is recovering nicely and it is expected she will be able in a few days to see if she can identify her assailant.

Awaiting Trolley Improvements.

Those who are interested in the improvement of the trolley service on the local lines are wondering when the P. S. C. intends to install the turnout on West Fourth street, near Liberty, making it possible to operate the Netherwood cars through the business section of the city without transfer at the Watchung avenue stand.

INDEPENDENCE DAY RACES

Fair Acres' Association Completes Arrangements for Horse Races.

OUT OF TOWN HORSES ENTERED

Three Mile Steeple Chase and a Pony Race to Be Feature Events—Purses and Cups for Winners.

A combined race meet, under the auspices of the Fair Acres Riding and Driving Association will be held at the Plainfield Driving Park July 4, when a card of six races will be the attraction. Plans for this meet were formulated at a meeting of the association held last night at the Hotel Iroquois and purses amounting to $600 will be offered in the class events.

Local horse owners are taking great interest in the meet, and the out of town members of the association are ready to send in some formidable entries for the trotting and pacing events. The committee on entries is composed of Adam Blair, D. C. Smalley and Secretary Edwards of the association. The track at the Driving Prak will be put in first class condition for the racing and the grand stands will be repaired for the accommodation of a record-breaking crowd. Local horse owners will enter Plainfield's speediest animals in the various events and there will be entries from all parts of the State.

A feature of the card will be a three mile steeplechase, for a tankard valued at $50. There will be two mixed trot and pace events, in the 2:25 and 2:30 classes, the purses in each cases amounting to $150. A popular event will be the free for all, where a number of local horses are to compete for the purse of $150. The Independence Day Cup, valued at $50, will be the award in the mile flat race, and the Iroquois Cup, of equal value will go to the owner of the winner in the pony race, which has always proved such a popular event in previous meets.

Under the auspices of the association, a free-for-all race will be held at the Driving Park Saturday afternoon. No entry fee is to be charged for this event, and several out of town hors owners will send entries.

PLAINFIELDER SENTENCED TO SIX YEARS IN PRISON

Charles J. Wilbur, a resident of this city, was tried in the county court, this morning, and found guilty of a serious charge preferred against him by Mrs. Katherine Prosher, of Essex street, in behalf of her fourteen-year-old daughter, Violet Prosher. He was immediately arraigned before Judge Atwater and sentenced to six years at hard labor in State prison. His counsel, Robert Newton Crane, made an earnest appeal in behalf of the defendant that was taken in consideration.

In passing setence, Judge Atwater mentioned the gravity of the offense and stated that the maximum penalty is fifteen years and a fine of $2,000. Wilbur is forty years old and was employed for a time by a local slate roofer. He left the city just previous to the time the charge was made against him and was arrested at Asbury Park.

Douglas Curtis, alias Charles Curtis, and a dozen other fictitious names, the alleged check swindler who has been indicted on two counts of passing forged checks on the First National Bank, was arraigned in court and pleaded not guilty in each case. He was held in $4,000 bail for trial but no time was set.

Will Present Trophies.

Under the auspices of Company K an informal "snapper" dinner will be held in the armory at 320 West Front street, Monday night, June 8, immediately after the regular drill. The various trophies won during the recent indoor shooting season, will be presented to the winners by Major W. B. Martin, and short talks will be given by Captain W. K. Browning, Lieut. J. M. Lewis and others. Captain H. B. Kitchell, of the company, will be the toastmaster. In addition there will be an entertainment and an enjoyable time is anticipated.

Lost Woman Found.

Mrs. Lehmann, who formerly lived in the Mt. Bethel section of Somerset county wandered away from the home of her daughter in Jersey City last week, while in a demented condition, and was found yesterday roaming the streets of Somerville. She was lodged in the county jail by officer Koch. Her relatives were notified and her son-in-law came for her last night.

DECREASE IN DISEASES

Board of Health Reports Show That May was a Healthful Month.

BARBER SHOPS INSPECTED.

Nineteen Tonsors Get Licenses for Another Year—Population of City Gains Six.

According to the reports presented at the June meeting of the Board of Health yesterday, there was a decided decrease in the number of cases of communicable disease for the month of May. The epidemic of measles prevalent in the spring has subsided. The different diseases reported for the month ars as follows: Scarlet fever, 3; Diphtheria, 1; typhiod fever, 3; measles, 10; tuberculosis, 3; total, 20. One case of communicable disease was removed to the isolation ward at the hospital.

An inspection of all the drug stores, candy stores and places where ice cream is being manufactured or sold, was made, special attention being paid to the source of the milk and cream supply used in the manufacture of ice cream and the cleanliness of the conditions under which ice cream is made. The inspector reported that generally speaking all the places were found in good condition.

As all the barber shop permits expired on June 1, a thorough inspection was made of all the shops in the city. With one exception, all those applying for a renewal of their permits have complied with the requirements of the ordinance regarding barber shops, and the following permits were granted:

J. F. W. Bamberger, William Feiring, Joseph Clement, Charles G. Mann, P. J. Kreitling, Donato Di Lorando, Spencer Kelly, William C. Burns, Edward B. Maynard, Frank Trivigno, Michael J. Devine, Brown & Hill, William B. Randolph, Niccola Rocco, Charles Suhr, Antonio Brancati, T. A. Kurzhals, George Richter, and Alfred Seidel. The following barbers have failed to make application for a renewal of their permits: George Kesselring, James H. Bolling, Raffey Tozze and Carusq & Co., and they were given until June 15 to make application. Upon failure to do so their shops will be closed.

The application of W. T. Bowzer was laid on the table for one month, in order to give time for certain improvements to be made and the applications of D. J. Thompson and Cyrus W. Alton for permits to conduct barber shops were refused.

During May sixty-three samples of milk were analyzed, twenty-seven being taken from stores. The quality of the milk was good, but the bacteria, compared with the previous month, was high, due probably to the hot weather.

These plumber's bonds were ordered filed: A. S. Giles, J. J. Heidloff, Harry Taub, A. H. Enander, J. J. Leahy, Jacob Voehl, Jr., and D. W. Littell & Son.

These applications for permits to sell milk were granted:

Plainfield Milk and Cream Company, E. P. Gavin, W. W. Drake, Chris. J. Kelly, Swenson Brothers, William Olson, Claus Peterson, Charles F. Drake, Peter Rose, J. A. Herbermann, C. W. Squires, A. R. Phillips, P. J. Regan and Hiram Templin. To sell milk from stores: Mrs. Margentino, Metropolitan Grocery Company, S. Sharkey, F. J. Skinner, F. H. Firstbrook, P. Zimmerman, James Clawson, Soloman Mann, Thomas Callahan & Son, Kalmen Rottberg, Samuel Kline, C. O. Smith and W. W. Wilson.

The applications of Edward Coughlan, John I. Finley and John McCarthy were referred to the health officer with power. The application of Freeman Strait to collect garbage was laid on the table for a month and the application of George Becker for a renewal of his permit to carry on the business of scavenger, was granted. These returns were made to the office during May: Marriages, 12; births, 29; still-births, 1; deaths, 23; total, 75.

No Decision in Contract Case.

No decision has been given as yet in the contract case of the Ransom Concrete Company against C. M. Meeker, in which the company seeks to recover $225 for the rental of a concrete mixer. Judge Newcorn instructed counsel in the case to file briefs, and this has not been done yet. When it is Judge Newcorn will decide the case.

Spraying Shade Trees.

Under the direction of the Shade Tree Commission the work of spraying the trees has been started again and will be pushed as rapidly as possible throughout the city. Owners of property wishing their trees treated can have the work done by communicating with the commission.

WELCOME NEW SECRETARY

Y. M. C. A. Boys Greet Charles B. Batchelor, who Succeeds L. A. Soule Here.

HE OUTLINES HIS PLANS.

President J. W. Gavett and Charles R. Scott, of Newark, Also Speak at Reception of Welcome.

Welcoming Charles B. Batchelor, the new boys' secretary at the Y. M. C. A., who began his duties as successor to L. A. Soule at the local association today, sixty members of the boys' department turned out to a reception in the new secretary's honor at the Y. M. C. A. last night. As president of the boys' cabinet of the department, G. Stanley Robins made the formal address of welcome, assuring Mr. Batchelor of the suppor of the boys in his work here.

In his remarks in response to this speech, Mr. Batchelor said it was not his policy to talk of his plans at the outset, but to get right down to work and make the growth of the department speak for him. "In order to b successful in my work here," Mr Batchelor continued, "I want the co operation of each and every member of the department. I want every member of the department to regard me as a personal friend at all times There is an opportunity here to greatly increase the membership of the department, but in planning this growth, I look to the boys for support. I am still a boy myself and am here to get right in with the fellows and show them how to have the best kind of fun."

President Gavett, of the association, was another speaker, outlining the growth of the department and welcoming the new officer. State Secretary Charles R. Scott, of Newark, spoke briefly of the plans to organize a Jersey Coast association of the boys at the seaside for the summer months. He also spoke of Camp Wawayanda, the summer camp for association men.

During the evening the boys' department orchestra of ten pieces, rendered several selections. The program was in charge of Philip V. Van Arsdale. Refreshments were served by the boys' work committee of the Women's Auxiliary. The members of the committee were Mrs. J. W. Gavett, president, Mrs. Roger F. Murray, Mrs. Mary Jenkins and Mrs. C. E. Steiner.

Mr. Batchelor, who graduated from Columbia University in the class of 1906, comes to this city from the West Side Y. M. C. A., where he has been associate director in the boys' department.

MISS MARY MORAN BRIDE OF VINCENT CARROLL.

Miss May Moran, daughter of Mrs. Mary Moran, of Brook avenue, and Vincent Carroll, a firemen stationed at headquarters, were married in St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock this morning. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Miller in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The best man was William Parent while Miss Parent acted as bridesmaid.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother after which Mr. and Mrs. Carroll left for a wedding trip with Schenectady, N. Y., as the destination. They will be gone ten days and on returning will make their home with Mrs. Moran. The young couple received many handsome wedding gifts, incliding one from Mr. Carroll's fellow firemen.

Manual Training Exhibit.

An exhibition of the work done by the pupils in the manual training departments of the various city schools opened today at the Plainfield High School, where the exhibition is being held in the school gymnasium. The work includes the best that has been done by the pupils of all grades, from the kindergarten to the manual training class of the High School. The exhibition will continue through tomorrow and will be open evenings for the benefit of the parents of the pupils.

Relief Association Committees.

At a meeting of the North Plainfield Firemen's Relief Association held at borough fire headquarters last night, Chief Howard Woolston, as president, announced the following trustees for the coming year: Captain, Edmund H. Terry, David Allen and William Day. The visiting committee, composed of William McCullough, John McCullough and James Walker, was also named at the meeting.

Laying New Crosswalks.

City Engineer A. J. Gavett is preparing to lay a number of new crosswalks about the city, the stones for that purpose being those formerly in use in the business section of the city, where the brick pavement has been laid.

APPROVE SEWAGE SCHEME

Former Mayor Smalley and Mayor Townsend Endorse Big Joint Plant.

MR. FLORANCE INTERVIEWED.

New Brunswick's Chief Executive, However, Declines to Express Opinion Until Officially Notified.

Mayor Fisk's special message to the Common Council advocating an investigation of a scheme for a joint sewage disposal plant for Plainfield and the surrounding communities, as announced yesterday, has met with popular endorsement in both the city and the borough. His idea is that Plainfield should join forces with South Plainfield, North Plainfield, Scotch Plains, Fanwood, Dunellen, New Market, Lincoln, Bound Brook, Somerville, Raritan and New Brunswick in this movement. According to the scheme the plant would be located below New Brunswick and the sludge would be carried in scows to deep sea.

Former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, who advocated such a scheme during his last years as the head of North Plainfield's government, is enthusiastic over Mayor Fisk's message on the subject. In speaking of it today he said:

"The plan is all right but should be investigated before Plainfield spends any more money on its present plant and before North Plainfield signs that proposed agreement with Plainfield for the city to care for its sewage. Improvements to the Plainfield plant from time to time are only of a temporary nature and mean a heavy burden for the taxpayer. In my opinion the day is not far distant, considering our rapidly growing population in this section of the State, when this question must be solved once and for all.

"The most satisfactory solution of the vexing problem of sewage disposal," continued Mr. Smalley, "would be in the sensible and economical way that Mr. Fisk suggests. A joint plant for a large territory means less cost to all taxpayers concerned and the result would be more satisfactory all around. This plan has long been advocated by public men and I am glad to see Mayor Fisk revive it. You may depend upon it that if I can be of any service to Plainfield's mayor in this movement, he'll find me ready and willing. What is needed is action not words at this time and I believe in work and not talk."

Mayor Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield, today said "That is a bully scheme of Mayor Fisk's. I heartily approve of such a plan. From time to time more restrictions will be placed on various cities as to sewage disposal methods, and every year they will face new problems; therefore, I believe that Mr. Fisk has struck the right idea.

When Mayor W. Edwin Florance, of New Brunswick, was asked today what he thought of the plan he declined to make any statement at this time. "It would not be proper for me to express an opinion," said he, "before I am officially notified of the plan by the city of Plainfield."

The mayor's message was referred to the public affairs committee, of which Councilman Mygatt is chairman, by the city fathers on Monday night. It is understood that this committee will formally notify Mayor Florance.

BOY FISHEFMAN LANDS ALLIGATOR IN STONY BROOK.

While fishing in Stony Brook yesterday afternoon, Andrew Carney Jr., of A. L. Carney, of Lincoln place, son of A. L. Carney, of Lincoln place, landed a fourteen inch alligator with his hook and line. The reptile had been hooked like a fish and caused no end of surprise by its appearance when the boy reeled in. Andrew quit fishing right there and took his final catch home in state. He is planning to keep it as a pet.

Stories of how the 'gator came to be in the brook were rife in the borough yesterday, and some folks stated that they though they saw its ma, wandering around on the bank. It is most probable, however, that the little fellow escaped from some aquarium and has been lying dormant in the mud all winter long.

Rev. Dr. Johnson in Charge.

Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, acting pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will have charge of the preparatory service at the church on Friday night, and the elders will meet after the service to receive persons desiring to unite with the church. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed Sunday morning.

A CONVENTION PRIMER

Important Information Concerning Past and Coming National Political Conventions.

FIRST NATIONAL CONVENTIONS.

Were candidates for president and vice president always nominated at national conventions?

No. Previous to 1830 they were nominated largely by congressional caucuses or by state legislatures.

When and where were the first national conventions held?

At Philadelphia in September, 1830, the so called Anti-Masonic party held the first political national convention more than two years before the presidential election; but, instead of making nominations, it adjourned to meet in Baltimore Sept. 26, 1831, when William Wirt was nominated for president and Amos Ellmaker for vice president. The National Republicans met in national convention at Baltimore Dec. 12, 1831, and nominated Henry Clay for president and John Sergeant for vice president. The Democrats st met in national convention at Baltimore May 21, 1832, where Van Buren was nominated for vice president. Jackson was so unanimously accepted as the candidate for re-election that only a resolution was passed declaring that the convention "cordially concurred in the repeated nominations that General Jackson had received in various parts of the country for re-election as president."

Was any platform adopted at these conventions?

No. Following the conventions of the Anti-Masonic party and the National Republicans an address to the people was issued by each. The Democrats issued no address, but a resolution was passed declaring that "in place of a general address from this body" the delegations should address their respective constituents on the political issues of the day.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The "Doubtful Dunellen" Council will award the bid for street sprinkling at a special meeting to be held in the borough building tonight. At the regular meeting Monday night, the Dunellen fathers were thrown into confusion by the presentation of two bids for the street sprinkling, where only one was expected. M. A. Galligher's bid was $3.47 a day for the sprinkling, but John C. Dills had a bid in to do the work for $3.35. The shock of a second bidder was too much for the "Doubtful Dunellenites" and they adjourned to consider the important matter of awarding the bid at a special meeting. Councilman Starker brought about the adjournment by suggesting that the Council consult with Cook, of the Watchung Water Company and see if they couldn't get permission to draw water for the sprinkling wagon from any hydrant in the borough limits, instead of only one. Fearing that perhaps haste might be fatal in awarding the contract to the lowest bidder without careful consideration of the matter, the councilmen seized this opportunity for delay and may award the bid at the meeting tonight.

George Martin, who is a Polak, drank too much Monday night and was found in a helplessly "down and out" condition by Marshal Bambach late at night. Borough Recorder D. S. Campbell imposed a fine of $3 on the prisoner, which he paid to secure his freedom.

Boating and fishing are the favorite pastimes of the New Market villargers these June days, and bass and carp are filling many a fish basket. As usual, the small boy is making the biggest catches, and some heavy fish are being pulled in.

The mid-week service in the Presbyterian church tonight will be a service preparatory to the administration of the Holy Communion at the church next Sunday morning.

PERSONAL.

Miss Ida Backer, of Whitehouse, who has been visiting relatives here, has returned home.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chamblis, of Central avenue, is planning to spend his summer vacation in Europe.

Miss Estelle Jones, of Jersey City, who has been spending a few days with friends here, has returned.

Rev. W. L. Burdick, of Ashaway, R. I., who has been spending several days in town, has returned home.

Harrison Fahn, of North Plainfield, has returned from Asbury Park, where he enjoyed an outing for several days.

Clayton M. Nagle, the West Front street druggist, is spending a few days at his former home in Perth Amboy. He is accompanied by his family.

Miss Pauline Denton, of Washington avenue, will attend the commencement exercises at Brown University this month, at which time her brother, Arthur Denton will be graduated.

President R. I. Tolles, of the Common Council, and Mrs. Tolles are at Woodmont, Conn., where they were called a few days ago by the serious illness of Mr. Tolles' mother. In consequence he was unable to attend the June meeting of the Common Council Monday night.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The letter carriers connected with the Plainfield postoffice will begin their vacations about July 1. Each carrier will receive fifteen days off.

—Contractor C. M. Meeker has finished the concrete work on Watchung avenue and Second street for the small section of brick pavement to be laid there. This about completes his contract.

—William F. Walters, of West Fourth street, a member of Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will go to Richmond, Va., next Tuesday to attend the annual convention of the National Funeral Benefit Association of the order. He will be away a week.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Eastern Association of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, which convened here last week, will hold its next annual meeting at Shiloh.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, formerly of this city, but now of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, will address the Young People's Association at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Friday night.

The Elizabeth A. C., which will be the opponents of the Clinton Avenues at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, will come here with a strong lineup. It is expected that Longstaff, who pitches for Dickinson College, will be the slab artist for the county seat boys. He has held Princeton and Lehigh to four hits and Lafayette to five hits, besides pitching a twelve-inning game against Penn State. He has had numerous offers to play professional ball, but has refused. The visitors will lineup as follows: Egan, rf; McVicker, ss; Boyd, lf; Halbfoster, 3b; Kling, 1b; Meehan, 2b; Lloud, cf; Bruggy, c; Longstaff or Smith, p.

The Clinton Avenues will lineup as usual and Clifford Randolph will be right there to deliver the goods from the slab. He is in fine condition and has perfect control. Every member of the team is fit for a hard struggle and no doubt the contest will be the best of the season. In the first game with the Elizabeth A. C., the locals were defeated by one run, but the result on Saturday is quite likely to be different.

The Juniors will play Garwood on Saturday in consequence of the contest scheduled for last Saturday which had to be postponed on account of the rain. The game will be played at Garwood and Manager Walters says that he will occupy the box for his team.

The St. Louis Browns look stronger at third base with Ferris at that station than they ever have looked.

The New York Americans just at present are doing the best base running and the poorest fielding in their league.

Oldring of the Athletics is not likely to play again this season, while Seybold will be out of the game for another month.

The Western teams will visit the Polo Grounds this week, St. Louis being the first and followed in order by Pittsburg, Cincinnati and Chicago.

George Dovey does not think the Cubs wil cop again this year. The Phillies are the team which he considers as most likely for the pennant.

The New York Nationals have now won five straight, and that is pretty good work for a team which a week ago was being counted down and out.

Roy Hartzell has been killing the ball since he has been at short for the Browns in the absence of Wallace. One of his feats was five hits in one game.

In unexpected spurts and slumps, kaleidascopic changes of positions and general closeness this is the most uncertain and interesting baseball season within the memory of the average crank.

Neal Ball is as promising a shortstop as has broken into the big leagues in ten years. He has been making a good many errors lately, but there have been no dumb plays among them, and his earnestness, as much as his hitting, base running and sensational plays, has made him very popular on the hill. Nobody has been seen up there this season who can get from first to second as rapidly as Ball.

GOLF.

It will be regretted by all the members that Messrs. Henry L. Hall, Lewis G. Timpson and Frederic W. Butler have resigned as trustees of the house committee of the Plainfield Country Club. They comprise an invincible trio anywhere. They will devote their time to similar duties at the Watchung Hunt Club.

As chairman of the house committee of the Plainfield Country Club, Willard Wadsworth promises a number of social features during the season, including the Saturday night dinner dances.

"Marty" O'Loughlin was among the professionals who attended the annual meeting of the Eastern Golfer's Association held in New York on Monday.

Notwithstanding the resignations of several trustees of the Plainfield Country Club that organization has been fortunate in selecting good men as successors, who will devote their time and attention to making the organization a success.

The new plan of having several challenge trophies at the Park Golf Club, subject to challenge at any time, has aroused great interest on the part of the members, and the competition promises to be a successful one.

Court golf is the latest fad that has "caught on" with the members of the Essex County Country Club. This new addition to the club's attractions occupies ground formerly taken by one of the tennis courts and is within a few yards of the dining piazza. As may readily be imagined, court golf does not permit of any driving or full shots. A mashie and a putter will be quite sufficient, and the contestant, of course, will be permitted to use any style of golf ball he prefers.

Among the hazards noticed on this miniature course were a hedge, a bridge, a gate and a water hazard Only one hole has been placed, and that near the lower end, but as the contestants from various angles they really have to hole out twelve times before completing the round. On some of the holes, according to the rules, it is compulsory to use the mashie. One would naturally suppose that when the water hazard was reached the stunt would be to pitch over, but, on the contrary, the player is required to put across a narrow bridge. Taking it all in all, the innovation seems destined to become immensely popular, as it requires little walking, is interesting and is suited equally well to women or men.

The ninth annual championship tournament of the New Jersey State Golf Association will be held over the links of the Englewood Golf Club on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. There will be an eighteen hole medal play qualification round, with the first sixteen earning the right to continue for the title. There will be three other sixteens, and cups have also been offered for the beaten eights in every sixteen.

Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, is the present state champion, and he intends to defend his title. He is likely to be opposed by Max Behr and F. H. Thomas, Morris County; Oswald Kirkby and Murry Olyphant, Englewood; C. J. Sullivan and James A. Tyng, Baltusrol; C. W. O'Connor, Essex County, and Harold Wilcox, Montclair.

ATTACH CAR WITH FURNITURE.

The Butcher, the Baker, the Candlestick Maker Claimants Against Summit Trio.

Summit, June 3.—Livery stable proprietors, butchers, grocers, ice dealers and other business men beseiged the office of Justice of the Peace Benjamin P. Holmes yesterday, with claims aggregating several hundred dollars against Robert O'Shea, Frank O'Shea and Mary Stanton, all of whom reside at 14 Euclid avenue, and who are preparing to remove, it is claimed, to New Rochelle.

Attachments were issued and a freight car, which was being loaded with the furniture in the freight yard, is held up by a number of the attachments. John J. Walsh, a local expressman, who removed part of the furniture for O'Shea from the house to the car was arrested on a warrant sworn out by O'Shea, charging the truckman with grand larceny. Walsh it is charged, after moving two loads of the furniture, was discharged by O'Shea, who engaged another truckman to finish the job. Walsh thereupon removed a billiard table, which he had placed in the freight car, being part of the property of O'Shea, to his office in Springfield avenue, after which he is alleged to have placed padlocks on the car, preventing the truckman whom O'Shea had engaged from loading the car.

After O'Shea had settled with Walsh for $25 the latter replaced the billiard table in the freight car, when he was arrested. Police Justice Hicks placed the truckman under $100 bail for the grand jury.

COUNCIL'S STRENUOUS SESSION.

Westfield Borough Fathers' Meeting Ends with Resignation of One of the Members.

Westfield, June 3.—After a strenuous meeting Monday night the local Council moved to extend to January 1 the time when the building ordinance of the town should go into effect. The members of the Council were divided on the appointment of an inspector, and during the discussion objections to the ordinance itself were raised, and as a compromise, and to defer the appointment of an inspector, the motion to defer the operation of the ordinance was passed.

Following this, the appointment of some one to audit the town accounts came up, and as none of the members were in any too good humor there was a split on the selection of an accountant. During the discussion Rev. R. H. Middleditch, councilmen from the Third ward, sprang from his seat and resigned as a member of the Council. Mayor Alpers refused to act on the resignation at that time. The Council adjourned without settling the question of auditor.

CORPORATION TAX LEVY

Despite an Increase of 264 Concerns There is a Falling Off of $107,776.

WATER IS SQUEEZED OUT.

The Life Insurance Companies Yield State Total of $361,103 —Some Interesting Figures.

The extent of the New Jersey's activity in chartering corporations, which pay to her annually taxes on the stock issued and outstanding, was learned from the filing of a schedule of the State Board of Assors with Comptroller West today, which shows 6,445 miscellaneous corporations, against which there is an aggregate tax of $2,457,771.57. This amount will be materially increased by subsequent schedules, which will be filed from time to time as reports are received.

While there is an increase of 264 in the number of corporations reported for taxation over the list of last year, there is a falling off of $107,776.47 in the amount of taxes levied, and this falling off is declared here to be due to squeezing of water out of many large concerns. The assessors said today that this meant that the taxes assessed this year would undoubtedly be paid to the largest percentage, and thus net the State more actual cash than when concerns reported with much water to have their taxes reduced before taxes were paid.

Most of the companies are taxed upon the basis of the issued and outstanding capital stock, at the rate of one-tenth of 1 per cent. up to $3,000,000; one-twentieth of 1 per cent. from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000, and $50 for each million above five million. The schedule shows 244 companies taxed on an issued capital of $3,000,000 or more, 135 on a capital of $10,000,000 or more, 29 on a capital of $100,000,000 or more. The latter are United States Steel Corporation. $868,583,600; Amalgamated Copper Company, $153,880,000; Rock Island Company, $150,000; United States Leather Company, $125,164,600; International Harvester Company, $120,000,000; International Mercantile Marine Company, $120,000,000; American Tobacco Company, $118,931,500.

A glance at the list of big corporations chartered in this State shows that the really great combinations of capital in the industrial world own New Jersey charters, and a glimpse of their magnitude is gotten when it is understood that of the premilinary schedule filed today, 244 companies alone pay a tax on an sisued capital stock of $3,000,000 or more, 135 corporations on a capital stock of $10,000,000 or more, twenty-nine on a capital stock issue of $50,000,000 or more and seven on a capital stock issue of $100,000,000 or more.

Taking the 244 corporations that have a stock issue of $3,000,000 and above, they represent the enormous actual stock issue of $6,198,330,869, the tax of which aggregates $1,207,354.17. And this is stock issued for dollar value or property value, not the authorized stock issue of the corporations. And this does not include the capital stock issues of the 6,192 companies which have an issued capital of less than $3,000,000 each.

The four life insurance companies chartered by the State are taxed $361,103.79, this being the basis of 1 per centum on the surplus and thirty-five one hundredths of 1 per cent. on the gross premiums. Three express companies pay a tax of $3,966.63 and one electric light company a tax of $33.66.

CORONER'S INQUEST BEGINS.

Inquiry Started in the Case of Man Shocked to Death at Princeton.

Princeton, June 3.—An inquest was begun yesterday afternoon in the death of Ernest Packer, who was killed recently by grasping a live wire while trying to climb into the armory here to clean up the interior following a review the night before. Coroner J. R. D. Bowers, of Trenton, with a jury, of which Professor Elmer H. Loomis, of Princeton University, is the foreman, will listen to the testimony.

Soon after Packer's death some one removed the wire by which he was killed, but the coroner recovered it and used it as part of the material evidence in the case.

Loses Finger Tips in Odd Manner.

Summit, June 3.—Robert Warburton, fourteen years old, lost the ends of the two fingers on his right hand yesterday in a peculiar manner. The boy had broken a china dish in the home of his parents at 195 Morris avenue, and taking up one of the fragments attempted to break it in two parts. The portion of the dish was crushed in the boy's hands, the ragged edge of one of the pieces tearing through the flesh and severing the tips of the fingers. At the sight of the flow of blood the lad fainted. He was taken to Overlook Hospital, where his wounds were dressed.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Leonard have returned from their wedding journey to their home, No. 80 Mercer avenue.

The Jackass and Debs.

Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist leader, tells the following story on himself:

"I was to address a public meeting and there was intense prejudice against me, so the young man who had to introduce me thought he would try to disarm it.

"'Debs is hated by some people,' he said, 'because he has been in strikes. This is not right. It is the law of nature to defend yourself. Why, even a dog will growl if you try to deprive him of the bone he is gnawing, a goat will butt if you get in his way, and you all know what a jackass will do if you monkey with him. Ladies and gentlemen, this is Debs, who will now address you.'"—Success Magazine.

Force of Habit.

There is a certain Western Congressman whose boundless affability and habitual absent-mindness have occasionally led him into absurd mistakes. One day, during his last campaign, as he stepped from the train at the station of his home town after an ardous two weeks of stumping and "glad-handing," his little daughter rushed up to him, and kissed him. The Congressman beamed upon her with a proud and tender parental eye.

"Well, well!" he exclaimed, "if it isn't my little Alberta!" Then he added, mechanically, "and how is your dear old father?"—Success.

Do Not Waste Bread.

However careful one is to prevent waste of bread, it is impossible in a household to have no pieces. Everyone uses these up in different ways—sometimes in puddings and sometimes as bread crumbs.

Here is a popular recipe:

Break the crusts into pieces about the size of a lrage walnut, dip them for a moment into milk in which has been mixed a little salt and a pinch of cayenne pepper. Place the pieces on a baking tin and bake in a moderate oven until they assume a golden color.

When cold store the rusks in a tin.

To Blacken Tan Shoes.

Tan boots may be transformed into black. First wash the leather with a strong solution of washing soda and water. When dry, blacken the shoes with a good shoe polish, but do not use a brush for the purpose. The secret of success is in using in place of ab rush half of a potato. This being done, polish with a brush as usual.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The game between the local ball team and Parkaways of Newark, which was scheduled for Saturday afternoon on the local diamond, has been cancelled. The locals will journey to Somerville and play the West End team. No game will be played on the home grounds.

H. C. Smith, who has been visiting his family, who are spending several weeks with Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Coddington, has returned to his home in Boston.

A number from here, attended the funeral services of the late Mrs. Sarah Allen, held yesterday afternoon at 2:30, from the home on East Second street, Plainfield.

Summons has been issued in Justice Clark's court in the contract case of Van Ness vs. Johnson. Summons are returnable Saturday, June 6.

Fanwood B. & E. Co. holds its monthly meeting tonight in the company's rooms.

John Alberts continues to improve from his recent serious attack of pneumonia.

The public school closes for the summer vacation one week from tomorrow.

Miss Susie Parse was the guest of Newark friends yesterday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Following is the honor roll of the public school for the month of May: Annie Bohl, Nellie Harlow, Madeline Reilly, May Duffy, Tessie Bohl, Myrtle Bailey, Veronica Reilly, Robert Hamilton, Martin McDonough, Anna McDonough, Loretta Bohl, Beatrice Attlee, Antonio Phillipo, Frederic Attlee, Arthur Holmes, William Reilly, Lester Soper, Stanley Phillips.

The Public Service Company, announced yesterday, that the lighting rate for district number two, would be increased this year from $17 to $18 per light. At the meeting held here last evening the following commissioners were elected: Frank Faulks, Patrick F. Kane and H. J. Manning.

Peter D. Andrews and John Lowrey, of Clinton avenue, were arrested by Constable Reilly yesterday, for disorderly conduct. They were brought before Justice of the Peace Suydam of New Brunswick, and fined $5 each.

Friday, June 12, is the date set for closing the public school here. Commencement exercises will be held at New Market Monday, June 11, at which the principal address will be made by Rev. George Gardner.

Two Years for Lead Pipe Stealer.

Elizabeth, June 3.—In the Union County Court of Common Pleas here yesterday, Henry Breidt, eighteen years old, who pleaded guilty of cutting lead pipe out of several houses in Elizabeth and Union Township, was sentenced by Judge Atwater to two years in State prison. Five Italians, who were arrested a month ago for taking part in a riot at the new plant of the Standard Oil Works in Linden Township, were arraigned in court yesterday and retracted their former plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty. They will probably be sentenced tomorrow.

Two cups of granulated sugar make one pound, but in powdered sugar it will take two and a half cups to make one pound.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Harry S. Potter, of El Paso, Texas, is expected home tomorrow for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, of East Second street.

Among the officers elected on Monday by the New York Cotton Exchange was R. S. Gernon, of Crescent avenue, who was chosen one of the managers.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of West Front street, was down town yesterday calling on several friends. His general condition seems to be somewhat improved.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, of East Second street, have issued invitations for the fortieth anniversary of their wedding which will be celebrated at their home on Thursday evening, June 11.

William Slape is very ill at the bhome of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Newell, of Westervelt avenue. He and Mrs. Newell came here for a visit when Mr. Slape was taken suddenly ill.

H. Russell Voorhees, of Carlton avenue, sailed last Wednesday for Europe on the Steamer Lusitania of the Cunard Line. He expects to travel in England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Italy, Germany and Holland.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR THE HURRIED HOUSEWIFE.

Tarnished silverware is brightened if placed in buttermilk for two hours and washed in hot suds.

Put a few drops of ammonia on a rag to rub finger marks from looking glasses or windows.

Men's worn linen collars, cut into narrow strips, furnish convenient substitutes for the wax tapers used in gas lighters.

There is no better pudding cloth than a piece of cheesecloth. This material being coarse does not retain the grease, and is easily cleaned.

When stewing fruit never use a metal spoon; a wooden spoon is best, and those with short handles are most convenient for thick substances.

The pulverized washing powders last much longer if used from a talcum powder shaker. A baking powder can with holes punched through the lid may be utilized for the purpose.

Before polishing the stove wash it off with vinegar. It removes all grease, leaving the surface smooth, and keeps the blacking from burning off so quickly, saving much time and labor.

A soft flannel cloth and salted water should be used for cleaning matting. If there are spots which are soiled rub them first with dampened cornmeal, then wash the matting with a soft flannel cloth and cool salt water, allowing a quart of salt to each pail of water. Lastly, wipe off all moisture with a damp cloth. Matting kept clean in this manner will not turn yellow.

The next time you wash the glassware rinse in hot water and plunge the articles in a bucket of water in which there is a cupful of clear starch. Keep the starch stirred through the water. Put the glassware on towels to drain and leave until perfectly dry. Rub with a soft cloth and you will be delighted to see how bright are the pieces. Have a soft brush to clean the cut glass articles.

Every now and then, instead of allowing the carpet to remain in exactly the same position as first placed, the tread of the carpet should be moved a couple of inches or so either upor down. This has the effect of keeping the pile of the carpet in a uniform condition, and besides, retaining the fresh appearance of the carpet, it helps it to last much longer than it would if left exactly as laid. It costs nothing to do this, yet saves much.

One of the things that must not be forgotten when cleaning is the turning out of drawers and cupboards. Frequently it is a work of longer duration than one would expect. After the drawers have been emptied brush them thoroughly and line them with clean white paper. The walls of cupboards should be brushed down and whitewashed if necessary, and when the shelves have been cleaned put back in place everything that has not been condemned as rubbish.

USEFUL SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEHOLD.

If all baking tins are greased with beeswax it will not be necessary to wash the tins after baking. The beeswax never becomes rancid and will never flavor the baking, as does lard or butter.

The crown of a crushed straw hat should be dampened with cold water and stuffed very lightly with old soft paper, then put to dry in a hot place It will be blocked in its original shape.

An Apple Dessert.

This is a seasonable dish. Take two pounds of apples, pare, core them, slice them into a pan and add one pond of sugar, the juice of three lemons and the grated rind of one.

Let these boil until they become a thick mass, which will require about two hours; pour it into a mold and when cold turn out on a dish.

Serve with either custard or cream.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Work was started yesterday on the new station of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Broadway, Camden, and will be pushed forward rapidly.

George M. Park, four years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Park, of West Philadelphia, wandered from the cottage of his parents yesterday to Tyler's Lake, and was drowned.

Israel Vaughn, seventy years old, who was struck by a train while crossing a trestle near Hightstown a week ago, died at St. Francis' Hospital, Trenton, last night from his injuries.

George Parvin, alleged to have tampered with the lock of his cell and walked out of the Gloucester jail with two other prisoners was given sixty days in the county jail by Mayor Lincoln yesterday.

The efforts to establish a public hospital at Vineland having seemingly failed, Dr. L. F. Hatch surprised the people yesterday by buying the fine country residence of H. L. Roberts, which he will convert into a hospital.

The trial of John O'Brien, former excise commissioner of Jersey City, for violating the Sunday law, set down for yesterday afternoon in the Hudson County Court of Sessions, was put off until the September term of the court.

Harry Wilkie, a singer in a Paterson moving picture showhouse, had his arm caught between two trolley cars in a collision at Ellison and Washington streets, that city, yesterday. A contusion of the left elbow resulted.

Walter Pierce, of North Haledon Borough, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Paterson, yesterday afternoon suffering from a broken ankle received in a fall from a ladder on which he stood while applying a coating of paint to a barn.

Rather than accept a reduction of nine cents an hour, about thirty members of the Tin and Sheet Metal Workers' Union of Trenton yesterday went out on a strike. The tin and sheet workers have been working eight hours a day for fifty cents an hour. The threatened reduction will amount to seventy-two cents a day.

Since the recent escape of two boys by dropping from a third-story window of the Hudson County Jail, Warden Connolly has been taking extra precautions. Yesterday two ropes, each about thirty feet long, made of strips of blankets; four razors, a long knife, a putty knife, a dirk and a jimmy were found hidden in prisoners' cells by Deputy Warden Mellor and Keeper John Andes.

Ralph McKauge and Fred Diabold, of Vineland, made heroes of themselves at midnight by answering the cry of Mrs. Rocco Dienela and rescuing her and two children from the burning house. The young men broke in the door and carrying out the woman dragged one child down stairs by the heels. The flaming bed was torn to pieces and thrown out of the window and the house saved.

Austin Mathis's five-story bathhouse in Atlantic City was ruined by a fire which started at 6 o'clock last night and burned off three upper stories. The building was used for storing boats, sails and summer furniture, the value of which aggregated $10,000. The blaze was started through an oil stove upset by William Timson, a tenant, sixty-five years old, while he was preparing his supper.

To Clean Cut Steel.

If a cut steel buckle or ornament has become tarnished or rusty, it can be cleaned at home. Smear it with olive oil, a feather being the best thing to apply the oil with. After letting the buckle tand two or three days, wipe it carefully with a piece of soft flannel and polish with powdered pumice stone.

REACHING THE SPOT.

It Can Be Done, So Scores of Plainfield Citizens Says.

To cure an aching back,
The pains of rheumatism,
The tired-out feelings,
You must reach the spot—get at the cause.
In most cases 'tis the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys.

Mrs. K. C. Philpott, of 126 Plainfield avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Two years ago I suffered from rheumatism and also a severe backache or pain in the loins. I suppose it was all caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood, but at any rate, the medicines I was taking did not stop the pains. I therefore resorted to the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, and must say, in gratitude, that they gave be complete relief from my rheumatism and backache. I had no occasion to use any medicine for my kidneys since that time, until uljy, 1905, when I was not feeling just right, and suffering sharp twinges of pain in my back. My daughter got me a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's pharmacy, and on using them they relieved me as before. I have often recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to people suffering from backache and rheumatism, and shall continue to do so."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

WERE YOU BORN IN THE MONTH OF JUNE

Were you born in this, the sweet, frafrant rose-month of the year? June promises much to her children.

The name June comes from Junius, wihch is supposed by some to have been derived from Juno, and by others of the Romans, and originally had but twenty-six days. Romulus added four. The Emperor Numa took one away, which was afterward again added by Julius Caesar.

The zodiacal sign for June is Cancer, meaning the crab, into which sign the sun moves from the twenty-first to the end of the month. The sun, however, is in Gemini, meaning the twins, from the first to the twenty-first. Both signs are said to influence you.

If your birthday occurs between the first and the twenty-first you will be vivacious and restless, farsighted and cautious, aspiring, but rather pessimistic, and you will be interested in literature and art.

If born on or after the twenty-first you will be exceedingly sympathetic and emotional, you will have a trong love of nature, intense affections and a special apitude for domestic life. You will be musical sensitive, and will be much influenced by the physical or mental condition of those dearest to you.

June's birthstone is the agate, which signifies health, wealth and long life. The June maiden may commit to memory these lines:

"Who comes with summer to this earth,
And owes to June her hour of birth,
With ring of agate on her hand,
Can health, wealth and long life command."

The June flower is the honeysuckle which means devoted love, the coral variety signifies fidelity.

There are four unlucky days in June; the fourth, eighth, tenth and twenty-second—the first two are considered especially unlucky for any important undertaking.

June is the favorite marriage month, for the old couplet says:

"Married in the month of roses bloom
Life will be one long, sweet tune."

The second of June is, however, said to be quite unfit for marriage. A bride will do well if she choose one of the following dates for her wedding day: The first, third, nineteenth and twenty-first.

A quaint old proverb says of June weather:

"Calm weather in June sets corn in tune."

and another:

"If on the eighth of June it rain,
It fortells a wet harvest, men sain."
—Ladies' Home Journal.

SOME PERSONALITIES.

Count Bottaro Costa, who is at present serving as Italian minister at Stockholm, has been promoted to the rank of ambassador and will be sent to Tokio to succeed Count Gallina.

Emperor William will start for his North Sea cruise on board the Hohenzollern on July 7. He will embark at Kiel. The invitations to the guests who will accompany him have already been issued. It is not improbable that the Emperor will meet the Czar of Russia and King Haakon during the cruise.

An invitation has been extended by the government of Italy to the government of the United States to be represented at the eighth international congress of social insurance, to be held in Rome next October. Secretary Straus has designated W. H. Tolman, director of the American Museum of Safety Devices and Industrial Hygiene, of New York city.

John F. Finnerty, one of Chicago's foremost Irish citizens, is dangerously ill. He has been confined to his residence since December of last year. Mr. Finnerty is 62 years old. In 1882 he was elected to Congress from Chicago. He saw service not only in the Civil War but in two Fenian raids in Canada, and was a newspaper correspondent with General Miles in the campaign against the Sioux Indians.

The Prince and Princess of Wales attended the dedication of a library in Hackney, funds for which were given by Andrew Carnegie. The building is one of the largest of its kind in England. The Princess of Wales participated in the dedicatory exercises. The prince paid a tribute to the munificence of Mr. Carnegie and at the close of the ceremonies Mr. Carnegie and his wife were presented to the prince and princess.

"I'll go," says I to Eureka. "You head for the school fast as your horse can travel. Tell the Page girl not to let Duncan touch the boy till the Jordan man comes or the train comes without him. You understand?"

"You bet you!" says she. "It's splendid! We'll save the boy and Mr. Hartley will be all right with her. Oh, I'm so glad Mr. Van Brunt wa'n't here!"

She whirled the horse around and off she went. I gave one more look at the weather and then ran after Hartley. Save the boy! A considerable bigger chance of not saving ourselves. Well, my school teacher always used to say I'd be drowned some day—if I wa'n't hung first.

I had one reef in when the Dora Bassett swung clear of the outside point of Ozone island cove. I hated to take another, for I wanted to make time. But I had to take it afore we tackled at the end of the first leg. 'Twas pretty nigh a dead beat and the sloop was laying over till I thought sure she'd fill. The waves was as big, almost, as ever I see in the bay, and when one would fetch us on the starboard bow the biggest half of it would shoot clean from stem to stern. We was soaked afore we'd hardly started. It couldn't have been much worse unless 'twas the middle of February.

I had the tiller and Hartley was for'ard in the cockpit. I was using the mainsail altogether, although later on I did use some of the jib to help her point up to wind'ard. There was plenty of water and would be for hours, so I could give her the centerboard full. That didn't bother us—not then.

I was too busy to speak and Martin didn't seem to care to. He set there, looking out ahead, and when he turned, so's I could see his face, it was set and quiet. And in his eyes was the look that I'd seen there once afore—the day of the pig race. I wouldn't have known him for the reckless, lazy chap he'd been for the last month or so.

The only thing he said to me at this time was, as I remember it, something like this:

"I know that Dr. Jordan," he says, "I met him at Cambridge at a football game. I was there at college and father came over for the game. The doctor was one of father's friends."

"That's lucky," says I. "Maybe that'll give you some pull."

"Perhaps so," says he.

"If he won't come," I asks, "what'll you do?"

"He'll have to come," was all the answer he made.

Even this little mite of talk meant hollering your lungs loose. The wind was rising all the time, the sea kept getting more rugged as we got where the bay was wider, and the splashing and banging was worse than a waterwheel working double watches. After awhile I made Hartley set side of me, so that, when I wanted anything, I could grab his arm.

This was after it got dark. And it got dark early. Likewise it begun to rain. The storm that we'd had for the last few days seemed to be blowing back over us. Seems as if it ought to have rained and blown itself out by this time, but we had proof that it hadn't.

We wa'n't making scarcely anything on our tacks. The Dora Bassett's a good wind'ard boat, too, but she'd fall off and fall off. By and by the dark and rain got so thick that I couldn't see the shore lights, and I had to run by compass and guess. There wa'n't likely to be any other blame fools afloat to run into us, still I gave Hartley a horn to blow in case there should be.

'Twas lucky I did. Along about 12, when we was somewheres in the middle of the bay—off Sandy Bend, I should think—it seemed to me that I heard a toot in answer to one of Hartley's. He heard it, too, I guess, for he commenced to blow hard and fast. 'Twan't much use, for anything that was to wind'ard of us wouldn't have heard a sound. And we only heard that one, I judge, as the noise was blown past us down the gale. We listened and listened, but no more come.

All at once we both yelled. Out of the muddle of rain and black comes poking a big jibboom and a bowsprit. Next minute a two-master, with only a jib and reefed fo'sail set, went booming by us just under our stern. I could see a wink of her for'ard lights and a glimpse of a feller holding a lantern by her rail and staring down at us. His face was big-eyed and scared. I've wondered since how ours looked to him. All the rest was black hull and waves and roaring. A mackerel boat trying to run into Naubeckit harbor, I guess she was. I cal'late the afternoon lull had fooled 'em into trying.

We didn't say nothing. Only Hartley looked up at me and grinned. I could see him in the lantern light. I shook my head and grinned back.

All the time I kept thinking to myself: "Sol Pratt, you old gray-headed fool, this is your final bust of craziness. You can't make it; you knew afore you started you couldn't. You'll be in among the shoals pretty soon and then you and the Dora Bassett 'll go to smithereens and cart that poor innocent city man with you. He don't know that, but you do. And all on account of a red-headed little toughy from the back alleys of New York, and a girl that ain't none of your relations. You deserve what's coming to you."

And yet, even while I was thinking it, I was glad I was making the try. Glad for Redny's sake; particular glad on account of what it might mean to Martin and Agnes; and glad, too, just out of general cussedness. You see, 'twas like a fight; and there's a heap of satisfaction once in a while in a real old-fashioned, knock-down and drag-out, rough-and-tumble fight—that is, when you're fighting for anything worth the row.

The storm kept on; seemed as if 'twould never let up. And we kept on, too, three reefs in by this time, and the jib down. And with every tack I cal'lated we was making better headway towards the bottom than anywheres else. I couldn't see nothing to get my bearings from, and hadn't no idea where we was, except the general one that, up to now, and by God's mercy, we was afloat.

Then, at last, the gale begun to go down. A landsman wouldn't have noticed the change, but I did. It stopped raining, and the wind was easing up. By and by the haze broke and I caught a glimpse of Middle Ground light, almost abreast of us. I unbuttoned my fleskin jacket and looked at my watch. Half-past two, and only three-quarters of the way to Wapatomac. We'd been eight hours and a half coming a distance that I've made over and over again, in that very sloop, in less than three. Hartley caught my sleeve.

"Will we get there?" he shouts. His face was all shining with the wet and his hair was too heavy with water even to blow in the wind.

"Don't know," I hollers back. "We'll try."

He nodded. The clearing of that haze had helped me considerable. I could sight my marks, the lights, now, and we made faster time.

At last, after what seemed a fortnight more, come the first streak of gray daylight. The clouds was breaking up and it would be a nice day later on, I judged. But there was a living gale still blowing and the waves was running savage over the shoals ahead. The channel was narrowing up and I had to watch out every second. I sent Hartley amidships to tend centerboard.

We beat in through Long Point reach. The life-saving station is on the Point, just abaft the lighthouse. I see the feller in the station tower open the window and lean out to watch us. I cal'late he wondered what asylum had turned that pair of lunatics loose.

Past the Point and now we come about for the run afore the wind up the narrows. Wapatomac village was in plain sight.

"With any sort of luck," says I, "we'll be alongside the dock by quarter-past five. The down train leaves at 25 minutes to eight. You can thank your stars, Mr. Hartley."

'Twas a pretty cock-sure thing to say, and I ought to have known better than to crow afore we was out of the woods. But we'd come through so far enough sight better than a reasonable man could expect.

The narrows is a wicked place. The channel is fairly straight, but scant width, and on each side of it is a stretch of bars and rips that are bad enough in decent weather. Now they was as good an imitation of as salt-water Tophet as I want to see. Strip after strip of breakers, with lines of biling, twisting slicks and whirlpools between. And the tide tearing through.

I sent Hartley for'ard to look out for shoals. He had one knee on the edge of the cabin roof and was climbing up, when I happened to glance astern. There was an old "he" wave coming—a regular deep-water grayback.

"Look out!" I yells. "Stand by!"

That wave hit us like a house tumbling down. I'd braced myself and was, in a way, ready for it, but Hartley wa'n't. He was knocked for'ard on his face. Then, as the bow jumped up, he was chucked straight backwards, landing on his shoulders and left arm against the centerboard well. He turned a full somerset and his feet knocked mine from under me. Down I went and the tiller was yanked out of my hands.

Waves like that hunt in droves, generally speaking. The next one was right on schedule time. Up we went, and sideways like a railroad train. Then down, "Bump!" on the bottom.

Up again, and down. "Thump! Crunch!"

That time we struck with all our heft. The Dora Bassett shook all over. She riz, still shaking, and the next wave threw her clean over the bar. We was in deep water for a minute, but just a little ways off was another line of breakers. And astern was the rudder, broke clean off, and floating away.

'Twas no time for fooling. Hartley got to his knees, white, and holding his left arm with his right hand. I jumped and cast off the sheet. She floated then on a more even keel. Then I yanked loose the oar from its cleats alongside the rail and got it over the stern to steer with.

This got her under control, and down the lane, between them two lines of breakers, we went, me with the sheet in one hand, the oar braced under t'other arm, and the three-reefed mainsail well out. The cockpit was half full of water.

The lane of deep water narrowed up ahead of us and there was a kind of gate, as you might say, at the end. Hartley looked at me and I at him.

"Can you?" he asks. He was white as paper, but not from being scared I was sure. His left arm hung down straight and he kept rubbing it.

"Lord knows," I says. "Are you hurt?"

He didn't answer; just shook his head. On went the Dora Bassett. Bless the old girl's heart! She was doing her best to pull us through.

The gate was just in front of our nose. I set my teeth and headed her for the middle of it. A jiffy more, and the crazy breakers jumped at us from both sides. Their froth flew over us in chunks. Then we was through, and I fetched my first decent breath.

We was in a kind of pond now, where we had elbow room.

Martin looked astern. "Here comes a boat," says he.

'Twas the lifeboat from the station. They'd seen our trouble and was coming full tilt. I hadn't ever been took off my own boat by no life-savers, and I wa'n't going to begin.

"Heave to!" hails the crew cap'n from the boat. "We're coming to take you off."

I didn't answer.

"Heave to!" he yells again. "Heave to!"

I turned my head a little ways.

"Go home and get your breakfast," I sings out. "We're busy."

They kept on for a ways, and then they give it up. I ran two or three more of them lanes and then, when I had the chance, I dropped my mainsail and histed the jib. And with that jib and the oar I picked my way for another spell, in and out and betwixt and between. At last we slid past the Wapatomac breakwater and up to the wharf. A nice piece of work for anybody's boat, if I do say it.

Hartley seemed to think so, too, for says he: "Skipper, that was beautiful. You're a wonder."

"Twenty minutes of six," says I. "We're on time."

There was an early-bird lobsterman on the wharf, come down to see how many of his pots had gone adrift in the night. He stood and stared at us.

"God sakes!" says he. "Where'd you come from?"

"Wellmouth," says I, making fast to a ring bolt.

"In her?" he says, pointing to the sloop. "In this gale? Never in the world!"

"All right. Then we didn't." I hadn't no time to waste arguing.

"Good land of love!" he says, kind of to himself. "Say! she must be something of a boat."

I looked at the poor old Dora Bassett. Rudder gone, centerboard smashed, rail carried away and hull nigh filled with water.

"She was," says I. "Considerable of a boat."

CHAPTER XVIII.

Poor Redny.

Hartley had climbed on the wharf and now he was heading for the village. I got the sloop fast, after a fashion, and then run over and caught up with him. He was walking with long steps and looking straight ahead. His left fist was in the side pocket of his jacket and his face was set and pale under the tan. I happened to bump into him as I came alongside, and he jumped and gave a little groan.

"What's the matter with that arm of yours?" I asked, anxious. He'd stopped for a second and was biting his lips together.

"Nothing," he says, short. "Bruised a little, I guess. Where's the hotel?"

"Up the main road a piece. That's it, on top of the hill."

"Come on then," says he, walking faster than ever.

We went through Wapatomac village like we was walking for money. Some of the town folks was just getting up, and you could see smoke coming from kitchen chimneys and window shades being hoisted. Once in a while, where the families was particularly early risers, I smelt fried herring. In the center, by the postoffice, the feller that keeps the market was just taking down his store shutters. He looked at us kind of odd.

"Good morning," he says. "Going to fair off at last, ain't it?"

"Guess likely," says I, keeping on.

"You been on the water, ain't you?" he asks. "Get caught down to the Point?"

Long Point's a great place for Wapatomac folks to go on clamming and fishing trips. I suppose he thought we'd been out the day afore, when it cleared that time, and had had to put in at the station over night. We must have looked like we'd been through the mill. Both of us was soaping wet, and I had on rubber boots and a sou'wester. I'd thrown off my fleskin coat at the wharf.

I didn't stop to explain. I had to save my breath to keep up with Martin. The nigher he got to the hotel the faster he walked.

The Wapatomac house is about the toniest summer place on our part of the coast. A great big building, with piazzas and a band stand, and windows and wind-mills and bowling alleys till you can't rest. We turned in between the stone posts at the end of the driveway and went pounding across the lawns and flower beds.

There was a sleepy-looking clerk behind the desk in the big hall. Nobody else was in sight, and the whole outfit of empty chairs and scattered newspapers had that lonesome look of having been up all night. Oh, yes! and there was a colored man mopping the floor.

Hartley went up to the desk, leaving muddy foot marks right where the darky had been scrubbing.

"Good morning," he says to the clerk. "Dr. Jordan of Providence is one of your guests, isn't he?"

The clerk put down the book he was reading and looked us over. He done it deliberate and chilly, same as hotel clerks always do. If there's any one mortal that can make the average man feel like apologizing for living without a license, it's a slick, high-collared, fancy shirt-bosomed hotel clerk.

"What?" says the clerk, frosty and slow.

"Dr. Jordan of Providence. Is he here?"

His majesty looked at his book again afore he answered. Then he put his thumb between the pages to mark the place and condescends to drawl out:

"What do you want with him?"

For once he'd made a mistake. There are times when it ain't wise to judge a feller by his general get-up. Martin stiffened, and he spoke clear and sharp.

"Answer my question, if you please," says he. "Is the doctor here?"

"No, he ain't."

"Where is he?"

"Gone."

I felt sick. Maybe Hartley did too, but he didn't show it.

"Where has he gone?" he asks.

"I don't know that I've got to—"

"I know. And for your own good, my friend, I advise that you tell me. Where is Dr. Jordan?"

The emperor come down off his throne a little. I cal'late he figgered that 'twas good policy.

"He's gone to Brantboro," he says. "He went yesterday morning and he's to leave there for Boston this forenoon. Then he's going to Bar Harbor for the rest of his vacation. Anything else you'd like to know?"

This last part was loaded to the gunwale with sarcasm.

"Yes," says Hartley emphatic. "Where is the doctor staying in Brantboro?"

"Cold Spring house. Want to know what he pays for his room?"

Martin didn't answer. He walked to the door. I stopped for a jiffy.

"See here, my smart aleck," says I to the clerk, "you'll have some more fun from this later on, when your boss hears of it. Do you know who 'tis you've been sassing? That young man is John D. Vanderbilt of New York."

There is some satisfaction in a first-class lie. It done me good to see that clerk shrivel up.

Martin was calling to me. "Sol," he asks, like a flash, "how can I get to Brantboro?"

"You can't—in time to catch that morning train. Brantboro's ten mile off, and the train that gets here at 25 minutes of eight leaves there at 7:15. That was the one we was to have the doctor on. And it's past six now."

He spun around on his heel. "Is the telegraph line to Brantboro working?" he asked the clerk.

"No, sir! no, sir." My! but he was polite. "I'm sorry to say not, sir."

"Can I get a horse here?"

"The livery stable is right around the corner; but I don't think—"

We was at that livery stable in less than two shakes. The feller that took care of the horses and slept in the stable loft was up and sweeping out.

"Have you got a horse that will take me to Brantboro in half an hour?" asks the Twin.

The feller stared at him. "Be you crazy?" says he.

Martin didn't answer. "Whose machine is that?" he asks.

He was pointing to a big automobile in the stable. A great big red thing, with a shiny painted hull and nickel-plated running rigging.

"Mr. Shearer's. He's away for a week and we're keeping it for him."

"Can I hire it?"

The feller's mouth fell open like 'twas on hinges.

"Hire it? Hire Mr. Shearer's automobile?" says he. "Well, I'll be darned!"

"Where's your employer?" asks Hartley, quick.

"Hey?"

"Your boss!" I sings out, dancing up and down. "For the land sakes wake up! Where is he?"

"In the house, I guess. Where do you—"

We met the livery stable owner just coming out of his kitchen with a pan of leavings for the pig. He'd just turned out. I knew him; his name was Ben Baker. Martin went at him hot-foot, speaking in short sentences.

"I want to hire that auto in your stable," he says. "I must get to Brantboro before seven o'clock. I'll pay any price. But I must have it."

Then there was more arguing. Baker said no. Was we crazy? He couldn't let another man's auto to the Almighty himself. And Mr. Shearer's auto, of all things! Why, Shearer would kill him. And so forth and so on.

SONS CARRY MOTHER'S CASKET TO THE GRAVE

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah A. Allen, whose death occurred Saturday night after a long illness, was held at her late home on East Second street, yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. Burial was in the family borne to the grave by six of her sons, while the seventh and youngest, George Allen, carried the numerous floral tributes.

In the death of Mrs. Allen, her eleven surviving children lose a most devoted and Christian mother. She was born at Liberty Corner, May 4, 1838, the only child of Samuel Cross and Sarah Lewis Cross, direct descendants of some of the first Colonial families of New Jersey. Her forefathers assisted in the building and maintaing of the Presbyterian church in that village and she retained her membership in the congregation until the time of her death. Mrs. Allen was educated in the Seeley Academy at Morristown, graduating with the class of 1858. She was married a year later to Daniel L. Allen, of Pluckemin, who died in 1894. After leaving the homestead at Liberty Corner, which had been in the Cross family for more than a century, Mr. and Mrs. Allen moved to Plainfield in 1880.

Mrs. Allen had been in ill health since January and for the two weeks previous to her death grew rapidly worse, although the end came suddenly. She was a woman of very kind and gentle manners and will be missed by great numbers of friends. The surviving children are as follows: William L., Samuel C. and J. K. Allen, of New York; Lewis A. and Frank R., of Passaic; Mrs. William T. Fesmier, Mrs. Mary Thatcher, Mrs. Julia Thornton, Mrs. Arthur Rice, Joseph C. and George E. Allen, of Plainfield.

RECEPTION IN HONOR OF SCHOOL TEACHER.

Westfield, June 3.—The Mayors of three towns, three former principals and former pupils will pay tribute to Miss Stryker at the reception to be tendered the veteran school teacher of Westfield at the Washington School auditorium on Friday evening.

It has been planned to make the reception as informal as possible and the general public is invited to attend. There will be music by an orchestra and singing by a chorus of school children. The address of welcome will be made by John D. Gluck, chairman of the reception committee. Mayor Alpers, of Westfield, and Mayor Charles W. MacQuoid, of Roselle, and former Mayor Smalley, of North Plainfield, will deliver addresses. Dr. J. J. Savitz, county superintendent of schools, will speak as will also Dr. W. A. Edwards, of Yonkers, and Prof. Harris, of Bayonne, former principals.

Hon. George J. Corey, of New York will make the principal address. Other speakers will be Town Clerk Lloyd Thompson and lawyer F. S. Taggart, former pupils.

Following the program of exercises an informal reception will be held, at which Miss Stryker and Miss Harned will receive. An informal dance is to follow.

Miss Stryker has seen thirty years of service in the Westfield schools and more than 1,000 pupils have been taught by her.

DISCUSS POSTOFFICE SITE.

Morristown Residents Take Interest in Looking About for Suitable Location.

Morristown, June 3.—The public buildings bill, carrying with it an appropriation of $35,000 for the purchase of a site for a postoffice building here, having passed Congress, public discussion of suitable plots for the building is rife. An appropriation will have to be made to pay for the structure's erection.

Postmaster George L. Clarke has received a letter from Supervising Architect Taylor, of Washington, outlining the method for securing the building site, which simply provides for advertising for bids for the sale of a suitable property. Its size and other requirements will be given, the only hint advanced in the letter as to what will be called for being a "suitable corner." The government requires that its postoffice buildings shall be isolated from all surrounding structures and it may therefore be on the corner of any open piece of ground that can never be closed.

The bids are to be opened in Washington and later a representative of the postoffice department will visit Morristown and inspect the sites offered.

GRAND JURORS GUESTS OF THE BUNGALOW MAN

Although the Union County Grand Jury has not yet completed its labors, the members, in company with several county officials, accepted the invitation of William Jeffery, "the bungalow-man," who is a member of the jury, to a dinner given by him yesterday at Berkeley Park Camp, Berkeley Heights. A feast fit for a king was spread for the county officials and all thoroughly enjoyed it. At the same time a handsome loving cup was presented to the foreman of the jury, Charles Russ, Mr. Jeffery being called upon to make the presentation speech, which he did in his usual happy manner. Afterward Mr. Jeffery received a silver-mounted fountain pen from the fellow-members of the jury.

After the dinner the officials under the direction of Mr. Jeffery made an inspection of the bungalows at Berkeley and learned something of the features of this ideal way of living. They visited the public school, met the children and teachers and inquired particularly into the bungalow life as lived by Mr. Jeffrey's sons, giving their unqualified endorsement.

The Plainfield members of the Grand Jury present were J. Fred MacDonald and Charles W. Runyon. The other guests included Sheriff W. J. Lawrence, Prosecutor C. Addison Swift, Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Mayor P. J. Ryan, of Elizabeth; Former Mayor Howe, of Roselle; Chief of Police Brown, of Summit, and all the members of the Grand Jury.

KING'S DAUGHTERS' WORK

Reports at Annual Meeting Show What was Accomplished Last Year.

MRS. F. W. JONES PRESIDENT.

Miss Henry L. Hall Chosen Vice-President—3,564 Children Cared for at the Day Nursery.

The various reports presented at the annual meeting of the City Union, of the King's Daughters showed that the past year was the most successful in the history of the organization. More than $1,000 was received for the support of the Day Nursery and the Baby Camp on the mountain, but even with this generosity, the members will need liberal contributions during the summer for the camp work, which will be opened just as soon as the need is apparent.

During the past year the city nurse made 847 visits and the work at the Day Nursery has continued to grow until it has exceeded the greatest expectation. Last year 3,564 children were cared for, and of that number 1,291 were received at the nursery since January 1 last. Yesterday thirty-two children were provided for in the usual way, showing that the institution is no longer an experiment, but an actual necessity.

At the meeting which was held Friday, reports were received from all the committees, indicating steady progress, and these officers were chosen for the coming year:

President, Mrs. Frank W. Jones; vice-president, Mrs. Henry L. Hall; recording secretary, Mrs. Augustus N. Laggren; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. L. Lapsley; treasurer, Mrs. Anna M. Most. The new president, who succeeds Mrs. Charles A. Reed, will appoint the regular committees within a short time. Mrs. Reed has faithfully served the Union for several years in various offices and she will continue to show her interest and be actively identified with the charitable enterprise.

MISS BARLOW A BRIDE

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Barlow Becomes Mrs. Edward Hobbie.

REV. G. A. WARNER OFFICIATES.

Ceremony at Home of Her Parents—Miss Hartshorne Maid of Honor and Brother of Groom Best Man.

Miss Sophronia Barlow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Barlow, of Prospect place, and Edward Hobbie, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Hobbie, of Watchung avenue, were married last night at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross. Owing to the recent death of the bride's grandfather, the affair was a quiet one, and only the immediate relatives and intimate friends to the number of about 150 were present to witness the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in striped brocaded satin, trimmed with point and chantilly lace, a family heirloom. She carried white roses and lilies-of-the valley. She was attended by Miss Kathryn Hartshorne, of this city, as maid of honor, who was gowned in white chiffon, with pale pink trimmings and carrying pale pink roses; Miss Mary Barlow, sister of the bride and Miss May Murray, as bridesmaids, whose gowns were of white chiffon. Miss Barlow's gown was ornamented with pale lavendar trimmings and that of Miss Murray's with pale yellow. They both carried bouquets of white roses. H. P. Hinriques, Jr., and William Barlow Stillman, nephews of the bride, were ribbon-bearers.

The best man was William F. Hobbie, Jr., brother of the groom, and the ushers were William Barlow, Jr., brother of the bride and Lawrence Breeze Smith, also of this city.

As the bridal party descended the staircase on its way to the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, the nephews led the way, followed by the ushers and the bride, accompanied by her father, who gave her in marriage. In the parlor they met the groom and best man. The wedding march was played by a stringed orchestra of six pieces.

The house was elaborately decorated with flowers and greens for the occasion, the colors having a rainbow effect. In the parlor there was a profusion of varied colored roses and palms. In the dining room the decorations consisted of pale yellow roses, while the bridal table in the library was garnished with pale pink roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and supper served. The bride and groom received the congratulations of the guests, after which they adjourned to the room provided for the display of wedding gifts and admired the numerous tokens of esteem given the bride, which included silverware, two complete sets of chinaware, cut-glass and furniture. In the exchange of gifts among those of the bridal party, the bride received a diamond brooch from the groom, the bridesmaids and maid of honor each received gold brooches, while the ushers were presented with gold cuff buttons.

The bride has been prominent among those of the younger society set at the Park Club and both she and Mr. Hobbie are favorites in a large circle of acquaintances. After a month's wedding trip, the couple will reside in this city.

ELKS ENTERTAIN.

Plainfield lodge of Elks held a formal session in its rooms, last night, during which a reception was accorded the members of the minstrel troupe that gave a performance in the theatre April 30. The guests furnished a large part of the program made up of individual solos, quartet numbers and selections on the piano. Brother Longman, of Brooklyn lodge, contributed a monologue and numerous witty stories. A supper was served in conclusion.

The aair was in charge of John H. Cose, who acted as manager for the minstrel show.

TO REMODEL ITS EDIFICE

Crescent Avenue Congregation Decides Upon Some Interior Alterations.

COST TO BE ABOUT $25,000.

Work on Improvements Will Be Started July 1 and Will Take About Four Months.

Extensive improvements, involving the re-modeling of the interior of the edifice and an expense of about $25,000, wil be made immediately at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, according to plans accepted by the church trustees and unanimously endorsed by the congregation at a meeting held last night. The work of re-construction will be commenced about July 1 and the improvements will probably be completed by November 1. Services of the church will be held in the Sunday school rooms during the summer months, and other arrangements are to be made in the fall.

A committee of eight parishoners headed by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, has had the matter of improvements under consideration for the past two years, and at the meeting last night W. A. Garrigues, of the board of trustees, and also a member of the committee, announced that the plans submitted by James E. Ware & Sons, of New York city, had been accepted as the most practical for the needs of the parish. Plans submitted by Squires & Wynkoop, of New York, ranked second in the estimation of the committee, but called for a reconstruction more radical than the committee could approve. The trustees have acknowledged the value of these plans to Fred Squires, the local member of the firm a prize winner at the Beaux Arts, Paris.

The plans submitted by James E Ware & Sons were selected with the assistance of Professor A. D. F. Hamlin, head of the architectural department of Columbia University. They were explained by John F. Harman, of the session, at last night's meeting, and the resolution for their acceptance was offered by Ernest R. Ackerman. Mr. Ackerman, Percy H. Stewart, Leander N. Lovell, Andrew J. Gavett, J. W. DeGraff and J. W. Sandford spoke in endorsement of the re-construction plans outlined. The motion for their acceptance was unanimously carried.

The improvements at the church will involve the raising of the interior ceiling to the height of the outer roof, elevating the central arch, and construction of a vaulted oak roof to the nave. The construction will be marked by the simplicity which characterized the English church and will be effective in its severity of line.

A feature of the alterations at the pulpit will be the installation of seats for each of the five ministers of the church. Back of the pulpit will be heavily carved walnut seats for the pastor, the ministers of Warren, Hope and Bethel Chapels and Rev. Gilbert Lovell, missionary from the church in China. This is symbolic of the Crescent Avenue church as the home of Plainfield Presbyterianism, just as much for the use of the congregations of the chapels as for the mother community. The choir loft will be changed from its present unsymmetrical position and in its place two choir galleries will be constructed in the gallery at the pulpit end of the church for the singers. These will be of hard wood, severe in design.

At the meeting last night, the congregation unanimously passed a vote of thanks to Mrs. Charles Hyde for the memorial organ, the presentation of which has proved a great incentive to the congregation in undertaking the extensive alterations. Pipes of the organ will be placed at either side of the pulpit in arches on either side of the central arch, and the echo organ will be installed in the roof at the rear of the edifice. This section of the instrument contains the vox humana pipes and a set of tubular chimes, operated from the main key board.

New stained glass windows will take the place of those at present in the church and one of the most liberal givers of the congregation, whose name is withheld, has offered to give a set of stained glass windows. In connection with the reconstruction of the church and architectural changes, all structural wood work of the church will be re-colored to match the present black walnut of the pews, and there will be an elimination of much of the old work long since out of date. The walls will be entirely done over and fresh treatment will be given the pillars and trusses. The church will be re-carpeted and the vestibule paved.

The accepted plans call for an expenditure of about $25,000 and in connection with the expense, it was stated today that about $13,000 has already been offered by about thirty members of the congregation. The

ASK BIDS FOR P.O. SITE

Treasury Department Seeks Corner Location in Business Section for Federal Bldg.

MUST BE 160 BY 147 FEET.

Secretary Cortelyou Advertises in The Daily Press Today Setting Forth All Requirements In Detail.

In this issue of The Daily Press will be found the formal advertisement of the Federal Treasury Department for bids for a site for the proposed postoffice building to be erected in this city. Secretary Cortelyou announces in this notice that offers will be received up to Thursday, July 2, when a site will be selected by the department at Washington. The important condition is made that the plot must be a corner one and must be 160 feet by 147 feet.

An appropriation of $100,000 has been made by Congress and the larger part of this sum will have to be spent in land as it is necessary to locate the building in the business section. The site will be somewhere north of the railroad tracks and south of Green brook between Central avenue and Washington street.

Each proposal must give price, the character of foundation obtainable, the proximity to street cars, sewer, gas, and water mains, etc., and must be accompanied by a diagram indicating the principal street, the north point, the dimensions and grades of the land, the widths and paving of adjacent streets and alleys, whether the alleys are public or private, and whther or not the sity owns land occupied by sidewalks. The vendor must pay all expenses connected with furnishing evidences of title and deeds of conveyance.

Improvements on property must be reserved by the vendor, but pending the commencement of the Federal building they may remain on the land upon payment of a reasonable ground rent. The grantor must, however, remove al improvements on thirty days' notice so to do.

The right to reject any proposal is reserved. Each proposal must be sealed, marked "Proposal for Federal building site at Plainfield, N. J.," and mailed to the Secretary of the Treasury (Supervising Architect), Washington, D. C. No special form of proposal is required or provided.

BOROUGH WOMAN HURT WHEN AUTO HITS RIG

As the result of being thrown from her carriage, which was struck by an automobile near the Dunellen car barns Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstiehl lies severely injured at her home on Somerset street. A physician has been in attendance since the accident but the extent of her internal injuries has not yet been determined. The force of the collision threw the woman from the rig, and she struck hearvily on her shoulder.

Mrs. Rosentiehl was driving with her husband and their rig was proceeding at the side of the road toward Plainfield when an automobile, coming in the opposite direction, cut in sharply in passing and struck the rear wheel of the carriage. Mrs. Rosenstiehl was thrown heavily and the rig badly damaged. The auto's number was 32,342 N. J. and Mr. Rosenstiehl is making an effort to find out the driver's name. In the machine were two women with the motorist. The horse bolted from fright but was controlled by Mr. Rosenstiehl. Despite the damage to the rig, the boroughites were able to drive home.

MAYOR'S BOND VETO APPROVED BY P.P.A.

In reply to an query as to his opinion regarding Mayor Fisk's veto of a bond issue for temporary street improvements, R. Henry Depew, president of the Plainfield Protective Association, sent this statement to The Daily Press today:

"In reply to your letter regarding 'Street Bond Veto' I beg to say that in my annual report to the Plainfield Protective Association, which was written April 30, I expressed my ideas upon this and other bond issues, as well as upon increased expenditures and high tax rates, feeling that the time had come to call a halt.

"In addition to this the association is issuing a letter upon this subject, endorsing the Mayor's position and requesting the members and taxpayers, to whom the letter will be sent on June 4, to sign and forward to the Common Council postal cards which will be enclosed, requesting that the veto be upheld.

DROVE WIFE FROM HOUSE IN HER NIGHT CLOTHING.

Returning to his home on South Second street at an early hour this morning, loaded with liquor, Cyrus Alston, a colored barber, took on a belligerent streak and started in to bang his wife around. She alleges that he attempted to hit her with a brick and failing in this, struck her with his fist several times and then jerked her hair out in handfuls. She fled from the house scantily clothed and in her bare feet walked two blocks to Grant avenue to find a policeman.

Mrs. Alston informed the cop that her husband vowed if she came back to the house with a cop he would kill both of them and the officer called the patrol wagon. The bluecoats swooped down on the bad man and he was yanked aboard the hurry-up vehicle so quick it made his head swim. No causalties took place.

In court this morning, Mrs. Alston related a long tale of woe about her mistreatment and the prisoner answered back with stories about her entertaining men friends when he was away and driving him to drink. They both declared that they had planned to separate and the admission opened the way for Judge Runyon.

"If that's the case," he said, "clear out and do it."

Both left in a hurry, Alston asserting that he wasn't going to stop until he got to his old home in the south.

New Bridge on Johnston Avenue.

In accordance with the action of the Union County Board of Freeholders authorizing the construction of a bridge on Johnston avenue, over Cedar brook, the Board today advertises in the Daily Press that bids will be received for doing the work Thursday afternoon, June 11, at 3:15 o'clock, at 201 Park avenue. The bridge is to be seventy-three feet long, nine feet wide and five feet deep.

George J. Tobin Acts as Host for Local and County G. O P. Leaders

J. F. BUCKLE TOASTMASTER.

An Elaborate Affair at Hotel Waldorf Attended by Many Plainfield Leaders.

Union County's Republican leaders were conspicuous at the elaborate dinner given by George J. Tobin in honor of the Get-together Club at the Hotel Waldorf last night. In addition there were many from other parts who are prominent in the political arena. It was by all odds the most sumptuous banquet given in this city in a long time. The large dining hall at the hotel was filled with flowers. The menu was almost unsurpassable.

Former Mayor James F. Buckle acted as toastmaster owing to the unavoidable absence of Mayor Charles J. Fisk. Speeches were made by many prominent in Union county including Register Frank H. Smith, County Clerk James Austine Calvert, Edward Baurer, James White, Captain Robert Kirkland, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., the host. J. Willard Morgan, former State Comptroller, of Camden, former Register of Deeds J. J. Curley, of Philadelphia; E. J. Smith, of Trenton and J. J. Shannon, of Philadelphia.

EDITOR'S CRITICISM BEFORE GRAND JURY

A copy of the Summit Record of May 30 has been submitted to the Union County Grand Jury by Prosecutor C. Addison Swift with a request that that body sift the charges set forth in an editorial criticising the recent "mild sentence" of Salvatore De Lucca, of Summit, who pleaded non vult to a charge of murder, and intimating that through collusion De Lucca assured of a light sentence, had been substituted for the real slayer.

Commenting on the editorial yesterday, the prosecutor said:

"In my opinion I do not think the editorial merits much consideration, but inasmuch as it hints at collusion and that the grand jury ought to look into the matter, I have turned the paper over to that body, with a request that it make a full and searching investigation as to the truth or falsity of the assertion.

"I have no doubt that the editor of The Record will be summoned before the grand jury to enlighten it as to what he knows about the statements contained in the editorial.

"It is now up to the grand inquest to take whatever action it may deem fit. I have performed my duty in laying the subject before it for consideration."

Former Plainfielders Wed.

Miss Marie L. Brower and Cornelius Lyle, former Plainfielders, were married at Miss Brower's present home, Prospect place, Broklyn, Tuesday night. The bride formerly lived at Truell Court, and Mr. Lyle moved to Pittsburg from here, where he lived in the borough. Plainfielders at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Northrop, Miss Norma Northrop, Charles B. Morse, C. Wesley Abbott and Gordon Abbott. The couple will reside in Pittsburg.

Still Arresting Train Riders.

The railroad officials at South Plainfield are continuing their crussade against freight train riders and are making arrests every day. Yesterday afternoon Detective Jenkins and John Linaberry captured three hoboes who alighted near the station to hunt up "refreshments." They were taken to New Brunswick and lodged in jail.

SUNSHINE AND SOCIETY ATTEND OPENING OF THE FIFTH ANNUAL HORSE SHOW

Three Hundred Aristocratic Equines at the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club for Annual Exhibition.

RESULTS IN FIVE CLASSES.

Judge William H. Moore's String Fares Well—A Complete List of the Season's Box Holders.

The Horse is King in Plainfield today. Something like 300 of his kind, all proud stepping patricians, groomed with scrupulous care and ready to compete for honors, are at the grounds of the Riding and Driving Club where the fifth annual equine show began at 1 o'clock this afternoon. For the next three days the blue ribboners will circle about the ring while the elite of the city and vicinity applaud the winners in trophy competitions.

The judging of seventeen classes comprises todays program, the first being No. 14, three pairs of harness horses, novice. The entries were made by William Carr, Judge Moore and Otto H. Kahn and when they pranced into the ring in response to the coach horn's call, the applause was enthusiastic and prolonged. Included in the attendants in boxes and grandstand were many society people from New York, Philadelphia, Newark, Morristown, Bernardsville, Summit and Westfield. In numbers, records for all previous shows were broken and will undoubtedly be for the other days of the show.

These awards were made during the first hour of the show this afternoon:

Class 14—Novice harness horses, pair of horses 14.2 hands and not exceeding 15 hands. First, William H. Moore's ch. m., Pamela, and ch. m. Jessica; second, Otto H. Kahn's ch. m. Duchess, and ch. m. Princess; third, William Carr's ch. m. Elsa and ch. m. Evangeline.

Class 16—Novice harness horses, pair of horses over 15 hands and not exceeding 15.2 hands. First, Moses G. Byers br. m. Fluffy Ruffles, and bg. g., Raffles.

Class 35—Novice saddle horses, horses 15.1 hands or under. First, Harry T. Spratley's b. m., Lady Brook; second, Howard W. Beebe's b. g., Snip; third, T. J. Ryan's b. b., Lady Brook.

Class 9—Harness hores, pair of horses over 15.2 hands. First, Sandy Point Farm's b. g., Lord Burleigh and b. g., Lord Brooke; second, William H. Moore's b. g., Orator and b. g., Speaker; third, William H. Moore's b. g., Senator and br. g., Diploma.

Class 26—Ponies in harness, pony 13.3 hands and under. First, Elsinore Farm's rn. m., All There; second, Miss Mabel B. Hooley's br. g., The Little Corporal; third, William Carr's b. g., San Remo; fourth, Sandy Point Farm's entry.

The box holders are as follows: No. 1, Rufus C. Finch; No. 2, S. A. Cruikshank; No. 3, H. C. Irons and J. C. Gilbert; No. 4, William Palmer Smith; No. 5, George A. Beaton; No. 6, Percy H. Stewart; No. 7, John Bushnell; No. 8, D. F. Ginna and E. H. Ladd, Jr.; No. 9, Charles J. Fisk; No. 10, E. S. Hooley; No. 11, Thomas J. Mumford; No. 12, George P. Mellick; No. 13, Lewis E. Waring; No. 14, Mrs. John B. Dumont and Mrs. W. C. Delanoy; No. 15, Louis K. Hyde; No. 16, Harry G. Runkle.

Auxiliary boxes—A. O. T. Waring; B. E. T. Bedford, Brooklyn; C. Harry L. Hall; F. W. Buteir and Charles A. Reed; D. A. C. Beckstein; E. Charles W. McCutchen; F. W. J. Buttfield; G. Robert A. Fairbairn, Westfield; H, Edward F. Low, Westfield; I, Tonzo Sauvage, of Newark; J, B. A. Hegeman, Jr.; K, William L. Saunders; L. Henry L. McGee; M. Reginald G. Vanderbilt, New York; N, A. G. Hooley; O, lady exhibitors; P, judges.

There will be a large number of social affairs in connection with the show, one of the principal ones being a dinner to be given by Reginald C. Vanderbilt at the Watchung Hunt's clubhouse, Friday night. The show committee, officials, judges and exhibitors will be his guests. A similar dinner will be given by Judge Moore Saturday night.

POOL ROOM FIGHT IS AIRED IN COURT

The entire morning session of the district court today was occupied with the trial of the assault and battery case of James Calloway against W. H. Bohl, the result of a dispute between the parties while engaged in playing a game of pool at Blimm's Hotel on April 4. The argument arose over a certain play, the defendant contending that it was not a fair ball, while the plaintiff maintained that it was. In the heat of the discussion, Calloway was struck on the head with the heavy end of the cue and received a painful, though not serious wound.

Dr. F. J. Hughes, who attended Calloway, testified to the nature of the wound, and added that he was not obliged to take any stitches. The plaintiff was represented by Francis J. Blatz and the defendant by S. S. Swackhamer.

Dr. F. J. Hughes, James Roberts, John Ammon, John Todd and W. H. Henry were the plaintiff's witnesses, while Millard Coddington, Napoleon Schnell and William Howe were called as witnesses for the defendant. The case was tried before a jury composed of W. B. Grannatt, Fred Lancaster, Fred Stranzenbac, William Kreger, ohn Casey, Louis Berger, D. C. Smalley, Henry Heim, A. L. Jamerson, William Craig and George Pope, it being impossible to get a twelfth man and both sides agreeing to a jury of eleven men.

Both Mr. Swackhamer and Mr. Blatz made strong pleas in behalf of their clients.

The case was given to the jury about 12:30 this afternoon.

At 2:30 the jury reported that it could not agree upon a verdict. It stood eight to three in favor of the defendant. Judge Newcorn discharged the jury.

MRS. CHARLES HYDE GIVES PARTY FOR MRS. C. L. HYDE.

Mrs. Charles Hyde, of East Front street, gave a lawn party and reception at her home, yesterday afternoon, in honor of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles Livingston Hyde. The lawn directly back of the house was specially decorated for the occasion, the broad verandas were also arranged in an attractive manner. In receiving, Mrs. Charles Hyde was assisted by four daughters-in-law, Mrs. Dorsey W. Hyde, Mrs. Louis Keppler Hyde, Mrs. Charles Livingston Hyde and Mrs. Francis DeLacy Hyde.

After the guests had been introduced to Mrs. Charles Livingston Hyde they adjourned to the lawn, which even in its natural beauty was made more so through the use of flowers, palms, cozy settees and other decorative effects. During the afternoon an Italian orchestra of stringed pieces rendered a program, and a feature was the singing by a male chorus. There were a number of guests from Trenton, Philadelphia, New York and Brooklyn.

MR. McNAIR'S FUNERAL.

Brother of Deceased Takes Part in Service Conducted by Rev. O. J. Shoop.

The funeral of Thomas C. MacNair, whose death occurred Monday morning, was held yesterday afternoon at his late residence on Codington avenue, and was attended by a large gathering of friends and relatives. The service was conducted by Rev. Orra J. Shoop, of Grace M. E. church, pastor of the deceased assisted by Rev. J. Brandeth, of Brevose, Penn., a former pastor, and also by Mr. McNair's younger brother, who spoke of the the Christian zeal and devoted home life of the departed.

Interment was in the family plot in the Presbyterian cemetery. The pall bearers were George Hummer, John D. Higgins, W. J. Conroy and Corra Ryno. Those surviving Mr. McNair are his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Albert Giddis, of North Plainfield, one son, Samuel, of Monboccus, N. Y., also two brothers and two sisters.

In the Somerville Court.

In the case of Horace Coddington, a Somerville lawyer, against Bertha R. Gurnaud, of West Second street, to recover counsel fees amounting to $100, the jury at the court of Common Pleas, Somerville, today reported a verdict of no cause for action. Harry C. Runyon represented the local client, and W. V. Steele was counsel for Mr. Coddington. At the conclusion of the case, Judge L. H. Schenck dismissed the jury until Tuesday, when the circuit cases will come up for trial.

NORTH BRANCH.

The funeral of Ambrose Male, sixty-seven years old, was held Tuesday afternoon at his late home near Mt. Horeb. He formerly lived in Canada, and came to this county many years ago. He leaves a widow and several children.

The Reformed church choir and the Sunday-school children of Readington are rehearsing for the Children's Day exercises, which will be held on Sunday afternoon, June 14.

Misses Edith Stryker, of Newark, and Sadie Stryker, of Bound Brook, have been visiting at the home of William Neary, at Neshanic.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Erdley, of North Branch, have been entertaining Miss Ethel Kahl, of Westfield, for a few days.

Mrs. Louise Cramer, of Paterson, is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. E. Wade Clark, at North Branch Depot.

The prayer meeting of the Reformed church at Neshanic was held last evening at the home of B. J. Crispin.

George Barnosky, of North Branch, has been spending some time with relatives in New Brunswick.

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Smith, at East Second street and Mountain avenue, Bound Brook, were Mrs. Elizabeth Christopher and daughter, Miss Edith Christopher, of Asbury Park.

Mrs. Clarence Duryea and daughter, Miss Helen Duryea, of Somerville, were guests Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Duryea, in Prospect street, South Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Applegate, of East street, Bound Brook, lately had as their guests Mr. Applegate's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Applegate, of Plainfield.

Mrs. P. E. Apgar, of Elizabeth street, South Bound Brook, spent yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Herrmann, in Somerset street, Plainfield.

Martin C. Erisman, of Quincy, Mass., is being entertained at Knob Hill, the home of Mrs. Sylvanus Ayres, in East High street, Bound Brook.

Miss Martha Elting, of Caldwell, has been visiting at the home of her sister, Miss Everene Elting, in Union avenue, Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Clark, of East Second street, Bound Brook, have returned from a visit to relatives at Millstone.

Miss Katherine Stolz, of Franklin street, Bound Brook, has been visiting friends in Newark.

WESTFIELD.

An ordinance to pave Broad street Westfield, with vitrified brick, between Elm street and Westfield avenue, has been passed by the Council. Property owners along that part of the street will be notified to have water and sewer pipes put in order for the Council will not issue a permit to take up any part of the pavement for five years after it is laid.

The athletic meet of the Marathon Athletic Club of Westfield, which was to have been held last Saturday at Fair Acres Driving Park, will be held next Saturday if the weather is favorable. The entries for the first date will hold good.

J. W. Manhattan has been awarded the contract for laying stone sidewalk in Westfield. There is nearly a mile of new walk to be laid.

The Weldon Contracting Company has secured the contract to lay macadam pavement in Stanley Oval, Westfield.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Principal S. Dana Townsend offered several weeks ago to take the boy having the highest average during May to Coney Island. The averages were so good for the month that he decided to make the prize a trip for two boys. The prize winners were announced yesterday, Herbert Hudson and Irving Couch being the lucky ones. The trip will be made Saturday and the day will include all the attractions of Luna Park and any other which can be crowded into a day's trip.

Miss Lena Jahn was tendered a surprise party by a number of her school friends at her home on Park avenue last night. Several hours were enjoyed playing games and dancing, after which refreshments were served.

The Borough Council met in the Fanwood fire house last night. Besides the regular routine, there was considerable business transacted relating to the street and sidewalk improvements, which have been made this spring.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Circle connected with the Baptist church was held at the home of its president, Mrs. James H. Parks, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The members of the Methodist Sunday-school are practicing for Children's Day, which will be held Sunday evening, June 14.

The local ball team will take a good sized delegation with them to Somerville Saturday afternoon, when they play the West Ends.

Fanwood B. and E. Co. held its monthly meeting last night. Only the regular monthly routine business was transacted.

Miss Marion Goodman, who has been ill for a week with appendicitis, is reported as improving nicely now.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

John C. Dilts was awarded the contract for street sprinkling at a special meeting of the Dunellen Council held last night. Of the several bids submitted for the work under different conditions, the bid at $3.70 a day was finally accepted and the contract for the work awarded. The street committee of the Council, of which Councilman Starker is the chairman, is to decide what days the street sprinkler is to work. Permission has been secured from the Watchung Water Co. to fill the wagon from any of six hydrants in the borough.

Mayor Fisk's scheme for a trunk line sewer is meeting with enthusiastic support in Dunellen, where property owners have always felt the bad effects of the sewage disposal plant. Individually and collectively the boroughites are strong in their endorsement of the trunk scheme, which will greatly increase property values in the distrinct north of the railroad.

At the conclusion of the mid-week service in the Methodist church last night, the first quarterly conference was held, with a large atendance. Rev. Dr. D. B. H. Randolph, of Paterson, the new presiding elder of the district, was in charge at the conference.

Goldson Smalley has completed the work of trimming up the trees in the borough park, and the tract is now in fine condition for the summer months.

Miss Annie R. Wilcox, of Plainfield, will entertain the Embroidery club at her home tonight.

PASSAIC DOESN'T WANT POLICE OR FIRE BOARDS.

Passaic, June 4.—Voters in the special election held here Tuesday, by a good majority, favored the plan for a municipal lighting plant, and rejected measures providing for police and fire boards. The votes for the lighting plant numbered 999, with 248 against it, but every election district in the city turned down the other propositions, with the result that while 458 ballots were cast in favor 906 were adverse.

Only about one-third of the usual vote was polled. The vote on the proposed commissions was close in the First district of the Second Ward and three districts of the Third Ward.

There was some confusion during the day over the manner of voting. There was one box for the commissions and another for the lighting plant proposition. Many of the voters got confused and voted both ballots in one or the other box, while others purposely cast their lighting plant ballots in the commission boxes.

One element that contributed to the defeat of the plan to establish the boards was the fear that Mayor Frederick R. Low, in case the commissions were established, being given power to name the men, would put his friends in office and relieve Council of the management of police and fire departments. The special election cost the city about $2,000.

DEATH OF AGED MINISTER.

Right Rev. Edward Wilson Passes Away at Metuchen in Eighty-eighth Year.

New Brunswick, June 4.—Rt. Rev. Edward Wilson passed away yesterday at his home at Metuchen in his eighty-eight year. He was born in Liverpool, England, on July 25, 1820 and came to America in 1840, returning to England seven years later.

He came to this country again in a few years and took up his residence in Metuchen. He was first licensed to preach by the Methodist Episcopal church, and served several churches as pastor, among them being St. James M. E. church of this city. He leaves a widow, one son and three daughters.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the interment wil be in Hillside Cemetery, Plainfield.

Miss Susan E. Dunham, of Clinton, is visiting friends in this city.

Miss Francis Cahoone, of Watchung avenue, gave a theatre and dinner party in New York yesterday to six of her young women friends, prior to her departure on Saturday for a trip abroad.

MARSHALL & BALL TRU-TRED SHOES

For Men, Women, Misses and Children

It needs but a glance at this illustration to convince one of the radical difference in M. & B. Tru-Tred Shoes from other models.

Their perfect conformity to the lines of the foot provides absolute comfort and freedom. The even distribution of the natural strain results in permanent shapeliness.

And withal there's an air of elegance and refined individuality, resulting from the skill of trained workmen, which is reflected in no other model.

M. & B. Tru-Treds are made in both Oxfords and high shoes. Unlike ordinary Oxfords, they're made on Oxford Lasts. THEY DON'T YAWN at the ankle. THEY DON'T SLIP at the heel. THEY FIT ALL OVER.

The fact that Tru-Tred Models cause no overlapping of the toes nor undue pressure on sensitive parts makes them especially desirable for infants and children.

GOLF.

A novel tournament known as the first annual graduates' club handicap golf match will be held on June 6 on the links of the Dunwoodie Country Club. The event will be thirty-six holes, medal play. The committee in charge of the contest consists of Capt. Seth M. Milliken, Albert H. Bartle, George F. Cole, Angelo Porti and Walter F. Baylis.

H. V. Keep, chairman of the Englewood Golf Club's Tournament Committee has announced an interesting series of members' competitions for the season. The Dr. John A. Wells Memorial Cup will be the chief feature for competition on July 4, and on the same day will be played the qualifying round for the cup given by Donald Mackay.

The Shinnecock Hills golf links will be formally opened for the season on June 13 with an eighteen-hole handicap. The club will give its annual invitation tournament on August 6, 7 and 8. The club championship will begin Sept. 4. The Golf Committee for the season consists of Robert H. Robertson, Joseph S. Clark, and Chester Griswold.

H. J. Whignam, America's National golf champion in 1896 and 1897, has been elected an honorary member of the Fox Hills Golf Club. Whigham has been playing at Garden City recently, and made his first appearance in tournament play in the recent metropolitan championship.

The Presbrey championship cup will be the leading golf feature at the Dunwoodie Country Club during June. In the opening qualifying round four sets of ten will qualify for as many cups, the match play rounds being played off during the month.

Alex Campbell, the champion of the Eastern Professionals' Association, will go to St. Louis for the Western open championship on June 18 and 19. On the day preceding the start of the tournament at the Normandie Club Campbell will play a match with the present Western champion, Fred McLeod.

Entries for the three-day open tournament at the Wykagyl Country Club, New Rochelle, on June 11, 12 and 13, will close on June 9 with James R. Turner of 49 Wall street. Four sets of sixteen each will qualify in the thirty-six-hole medal play round on the first day.

The Y. M. C. A. team will journey to Newark on Saturday and cross bats with the State Association League team of that city. These clubs are now tied for first place and the coming contest will give the fans an opportunity to judge the relative strength of the teams. A large crowd of rooters will accompany the local aggregation.

Clinton Avenue will try conclusions with the Elizabeth A. C. on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon and everything points to a lively go between these aggregations. It is expected that Longstaff, the crack college twirler, will oppose Clifford Randolph and this will mean a royal battle for honors. The local team is in the pink of condition and under the able direction of Captain Brit. Martin should give a good account of itself.

WASHBURN'S LION "NERO" LEAPS INTO CIRCUS CROWD

Leon W. Washburn's man killing lion, "Nero," which is kept at Bound Brook during the winter and was seen with the circus in this city last month, escaped from its cage during a performance of the show at Greenwich, Conn., yesterday afternoon. The beast had become enraged by proddings from an ignorant keeper and jumped to freedom by throwing itself against a door not securely fastened.

The tent was packed with women and children at the time and they fled panic-stricken. "Nero" made no attempt to catch anyone and crouched down behind a wagon placed against the side wall of the tent. Mr. Washburn offered $100 reward for his capture alive and four circus men accomplished the feat. One of them succeeded in throwing a lasso about the lion's neck, after which the wheels of a wagon were taken off and the opening of the cage part shoved toward him. "Nero" was finally coaxed inside by pieces of meat.

The audience at the time of the escape included a large number of society women, among them Mrs. Frank Hastings, Mrs. Clifford Harmon, the daughter of E. C. Benedict; Mrs. Frank Gould and Mrs. George Nichols, also the children of Percy Rockefeller and Mrs. Rockefeller. "Nero" is but seven years old and has a record of killing three men. Residents near the Washburn farm on the Raritan river road were a little nervous when he was first brought there but they afterward grew accustomed to having him for a neighbor.

B. & O. INTO NEW YORK.

Running Arrangement Made With the Reading Railroad.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 4.—Following the election of President Oscar G. Murray of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to a directorship of the Reading Railroad in New York yesterday, news came out here this afternoon that the Baltimore and Ohio and the Reading systems are to be connected at once, thereby giving the Baltimore and Ohio a direct line into New York, and at the same time giving the Reading a direct outlet to Chicago and the West. The new Reading-Baltimore and Ohio line will make one of the shortest lines between Chicago and New York.

It is announced in Pittsburg that the survey for the connecting line has already been made; that the Reading is to be tapped at Shippensburg, Pa., the connecting line running southwest to the Baltimore and Ohio.

REFORMED SYNOD ELECTS

Rev. Dr. Chamberlain Chosen President of Denomination's American Branch.

NEWARK BANNER MEMBERSHIP

North Church First With Madison Avenue Church, New York, Second—Collegiate, N. Y., Third.

Nearly three hundred ministerial and lay delegates from various sections of the country were present yesterday afternoon at the preliminary meeting of the 102d General Synod of the Reformed Church in America, which assembled in the Grand Avenue Reformed church, at Asbury Park. The Rev. Dr. Ame Vennema, pastor of the Acquackanonck church, Passaic, and president of the synod, called the session to order. These new officers were elected: President, the Rev. Dr. William I. Chamberlain, of New Brunswick; vice-president, the Rev. Dr. Albert Ctmans, of Tokio, Japan. The new president holds the chair of philosophy in Rutgers College. The new vice-president is a missionary connected with the North Japan Mission. Other officers of the General Synod are: Stated clerk, the Rev. William H. De Hart, of Raritan; permanent clerk, the Rev. Henry Lockwood, of East Millstone; treasurer, Frank R. Van Nest, of New York city.

Dr. Vennema last evening preached the annual synodical sermon. Beginning this morning the regular routine business is being transacted.

One of the most important questions to be considered by the General Synod will be the election of delegates to the ninth council of the alliance of the reformed churches throughout the world holding to the Presbyterian faith and form of worship, commonly called the Pan-Presbyterian Alliance. The General Synod will send eleven delegates to the next alliance, of which the Rev. Dr. David James Burrell, of the Marble Collegiate church, New York city, is the chairman of the program committee. The proposed amalgamation of the churches holding to the Presbyterian faith and form of government will also be considered.

The foreign missionary committee will submit a report of its work during the year. At the last annual meeting a resolution was passed making it the aim of the board to increase its regular income to $200,000. It now has about $193,000 of this amount, which will enable the board to send out new missionaries to China and other foreign countries.

The North Church of Newark, of which the Rev. Dr. James I. Vance is the pastor, will show the largest membership of any church in any of the thirty-five classes of the General Synod. The Newark church has an enrollment of 1,572 active members, besides a reserve roll of 500. The Madison Avenue church, New York city, is a close second for a church worshipping under one roof. The Collegiate church, New York city, last year reported a membership of 4,108, but this total represents eleven different houses of worship.

PUPILS' WORK SHOWN AT SCHOOL EXHIBITION

Large numbers of parents visited the exhibit of art work manual training and sewing at the Plainfield High School gymnasium yesterday afternoon and evening, and every one who has not seen it ought to do so today or tomorrow. The exhibit is made up of regular work from the various schools of the city and contains many pieces of real artistic merit and attractiveness.

The art work is superior to anything yet shown by the city schools and displays work of great variety from free hand cutting with scissors and black paper in the first year to fine water colors in the High School. It is really wonderful how much little children of six or seven years do with a Japanese brush and common ink. In the sixth and eighth grades, there is much very attractive work with color. While not as showy as the color, the pencil work all through the grades and in the High School shows much skill. It is in the High School, of course, that the art work shows its highest development, and here there is variety of striking charcoal landscapes of original composition and water color landscapes, flower pieces and book cover designs.

The manual training and sewing is only in its second year in the city schools, but some really surprising work is shown. "Barnum's Greatest Show on Earth" is most graphically depicted by the kindergarten, also a farm scene and a series of household views, the furniture, etc., being cut and folded from paper by the children. In the third grade, weaving with jute is the main occupation, and there are many rugs and toy hammocks that show skill in weaving and harmony in color and design. The fourth grade takes up basket work and the exhibits contain baskets of many designs and styles, not a few of them equalling the famous Deerfield baskets in attractiveness.

In the fifth grade, the boys do knife-work and show picture frames, calendars, match scratchers, paper files, etc., while the girls show aprons and bags and a series of books after the style of the old times "sampler" displaying their skill in matching, patching and darning.

The sixth grade boys use the hammer and saw and other bench tools and have produced a wonderful array of brackets, bread boards, decorated letter holders, inlaid pen trays, etc. The girls display aprons, caps, handkerchiefs, etc., that shows they are making excellent progress in the old fashioned but most useful art of sewing.

The seventh and eighth grade boys show many pieces of a useful nature, with inlaid designs that require much skill and patience to produce. The High School work is large individual pieces; stools, tabarets, book cases, chairs, music racks, and a great variety of cabinet work.

There is also the new work with metal, showing neat sconces, fancy candlesticks, etc., of copper.

The exhibit will well reward every one who may visit it. It will continue through today and tomorrow, during the day, and evenings from 7:30 to 10.

The seventh and eighth grade girls have cooking as their manual work and will give an exhibition on the afternoon of Wednesday, June 10, in the Whittier building.

remainder is to be secured by a thorough canvas of the church, in which it is thought that every member of the church will have a part in the donations. The contracts for the work will be at once awarded by the trustees of the church and the actual work will probably be started within three weeks. The committee from the congregation in charge of the remodeling is composed of Rev. John Sheridan Zelie, H. G. Runkle, E. A. Ladd, Jr., W. A. Garrigues, John F. Harman, Mrs. I. C. Pierson, Mrs. F. G. Mead, Mrs. J. G. Foster and Mrs. J. F. Harman.

CONVICT SUED FOR TIME.

Jailbird Asked $10,000 for Working Over Eight Hours Daily.

Mount Vernon, June 4.—Justice Mills, in the Supreme Court, at White Plains, handed down a decision yesterday dismissing the action brought by John N. Rohrs, a convict at Sing Sing prison, who sued State Superintendent of Prisons C. V. Collins, Warden Addison Johnson and other officials for $10,000 for working him more than eight hours at the prison, which, he contended, is in violation of the State law.

This suit has attracted wide attention among the prison officials of the State as its success would have involved an entire change of discipline at all penal institutions. It is said that Rohrs was backed indirectly by the labor unions who hoped to restrict convict labor.

Rohrs was convicted of assault in the first degree, the charge against him being that of wife-beating. He was employed as a printer. The first trial was held before Justice Keogh and resulted in a disagreement of the jury.

SETBACK FOR BOORAEM.

Liquor Licenses Granted in Spite of His Protest.

New Brunswick, June 4.—Judge Booraem's attempt to command greater respect for the excise laws in this city partially failed yesterday when the Excise Board granted liquor licenses to William Morris and Francis Harding, who have been indicted for Sunday selling.

Judge Boraem personally wrote to the board about these two cases, and the County Clerk sent a certification to the board that the men had been indicted, but the men had been indicted, but the Excise Board granted the licenses with the explanation that indictments do not mean anything, and that if the men are convicted their licenses will be revoked.

The appointment of the board is in the hands of Judge Boraem, and several months ago he atempted to replace Chairman William S. Myers with James D. Anderson, but the appointment was contested in the courts, and is still there. Morris, one of the indicted saloon-keepers, is a brother of Charles Morris, one of the three excise commissioners.

The Misses Cahoone, of Watchung avenue, will sail on Saturday for an extended trip abroad.

Proposals for Federal Building Site.

Treasury Department.
Office of the Secretary.
Washington, D. C., June 2, 1908.

Proposals will be received, to be opened at 2 o'clock p. m., July 1, 1908, for the sale or donation to the United States of a suitable site, centrally and conveniently located, for the Federal building to be erected in Plainfield, N. J. A corner lot of approximately 160x147 feet is required. Each proposal must give price, the character of foundation obtainable, the proximity to street cars, sewer, gas, and water mains, etc., and must be accompanied by a diagram indicating the principal street, the north point, the dimensions and grades of the land, the widths and paving of adjacent streets and alleys, whether the alleys are public or private, and whether or not the city owns land occupied by sidewalks. The vendor must pay all expenses connected with furnishing evidences of title and deeds of conveyance.

Improvements on property must be reserved by the vendor, but pending the commencement of the Federal building they may remain on the land upon payment of a reasonable ground rent. The grantor must, however, remove all improvements on thirty days' notice so to do.

The right to reject any proposal is reserved. Each proposal must be sealed, marked "Proposal for Federal building site at Plainfield, N. J." and mailed to the Secretary of the Treasury (Supervising Architect), Washington, D. C. No special form of proposal is required or provided.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The second annual meeting of the Young People's Social Club took place at the home of Mrs. Sumner Randolph yesterday evening. Every member of the club was present. These officers were elected: President, Arthur Randolph; secretary, Leroy Clawson, vice-president, Walton Smith; chairman of social committee, Sadie Randolph. Two new members were elected.

There will be a rehearsal on Saturday of "Miss Matilda's School," a pretty little musical comedy which Earl Darlington will put on during the Independence Day celebration.

It is expected that South Plainfield will be well represented at the Plainfield Board of Trade this evening, when the subject of the new auto bus line will be brought up.

The condition of Mrs. Charles Jackson is giving her husband and friends a great deal of anxiety.

John J. Hannon is now a motorman on one of the extra summer cars in Plainfield.

Mrs. Oscar Thorne is suffering from tonsilitis.

RAILROAD MAN FELLED BY BOY STONE THROWER

While a westbound Lehigh Valley freight was passing through Saybrook, shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, a group of boys hurled a volley of stones at Conductor George Sandherr, of Leighton, Pa., who was sitting on top of a car. One of the missiles, weighing fully two pounds, struck him on the right temple and he fell back on the roof unconscious. He was seen to drop by other members of the crew, who had the train stopped and conveyed him to the engine cab.

Sandherr was still in a dazed condition when South Plainfield was reached and Dr. Currie, of this city, was called to attend him. He was given the necessary treatment and then sent to his home on the 6:40 passenger train. It was thought at first that his skull had been broken but a close examination showed that he had sustained a slight concussion of the brain.

Members of the crew were able to give a description of the boys and Detective Jenkins, of the railroad staff, was placed on the case. They were seen to scamper away after Sandherr was hit and one of them entered a nearby house.

CONSUMPTIVE'S RAPID GAIN.

Patient Took On Fourteen Pounds in Weight in Two Weeks.

The Verona Tuberculosis Sanitarium, near Montclair, announces more records in weight producing. Some time ago Dr. Isaac E. Gluckman, the Superintendent, made a statement regarding the rapidity with which patients gained in weight that was considered remarkable by the medical profession.

The Superintendent now announces that a patient admitted two weeks ago suffering from tuberculosis gained ten pounds in the first six days. This week he was weighed again and had taken on four more pounds in weight.

A young girl who was admitted recently from the State Hospital at Glen Gardner gained six pounds in as many days.

"If we had $10,000," declared Dr. Gluckman, "we would be able to take care of as many patients as the State can at the Glen Gardner institution, which cost $350,000."

MORE FIREMEN IN BAYONNE.

Council Votes to Have a Full Paid Department.

Bayonne, June 4.—The Council yesterday passed an ordinance doing away with the men-at-call system in the fire department and making it a full paid one. The change will be made on July 1, and eighteen new men will be appointed to the several companies. Councilman Joseph P. McCormack, Democratic minority leader, bitterly opposed the project and said:

"It cost the city only $21,000 to maintain the efficient volunteer department for a year. Last year you appropriated $38,000 for your department and this year you are going to spend $64,000. It is an imposition on the taxpayers and is a very expensive way of organizing a political machine." The ordinance passed by a strictly party vote.

HELLO GIRLS HAD TO LOOK.

Went on Strike When View of the Street Was Cut Off.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 4.—Angry because their view of the street below was cut off by window shades, rolling upward from the bottom, the girls employed in the exchange of the United Telephone Company at Berwick went on strike yesterday.

They declared the shutting off of the view was an unnecessary hardship which they did not mean to stand. The company is trying to fill their places.

FLAG DAY PROCLAMATION

Day of Honor for "Old Glory" Set for Monday, June 15 by Governor Fort.

"FITTING THAT WE CELEBRATE"

Recommends Reference to Fag in Churches on June 14—The Proclamation as Issued.

Governor Fort issued a proclamation today looking toward a more general observance of Flag Day in New Jersey than there has ever been before. The Governor's message on the subject is arranged in attractive style, with a cover design, and in folder form for mailing. The proclamation in full is as follows:

"On June 14, 1777, the Congress resolved 'that the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be thirteen stars, white, in a blue field, representing a new constellation.' This flag, with the increase of stars as the States have entered the Union, is the flag of the republic today.

"By act of Congress, the commemoration of June 14 as Flag Day is recommended. The flag stands for the sovereignty of the United States, the unity and glory of the republic. It is fitting that we celebrate the day and renew upon it our allegiance to our beautiful emblem of liberty.

"Therefore, I, John Franklin Fort, Governor of the State of New Jersey, do hereby appoint Monday, the 15th of June, (the fourteenth falling on Sunday), as a day to be observed as Flag Day throughout the State; and do recommend that all officials in control of buildings, and all occupants of dwellings, see to it that the flag be dsiplayed upon said day upon said day upon all such buildings; and that proper observance of said day be had in all schools, public or private, in the State, that the youth of the State may increase their admiration for, and devotion to, the National emblem.

"And I do further recommend that on Sunday, the 14th day of June next, the flag be displayed in every church and Sunday-school, and that suitable reference be made thereto.

"Given under my hand and seal of the State of New Jersey, at Trenton, this first day of June, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eight, and of the Independence of the United States, the one hundred and thirty-second."

In the Elizabeth public schools the anniversary will be observed the following day, June 15. Coming so near the end of the school year, however, the celebration will not be elaborate.

A number of local pastors are hartily in favor of the Governor's suggestion that some observance of the day be made in the churches, and it is expected that a number of sermons on patriotic themes will be delivered by local preachers. In the Presbyterian churches June 14 has been designated as the annual children's day, and in several the observance of Flag Day will be held jointly with this.

HAD HER ARRESTED TO MARRY HER.

Fickle Girl Kept Changing Her Mind Until Baigan "Put the Law on Her."

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 4.—Not until he had her arrested was Andrew Baigan, of Plymouth, able yesterday to make his sweetheart of several years, Josephine Blatsky, of Plymouth, marry him. After a long courtship he got her consent to marry him, but twice within the last month she changed her mind on days set for the wedding. The last time was last Thursday, when a few hours before the time for the ceremony she disappeared, leaving word that she had changed her mind again.

Baigan then had a warrant sworn out for her arrest for the larceny of $190 which he had given her to start housekeeping. Yesterday she was arrested at the home of friends in this city and taken before Justice Walters, of Plymouth. There she smiled at Baigan and said she had changed her mind again, and would marry him. Justice Walters officiated.

NEW NOTES READY SOON.

Printing of the $500,000,000 to Begin This Week.

Washington, June 4.—Preparations are going forward at the Treasury Department for printing the new bank notes required by the provisions of the Aldrich-Vreeland act. It is probable that the first notes will be printed late in the present week, and a considerable number will be ready for issue by July. It is expected, however, that there will be no special demand for the new currency for some time; that is, until there is a severe stringency of money. The same form of notes, however, will be used for the regular circulation of national banks.

It will be a large task to turn out the $500,000,000 of new notes, and since the law requires that a supply for each national bank shall be kept on hand in preparation for a possible emergency, it will be necessary to provide additional storage space.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Harry Smith, of Leesburg, was badly bitten on the leg by a dog in Millville, yesterday. The dog escaped.

An explosion of nitroglycerin at the South Millville Glass Works of Whitall Tatum Company blew a large portion of the acid-house to atoms, but no one was hurt.

The Misses Eva Brazne and Mary Elverson and Eva Reese, Mt. Holly children, were badly injured yesterday in a runaway accident. Miss Brazue's scalp was laid open to the skull. The children were badly cut and bruised.

Mrs. George C. Van Doren, of Trenton, began yesterday, in the Court of Chancery, a second suit for divorce from her husband, who is now living in Atlantic City, charging desertion. Her first suit, charging extreme cruelty, was dismissed.

A jury at Millville yesterday awarded one cent to Charles Dare, who brought suit for damages against John Murphy, charging that the defendant had sold him a horse through misrepresentation. The case was heard before Mayor Smith.

W. P. Ward, aged thirty-eight, of Philadelphia, a flagman on a Reading Railroad train, was injured so badly by jumping from a rear car to flag his train at Belle Mead yesterday that he died before he could be brought to the Trenton station.

Colin R. Wise has retired as county engineer of Passaic County and Garwood Ferguson is now in charge of that department of the county. Mr. Ferguson has selected as one of his assistants the son of former Alderman John Wright, of Paterson, who worked for some time in the office of City Engineer Harold W. Harder.

Henry P. Minchwarner, a barber, of Trenton, was yesterday sent to jail for the second time for refusing to pay his wife $5, which he was ordered to pay her weekly when she secured a divorce from him. He was brought before the vice-chancellor handcuffed, and when asked why he did not pay the money said he did not have it. He is reputed a rich man, but refuses to part with money to his former wife. He was sent to jail until he paid the money.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. A. C. McCrea is expected to occupy his pulpit at the First M. E. church on Sunday.

The monthly communion service will be held at the First Baptist church Sunday morning, when several persons will receive the right-hand-of-fellowship.

The quarterly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The subject will be "Alaska."

Commencing with Sunday, June 21, the Sunday-school session at the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held in the morning, instead of the afternoon, the change being for the summer months.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The contracting firm of Schenck & McAfee has dissolved partnership, each member of the firm planning to carry on the business individually.

—Henry Liefke will break ground next week for a new house to be built on West End avenue near West Front street. It will be similar in style to two houses Mr. Liefke erected on the same avenue a few years ago.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following local real estate transfers have been recorded at the office of the county clerk:

Merle S. Clayton et ux. to Ella Serrell, Union street, 128 feet southerly of Arlington avenue, Plainfield $1

Elizabeth Sheehan et al. to Mary E. Greeder, westerly side Park avenue, corner E. F. Randolph, Plainfield $1

Mary Anna Vail to Henry H. Bohl, Arlington avenue, 427 feet of Union street, Plainfield $1

Same to Dorothy Bohl, Arlington avenue, 347 feet of Union street, Plainfield $1

Abraham Kunzman et ux. to Ethel Steinman, Plainfield avenue, 159 feet of West Fourth street, Plainfield..$1

Plainfield Land and Building Co. to Robert C. Langdon, Denmark road 462 feet northeasterly of Ravine road, Plainfield $1

Philadelphia Record Feature.

The Philadelphia Record will publish, beginning Sunday, June 7th, a story by William J. Grimm, entitled "Onneta of Gnaden Huetten." This story is now published for the first time. It is a tale of colonial Pennsylvania at the beginning of the French and Indian War, and during the latter part of the active career of Conrad Weiser, the then famed but now almost forgotten Indian interpreter. This story should be of special interest to the Germans of Pennsylvania. It will be continued through June and July.

Place a regular order with your local news agent to be sure of getting a copy.

Edson Woodhull, of West Front street, has returned from a short stay at Lake Hopatcong.

MONSTER HOME FOR STUPENDOUS BUSINESS

"The Greatest Grocery Business in the World," is the way the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company advertises itself and surely with 317 stores, growing at the rate of one store a week, and supplying today over 750,000 separate families, or about 3,500,000 individuals, it is one of the mammoth concerns of the twentieth century in the business world. The company has just taken possession of its new home offices and warehouse in Jersey City, which are marvelous when one considers the enormous business transacted there.

A part of the stupendous yearly trade of the monster business can be learned from the following: Individual sales, 125,000,000; pounds of merchandise shipped, 364,000,000; eggs sold, 100,000,000; pounds of butter sold, 30,000,000; pounds of tea sold, 5,000,000; pounds of coffee sold, 35,000,000. There are 317 stores, 4,000 wagons, 6,000 horses and 7,000 employes, including the hustling, thriving and up-to-date store of the company in this city, which is so ably managed by George R. Vanderhoef. The groceries handled in one year by this company would fill a train 440 miles long.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 7, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Songs of the heart.—VI. What is true penitence.—Ps. li. (Consecration meeting.)

The Fifty-first Psalm is one of the deepest and sincerest expressions of repentance to be found in religious history. David had sinned grievously. He had broken two of the most serious commandments of God. God sent Nathan the prophet to him, who in a parable made David see and condemn himself, and when he saw what he had done he fell down in sackcloth and ashes and cried unto God for forgiveness and afterward expressed his repentance in the words of this psalm, which may well be taken as a type of true penitence.

Moreover, the subject of repentance is well worthy of our study, and especially today. The tendency of our age is not to emphasize repentance from sin. The John the Baptists who are crying, "Repent and be baptized for the remission of sin," are not so large in number as they have been in the history of the past nor as they should be today, for without repentance it is impossible for the human soul to find salvation in Jesus Christ.

What, then, is true penitence as expressed by David in this psalm? (1) It includes consciousness of sin. No man will ever repent of what he is not conscious. If he is not convicted of his sinfulness, he will never seek God to pardon it and to forgive him. Time had elapsed between David's sin and his repentance. He went on living as he had done before, but when Nathan, under God's direction, convicted him of his sinfulness the first step had been taken toward true repentance. Our difficulty today is the absence of deep conviction of sin. In many cases sin is made light of. It has been called a weakness for which we are not responsible. It has been defined merely as the "absence of love" or human selfishness. But sin is a transgression against the law of God. David realized this when he cried out to God, "Against Thee, and Thee only, have I sinned." So did the prodigal son when he exclaimed, "I have sinned before heaven, and in Thy sight." If you have never felt that you are a sinner, ask God to show you, as he did David, the true condition of your heart, and you also will be convinced of your personal sinfulness. (2) True repentance includes an apprehension of the mercy of God. David appreciated the fact that God was gracious and merciful. He had no fear in coming to Him. Much more should we apprehend the mercy of God today since it has been manifested in the gift of His Son as "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world." (3) It includes confession of sin. This confession need only be made to God. No man needs to confess to a fellow man unless he can make restitution for a wrong done. (4) contrition or sorrow for sin, and this sorrow must mean hatred of sin and a turning away from sin. The man who truly repents must give up his sins; otherwise repentance is a farce and a mockery. But if we truly repent God is able and willing to forgive us our sins. "If any man sin he hath an advocate with the Father, even Jesus Christ the righteous, who is the expiatory sacrifice for our sins."

BIBLE READINGS.

Job xiii. 4, 5; Isa. i, 16-18; iv, 1-7; Mark i, 14, 15; Luke iii, 1-8; xv, 11-24; Acts ii, 37-41; xxvi, 19, 20; Rom. ii, 1-4; II Cor. vii, 8-11.

More and Better.

Endeavorers, listen! Our glorious movement is not worn out. It has not seen its day. Through my specs I see nothing to discourage us, but only the fulfilling of an irrevocable natural law, and already the receding tide is gathering itself for a mightier effort. The waters are gathering and swelling and rising and will surely, with a glorious onward movement, sweep farther and yet farther up the shores of our national, social and religious life. We see with what pendulum-like regularity the law of action and reaction is executed in every phase of human life. In our national life we have our seasons of prosperity and commercial depression. In our church life we have our seasons of spiritual revival, followed almost inevitably by times of opposite experience, and who will not acknowledge the operation of the same law in his own individual spiritual life?

What is to be done, then? We cannot alter the law. No, but we can utilize it, and I think I may say that tide is the secret of all true progress, not in fighting against but in working with the laws which God in His wisdom has laid down for the control of all the forces of nature. The reaction has passed, and now we must set ourselves to make the utmost use of the immense force of this returning wave in our Christian Endeavor life and pursue a vigorous policy of expansion. —Australian Roll Call.

Filling Up the Ruts.

If it is a prayer meeting rut, fill it up with new voices.

If it is a committee rut, fill it up with new methods.

If it is a devotional rut, fill it up with new spirituality.

If it is a financial rut, fill it up with new consecration.

If it is a social rut, fill it up with novel sorts of socials.

If it is any manner of rut, fill it up with ingenuity, persistence and pluck. —Amos R. Wells in Irish Endeavorer.

Working For Things That Are Vital.

I wish you godspeed in your work, because the Christian Endeavorers are working for the things that are vital to the soul.—President Roosevelt.

But Hartley kept cool. He must have the machine. He'd be responsible for damages. He explained about the doctor.

"I'll pay you—so and so," says he. Never mind the price he offered. It was so big that I wouldn't be believed if I told it. Baker didn't believe it either till Martin pulled out a roll of bills and showed him.

"I'll buy the thing if necessary," says he. "But I'll have it. Come, skipper."

"The shofer's up at Shearer's house," says Baker. "He—"

"Never mind the shofer. I can run it. Send your man with us, and I'll leave the machine in his care at Brantboro. Then the shofer can come after it. I'll write to Mr. Shearer and explain. Come on."

"It's all right, Ben," I says. "He'll do all he tells you, and more. You'll never make a chunk of money any easier."

Baker followed us to the barn, saying "No" all the time. He kept on saying it while the Twin was getting up steam, or some such trick, in the auto. He said it even after he'd got the money in his hand. The hired man climbed in behind. Hartley and me in front. We chuff-chuffed out of the stable door.

"For heaven's sake!" hollers Baker, "take care of the thing. I don't know what'll come to me for this job when Shearer hears of it."

We got down to the street. I looked at my watch. It was 25 minutes past six.

"Now, Sol," says Hartley, "you must help me if I need you. I can use only one hand, so you pull whatever lever I tell you to. Hold your hair on. We're going to go."

We went—oh, yes, we went! I'd never rode in a buzz cart afore and inside of five minutes I was figgering that I'd never live to ride in one again. Suffering! how we did fly!

Lucky 'twas early. We didn't meet a soul on the road. If we had they'd had lively times getting out of our way. Away ahead somewheres there'd be a house with a dog scooting out of the gate, his mouth open ready to bark. Next minute we'd go past that house like a sky-rocket, and the pup would be digging a breathing hole through the dust behind us. I didn't have to pull a lever, for we had a clear field. Good thing I didn't, because I was too scared to know my hands from my feet. The stable man was actually blue. Next time I see Baker he told me that the feller had nightmare for a fortnight afterwards, and they could hear him yelling "Whoa!" in his sleep as plain as could be. And they in the house with the windows shut.

Afore I had time to think straight, scarcely, or remember to say more than a line or two of "Now I lay me," we was sizzling through Brantboro. We whirled into the big yard of the Cold Spring house and hauled up by the steps. Hartley piled out and I followed him. We'd used up just 18 minutes.

"Here!" says he to the clerk, a twin brother of the one at Wapatomac; "take this to Dr. Jordan's room."

He scribbled something on a slip of paper and chucked it across the desk. The clerk yelled for a boy and the boy took the paper and lit out. Pretty quick he comes back.

"He wants you to come right up, mister," says he.

"Good!" says Martin, tossing him half a dollar. "Lead the way."

The youngster started for the stairs, grinning like a punkin lantern. I flopped into a chair and felt myself all over to make sure I hadn't shook no part of me loose on the trip. Likewise I watched the clock.

In ten minutes more the Twin comes downstairs, and Dr. Jordan was with him. The doctor was a big gray-haired man with a pleasant face. He looked as though he'd dressed in a hurry, and he had a traveling satchel in his hand.

"I'll send you a check for my bill later," he says to the clerk. "All ready, Mr. Hartley."

We went out to the automobile. Martin started her up and we whizzed for the depot.

"Great Scott!" says the doctor, "I feel as if I had been pulled out of bed by the hair. Nobody but your father's son could do this to me, Hartley. Have you fellers fed yet?"

The Twin was too busy with the steering wheel to answer. I done it for him.

"No, sir," says I; "not since yesterday noon. Nor slept since night afore last."

Martin run the automobile into one of the horse sheds by the depot. Then he passed the stable man the bill that happened to be on the outside of his roll. 'Twas a tenner, for I caught a glimpse of it.

"Here," he says; "take this and wait here till the shofer comes for the machine. Well, skipper, we're on time, after all."

So we was, and ahead of it. We waited on the depot platform. I noticed that Hartley wa'n't saying much. Now that the excitement was over, he seemed to me to be mighty quiet. Once, when he walked, I thought he staggered. And he was awful white.

"Sol," he says to me, just as the train hove in sight; "you needn't come with us, unless you want to. Maybe you'd like to stay and attend to your boat."

I looked at him. "No," says I, "I'm going to see it through. The boat can wait."

I had to give him a boost up the car steps. As he got to a seat, he staggered again.

"Skipper," he says, quiet and with little stops between words, "I'm—afraid—you'll—have—to—look—out for the doctor. I'm believe I'm going—to—to—make a fool of myself."

And then he flops over on the cushions in a dead faint.

Doctor Jordan was at him in a second.

"It's his arm, I guess," says I. "He bruised it aboard the sloop."

The doctor pulled up Hartley's coat sleeve and felt of the arm.

"Bruised it!" he says. "I should say he did. The arm is broken."

Now you can bet that Martin Hartley wa'n't the only sick man aboard that train just then. There was another one and he'd been chirstened Solomon. When I heard that doctor say that the Twin's arm was broken I give you my word I went cold all over. Think of the grit of the feller—the clean up and down grit of him! Rampaging around, running automobiles and chasing doctors, and all that with a broken arm. And never even mentioning it. I took off my hat to that New Yorker. Crazy or not he could have my vote for any job from poundkeeper to president.

I wa'n't much good, but Dr. Jordan was a whole team and the dog under the wagon. He sent me for the conductor and between us we got Hartley into the baggage car and away from the crowd of passengers.

Then we rigged up a kind of bed for him on a pile of trunks and the doctor went to work.

He got Martin's coat off and his shirt-sleeve up and had a good look at the arm. Hartley opened his eyes while the examination was going on.

"Broken, doctor, isn't it?" he asks, weak.

"Yes," says Jordan. "Only a simple fracture of the forearm, though. We'll get off at the next station and find a comfortable place for you."

But he wouldn't hear of it. Not much he wouldn't. He was going to see that that doctor went straight to Eastwich. Said he'd had too much trouble getting him on that train to let him off it now, even if 'twas his neck instead of his arm that was cracked. There was considerable pow-wow, but finally Jordan give in.

"All right," he says. "Needs must if the old gentleman drives. The arm is in better shape than you deserve, considering how you've treated it. I'll make a temporary bandage, put you off at your home station, and come back and set the bone as soon as I can leave the boy. Hand me that box over there, conductor, please."

With a slat off a box in the baggage and pieces of Hartley's shirt, he spliced that arm as pretty as a picture. Then he rigged up a sling made of a couple of handkerchiefs, and there was the patient in pretty fair shape, considering.

When we got to Wellmouth the conductor—a mighty decent feller, he was—held up the train while I made arrangements with the driver of the Old Home house depot wagon to take Martin to the hotel. I was for going with him, but he put his foot down on that plan in a hurry.

"No, sir!" says he. "I want you to see that the goods are delivered. You get Jordan to the school on time and find out if there's anything else you can do to help over there. Then you can come back if you want to; but don't you show your head around me till the contract is carried out. If you do—well, my right arm's in pretty good condition yet."

In spite of the pain I knew he was in he managed to pump up a grin. I grinned back, but there was a big lump just astern of my swallowing gear.

The train got to Eastwich on time, and Lord James was waiting with the team at the depot. We drove to the Fresh Air farm like we was going to a fire. Miss Talford was at the door.

"Here's the doctor," I says. "How's the boy?"

"The pain is a little easier now, we think," says she. "Come right upstairs, Dr. Jordan. It was so good of you to come. Agnes hasn't slept since he was taken ill."

I followed the doctor and the Talford girl up to the bedroom. A mighty pretty room 'twas, too; all flowered paper, and colored pictures and sunshine. But I didn't notice these things much.

Poor little Redny! There he laid, in the middle of the big bed, his brick top shining against the pillow and the freckles on his nose like red paint spots on a whitewashed wall. He knew me and the first thing he said was: "Hello, Andrew Jackson." That was the name I'd always called him.

Agnes Page was there, sitting by the bed, holding the little feller's hand. She looked mighty hollow-eyed and pale. She shook Dr. Jordan's hand and thanked him for coming. She shook mine, too, and I noticed how her hand trembled.

The Duncan doctor was there, ready to begin his carving. Dried-up young squirt, with whiskers as scattering as corn-stalks in the Ozone garden.

GOLF.

The Englewood Golf Club's schedule of men's contests for the season includes a varied list of competitions lasting until well into November. Rawson Underhill has presented a prize for the lowest selected score at each hole made between September 7 and October 17. The tournament committee consists of H. V. Keep, chairman; H. W. Banks, H. M. Cone, John Munro and Fred Starbuck.

Inability to muster a representative team has caused the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association to decide not to compete in the tricity contest for the Griscom Cup at Oakley on June 11 and 12. The Boston team won the trophy at Atlantic City last year, defeating the Metropolitan and Philadelphia teams on successive days.

The Graduates' Club has announced its first thirty-six hole medal play golf handicap, open only to members, to be held on the links of the Dunwoodie Country Club, Saturday, June 6. Handicaps will be based on the Metropolitan Golf Association ratings so far as possible, and prizes will be given for the best two net scores.

BASEBALL.

The Junior O. U. A. M. team is playing good ball these days and on Saturday will meet the Garwood A. C., at Garwood. The Juniors expect to come home with their opponents' scalp. Walters will do the pitching for his team.

Fred Burchell, who is with the Boston Americans this year, is proving his worth as a pitcher. He has won a majority of his games against the big leaguers and is destined to be one of the star twirlers. It is with especial pride that "Jim" McGuire has been able to defeat his old teammates, the Highlanders, in two games.

The Metropolitan papers unite in declaring the two games at American League Park on Tuesday as the worst exhibitions of poor fielding on the part of the Highlanders witnessed in many moons. Even "Willie" Keeler misjudged an easy fly and with few exceptions every member of the team was off in fielding and batting.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Cycle racing fans will be treated to another innovation at the Newark Velodrome meet next Sunday afternoon, June 7, when a four-cornered match tandem race for a $500 purse will be held as the feature number of a lengthy card. The event will be at one mile, six circuits of the track, and the best of the American and foreign riders here will compete. The teams will be made up of National Champion Frank L. Kramer and Jimmy Moran, Joe Fogler and Walter Bardgett, Floyd Krebs and John Bedell, and Carl Vanoni the Italian six-day rider, who will have as a partner Norman Anderson, of Copenhagen, the Danish national champion.

N. P. H. S., 13; Roselle, 3.

The borough school nine trimmed the Roselle High School boys in a one-sided game played on Hope Common yesterday afternoon. The score was 13-3.

For Benefit of the Organ Fund.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of Hope chapel a successful dime social was held last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard H. Cook, of Prescott place, for the benefit of the chapel organ fund. There was a large attendance of members and friends, who enjoyed an informal program of vocal and instrumental music by Mrs. L. R. Howard, Clarence Rittenhouse and the chapel choir. After the entertainment refreshments were served.

FREEDOM CASTLE K. G. E., HAS BUSY TIME AHEAD.

Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will meet Tuesday night, June 9, when the nominations for officers will be closed to be followed by the election. The second degree will also be worked on several candidates. On Tuesday evening, June 16, a special trolley from New Brunswick Castle will bring its degree team to Plainfield to work the third degree on local candidates. The work will be performed in the new robes and the new paraphenlia will be used. A delegation from Somerset Castle will also attend that evening.

On Tuesday night, June 23, Freedom Castle will hold an open meeting to which all members are asked to bring a few of their friends to whom they desire to illustrate some of the working of the castle. A suitable entertainment will be provided. The meeting will be held in the Babcock building and will open at 8 o'clock. On Sunday night, June 21, will be observed the Castle Memorial Day and the members will attend divine service in a body.

MAYOR TOWNSEND LECTURES BOROUGH SCHOOL TRUANT.

Because his step-son is irregular in attendance at the Somerset street school, John E. Matthews, of West End avenue, got a talking to from Mayor Samuel Townsend at the session of the borough court last night where he was haled on complaint of County Supervisor H. C. Krebs, through the school truant officer. The lad, who is fourteen years old, is said to have been very irregular in his attendance at school during the past year, and has often been absent for three and four days at a time.

Mayor Townsend stated to Mr. Matthews that truancy must be checked, and imposed a fine of $1 a day for future absences. Mr. Matthews stated that the lad had been sent to school regularly, and that he could not account for the reported absences.

Annual Editorial Excursion.

W. C. Hope, general passenger agent of the New Jersey Central, on behalf of the management, has issued invitations to the editorial friends of the company along its lines, to join in the seventh annual outing to Island Park, near Easton, Pa., on Saturday, June 20. Special trains will leave Point Pleasant for Phillipsburg and Scranton for Island Park respcetively at 8:05 and 7:50 o'clock in the morning, and guests from nearby, intermediate, branch line and other points not shown, are requested to accommodate themselves to regular train service; special transportation being furnished to meet requirements upon receipt of proper advices. Returning, special trains wil leave Island Park and Phillipsburg in the afternoon; the hour to be determined later.

Violations of City Ordinance.

Numerous complaints have been received concerning a persistent violation of a city ordinance relative to throwing and sweeping refuse and dirt onto the brick pavement in the business section. Under present circumstances City Engineer Gavett is obliged to keep a force of men engaged constantly sweeping the pavement, and the fact that shopkeepers continue to sweep the dirt from their stores and sidewalks into the street increases the work to a large extent. The attention of the Board of Health was called to the matter yesterday but Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow declared that it was a question for the police as there is a city ordinance covering the trouble and it is the duty of the police to see that it is enforced.

Two Panhandlers Nabbed.

John Consulo and Thomas Wilson, were nabbed by Marshal Keller, of the borough police force yesterday for pan-handling on Somerset street. At their hearing today, Recorder Dolliver suspended sentence with a warning. The men left town.

WEDDED AT BASKING RIDGE.

Miss Harriet B. Edgar Becomes the Bride of Whitfield M. Culberson, of Lyons.

Basking Ridge, June 4.—A wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Samuel Edgar, on Main street, yesterday, when her daughter, Miss Harriet Brown Edgar, was married to Whitfield Morris Culberson, of Lyons. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. T. Reeve, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

The bride wore a gown of white point d'esprit and carried a boquet of bride roses. Miss Anna Lewis, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a gown of pink messaline and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Eleanor Bromfield, of Bernardsville, and Miss Jean Edgar, of New York, were the bridesmaids. They were attired in white organdie and carried bouquets of sweet peas. Raymond Henry was the best man and Thomas Day, Allen Connolley, Carl Greulock and Milton Allen were the ushers. The ring ceremony was used.

At the close of the ceremony refreshments were served. Among the guests were Mrs. Ira Smith, Miss Florence Smith and Arthur Smith, of Roseville; Mrs. Josiah Cross and daughter, of Westfield; Allan Van Der Hoof and Miss Edna Lewis, of Plainfield; Mrs. Rosalind Heckel and son, Mrs. Charles Vought, Mrs. Harry Linden, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heckel, Edward Heckel, of Bloomfield; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lynch, of Morristown, and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Bromfield, of Bernardsville.

WEDS OCTOGENARIAN.

Miss Margaret Denike, of Rahway, Becomes Bride of L. M. Perkins, of Kansas.

Rahway, June 4.—L. Murray Perkins, an octogenarian millionaire of Baxter Springs, Kan., formerly a resident and still a large property owner here, was married yesterday to Miss Margaret Denike, of this place, the ceremony taking place at the residence of the bride, Rev. Dr. C. L. Cooder, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, officiating. There were no ushers and no bridal attendants. The couple stood before an immense bank of roses and lilies. The bride was gowned in a blue traveling suit.

Mr. Perkins and Miss Denike had been acquainted since she was a girl in short dresses. Mr. Perkins' first wife was very fond of Miss Denike. A wedding breakfast was served. Among the guests were Mayor C. B. Holmes, Miss Margaret Denike, Mrs. L. C. Coder, Mrs. D. W. C. Coles, Mrs. C. D. Ward, Mrs. Frederick Squier, Mrs. H. R. Hough, Mrs. F. W. Sell, Mrs. Mary Westervelt, Miss Hatton, of Rahway; Miss Stoddard, of Sewaren; Mrs. Frederick C. Bardwell, of Westfield; Frederick Endres and daughters, of Newark, and Arthur Maurice, of Rahway. Mr. and Mrs. Perkins will reside in Kansas.

BOY SAVES HIS MOTHER.

SIX-Year-Old Attracts Enraged Cow to Himself.

Eastport, L. I., June 4.—Little Charile, the six-year-old son of Mrs. Charles Sadusky, a farmer's wife of this village, is the hero of the town tonight, the result of his bravely rescuing his mother from the fierece attack of a vicious cow.

The woman attempted to release the animal after it had become entangled in a rope, when the animal suddenly charged upon her. Again and again is gored the woman, tearing gashes in her side with its horns, and would have killed her but for the timely arrival of her little son, who was attracted by the woman's screams. He rushed to the spot, and by striking the vicious animal with a club caused it to abandon his mother and charge upon him. The little fellow, however, was too active to be struck by the animal's horns, and, springing quickly aside, escaped.

Dr. Rogers, a local physician, was unable to sew the gashes sustained by the woman, owing to their depth.

MRS. J. E. CORLIES GIVES BREAKFAST AT HUNT CLUB.

The first social function of note at the handsome new home of the Watchung Hunt Club, was a breakfast given there this morning by Mrs. J. Edgar Corlies in honor of her daughter, Mrs. John Hussey, of Pittsburg. Covers were laid for twelve. Those at the breakfast were Mrs. J. Edgar Corlies, Mrs. John Hussey, Mrs. W. C. DeLaney, Mrs. H. C. Adams, Mrs. Lewis E. Waring, Mrs. Daniel Runkle, Miss Dorothy Fisk, Miss Anna Fisk, Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton, Mrs. Charles L. Hyde, Miss Dixon and Miss Janet Wildey.

RUTGERS' COMMENCEMENT DURING WEEK OF JUNE 14.

The week of June 14 will be a busy one at Rutgers College. It is commencement week, and there will be something to occupy the attention of the collegians and their friends every day and evening.

The first event will be the usual baseball game between the faculty and the college team. On Sunday evening will be the baccalaureate sermon, preached by the Rev. Dr. John G. Fagg, minister of the Marble Collegiate church, New York city. Monday evening the concert of the Rutgers College Glee and Mandolin clubs will be given in Ballantine's gymnasium. Tuesday morning the baseball game between the faculty and seniors will be held. In the afternoon will be the regular class day exercises. The committee in charge of these is composed of D. J. Fisher, R. Lufburrow, W. Moffatt and C. D. Black. The various numbers on the program are as follows:

Oration, Harry F. Brewer, of Elizabeth; class poem, William N. MacNeil, of Brooklyn; Max Hemmer, Jr., of Newark; presentation of mementos, William P. Seddon, of Paterson; ivy oration, C. D. Black, of Port Jervis, N. Y.; planting of ivy, O. L. Owen, of Wyoming, N. Y.; pipe oration, William Berdan, of Paterson; tree oration, Elmer Kent, New Brunswick; planting of tree, Charles F. Thompson, of Freehold; presentation of class memorial, Robert A. Lufburrow, of Atlantic Highlands; address to the president, Daniel Safford, of Brooklyn, and address to undergraduates, Richard C. Rice, of New Brunswick.

On Tuesday evening the junior exhibition, which is the usual speaking contest by the best eight speakers of the junior class, will take place. On Wednesday, besides the various meetings of the alumni and the board of trustees of the college, the 142d annual commencement will be held.

D., L. & W. DISPATCHERS TO USE THE TELEPHONE.

New York, June 4.—The Lackawanna Railroad is preparing to replace its telegraphic system of train dispatching with the telephone. Poles have been set and wires are being strung on the section between Scranton and Binghamton, and work will be begun on other parts of the road as rapidly as supplies can be got. The officials expect that the new system soon will be in use on the Scranton-Binghamton division and over the whole road in a year.

For some time the Lackawanna has used the telephone largely in giving orders and between its general offices and the offices of the various divisions. The telephone was found so much more satisfactory than the telegraph that is was decided to use it for dispatching also.

Several Western roads, including the Burlington and the Northwestern already have adopted the telephone system. Railroad men say than in time the telephone wil supersede the telegraph in the dispatching of trains.

BURGLARS BUSY IN BAYONNE.

Nine Places Entered in One Night and Police Are at Sea.

Bayonne, June 4.—Heads of families in the fashionable residential section will sleep tonight with guns beneath their pillows and one eye open. The section is terrorized by a series of burglaries committed late Tuesday night or early yesterday morning. Nine places were entered by forcing windows with jimmies, and the gang is believed to have operated in two divisions.

They first visited George Voller's saloon, at Broadway and thirty-sixth street, where they rifled the cash register of $30 and helped themselves to liquor and cigars. They also visited the residences of A. P. Stontom, 16 East Forty-third street; Thomas J. Losey, 794 Broadway; Mrs. T. Thornbury, 14 East Forty-tird street; T. O. Hahn, 32 East Forty-third street; T. A. Price, 34 East Forty-third street; Mrs. W. L. Cook, 19 East Forty-second street; R. B. Sammons, 17 East Forty-second street, and W. N. Sloan, 27 East Thirty-fourth street. The police have no clue.

Edmund Rushmore, the real estate broker, has leased E. V. Cox's residence at 967 Madison avenue, to Robert Maverick, of San Antonio, Texas, who will make Plainfield his home for the summer. He may decide to live here permanently.

Where It Came In.

The scene was a doctor's surgery, and a very parsimonious patient had just been prescribed for. The medico handed it to his patient, demanding half a crown therefor.

"Half a crown! Why, there isn't sixpennworth of stuff in that bottle!" cried the man.

"No, I don't suppose there is, but I tell you what I'll do. The next time you come to see me just pay the sixpence and help yourself from all these bottles you see around you."

"Ah! but I shouldn't know what to take."

"O course not. And that's where the other two shillings come in."—Pick-Me-Up.

The Strawberry Huller.

The strawberry season does not bring the bane of discolored fingers that it did in the past. The strawberry "huller," a tiny tin arrangement similar in shape to a pair of pincers nearly an inch broad, does the work of hulling expeditiously and without soiling the fingers. It has the additional virtue of not mashing the fruit in the process. The huller may be used to advantage in picking the eyes out of a pineapple.

Embroidered Hosiery.

Embroidered stockings are in vogue. There are tan stockings embroidered in gold, while white have elaborate designs wrought out in silver thread. Floewrs follow the natural colors, while beads are introduced wherever possible. The simple polka dot in a contrasting color makes a simple but effective decoration. For really striking patterns, the butterfly lends itself to brilliant colorings.

Rather Rough.

"Smooth-faced villain!" hissed the beautiful heroine, as she signed the papers.

"What a base canard!" mutered the villain under his teeth. "The manager wouldn't pay me off last night, and I couldn't even get shaved."—Chicago News.

A Modish Combination.

The pot hat with a twisted sash outside and a succession of narrow lace ruffles beneath the brim, crushed well down on a mass of puffs and curls, crowns most fittingly the demurely gowned maid in her clinging cotton frock.

Good Advice.

"What are you looking so blue about?"

"I have just lost a splendid opportunity."

"Chirk up and advertise it in the lost and found column."

Matter of Taste.

"Do you consider it bad taste to pass your plate for the second helping?"

"No, indeed! It is mighty good taste when I am hungry."

Quick Touch.

"Believe in taking chances?"

"Sure thing."

"Now's your time."

"What do you mean?"

"Lend me a ten."

Linguistic Consistency.

"I suppose I really ought to wear glasses. My eyesight is very poor."

"Your ear hearing is all right, though, isn't it?"—Chicago Tribune.

Man Behind the Bill.

"I don't see how Owens can afford to wear a fifty-dollor suit."

"Oh, he can afford it all right, but I don't see how his tailor can."

Receipts from Students Larger Than in Any Other Year—Trustees Re-elect Officers.

Thirty-three graduates, the larges' class in many years, received diplomas at the seventieth annual commencement exercises of Pennington Seminary yesterday. The Rev. J. De Witt Miller made the address, and the diplomas were presented by Willis Fletcher Johnson, president of the board of trustees.

All the officers were re-elected at the meeting of the trustees held before the exercises. The annual report showed that the receipts from students was $13,000 larger than in any other year in the history of the seminary. The trustees authorized the expenditure of $5,000 for further improvements to the buildings.

SCIONS OF ROMAN NOBILITY AT THE HORSE SHOW

Prince Colonna Mingles in Fashionable Throng which Includes Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt and Other Society Queens.

HANDSOMELY GOWNED WOMEN.

Lavender the Prevailing Color in the Boxes—Mr. Vanderbilt Gives Dinner Party at Hunt Club Tonight.

Fashionable folk from New York, Philadelphia, Newark, Morristown and other places, as well as from Plainfield, filled the boxes and auxiliaries at the horse show yesterday. The real summery weather allowed Dame Fashion to exhibit her most striking creations and the many handsome costumes were features in themselves. Last year the opening day was quite chilly and tailor made modes were in the majority, but yesterday revealed elaborate gowns widely dissimilar. Lavender effects were in the majority.

Holders of the boxes and many out-of-town people as their guests while people well known as followers of the blue ribboners promenaded on the lawn in front of the stands. A much larger attendance is looked for this afternoon while tomorrow, as was the result last year, will be a gala occasion.

Prince Prospero Colonna and his son Prince Mario Colonna, of Rome, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Mellick, in their box at the show yesterday afternoon. Afterwards Mr. and Mrs. Mellick entertained their distinguished guests at dinner at their bungalow at Hillside. Prince Colonna was formerly mayor of the imperial city of Rome and has long been one of the foremost political figures in his country. He and his son are members of the proudest and most ancient houses of the Roman nobility.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, as was their custom last year, run in and out from New York every day in their large touring car. Tonight however, they will stay here as Mr. Vanderbilt has invited the officials of the show, the officers of the club and other promienent exhibitors to be his guests at a large dinner to be given at the Watchung Hunt Club's clubhouse. Judge W. H. Moore has arranged for even a larger dinner at the club for tomorrow night when the show closes. This is the first year that dinners have been made a feature of the exhibition. Several luncheons have also been arranged but they are of a more private nature.

Among the striking gowns noted yesterday were the following:

Mrs. Daniel Runkle—white lingerie gown, white lace coat; white chip hat trimmed with lilacs.

Mrs. Lewis E. Waring—ceil blue crepe de chine, Empire, white lace guimpe; black hat with black plumes.

Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley—white serge; white hat, cerisse silk, black osprey.

Mrs. Charles J. Fisk—grey chiffon cloth; white hat, yellow roses, white osprey.

Mrs. Leon Moran—white lingerie gown, pongee cot; black hat.

Mrs. John Atkinson Thayer—black and white striped tailor-made.

Mrs. Walter McGee—lavender gown with white hat.

Mis Elsie Martin—gray bordered satin foulard; black hat.

Mrs. Madge Clark Mack—old blue cloth and silk gown with cloth coat; black hat, old blue plumes.

Miss Anna Fisk—Empire gown of brown foulard; hat with single plume to match.

Miss Eleanor Waring—violet satin; violet hat with white plumes.

Mrs. Harry McGee—black and white tailor made; black hat.

Mrs. R. Story Rowland—embroidered white linen coat suit; black hat with tulle and osprey.

Mrs. Paul Taylor Brown—white serge; lilac hat with wings to match.

Miss Annie L. Seward—white linen shirt waist suit; hat with white straw crown, embroidered linen brim, blue ribbon and red roses.

Mrs. Lewis G. Timpson—Empire gown of white taffeta cloth; brown hat.

Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman—black voile with white Irish crochet yoke; violet hat trimmed with violets.

Mrs. Charles Arthur Reed—dark blue tailor made; black hat with green wings.

Miss Edith Smalley—mode broadcloth; brown hat with brown wins.

Mrs. Howard Beebe—black crepe

SUGGEST SITE FOR P. O.

Board of Trade Appears to Favor The Durlach Property for Purpose.

DISCUSS SEWERAGE SCHEME.

Auto Bus Promoter Further Explains His Plans—Board Pays Bills for Realty Exchange Outing.

The Board of Trade at its June meeting, last night, endorsed the proposition for the new Federal building to be built here and expressed itself favorable to the property at Watchung avenue and East Front street, as the best site for the structure. Secretary A. S. Herr stated that the property may be purchased for a reasonable figure. It appeared to be the general opinion of those present that a better location could not be found and that in the future the central point of the city will be in that vicinity.

There was a brief discussion of Mayor C. J. Fisk's proposition concerning a trunk sewer to include Plainfield and the surrounding towns. It was announced that a special meeting would be held in the fall for the purpose of discussing the plan and experts would be invited to give their opinions relative to it.

Milton Mendel, who is interested in the establishment of an automobile bus line between this city, South Plainfield and Metuchen, stated that he had interviewed members of the Plainfield Merchants' Association, and also Mayor C. J. Fisk and that both had given their endorsement to the scheme. It is proposed to incorporate a company and select officers from representatives of the Board of Trade and the Plainfield Merchants' Association. Mr. Mendel explained further that Mayor Fisk had made a good suggestion for a change in the route, that is to have the autos run through Front street from Plainfield avenue, passing the postoffice and turning into Park avenue. This will probably be adopted.

It was also stated by Mr. Mendel that he had interviewed the merchants regarding the bus line and they had promised their financial support. Other remarks favorable to the proposition were made by President H. W. Marshall and C. W. Runyon.

Francis K. Anderson, Alden E. Moore, W. J. Trembath and W. H. Olmstead were elected to membership.

It was suggested by Mr. Anderson that there be a revision of the by-laws of the board and a committee comprising A. S. Herr, C. W. Runyon and Mr. Anderson was appointed to do the work. They will report in the fall, as the meeting last night was the last one until then.

There was a report from the secretary regarding the entertainment of the representatives of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange, and the bill of expense was approved and ordered paid. The visit of the real estate men was voted a success.

Reference to the new publication, "The Site Seeker," was made by Francis K. Anderson, who is associated with Alden E. Moore in the enterprise, and it is expected that the first issue will appear the latter part of the month. Arrangements for mailing copies of it were decided upon, the board agreeing to take a certain number.

Funeral of Gladys Dushanek.

Three clergymen participated in the funeral service of Miss Gladys Dushanek, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dushanek, of Fanwood, yesterday afternoon. It was held at the parents' home and was conducted by Rev. Oscar Voorhees, pastor of the Reformed church at High Bridge, assisted by Rev. W. H. Mulford, of Fanwood, and Rev. Edward Love, of Plainfield. Two selections were sung by a trio composed of Mrs. Edward Hand, Mrs. John Lindahl and Mrs. George Dunn. Burial was made in Evergreen cemetery, Elizabeth, Rev. Mr. Voorhees conducting a short service at the grave.

Superintendent Baxter at Exhibit.

Charles J. Baxter, State superintendent of schools, visited the exhibition of manual training and art at the Plainfield High School last night. He was the guest of Superintendent of Schools Henry M. Maxson and expressed his surprise and gratification at the character of the work displayed. The gymnasium was thronged with visitors during the entire evening, and the exhibition was conclude tonight.

MANY BIG FEATURES FOR FIREMEN'S SHOW

Among the many novelties to be shown at the Firemen's Carnival, June 15 to 20, the "Horse Show" deserves special mention on account of the many freaks of nature exhibited in that tent, foremost of which is "Blue Bell," a horse entirely without hair any place on its body; "Jessie," the cow with a human skin; "Hiram" the largest horse on earth, measuring 21 hands high, a little over 7 feet high, and "Admiral Dot," one of the smallest perfectly formed horses. There are twenty other shows headed by the Feraris Trained Wild Animal show, twenty cages of Forest bred lions, tigers, leopards, hyenas, bears and so forth. This one show requires nine long railroad cars to transport it.

The firemen are meeting with a very liberal response in the sale of tickets and feel very much encouraged in their efforts to increase their Pension and Relief Fund.

The contest for queen of the Carnival is progressing satisfactorily, and some of the lodges have already appointed candidates to represent them while others wil do so in the near future. The presentations consists of a solitaire diamond ring, sterling silber toilet set, and a gold handled umbrella.

ASSOCIATION WOMEN AT DINNER IN Y.W.C.A

Marking the conclusion of association activities for the summer months, about 150 members of the Y. W. C. A., gathered at the association rooms on East Front street for a "members dinner." The affair, arranged by Mrs. Elliott T. Barrows, proved a big success, and banquet tables were spread in each of the rooms on the main floor of the association building, as well as in the gymnasium, where seventy-seven members dined.

The table decorations, in charge of Miss Marion McCutcheon and Miss Mazie Day, were particularly effective. In the association building the general color scheme was yellow and white, and the tables were decorated with honey-suckle vines and masses of cut flowers. In the gymnasium, the decorations were pink, peonies and roses being used in great abundance. Seated at the various tables, with the members of the association, were the women of the board of directors. Those present included Mrs. F. G. Mead, Mrs. Charles Tennant, Mrs. John Gray Foster, Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs. Robert Lowry, Mrs. William A. Connor and Mrs. Frederick Andrews, who assisted Mrs. Barrows in the arrangements for the affair.

The various classes of the association were grouped together at the individual tables, where singing and table games made the banquet a lively one. The menu included fresh strawberries in nests of berry leaves, an iced tea punch, cold meats, potatoes a la Silver Bay, chicken salad, ice cream and cake.

Flomerfelt, Penniless, A Free Man.

Jacob Flomerfelt, of Gladstone, was released from the county jail at Somerville today after having served four months in prison. He was indicted several years ago for the killing of his brother-in-law, Constable Frank D. Cramer, but though twice tried, the jury failed to agree in each case. He has returned to his farm at Gladstone. It is said that the expense of the two trials has left him practically penniless.

MARK SOLDIERS GRAVES

Union County Freeholders Provide for Headstones for Departed Veterans

WILL CARE FOR THE GRAVES.

Messrs. Wilbur, Cody, Smith, Pierson and Cladek Appointed as a Committee for Purpose.

The Union County Board of Freeholders at its June meeting yesterday, adopted resolutions providing for the care and preservation of the soldiers' graves and plots in all cemeteries in Union county, and suitably marking the same with appropriate headstones. The resolutions were introduced by Freeholder J. Hervey Doane, of this city, and were unanimously adopted after general discussion. It was provided that the cost of headstones shall not exceed $15 each. A standing committee, comprising Freeholder Wilbur, Cady, Smith, Pierson and Cladek was appoinetd to carry out the provisions of the resolutions.

It is the intention of the committee to confer with the county attorney, W. R. Codington, for the purpose of ascertaining exactly what righst it has in the matter and then the work will be taken up.

The action of yesterday carries with it authority to place suitable headstones in the burial plot of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., in Hillside cemetery, and the plans and specifications for these headstones to be furnished by the board and specifications for these headstones to be furnished by the board were approved, and the clerk was instructed to forward a properly prepared draft in duplicate to the Adjutant-General of the State for his approval. This matter has been under consideration for some time, it having been brought to the attention of the board that in the past no one has been resuonsible for the care of soldiers' plots and the proper marking of the same. Under the action of yesterday they will receive every attention in the future.

DRESS SAVES CHILD, INJURED BY A FALL

Miss Louise Fisher, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Fisher, of New York, who is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Msr. John Ammon, of Duer street, was severely injured this morning while playing about an old cedar stump in the yard. She had repeatedly attempted to climb to the top of the stump, when she slipped and fell against the ragged edges, one of the sharp points striking her in the groin inflicting a three cornered gash. Her screams attracted the members of the household, who rushed to her assistance.

The child was carried to the house and Dr. Albert Pittis was summoned. In his opinion the injury will not prove serious. The child's dress undobtedly was the means of saving her life, preventing a more serious wound.

ATWATER METES OUT A SEVERE SENTENCE

Following his trial yesterday, when he was found guilty on one count of stealing a bicycle belonging to Nicholas Thul, and his plea this morning of non vult on the other five counts, Ignatz Mryskovitz, of Dunellen, was immediately sentenced by Judge Atwater to two years at hard labor in State prison. Albert Harsen, who was indicted on one count, entered a plea of not guilty and he will be placed on trial Monday, June 15.

Mryskovitz was arrested several months ago and indicted on six different counts and was placed on trial yesterday. The case occupied the entire day. Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., represented the State and Alfred A. Stein was counsel for the defendant.

An important point was made by the prosecution when it presented a confession made by the defendant at police headquarters in this city, in which he admitted taking the bicycles. Yesterday he claimed that not undertanding English very well he did not realize what he was doing and then he contended that Albert Harsen was the man who stole the wheels and delivered them to him.

NEIGHBORING MAYORS FOR JOINT SEWER PLANT

Since Mayor Fisk embodied is ideas on the subject in a special message to the Common Council on Monday night, two neighboring mayors have given their endorsement to the scheme to build a joint sewage disposal plant for Plainfield, South Plainfield, New Market, Dunellen, Fanwood, Scotch Plains, Lincoln, Bound Brook, Raritan, Somerville and New Brunswick. Mayor Townsend, of North Plainfield, was the first to stamp his approval on the suggestion. H. J. Swackhamer, as mayor of Dunellen, is the other executive who wants to see the plan accomplished.

In giving his views, Mayor Townsend has said, "I think that Mr. Fisk's idea is a very good one and is worth an impartial and thorough investigation. Sooner or later we will have to do something of the sort and I think Mr. Fisk's plan is about as good as any."

Mayor Swackhamer said today in expressing his willingness to cooperate in the movement: "The suggestion made by your mayor, Charles J. Fisk, as published in your paper on Tuesday regarding the installing of a joint sewerage disposal system, is an excellent idea. It was advocated some years ago and I trust that now immediate action will be taken, and that all your neighbor boroughs and towns will join in helping to push it forward. There is no question but what such a system will have to be installed sometime, and in my opinion the sooner the better. I will do all possible for its promotion."

Mayor Florance of New Brunswick, declines to make any comment until he is officially notified of the message sent by Mayor Fisk to the Plainfield Common Council.

P. P. A. APPROVES VETO

Civic Organization Appeals to Taxpayers to Protest Against Bond Issue.

CITIZENS UPHOLD THE MAYOR.

E. T. Barrows, John M. Whiton and J. E. Martine Endorse Mr. Fisk's Action in Not Approving Issue.

Rallying to the support of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, the Plainfield Protective Association and individual taxpayers come out today in no uncertain language as to the wisdom of his vetoing the Common Council's action in providing for an issue of bonds to defray the expense of improving various thoroughfares. Mr. Fisk in sending back the ordinance without his approval declared his unequivocal opposition to any more bond issues excepting those which are absolutely necessary and which are for improvements of a permanent nature solely.

The Plainfield Protective Association in its appeal to the taxpayers, urges all residents to write to the city fathers and to attend the meeting of that body next Monday night to protest in person against the passage of the ordinance over the Mayor's head.

This is the P. P. A. circular:

"Gentlemen—At the May meeting of the Common Council a blanket ordinance for macadamizing the following streets was passed:

"North avenue: Berkman street to Terrill road. No petition on file. Leland avenue: South avenue to Front street; property interested, 6,900 feet; petition only 1,359 feet. Netherwood avenue: East Front street to East Second street; property interested, 1,416 feet; petition only 350 feet. Monroe avenue: West Seventh street to West Eighth street; no petition on file. West Eighth street: Monroe avenue to city line; property interested, 2,280 feet; petition only 1,207 feet. West Third street: Monroe avenue to Clinton avenue; property interested, 3,280 feet; petition only 930 feet. Clinton avenue: West Third street to city line; no petition on file.

"For the purpose of obtaining money for this work 3-year bonds to the amount of $17,000 are to be issued, which bonds will be retired through the assessment of a portion of the amount against the property benefitted, the balance to be paid by the City.

"This ordinance has been vetoed by the Mayor for the following reasons:

"That bonds should not be issued for the improvement of streets in the outlying sections of the City, especially, as in two cases no petitions were signed and in all others, except one, a smal percentage only of the property owners were signers.

"That a large proportion of the property is unimproved, low priced property and should not be loaded down with assessments for improvements unles agreed to or petitioned for by a large majority of the property owners.

"That several nearby cities got into financial difficulties from issuing bonds for improvements in advance of requirements, and

"That if the owners of property on these streets wish the work done they should go back to the old method of paying their share in advance and thereby avoid the expense of assessment by commissioners and the delay in collection.

"In our annual report, which will be printed and mailed shortly, we called attention to the rapidly increasing bonded indebtedness and the increasing expenses and tax rate of the city; to the danger of going ahead too fast and to the fact that conservatism and not extravagance or thoughtlessness should govern the actions of the city authorities.

"We are heartily in accord with Mayor in his veto of this ordinance and particularly so, for the reason that, while the amount involved is not large, compared with others past and to come, te precedent will, if established, be a bad one.

"Street improvements should not be included in blanket ordinances. Offered in this way the alternative is presented of ordering improvements which, while desired by certain (often speculative) property owners are neither necessary nor desirable from a public standpoint; or of rejecting improvements which may be necessary or meritorious.

"Each street should be covered under a separate ordinance, which should be passed or rejected unon its merits.

"When this ordinance was first discussed a number of other streets, some of them running through specu-

Judge's Fine String of Noble Equines Capture Four Blues on Opening Day of Local Club's Greatest Horse Show.

BUTTFIELD'S PAIR WINNERS.

Miss Hooley's friends disappointed on First Day—Today's Program Include 16 Classes.

Weather that was almost ideal and a large attendance of society folk from this city and nearby places, combined to give Plainfield's fifth annual horse show at the Riding and Driving Club's grounds an auspicious start yesterday afternoon. Seventeen classes passed before the judges and the program proceeded along on schedule time. Predictions that the present exhibit will surpass anything of the kind attempted locally have already been sustained and complete success is assured.

First honors for the initial day were captured by Judge William H. Moore's entries. His horses took four blue ribbons, two reds, two yellows and one white out of the nine classes in which they appeared. They were opposed every time by four-footed patricians from Reginald C. Vanderbilt's Sandy Point farm, these animals taking two blues, two reds, one yellow and one white. One of the biggest surprises of the day took place in Class 22 for the Thomas W. Lawson cup, when Mr. Vanderbilt's "Lord Burleigh" and "Lord Brook" were beaten by Judge Moore's entries, "Pride o'Prides" and "King of Kings." "Lord Burleigh" and "Lord Brooke" won the trophy last year when they were the property of J. W. Harriman and if they had taken it again yesterday the cup would have gone to Mr. Vanderbilt permanently. He handled the reins himself but the pair failed to show up in the form expected of them.

A big disappointment to local people was the fact that Miss Mabel Hooley failed to land a blue on the first day. Her horses were shown with the pick of the big strings and though at times the decision was long in doubt they were placed second three times while in Class 31 for saddle animals, "Mansfield Bay" was awarded the white. Miss Hooley rode or drove every time and surprised the spectators by appearing in the jumping class with "Crusher," a new phase of horsemanship for her. She sent him over the barriers for several clean-cut jumps and captured a red.

W. J. Buttfield's well known team, "Miss Banahan" and "Miss Westcott" won the blue in the roadster class, although the preliminary applause from the grandstand ndicated that M. F. and J. J. McDonald's pair "Huro" and "Hero" were the favorites. The latter were placed second. George Watson, Jr., started off well by taking two blues but Otto H. Kahn did not equal his record of other years. His winnings were two reds, a yellow and a white. Miss Emily Bedford's "Miss Ann" was awarded the blue in Class 33 for saddle horses while the same animal was placed third in the combination harness and saddle class.

Other blue ribbon winners for the day were Moses G. Byer, J. T. Spratley, the Elsinore Farm, Mrs. H. Reeves Stockton and G. R. Cook, all of whom took one. The Westchester Farm's champion jumper, "Centennial," captured the blue in both classes in which he was entered while "Taconite" took a red. Sidney Halloway rode. Horses from the McCutchen stable were awarded two yellows.

The program for today's judging comprises sixteen classes and will include No. 23, which carries the Official Blue Book cup, for harness horses. It was won last year by Mr. Vanderbilt's "Dr. Selwonk" who will again compete today. In view of the fact that "Dr. Selwonk" was beaten yesterday for the first time in his career by Judge Moore's "Orator," in the Victoria class, and will be matched against him this afternoon, unusual interested is manifested.

The summaries for yesterday's classes are as follows:

Class 14—Novice harness horses, pair of horses 14-2 hands and not exceeding 15 hands. First, William H. Moore's ch. m., Pamela and ch. m., Jessica; second, Otto H. Kahn's ch. m., Duchess and ch. m., Princess; third, William Carr's ch. m., Elsa and ch. m., Evangeline.

Class 16—Novice harnes horses,

Sewer Assessments

SECOND NOTICE.

The subscriber, the Collector of Taxes of the City of Plainfield, hereby gives notice pursuant to section 25 of the act of the Legislature entitled "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," Approved April 7th, 1890, and the amendments thereof and supplements thereto, that unless the assessments hereinafter specified, with interest thereon at the rate of six per centum per annum, and all costs and fees shall be paid to the subscriber, at his office, No. 151 North Avenue, Plainfield, N. J., within thirty days after the first publication of this (being the second) notice, the subscriber will, on at his said office, No. 151 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, between the hours of one and five o'clock in the afternoon, that is to say, at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, proceed to make sale of and to sell at public auction, the several parcels of land and real estate upon which the said assessments shall remain due and unpaid, being those hereinafter particularly described, for the lowest term of years, but in no case exceeding fifty years, for which any person will take the same and pay the amount of such assessment, with the interest thereon as aforesaid, and all costs and fees, including the expense of advertisement and sale. The assessments above referred to are the assessments made by Robert A. Meeker, Samuel P. T. Wilbur and Harry B. MacDonald, the Commissioners of Assessments of the City of Plainfield heretofore appointed under the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to provide for the appointment of Commissioners of Assessments to assess damages and benefits under and by virtue of the act entitled 'An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State,' approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto," Approved February 8th, 1905, as ratified and confirmed by the Common Council of said city, August 5th, 1907, containing the assessments of damages and benefits or expenses as the case may be, for the making and constructing of sewers and appurtenances, (including house connections) under and by virtue of the act of the Legislature entitled "An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," Approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and ordinances and other proceedings of the Common Council had under said acts of the Legislature, said report and assessments covering the whole of said system of sewerage and appurtenances then already completed (not covered by assessments heretofore made) in and through the following named streets and parts of streets, to wit:

Darrow Avenue; North Front Street; Park Lane; Park Terrace; Irving Place;
Essex Street, between Spooner Avenue and Darrow Avenue;
Midway Avenue, between East Third Street and Berckman Street;
East Sixth Street, between Richmond Street and Central Street;
Columbia Avenue, between Frederick Street and Leland Avenue;
East Seventh Street, between Leland Avenue and Belvidere Avenue;
Berckman Streett, between East Front street and North Avenue;
East Fourth Street, from Richmond Street to 750 Feet West;
East Second Street, from Berckman Street to Netherwood Avenue;
Leland Avenue, from Columbia Avenue to North Avenue;

including house connections, and including appurtances of said sewerage system in connection therewith; the said streets and parts of streets in which the same were so made and constructed, and the location and dimension of the several lots, tracts and parcels of land and real estate so assessed being delineated on a certain set of Maps Numbered, "1," "2," and "3," and each map marked "Sewer Construction Map, dated June, 1907," and attested by the signatures of said Commissioners, and filed in the office of the Collector of Taxes, July 1st, 1907. Said report and assessments were originally filed in the City Clerk's office, July 1st, 1907, and ratified and confirmed by the Common Council of said city on the 5th day of August, A. D. 1907.

A brief abstract of said assessments, showing the name of the owner or owners, when known, a brief description of said lands and real estate, and the amounts of unpaid assessments due thereon, is as follows, the maps referred to in said description being those hereinabove mentioned and described:

$25.00 FOR ONE CENT

We will give a three months' scholarship in Drake College, equal to Twenty-five Dollars (our regular rate), to the person who can write legibly the greatest number of times on a postal card (using one side only), the following sentence:

"DRAKE COLLEGE IS THE BEST IN PLAINFIELD."

All cards must be written in ink and must contain the name and address of the contestant.

Exception: Students and graduates of Drake College are barred from competing, inasmuch as this school is so thorough with the teaching of penmanship that our former students would have little or no difficulty in becoming the winner of this contest.

Further information will be furnished on request.

Contest closes July 4, 1908. Send all cards to

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

Frederick Coriell, of Morristown, who is spending some time at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Coriell, in Union avenue, Bound Brook, has gone to Red Bank to spend several days with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Baxter and children, of Perth Amboy, were recently entertained at the home of Mr. Baxter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Baxter, in West High street, Bound Brook.

Wilbur Van Nest has returned to Newark after spending several days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Van Nest, at Union and Mountain avenue, Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bollinger, Jr., of Elizabeth, were lately guests at the home of Mr. Bollinger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bollinger, Sr., in Church street, Bound Brook.

After spending some time at the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Culp, in Bound Brook, Miss Mary B. Miller has returned to her home at West Chester, Pa.

Mrs. Charles E. Dunham and daughter, Miss Elfrida Dunham, of Hamilton street, Bound Brook, are visiting relatives in Plainfield.

Mrs. Eugene Duryea is suffering with rheumatism at her home in Prospect street, South Bound Brook.

Miss Etta Decker, of Franklin street, Bound Brook, is spending several days with friends at Easton.

NORTH BRANCH.

The sacrament of the Lord's supper will be served and a meeting of the consistory held at the reformed church at Readington next Sunday morning. The preparatory service and a meeting of the consistory will be held Saturday afternoon.

Former Freeholder and Mrs. William E. Haver, of North Branch Depot, have had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. John Gulick and children, of Readington.

Miss Helen Florence and sister, of Newark, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Van Pelt in North Branch for a few days.

Peter Du Mont, of Newark, has been spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hamman at North Branch.

Miss Sarah Labaw, of Neshanic, is spending a few days with her uncle, Jacob Reger, at Bloomingdale.

Mrs. Evans Lake, of Neshanic, is entertaining her sister, Miss Lorlyn Boehm, of Brooklyn, this week.

Mrs. H. Bert Ten Eyck, of North Branch, was a visitor in Somerville yesterday.

WESTFIELD.

Westfield's share of the county road bonds, which comes due next year is $16,276.19. This is charged to Westfield, but part of Garwood and all of Mountainside has been set off from Westfield since the bonds were issued. Westfield, however, is expected by the county collector to collect from those municipalities, as they are not held in the matter.

William R. McNeeley and Joseph Baretti will be appointed special policemen on the Westfield force provided that they pass a physical examination.

The local Board of Health will hold its regular monthly meeting this evening at the town hall.

Paul Peckham, of Westfield, will be one of the graduates at Princeton University this year.

Forty hours' devotion will commence next Sunday at Holy Trinity church, Westfield.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Through the influence of William Terry, a former member of the school board, a discarded government cannon, relic of the Civil War, has been secured for an ornament to the Whittier School lawn. The cannon has been shipped to the borough and should arrive about the first of the week.

The Dunellen A. C. nine will meet the strong Riverside nine of Rahway on the home diamond tomorrow afternoon. The Riversides trimmed the local nine last year by a score of 9-4, and the Dunellenites are out for victory in the game tomorrow.

Five directors of the Piscataway Water Company are being chosen at the meeting of the company held this afternoon at the annual meeting of the company in Charles S. Day's office.

Job Hunt, a Civil War veteran, went to the Soldiers' Home at Old Point Comfort, Virginia, a few days ago, and will live there in the future.

Mrs. Sarah Smalley entertained the members of Friendship Circle at her home in New Market yesterday afternoon.

The Young Women's Circle of the Presbyterian church held a regular meeting in the chapel this afternoon.

Regular first Friday devotions will be held at St. John's church tonight.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The local ball team and some of the fans will journey to Somerville tomorrow to try conclusions with the West End team. The local team will have its regular lineup: Flannery, lf; Baldwin, ss; Frentz, 2b; J. Albert, 3b; H. Albert, c; Allen, 1b; Eller, cf; Reick, rf; Ortlieb, p.

Miss Marion Goodman, who has been seriously ill with appendicitis, underwent an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday morning. The operation was a successful one and unless other complications set in her recovery is assured.

Funeral services of Gladys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Dushame, of the borough, were held from the home yesterday afternoon at 1:30. Interment was made in Evergreen cemetery, Elizabeth.

The weekly praper meeting will be held at the Baptist church tonight. While the church is without a regular pastor, the prayer meetings will be in charge of the deacons.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weldon are making their home in Rahway until their house on Grand street, is ready for occupancy.

The monthly communion will be held at the close of the morning service at the Baptist church Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walpole, of Front street, have been entertaining relatives from Newark.

The annual examination for promotion, will be held at the school next week.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Intermediate and Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will meet this afternoon and enjoy a program of special interest.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Brick Presbyterian church, will address the Young People's Association meeting at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tonight.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will hold its annual picnic on the mountains tomorrow. The society will leave the Watchung avenue trolley stand at 8:30 o'clock in the morning.

David M. Runyon will lead the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church tonight. It will be a meeting for the honorary members and special efforts have been made to secure a large attendance.

To Organize New Party.

Delegates from the various local trades unions, together with a committee from the Union County Trades Council, will meet tonight to formally organize a political party to work in the interests of the workingmen during the coming campaign. George L. Record, under whose idea the movement was started will probably assist in carrying out the scheme.

The local game of interest tomorrow at Crescent Oval will be between Clinton Avenue and the Elizabeth A. C., and it is sure to be a good contest well worth seeing. The county seat boys will be here determined to administer another defeat, while the locals are just as sure they can retrieve lost honors. Randolph will be on the firing line, while Longstaff, the college wonder, will oppose him.

The Juniors will play at Garwood tomorrow and as Manager Walters announces his intention of pitching for the Plainfield team, victory should be easy.

Neal Ball, utility infielder of the New York Yankees, ranks second in the American League batting averages, with a percentage of .363 for twenty-two games. Criss, of St. Louis, is first, with .384 for eleven games. Amby McConnell, the former Providence second baseman, is fourth with 327.

Dooin, of Philadelphia, continues to lead the National League batters, having a mark of .349. Titus, also of the Phillies, and Leach, of Pittsburg, are tied for second place, with averages of .318.

Detroit knocked the New York Americans out of the lead on Saturday by winning two games from the Chicago White Sox, while the Yankees were idle on account of rain. Tuesday the Yankees, while idle, got back in the lead again, as a result of the Tigers and White Sox breaking even in a double-header.

Rube Waddell made his first appearance with the St. Louis Americans since his runaway escapade in Philadelphia. He pitched good ball against Cleveland for seven innings, when a collision at second base forced his retirement from the game. Dinneen succeeding him in the box. St. Louis won, 3 to 2.

Jack Flynn, the former Toronto first baseman, who figured in a deal to the Milwaukee club, has applied to the National Commission to be declared a free agent. Flynn makes his plea for freedom on the grounds that Milwaukee cut his Toronto salary a hundred dollars a month.

Moran, the Philadelphia American outfielder, has been released to the Trenton club.

The National Baseball Commission has decided that Player Walter Mahon's claim against the Brooklyn club for about three week's salary was not valid.

The deal for the sale of pitcher James A. Vaughn to the New York Americans may not go through. The local manager refuses to split the purchase money, which Vaughn thinks he should do.

GOLF.

The approaching and putting contest postponed last Saturday at the Park Golf Club will be one of the attractive features in tomorrow's competition. There will also be the weekly play for the President's and club cups, as well as the challenge trophies, provided any member desires to challenge.

The chief events at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow will be the weekly competition for the Spring Handicap cups, Classes A and B.

The Metropolitan Golf Association will have an open championship this season and it will be decided on the links of the Baltusrol Golf Club September 24, 25 and 26. George Low, professional of the club in question, won the title at Hollywood in 1906, the last time the event was held. Conditions call for seventy-two holes of medal play, thirty-six the first day and a like number the next, with the amateurs and professionals teaming it up in four-ball foursomes on the last day.

The Women's Metropolitan Golf Association will not be represented by a team in the tri-city competition for the Clement A Griscom trophy, to be held over the links of the Oakley Country Club, Watertown, Mass., June 11 and 12. This departure from time honored custom was agreed upon by the association's officials with much reluctance and only after it had been ascertained positively that it would be impossible to muster a representative team.

In accordance with the usual plan the president of the organization was to have captained the metropolitan team, but as Mrs. C. L. Tiffany, who is the association's chief executive, some time since found it would be impossible to be at Oakley on the dates mentioned, Mrs. E. F. Sanford, president of the Women's Eastern Golf Association, consented to act in her stead. The rules stipulate that teams must consist of fifteen players, but after a careful canvass among the players of the local body during the past week it was found that not more than eight women were willing to pledge themselves to make the trip.

The Boston team, it will be remembered, won the trophy a year ago over the links of the Country Club of Atlantic City, defeating the Metropolitan and Philadelphia forces on successive days. That gives Boston the right to stand out in the coming competition and play the winner of the Metropolitan-Philadelphia match, which was scheduled for June 11. As it is now the latter will be an open date, and the Philadelphia-Boston tilt for the possession of the cup will probably be played on the following day as per schedule. The trouble is that the Metropolitan women of recent years have been showing less and less of an inclination to travel. They went to Atlantic City last year short-handed. By order of rotation the tri-city next year must be decided somewhere in this section, when it would be an easy matter for the local association to muster two teams if necessary.

In addition to their disinclination to travel it so happens that a number of the best players in the district find it impossible to be on hand this time. Miss Georgianna Bishop, regarded as the strongest player in the association, is going West this week and will not return East until the fall. Mrs. Charles T. Stout is not competing in tournaments this season and Miss Elsa Hurlbut is abroad. Mrs. E. A. Manice is also out of the competitive game, and besides, scarcely a year rolls round that one or two of the more prominent players do not get married. After that their golf seems to become uncertain.

Mrs. E. F. Sanford, of the Essex County Country Club, has been renominated for president of the Women's Eastern Golf Association. Miss Maud K. Wetmore, of Washington, is again named as vice-president; Mrs. C. L. Tiffany, Nassau, as treasurer, and Miss L. A. Wells, Boston, as secretary.

MISS EMILY AMEE CAIN, PHILIP H. SPEER'S BRIDE.

Miss Emily Amee Cain, of Raritan, and Philip H. Speer, of Philadelphia, were married Wednesday noon at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. Dr. J. C. Buchanan, of Duer street, an uncle of the bride, assisted by Rev. Dr. E. A. Woods, pastor of the Somerville Baptist church. Miss May Cain, a niece of the bride, was flower girl. The bride was gowned in an embroidered net robe over white silk. The couple will take a wedding trip which will include Niagara Falls, Tacoma, Washington, Yosemite Valley and other points of interest, and will reside at Raritan upon their return.

The bride is well-known here, where she has been a frequent visitor. She is an organist of marked ability, being a graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Cain, while Mr. Speer is a construction engineer for the New York Central. The wedding march was played on the piano by Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, who with Mrs. Buchanan, relatives of the bride, were among the guests.

laitve property, were included and the amount involved was over $40,000. This was strenuously opposed and the proposed ordinance was changed.

"If this ordinance is passed will the others follow?

"They probably will if the citizens do not insist upon the Mayor's veto being sustained.

"The credit of the city should not be used to further any land speculations, nor should the owners of low priced property of uncertain value be loaded down with assessments for improvements unless such improvements are absolutely necessary or are desired by the owners themselves. Such assessments may amount to partial confiscation and should be imposed with the utmost circumspection.

"At this time when all prudent business men are exercising great caution in incurring expenses and obligations, reducing even necessary ones to a minimum, it seems the part of wisdom to exercise the same care in municipal expenditures, and in order to impress upon the city authorities that this is the sense of the citizens and tax payers, we ask you, if you agree with our position, to sign and mail immediately, the enclosed postal card urging the council to sustain the veto of this ordinance and to exercise the utmost care in the matter of expenditures in future.

"We would suggest, also, that you attend the meeting of the Common Council on Monday, June 8, when this subject wil come up for final disposition and express your protest in person.

Yours respectfully,
"R. HENRY DEPEW, Pres.,
"ALBERT H. ATTERBURY,
"THOMAS M. DAY, Jr.,
"HENRY C. DEKNATEL,
"CHARLES W. McCUTCHEN,
"GEO. W. V. MOY,
"FLOYD T. WOODHULL,
"Members of Executive Committee."

In response to requests from The Daily Press these expressions of opinion on the Mayor's action were received today:

John M. Whiton—I have read the article in The Daily Press headed "Street Bond Veto," but my time is so occupied that I have not had opportunity to consider the matter fully. On general principles, however, the Mayor appears to me to be right. The old system seems to have worked out very well, and to be economical and satisfactory, and I have seen no sufficient reason advanced for the change. Certainly the experience of other municipalities is a sufficient warning that we should hesitate about bonding the city for improvements in remote sections, especially when they may not have been called for by a majority of the property holders.

Former Councilman Elliott T. Bardows—Mayor Fisk is so conversant with the question and covered it so thoroughly in his veto, that I cannot see as if anything more could be said.

James E. Martine—I sincerely endorse the mayor's views on this subject, and he should be congratulated for his effort in staying the bond issue epidemic which seems to have affected our Common Council. Our boast in the past has been our freedom from bonded debt. Bond issues are most enticing but the blight is sure to come from too free indulgence. I well remember the time when Elizabeth and Rahway were making their so-called progress by issuing bonds. At that very time certain interests were most industrious in and zealous in pressing our authorities to adopt the same plan. With others, I make a strong fight against all measures calculated to thus burden our city. We took lots of abuse but carried our point. The result was soon apparent. Elizabeth and Rahway were crushed by their load of bonds, while our city moved right on with healthy progress. Mayor Fisk's hands should be upheld in this matter by all means.

30,000 CHILDREN IN SUNDAY SCHOOL PARADE.

Governor Hughes, with his military staff, was at the reviewing stand in the Long Meadow of Prospect Park and smilingly watched thirty thousand children of the Brooklyn Sunday School Union in their annual parade yesterday. Several Plainfielders witnessed the annual event.

"That was the most beautiful sight I ever saw," said the Governor as he turned from the stand at the end of the review. The children, six abreast and in their newest frocks, marched with precision, and the Governor smiled and bowed continually.

In the seventeen parades held in different parts of the borough it is estimated that one hundred and fifty thousand children were in line. The Eastern District division, which the Governor reviewed after leaving Prospect Park, was one of the largest. The day is a holiday in all of the Brooklyn public schools through an act of the Legislature.

Jurors Excused Until June 15.

Announcement was made in the Union County Court, this morning, that the petit jurors would be excused until Monday, June 15. A few days ago they were released until June 8, but today the court decided that they would not be needed until June 15. In te meantime the Grand Jury is in session.

ELIZABETH MAN GONE; WIFE GREATLY WORRIED

George A. Canfield, furniture mover, of East Jersey street, Elizabeth, has been missing from his home in that city since May 21, and nothing has been heard of him since. His wife can advance no reason for his disappearance, and is so greatly worried that she will ask the police to investigate the case.

On the date mentioned, Canfield, according to his wife, came home as usual for dinner, and went out at about 4:30 p. m. He brought his books down to date, which Mrs. Canfield says was his habit, and told her just where to look if anyone wanted to pay a bill. He said he was going out to collect some money.

He has not been seen since, and all efforts to locate him by inquiry among friends has failed absolutely. Mrs. Canfield, asked if business troubles might have led to his disappearance, said "Possibly," but declared afterward that he had never complained of any difficulties. She said they had had no quarrel of any kind. Mrs. Canfield said she does not believe her husband has met with foul play.

Canfield is well known in his section of the town. He is 39 years old, some inches over five feet in height, and dark complexioned.

WORKED FOR CHARITY.

Winnings of Horse Races That Helped the Poor.

The King of Sweden recently told a story of King Edward's charitable propensities. Just before the race for the Derby which the king's horse Diamond Jubilee carried off, his royal highness—as he then was—was watching the horses proceeding to the starting post. Suddenly turning to the King of Sweden, who was with him, he said, "I am most specially anxious to win today."

"Why so?" inquired the King.

"Because," was the answer, "I always give the princess whatever amount my success happens to bring me. With the stake money of the last Derby I won the princess provided 1,700 poor boys with a complete outfit—clothes, under linen, boots and all necessaries—and stamped on each article was 'From your friend the prince.'"

The Duchess of Portland some time ago presented to her husband a very handsome blotting book of Russia leather heavily mounted in silver. On the mountings are engraved the names of all the races won by that extraordinary racer Donovan. In 1889 Donovan won the Derby and the St. Leger, besides the Newmarket stakes and many other important races. The total sum won by Donovan during his racing career amounted to £70,000, and the whole of this large fortune the duke gave to his wife for the purpose of building almshouses for widows of the duke's tenants and a cottage hospital for the neighborhood.

Baron Hirsch was another great trufite most of whose winnings went to charity. During his lifetime he spent more than £50,000 of turf winnings on charity. All the winnings of La Fleche, amounting in all to £34,585, were devoted to various charities.

Dogs have done much for charity. The record in this direction is held by Tim, the famous Airedale terrier which belonged to Mr. Bush, the Great Western inspector at Paddington. For more than ten years before his death Tim trotted from train to train, inviting donations to the railway servants' widows and orphans fund. The total of his collections exceeded £800. The dog always knew when royalties were about to travel. He would sit down on the edge of the carpet laid on the platform and refuse to move until he had had something added to his hoard. On five separate occasions Queen Victoria placed a sovereign in his box, and many times the King has done the same. W. W. Astor gave Tim his record present—a check for £200—on the ocsasion of the coming of age of his son.

Other animals, too, have indirectly contirbuted to the cause of charity. At Amersham, in Buckinghamshire, the superintendent of the Baptist Sunday-school adopted a novel expedient for raising money for the Congo mission. He distributed among the scholars a number of young rabbits. These they had to fatten at home and when fit for market the creatures were sold, the proceeds going to the mission.

At Frieth, near Marlow, a pig raised no less than £7 for charitable purposes. It was raffled for and then given back by the winner and sold again. In a Lancashire town a local butcher presented a handsome round pig to a bazar on condition that a church member, got up in frock coat and silk hat, should drive it through the village. The procession caused great amusement and a collection realized more than £3.—Tit Bits.

Does Your Furnace Leak Gas?

Cases of asphyxiation are not uncommon, but even the faintest odor of gas in the house is disagreeable. It's due to the faulty construction of the old style of furnace, and any Boynton dealer will tell you why the Proposals for Sewers.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at a regular meeting held Monday, June 1, 1908, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on Monday, July 6, 1908, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 145 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the construction of such portions of the sewers contemplated in the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of an addition to the system of sewerage already constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved Nov. 6, 1897, as provided for in the plans and specifications adopted by the Common Council, June 1, 1908, and filed in the office of the City Clerk, No. 151 North Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals, the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be there and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Council.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $200.00, payable to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield.

The Engineer's approximate estimate of the quantities of material required, and the work to be done, is as follows:

719 feet 8 inch Vitrified Pipe Sewer, 6 to 8 feet deep.
26 feet 8 inch Cast Iron Pipe Sewer, 6 to 8 feet deep.
1 Manhole.
4 Flush Tanks.
34 Branches on 8 inch Vitrified Pipe.
1 Flush Tank changed to Manhole.
100 feet 4 inch Vitrified Pipe House Connections.

Duplicate plan may be examined, and forms of proposals, specifications, contract and bond may be obtained at the office of the Engineer, 151 North Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

Proposals should be endorsed "Proposals for Sanitary Sewers."

JAMES T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

ANDREW J. GAVETT,
City Surveyor.

Dated June 1, 1908.

Proposals for Federal Building Site.

Treasury Department,
Office of the Secretary,
Washington, D. C., June 2, 1908.

Proposals will be received, to be opened at 2 o'clock p. m., July 1, 1908, for the sale or donation to the United States of a suitable site, centrally and conveniently located, for the Federal building to be erected in Plainfield, N. J. A corner lot of approximately 160x147 feet is required. Each proposal must give price, the character of foundation obtainable, the proximity to street cars, sewer, gas, and water mains, etc., and must be accompanied by a diagram indicating the principal street, the north point, the dimensions and grades of the land, the widths and paving of adjacent streets and alleys, whether the alleys are public or private, and whether or not the city owns land occupied by sidewalks. The vendor must pay all expenses connected with furnishing evidences of title and deeds of conveyance.

Improvements on property must be reserved by the vendor, but pending the commencement of the Federal building they may remain on the land upon payment of a reasonable ground rent. The grantor must, however, remove all improvements on thirty days' notice so to do.

The right to reject any proposal is reserved. Each proposal must be sealed, marked "Proposal for Federal building site at Plainfield, N. J.," and mailed to the Secretary of the Treasury (Supervising Architect), Washington, D. C. No special form of proposal is required or provided.

(Signed)
GEO. B. CORTELYOU,
Secretary.

PROCLAMATION
Concerning Dogs.
MAYOR'S OFFICE.

June 1, 1908.

It is a penal offence under a City Ordinance to permit any dog to run at large in the City unless the dog is so muzzled as to prevent biting. Any person who owns or harbors a dog and violates the ordinance referred to is subject to a fine of ten dollars for each offence.

In addition to the foregoing; it is provided that any unmuzzled dog found running at large shall be impounded and shall not be redeemed without a payment of a penalty of one dollar to be paid to the pound master in addition to the charge for the dog's keep of twenty-five cents per day or a fraction of a day, while in charge of the pound master.

The Ordinance further provides that all dogs unclaimed or unredeemed at the expiration of four days after being impounded shall be put to death in the most merciful and humane manner possible.

This Ordinance will be rigidly enforced.

FOR HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Witch hazel and rose water, half and half, is good for wind-tortured complexions.

Washing the scalp occasionally with lemon juice will make white hair glossy and of a pure color.

Bolting the food has ruined many a good complexion. Teeth were given for a purpose, and if one does not use them they will suffer along with digestion and skins.

Always keep alum in the house. It checks bleeding wounds, and for bleeding of the mouth or tongue a wash in cold water in which alum has been dissolved is very effective. A small quantity of it boiled in milk is good for toothache. It must be held in the mouth, not swallowed.

Stewed rhubarb has a well-known medicinal value, besides being a complexion beautifier; it is said to be valuable for rheumatic troubles.

The Succulent Asparagus.

Now that fresh asparagus is plentiful again, do not make the mistake of covering up its delicate flavor with seasonings, such as mace, tarragon vinegar, etc. In a popular restaurant a guest from the country who had not seen the fresh vegetable since last summer, planned a rare treat for himself when he ordered a portion of asparagus. When it came his hopes turned to ashes at the first taste. The vegetable was seasoned with mace, and for all the flavor of the dish it might as well have been anything else as asparagus. A cook in ap rivate family, when she makes asparagus salad, invariably adds a little tarragon vinegar to the dressing, but it serves to conceal its flavor. The up-State way of cooking asparagus is more economical than the city way. There it is served as peas are prepared out of town. It is cut into short lengths, cooked in a little water until it is tender and is then seasoned with cream, salt and pepper. Cooked in this way, asparagus becomes of necessity "spoon food," instead of "finger victuals."

Certainly.

"I like a fair fight."
"So do I, on one condition."
"What is that?"
"That I win."

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The Lambertville Council Tuesday night, fixed Tuesday, July 7, for a special election to pass upon the question of retaining or rejecting machines in that city.

Striking her chin upon the sharp point of an iron fence rail when she fell while at play at Gloucester yesterday, Minnie Riley, eight years old, received a bad gash.

Mrs. Walter C. Bates, of 443 Fairmount avenue, Jersey City, was severely bitten on the arm by a pet dog yesterday. Dr. R. P. White cauterized the wounds. No signs of rabies have been observed.

The Bayonne Council passed an ordinance yesterday abolishing the men-at-call system in the fire department, and making it a full paid one. The change will be made on July 1, and eighteen new men will be appointed.

For failing to contribute to the support of his twelve-year-old son, Walter Delaney, formerly of Camden, but recently of Hammonton, was sent to jail in default of $300 bail by Justice of the Peace Barr in Camden yesterday. The complaint was made by C. V. Williams, of the New Jersey Home Society.

Death ended a merry fishing party of Philadelphians in Timber Creek, near the trolley bridge, below Gloucester, yesterday. The party consisted of William Katz, twenty-three years old, of 402 Bailey street; Herman Singer, Isaac Welox and David Bockslov. Tiring of the sport, Singer and Katz decided to take a swim. They had been in the water but a short time, when Katz was caught in the treacherous swirl of the current and went down. Singer managed to reach shore.

Arrested at Seventh and Brown streets, Philadelphia, William Hutchinson and Lottie Cross are charged before Justice of the Peace Barr, of Camden, with abandoning an infant. About six weeks ago the pair left the two-weeks-old child in charge of Mrs. A. N. Walker at a furnished-room house on Kaighn avenue, Camden, with the understanding that they would return. Then they disappeared.

Unable to find any evidence of fraud, as had been alleged, Vice-Chancellor Leaming, in Camden, yesterday, in the case of Nathan Worth against Ernest Watts, executor of the estate of Firman Dubel, directed that a contract made by Dubel for the sale of four Burlington properties to Worth be carried out.

The rigid examination to which applicants for naturalization papers are now subjected under the new law has caused the rejection of numerous applicants. Forty were before Judge Blair in the Hudson County Court yesterday and only fifteen passed.

An explosion, said to have been caused by an overcharge of dynamite used for blasting purposes, frightened the residents in the vicinity of the Erie cut, at Summit and St. Pauls avenues, Jersey City, yesterday afternoon. The windows of the houses and stores in the neighborhood were shattered. Police reserves were hurried to the scene, but they found no one injured.

Mrs. Carrie Fisler, Clayton, who lost over $100 in gold about two months ago, found the money intact yesterday in an old skirt, where she had put it for safe keeping and forgotten it. She will now keep her money in a bank.

Smoke that issued from a burning building adjoining School No. 16, Paterson, filled the classrooms yesterday afternoon. The fire alarm was sounded and the pupils marched out of the building without the slightest confusion. When it was found that there was no danger they were marched into the school again.

CHEAP POSTAGE TO UNITED KINGDOM.

After October 1 Letters to Great Britain and Ireland will Cost Two Cents.

Washington, June 5.—Postmaster General Meyer announced Wednesday that an agreement had been reached with the British government providing for a letter postage of 2 cents an ounce between the United States and Great Britain and Ireland to become operative October 1, 1908. He said, further, that the British Postmaster-General, Sydney Buxton, made a like announcement to the House of Commons yesterday.

Postmaster-General Meyer believes that this reduction in the rate of postage to the United Kingdom will ultimately result in an increase in receipts, because it has always been found that a reduction of the letter rate resulted finally in increasing the revenue. He is also of the opinion that a lower postage will lead to freer commercial intercourse.

All Day Missionary Services.

Rev. Dr. C. J. Ryder, secretary of the American Missionary Association, will be at the Congregational church on Sunday. In the morning he will speak on the subject of "First News from the Front," and in the evening he will give a stereopticon lecture on "Peculiar Phrases of American Life," and an offering will be received for the cause of missions.

Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold a regular meeting tonight.

LOCAL GOLFERS LUCKY AT THE STATE TOURNEY

Frank O. Reinhart and Dudley H. Barrows, of the Plainfield Country Club, were successful in the opening play of the ninth annual championship tournament of the New Jersey State Golf Association at Baltusrol, yesterday, finishing among those who qualified for the championship cup. Reinhart's score for the day was 44, 42-86, while Barrows returned a card of 43, 44-87. W. Lester Glenney returned a score of 46, 45-91 for the second cup, while Leighton Calkins with a score of 48, 46-94 finished first for the third cup.

At match play in the afternoon Travers had Reinhart for an opponent, but the one-time intercollegiate champion did not do himself justice. In addition to this, Travers laid him stymies on the fourth and sixth greens. A brilliant 3 at the eighth hole made Travers 6 up, but he lost the ninth and turned for home 5 up. The tenth was his in a brilliant 3. Three halved holes followed, leaving Travers a winner by 6 up and 5 to play.

Barrows had better luck, defeating Keep, 5 up and 4 to play in the first round. In the first round for the second sixteen, Glenney defeated Marcus, 3 up and 2 to play, while Calkins defaulted to Hunt in the first round for the third sixteen. The tournament will be continued today.

WOMEN TO PLAY IN EAST JERSEY TENNIS.

Semi-finals and finals in the women's singles of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis tournament will be played off at the Country Club courts tomorrow. The matches were scheduled for Decoration Day but were postponed on account of the storm. The semi-finals will be played at 10 o'clock in the morning and the finals at 3:30 in the afternoon. Miss Erra Marcus, of the Danforth club, is the only out-of-town player still in the tournament and she is matched against Miss Natalie Wildey of the Country Club in the semi-final round. The other match in the semi-finals will be between two Country Club players, Mrs. S. F. Weaver and Miss Edna Wildey. By winning the match, the Country Club will get seven points for the East Jersey cup, and with three out of four local women in the match, the home club is assured of two points by having runners-up in the tourney.

Matches in the semi-final and final rounds of the men's doubles tournament, in which three Country Club players are still in the tournament will not be played tomorrow, because several of the contestants are going to see the Yale-Princeton baseball game.

P. H. S. Game Off.

The manager of the Rutgers Prep ball team has informed Manager W. V. Rafferty of the Plainfield High School nine that the game scheduled between the two school nines tomorrow at New Brunswick has been cancelled.

MISS ADELE MILNE TO WED NEW YORK PROFESSOR.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Adele Milne, of the borough, and Dr. Henry R. Linville, of New York, which will take place in New York Tuesday night of next week. Dr. Linville is biology professor in the New York high schools and the author of several books on biological subjects. Miss Milne has been teacher of the kindergarten at the Somerset street school for the past three years.

Following the wedding, which will be a quiet affair, the couple will leave for California, where they will spend the entire summer. Professor Linville is to give a course of lectures at the summer school of the University of California and following his stay there the couple will make a tour of the Western States before returning to make their home in New York city.

SUCCESSFUL MUSICALE BY FRANKLIN SCHOOL PUPILS.

A delightful musicale was given at the Franklin School last night, when pupils rendered instrumental and vocal selections before a large and appreciative audience. The program included piona solos and duets and choruses by the girls' glee club of the school. Features were a wand drill by twelve girls from the physical education class and the chorus, "A June Day," by the girls' glee club, assisted by fourteen boys.

Miss Elsie Knowlton, formerly a pupil of the school, assisted at the musicale, where she rendered a piano solo and two duets with Miss Alice C. Miller. Miss Noel J. Bullock, principal of the school, was assisted by several members of the school faculty in receiving.

SURPRISED MRS. VAN DYKE.

Friends Gathered to Celebrate Her Birthday.

In honor of Mrs. John C. Van Dyke, of East Fifth street, who observed the anniversary of her birthday, yesterday, a party of friends tendered her a surprise. There were guests from Somerville and this city. They met at the home of Mrs. John Brooks on Watchung avenue and proceeded to the home of Mrs. Van Dyke, carrying bouquets of flowers and parcels of good things.

This was the second surprise for Mrs. Van Dyke, the first one being at Bernardsville, while she was visiting her cousin, Dr. Fred Coriell Sutphen. A company of twenty-five friends called and enjoyed the festivities of the occasion, including a sumptuous repast. Many of those present Mrs. Van Dyke had not seen in a number of years.

Their Wedding Date Set.

The wedding of Miss Lulu Randolph, daughter of Mrs. Sylvester Randolph, and Clifford T. Manning, wil take place Wednesday, June 17, at her mother's home on West Seventh street. The date was announced at a luncheon given in honor of the bride-elect at the home of her aunt, Mrs. L. W. Randolph, of Myrtle avenue, yesterday.

Girl Arrested for Loitering.

Emma Yansch, an eighteen-year-old girl who claims to live at Cranford, was arrested by Roundsman Higgins for loitering on Watchung avenue at an early hour this morning. She was arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning and on her promise that she would go home and stay there, sentence was suspended.

Y. M. C. A. vs. Newark.

The Y. M. C. A. nine will play its second State league game at Newark tomorrow afternoon, when the team from the Newark association will be the opponents of the local boys. Like the Plainfielders, the Newark ball tossers won their first game in the league May 23, when they defeated the nine from the Orange association.

Here's a Mean Thief.

Frank Hedden, the well-known liveryman, is on the warpath for a noctural thief who stole an ornamental stone from the yard at his home on Brook avenue, Wednesday night. It is of practical no value to anyone except the owner and Mr. Hedden is anxious to get it back. The borough police are also trying to locate it.

Aged Man Breaks His Hip.

Patrick Melvin, Sr., of East Third street, was attacked by vertigo while in the yard at his home yesterday, and fell to a stone pavement, breaking his right hip. He was assisted to the house and Dr. Bone attended him. Because of his advanced age the injury is very serious.

"Er—Dr. Jordan," says he, "awfully sorry you've been put to all this trouble. Entirely without my sanction, I assure you. A most simple case of appendicitis. I should have operated immediately whether you arrived or not."

Jordan went across to the bed. He looked the boy over, careful as could be, thumping him, and listening, and asking questions about where he felt the worst, and all that. After a while he looked at Duncan, and says he:

"The pain doesn't seem to be localized as yet."

"No—er—not yet," answers t'other doctor, pompous. "But, of course, that's quite usual—often the regular thing. Er—yes."

Jordan nodded. Then he asked a few more questions; when the youngster was took sick, and how it begun, and the like of that. Finally he says to Redny:

"What have you been eating lately?"

"Aw, I don't know, sir. Miss Agnes give me some jelly and some mush and cream and—"

"Yes, I know. But those are what you've had inside the house. What have you eaten outside? I noticed an orchard back of the farm here. There were some very pretty late apples on the trees. How do they taste?"

Redny looked worried, seemed to me. He fidgeted with the edge of the bed spread.

"I ain't et only a few of 'em," he says. "The ones on the ground was wormy, so—"

Miss Agnes broke in here. "He couldn't have eaten those apples, doctor," she says. "I've expressly forbidden the children to touch them."

"Yes, of course," says Jordan. "But I've had the advantage of being a boy once myself. The apples on the ground were wormy, you say. How were those on the tree? And how many did you eat—well, say night before last?"

"Only six," says Redny, beginning to snuffle. "I knocked 'em down with a rock. They was—"

"I see," Jordan smiled, quiet, and stood up. "Doctor," he says to Duncan, "I wouldn't operate yet awhile. He seems to be much easier now. I think it will be safe to wait."

Duncan bristles up and waved his hand, pompous. He was going to speak, I guess, but all at once the sense of what Jordan meant seemed to work down through his skull. He looked at me. I was beginning to grin. Then he looked at Agnes and Margaret; they looked queer, and Miss Talford's mouth was twitching at the corners. He turned as red as a smallpox flag.

"I—I—why didn't you tell me about those apples, boy?" he asks, sharp.

"I'm Coming to Ask His Pardon Myself, and—to Thank Him."

"You never asked me," snuffles Redny. "All you asked me was what I had for supper, and I told you."

"Green apples, hey?" says I, more to myself than anybody else. "Humph! Well, they never operated for them when I was a boy."

I went down to the kitchen pretty soon after that. Eureka was there and she and me had a big talk. Duncan come stomping down a little later and went out and slammed the door.

"Humph!" snaps Eureka, bobbing her head the way she always done; "he ain't going to get the chance to try his tricks on that boy. Pesky thing! Why don't he run a butcher shop? Then he could cut up and saw be happy, and nobody'd be killed except them that was dead already."

By and by Agnes came to the door and called to me.

"Mr. Pratt," she says, when her and me was in the hall together, "how can I thank you for what you've done for me and for that poor little child?"

"You can't," I says, short. "Because I ain't done nothing. It's Mr. Hartley that—"

"I know. Dr. Jordan has told me some. Please tell me the rest. How is he? Is his arm badly hurt? Is he suffering? Do you think there's any danger?"

Here was my chance. And I just spread myself, too, now I tell you. I spun the whole yarn, from the time the Dora Bassett pulled out of Horsefoot Bar cove to when Hartley was loaded into the Old Home depot wagon.

"He's a brick, that's what he is," says I, finally. "And he always was one. And there's one thing more I'm going to tell, now that I've got my hand in, Miss Page. That's about that business with Washy Sparrow. Mr. Hartley wa'n't no more to be blamed for that than a—"

She stopped me. "Please don't," she says. "I know; Eureka told me. And, Mr. Pratt," she adds, and her face lit up like there was a glory inside it; "I'm not going to ask you to beg his pardon for me. But will you tell him that, as soon as I can leave Dennis, I'm coming to Wellmouth to ask his pardon myself, and—to thank him? Tell him that, please."

Eureka and me drove back to Wellmouth together. If that old buggy had been trimmed up to match the feelings of the two inside it 'twould have been the gayest turnout that ever come down the pike road. No circus cart would have been in it.

But poor Van!

CHAPTER XIX.

Simple Versus Duplex.

I left Eureka at Nate Scudder's. She was going to have him take his dory and row her over to the island. She was to see to things there till I come. Dewey was all right and over his cold, she told me, so she could take up her regular job again. Scudder was glad to see us. I don't know but he'd been scared that his whole gang of lodgers had cleared out and left him in the lurch. I told him about the doctor chase. His eyes stuck out.

"Godfrey scissors!" says he. "It must have cost that Hartley man a lot for that automobile."

"Cost!" says I. "You bet it did!"

"I presume likely that'll come out of the doctor's bill, won't it?"

"No," I says, scornful. "Land of Goshen! No. Why should it?"

"Well, if 'twas me I'd take some of it out. The doc hadn't no right to be over to Brantboro after giving folks notice through the papers that he was to Wapatomac." He thought a minute more and then he says: "Say, Sol; don't you cal'late there's a commission coming to us from Ben Baker? He'd never let that auto wagon if we hadn't provided the customer."

Didn't that beat all? Sometimes I think Nate Scudder'll rise up in his coffin afore they bury him and want a commission from the undertaker. He'll never rest easy and see all that cash going to somebody else when he's furnishing the center of interest.

I found Martin planted easy and pretty comfortable in an upstairs front room at the Old Home. His arm was hurting him some, of course, but other ways he felt better, having had a nap and something to eat. He wa'n't sick in bed at least; and that's how I expected to find him.

I told him the good news from Redny, and it pleased him 'most to death. Then I give him the Page girl's message. He didn't say much, but 'twas plain to see how he felt. I promised to be back next morning, and then I said good-by. His good-by to me was sort of absent-minded. I left him smoking and looking dreamy out of the window.

I was in a hurry to get to Ozone, but I couldn't help stopping where they was digging the cellar for the new part of the hotel, and looking for our old friend Washy Sparrow. He was wheeling dirt in a wheelbarrow and he seemed mighty willing to let go of the handles and talk to me.

"Hello, Washy," I says. "How's the stomach and lungs these days?"

He groaned. "Pratt," says he, "I'm dying on my feet."

"Well," I says, looking down at his cowhides, "you'd ought to have plenty of room to do it in. What are you dying of—dropsy? You're five pounds heavier than when I see you last."

He shook his head. "Tell Reky I'm doing my best to forgive her," he says. "When I'm gone maybe she'll think how she treated me. Say! how soon's she coming home? Lycurgus can't cook fit to eat."

I told him Eureka 'd be home that night. It seemed to give him a little more hopes.

"When you see Miss Page," says he, "just tell her I want to talk to her, won't you? Tell her I'm 'most through with this world and I want to speak to her about providing for the children. Ask her to come over and see me."

Just then the foreman yelled to him to stop gassing and hustle that wheelbarrow along. He done it, surprising prompt, too, I thought. I asked the foreman about it.

"Oh!" he says, "Mr. Brown's give me the receipt for him. Every time he groans or coughs I set him to lugging stones; the louder the groans the bigger the rocks. He's getting well fast."

I took Nate's dory and went across to the island. Eureka was up to her elbows in work.

"Sakes alive!" says she. "Who's been letting this house get this way? The tea kettle bottom's burnt out and somebody's been trying to eat the ax. And the beds are so wet that the feathers are beginning to grow."

"That's the Natural Life," I told her. "The Heavenlies lived it for a whole day."

"I thought they lived it afore I come here at all," she says. "Things was bad enough then, but nothing like this."

"'Twas me that was the Natural then," says I. "This last attack hit the Twins."

"Do you know who I think ought to give the Natural Life?" she asks.

I said I didn't.

"Nobody but natural born idiots, that's who."

"I guess that who's been living it," says I.

Next morning I went over to see Hartley. He was feeling like a new man. Dr. Jordan had been there ahead of me and set the arm. Redny was pretty nigh well. Jordan had the right cure for green-apple appendicitis and it worked tip-top.

I drove up to the depot in the Old Home wagon and met Van Brunt. He was in fine spirits. The Tea Lead deal had been closed up—the Street pirates having decided not to pass the dividend—and the Heavenly Twins had made money by the keg, I judged.

"How'd New York look to you?" I asked him.

"Hush!" says he. "Don't speak lightly of sacred things."

When he heard about what had happened while he was away he was the most surprised man in the county.

"Skipper," he says, grabbing my hand, "you're a star of the first magnitude. You and Eureka are the redeeming features of this Natural experiment. You pay the freight and a large rebate over. And Martin! bully old boy! I want to see him."

Him and his chum was shut up together for a good half hour. When Van come down to the porch he beckoned to me.

"Sol," he says, "there's another question I want to ask you. Of course I know that Martin liked the boy and all that, but that reason won't quite do. What's the real one?"

'Twas a ticklish place for me. But I couldn't see but one way clear; that it, but one way which was best in the long run for all hands. So I spunked up and answered.

"Mr. Van Brunt," says I, "I hate to say it, but of course you know that your partner and Miss Agnes set considerable store by each other at one time. And you can't break off feelings like that same as you'd bust a piece of string. I—"

He nodded. "All right," he says. "I'm not altogether a blockhead. That'll do. I've been sure of it, myself, for some time."

"I understand," I went on, "that the reason she give him the mitten was on account of his being too grasping after money. If she'd seen him, like I have, just throwing it away as if 'twas shavings, I guess likely she—"

He interrupted and looked at me queer.

"How did you know that was the reason?" he asks.

I'd put my foot in it away over the shoe laces.

"Well," I stammered, "you see I—that is, 'twas told to me—and—course I can't swear—"

"Who told it? Oh, never mind. I see. Dear James! Well done, good and faithful servant. You've been faithful over a few things, and general superintendent and adviser of all the rest. Sol, I learned something when I was in New York. Considering all you've done and know, I think you're entitled to know more.

"When I was in God's settlement yesterday," he went on, referring to his home town, I judged, though I'd never heard afore that it belonged in that neighborhood, "I met an old friend of Hartley's governor—of his father, I mean. This friend had been abroad for some time and had just returned. He spoke of Martin, and what a fine fellow he was; to all of which I set my hand and seal, of course. Then he said that the way in which young Hartley had paid his father's debts and saved the family honor and credit was one of the biggest things he knew of. I expressed surprise. Then he was surprised to learn that I didn't know, being Martin's closest friend, and told me the rest.

"It seemed that Hartley senior was heavily involved when he died. He had speculated and his affairs were in horrible shape. Martin didn't know of this until the old gentleman, on his death bed, sprung it on him. So then the plucky chap started in to save the name. He arranged with the creditors—this man who told me the story was one of them—for time, and set to work. He worked nights and days and in his sleep, I guess. He had promised his dad, for his mother's sake, not to tell a soul, and he didn't. Every creditor was pledged to secrecy. Even his own mother didn't know it to the day of her death. But he paid dollar for dollar and broke down when it was over. That's why he was willing to join with me in this hunt of ours after the Natural Life. Agnes' cutting him made him reckless, I suppose. And when he was on his feet again financially he lost interest in the whole game."

"And now that he's well and husky," I says, "her mistake about his doings with the old man Sparrow set him going at it again. I suppose his digging in the hardest and keeping it quiet on account of his promise was what made her call him a money-grabber. I might have known 'twas something like that."

"So might I," he says, "if I wasn't such a careless, happy-go-lucky idiot. You see I always thought that the 'mercenary' business was only a cloak for the real reason of their breaking off. She only took up with me because our people wanted her to. I've been sure of that for a good while. But why Martin didn't come to me when he was in trouble, instead of going it alone like a bull-headed chump, is—"

He stopped and went to thinking. I looked at him and I guess there was a question in my face, for he answered it without my saying a word.

"Certainly I shall tell her," says he. "When is the next train to Eastwich?"

He went to the school that afternoon, and stayed at the Bay View house over there that night. Next day, afore I left the island, Hartley comes rowing over with Scudder. He was feeling chipper as could be and, except for his arm in a sling, you wouldn't have known there was anything the matter with him.

About eleven or so that forenoon Eureka comes running out to the henyard where I was. Her face was on the broad grin.

"They're coming," says she. "The whole of 'em!"

"Who?"

"Why, Miss Agnes and Miss Talford. Nate Scudder is rowing 'em and Mr. Van Brunt is along, too."

And so they was. I could see the dory half way across already.

"Hooray!" I sings out. "Let's tell Hartley."

"Don't you dare tell him," she orders. "He's in the house. You let him stay there. It's your job to meet that boat and keep the rest of 'em out of the way."

I was at the beach when the dory landed. Miss Talford and Van got out first. Then comes Agnes Page. She stepped up to me and held out her hand.

"Good morning, Mr. Pratt," she says. "I'm very glad to see you."

"Same here, ma'am, I'm sure," says I. "How's Redny?"

"Who? Dennis? Oh, he's almost well. We left James in charge of the children. Are you all well here? Is—"

"Yes, ma'am. He's doing first-rate. You'll find him in the dining room."

She reddened up like a climbing rose-bush in June, but she left me and headed for the house. The minute she stepped her foot on the porch, that wise critter Eureka dodged out of the kitchen door. She knew her business, that girl did, and whether it had come to her by instinct or from Home Comforter reading don't make an atom of difference.

About 20 minutes after that I happened to have an errand in the kitchen. I made a dickens of a racket on purpose when I went in, but 'twas good work wasted. Hartley and the Page girl was standing by the parlor window looking out, and didn't appear to hear a sound. They'd left the doors open and I could see 'em. Martin hadn't only one whole arm, but he seemed to know what to do with that.

Van Brunt come into the kitchen after a drink of water. He see the tableau in the parlor. When we was outside again he spoke.

"Well," he says, with a kind of sigh, "that settles it. And yet, by George! I'm glad. Yes, sir; it's as it should be and I'm thoroughly glad of it."

I couldn't think of nothing to comfort him, poor feller. But I squeezed his hand hard. I guess he knew what I thought of him and his self-sacrifice.

And yet, a couple of hours later, when I told Eureka, she didn't seem to think so much of it.

"Humph!" she says. "Self-sacrificing's all right, but you look here."

She took me by the arm and led me to the woodshed window. Down by the cove on the beach was Van Brunt and Margaret Halford, walking up and down together. They was both laughing and acting perfectly contented.

Eureka gave me a nudge and a wink. "I told you I had my ideas about him," says she.

The Fresh Air girls went back to Eastwich that afternoon. When they had gone Van turns to me.

"And now, skipper," says he, slapping his hands together brisk; "now then for packing up, and back, back to little old New York. 'Oh, Uncle John! isn't it nice on Broadway?' or words to that effect."

They was all going together; the Heavenly Twins and Lord James and the Fresh Air girls and all their tribe. Redny's sickness and the worry that it brought had made Agnes and Miss Talford anxious for the city, where doctors was plenty and green apples scarce. And the Twins was pining for what Van called "the intoxicating degeneracy of an effete (whatever that is) civilization."

We packed up. That is to say, me and Eureka packed up, while the Heavenlies superintended and enjoyed themselves. Scudder's face, when he heard that his private gold mines was going to leave, was a sight to see. But, after a couple of lengthy interviews with the Twins, he seemed to feel better.

"I shall miss 'em terrible," he says to me. "But this world's a valley of dry bones, anyhow, ain't it, Pratt?"

"Valley of dry bones" and "fleeing to the ark of safety" was his pet words when he testified in prayer-meeting.

MINUTES OF THE UNION COUNTY FREEHOLDERS.

Adjjourned meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, May 28, 1908, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed the following members present, viz.:

Director King and Freeholders Adams, Cady, Cladek, Darby, Doane, Fay, Jones, Krouse, Maurer, McGovern, Meisel, Perry, Pierson, Robinson, Smith, Stephan, Swain, Wilbur and Woodruff—20.

On motion of Freeholder Cady the minutes of the previous meeting were approved as per printed copies on members' desks.

Communications.

From Edgar S. Bloom, division plant superintendent, etc.:

Newark, N. J., May 21, 1908.

To the Honorable the Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union County, New Jersey:

Gentlemen—Your petitioner, the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, respectfully requests that your honorable body will pass a resolution granting permission to open the following cunty roads in the town of Westfield, Uunion county, New Jersey, for the construction, maintenance and operation of its underground conduits and cables therein:

South avenue, Lenox avenue, North avenue, Westfield avenue, Elmer street, Central avenue.

An ordinance has recently been passed and approved by the Mayor and council of said town of Westfield, requiring your petitioner to place its wires under ground, and it is for the purpose, therefore, of complying with said ordinance that this application is made.

A form of proposed resolution which we would respectfully ask that you adopt, is submitted herewith.

Respectfully submitted,

THE NEW YORK AND NEW JERSEY TELEPHONE COMPANY,

By EDGAR S. BLOOM,
Division Plant Supt.

On motion of Freeholder Pierson, received and referred to Committee on County Roads, and to County Attorney.

From the Town Clerk, Westfield:

Whereas, The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company is about to proceed with the construction of its underground conduits in certain streets in the town of Westfield in accordance with the general plan to improve the present unsightly aerial conditions, as required in the ordinance passed in its favor on April 10, 1908; and

Whereas, Some of the streets in which it is proposed to construct have been improved by the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union Cunty, thereby making it necessary before said company can commence with the excavation in such streets to obtain permission of the said Board of Freeholders; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Clerk be instructed to communicate with the said Board of Freeholders, recommending that permission be granted said company to open such streets, or parts thereof, over which the Board of Freeholders has jurisdiction, in order that th contemplated improvements may be made at as early a date as possible.

I, Lloyd Thompson, Clerk of the town of Westfield, hereby certify the above to be a true and correct copy of a resolution passed and adopted by the council of the town of Westfield at a meeting held Saturday evening, May 23, 1908.

In witnes whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and the seal of the said town of Westfield this twenty-fifth day of May, nineteen hundred and eight.

(L. S.) LLOYD THOMPSON,
Town Clerk.

On motion of Freeholder Pierson received and referred to County Road Committee, and to County Attorney.

FOR CLEANING WOODWORK.

A mixture of equal parts of boiled linseed oil and turpentine will renew varnished woodwork, floors and furniture, but very little of it should be used, and what there is should be rubbed in until absolutely no oil is left on the surface. Otherwise the oil will catch the dust; and a dull film will soon form the varnish.

The best remedy for a dulled or whitened wax finish is good hard rubbing. A little polish may be used if the case is a desperate one, but none should be left on the surface. White spots caused by heat or moisture will disappear if rubbed hard immediately with a simple polish, says Harper's Bazar.

An old-fashioned polish for renewing old mahogany and, strangely enough, recommended for polishing brass also, is the following, dating from 1777: Two ounces of butter of animony, two quarts of cider vinegar, one half pint of linseed oil, one-half pint of ale (not beer). Mix antimony with oil, then add ale, put into half-gallon demijohn and shake well with the vinegar. Use soft cloths, and shake well to mix before using.

The polish has worked miracles in restoring old mahogany.

Two round tablespoonfuls of flour will weigh an ounce.

MAKING A PLAY HOUSE FOR THE CHILDREN.

Those who can afford it should build a little play house for the children. Such houses are now built on modern plans, though the yard shanty house can be built for a few dollars and it will prove all that little girls could wish for to enjoy the summer vacation. If the little house is built in the corner of the yard, have two large windows and a door, and also a little porch, if possible. Let the children use their own judgment in decorating it. This is half the play.

There is nothing the average child loves more than making doll clothes, and in the little house the child can cut and sew to her heart's content without bothering anyone. Many children are possessors of the miniature hand sewing machine, which costs but $4.50. They soon learn to use the machines and in this manner learn a great deal about sewing.

The only real way to keep children at home is to have the attractions there. It does not call for much expenditure to furnish a play house and often more is spent at Christmas or for birthday remembrances when the gifts are not means of lasting pleasure. The little girl is born with a desire for housekeeping and from earliest infancy she shows an inclination to have her own little home. The roomy play house in the neighborhood draws children like a magnet.

A GREAT HELP TO THE AMATEUR COOK.

Since the advent of the pastry tube some home cooks have become quite expert in trimming their cakes and puddings. The tube is made with various shaped openings by which one can pipe cream or icings in all sorts of fancy lines, rosettes and stars.

Individual shortcakes with the cream piped around the edges become something different from slices cut from a large cake with a spoonful of cream laid on top, at least so far as the appeal to the eye is considered.

Thick boiled salad dressing and mayonnaise dressing which have beaten cream added can be chilled and piped upon salads, giving them a festive appearance. Sometimes the commonplace bread pudding is served with a rose of hard sauce piped upon each portion. The healthful rice pudding will appeal if it is molded while hot in small cups, allowed to stand a few minutes to take the shape and then turned upon serving plates.

If one has no pastry tube a good device is to take a sheet of letter paper and fold cornerwise, pin together and cut off a bit from the small end, leaving a little opening for the cream to be pressed through. Half fill with beaten cream and press with the left hand while holding with the right. It is a little awkward at first to do this well, but skill is soon acquired.

In using any of these arrangements, whether the folded paper cornucopia or the latest patent, it is something to learn the knack of turning the point of the tube upward quickly to prevent further flow of the cream and thus disfigure whatever pattern is started.

A SENSIBLE GIRL CURES HER "NERVES."

Not long ago I was impressed by a young housemaid who appeared to be above the average chambermaid in many respects. In every respect she was ideal about her work, and I wondered why a girl of her attainments and beauty was filling the niche she occupied, for I imagined she would prefer another line of work.

It was merely the case of an intelligent young woman curing her own nervousness by leaving home for a change of scene. Her mother died very suddenly, and the great shock caused the girl to be almost a nervous wreck. Too well she knew what it meant to be a nervous wreck, so she left home, went into a strange city and, being decidedly bright, she made many friends.

How many women or girls are there who take such heroic methods of overcoming the tormenting affliction? Not many. If persons run down by mental or physical work, worry or too close confinement at home, would get away from the daily routine for one week it would be beneficial. When energy, ambition and everything give way for nerves, it is time to change the daily routine. In many homes where daughters do the housework even the system of doing the work is changed to keep one from continued work of one kind.

Do Not Hesitate.

"She that hesitates is lost," a great writer once said, and this applies as well today as it did in the generation in which it was spoken.

When anything calls for immediate action never let it rest undisturbed.

Hesitating is a fault, but to compare it with hurry would place it on too high a footing.

In hurry at least we endeavor. In hesitating there is no attempt.

Hurry might profit us something; sometimes profits us many things. Hesitancy generally loses to us many opportunities of which we could make lifelong use.

Hesitate to do wrong and half the battle of fighting off temptation is won.

Nevertheless to say that one always hesitates is to say that she is a weakling, and therefore it should be stricken from our calendar.

SOCIETY AT HORSE SHOW

Much Larger Attendance than on First Day and Many Handsome Gowns Seen.

MR. VANDERBILT'S DINNER.

Former Attorney General John W. Griggs and Barclay Wharburton Among Those in the Boxes.

A much larger attendance than was noted at the opening was at the horse show yesterday and all the boxes and auxiliaries were filled with local and out-of-town society folk. Many of the holders entertained friends, and among the visitors observed were Attorney-General and Mrs. John W. Griggs, of Paterson, who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Runkle. Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt entertained several New York friends during the afternoon and Mr. and Mrs. Tonzo Sauvage, of Newark, had a party from that city in their box.

Barclay Wharburton, of Philadelphia, who is a noted horse show follower, was on the grounds during the day as the guest of the Riding and Driving Club. He attended Mr. Vanderbilt's dinner at the Watchung Hunt Clubhouse last night and will remain over for today's judging.

Miss Louise Fisk Waring, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring, who boasts of having passed the third mile stone in life, was quite prominent in the box of her grandfather, Mayor Fisk. The general comment was that she was "just too cute for anything" but she bore the admiring glances and congratulations with the air of a debutante. The social end of the show would not be complete without a description of her costume, which was an attraction in itself, and it was carefully noted. It was a hand embroidered dress, white pique coat and embroidered cape; white embroidered hat draped with pale blue Louisine ribbon and forget-me-nots.

Among the gowns observed yesterday were the following:

Mrs. W. J. Buttfield—violet linen coat suit, blouse to match; white hat with violets and feather ponpons.

Miss Susan Wharton—brown linen brown straw hat, trimmed with violets and lilies-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Harry L. Hall—white coat suit; white hat with white and yellow roses and large Paradise plumes.

Miss Jessie Munger—dark blue and white jumper suit; dark blue hat.

Mrs. Henry C. Irons—black silk, large white dots; black hat, black ribbon and camelias.

Mrs. Robert A. Fairbairn—grey striped tailor made; brown hat with cerisse trimmings.

Mrs. Madge Clark Mack—white serge suit; large green hat, parasol to match.

Miss Georgianna Smith—A braided ecru coat suit; old blue hat with natural ostrich plumes.

Mrs. John Hussey, Pittsburg—white shantung, trimmed with white and black stripe; large black hat.

Mrs. Jabez Gilbert—light grey and blue striped tailor made, Copenhagen facings; hat to match with lisse frill.

Mrs. John Stewart—Pearl Liberty satin; white toque, Paradise plumes.

Mrs. Lewis G. Timpson—embroidered linen Eton suit; turquoise blue hat, turquoise ear-rings.

Mrs. D. N. Groendyke—black silk coat suit, grey ostrich boa; black turban with plumes.

Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton—lilac poplin braided with white; lilac hat with white lilacs.

Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., —green marquisette over lilac silk; green hat with lilacs.

Mrs. William Palmer Smith—black gown, pongee wrap with loumouse of lace; black chapeau.

Mrs. Albert H. Atterbury—pongee gown, elaborated with drawn work and embroidery over pale blue; pale broadcloth wrap; dark blue hat, light blue trimmings.

Miss Emily Bedford—white chevron stripe serge; green velvet facings; white straw hat with green velvet fastened down with white buds, large pink roses.

Mrs. George Wharton Edwards—dark blue and silver striped taffete. Princess jumper; black hat banded with light blue wings af same shade.

Mrs. Frederick W. Butler—white and blue dress lingerie gown over blue; large white hat with blue feathers.

Miss Janet Wildey—Ecru crepe de chine Empire; burnt straw hat, pink wings, mottled with brown and white.

Mrs. Evarts Tracey—pale blue white striped messaline; hat of pale blue flowers, long plume of same color.

Miss Mary Runkle—A lingerie Princess gown, entrain over pink; white hat with white plumes and pink roses.

Mrs. John W. Griggs—taupe chiffon cloth gown, trimmings of velvet

MORE SYLVAN NAMES FOR NORTH PLAINFIELD STREETS

Because two sets of streets in different parts of the borough have similar names and two more sets have names differentiated only by the distinction of "street," "place" and "avenue," an ordinance providing for new names for four of these streets proposed by Mayor Townsend, passed its first reading at the meeting of the borough Council last night.

According to an ordinance framed by Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed, Prospect avenue, running southwest from Somerset street at the borough limits, will hereafter be known as "Edgewood avenue" to distinguish it from Prospect place. Mountain avenue, between Grove street and Jefferson avenue, is to be known as "Ridge avenue" in the future, to distinguish it from the other Mountain avenue. Cedar avenue will be kept distinct from Cedar street by the new name of "Locust place." The Maple avenue that runs northwest from Greenbrook road to West street, is to be known henceforth as "Forest avenue."

The new names for the streets continue the policy of giving sylvan titles to the borough highways, and if the ordinance passes its second and third readings, the streets may be formally christened about August 1.

PETITIONS LAID OVER BY BOROUGH FATHERS

Several petitions presented at last night's meeting of the North Plainfield Council were laid over until the special meeting next Friday night, when that body will make up the arrival budget. These include a petition from a dozen residents of Wilson avenue, requesting the repair of the roadway, constantly washed out by heavy rains so as to be practically impassible; a request for an electric light between Mountain and Codington avenues on Westervelt avenue; a request from the Board of Health for the proper drainage of a property on Somerset street at Hudson avenue; a request to move a frame building from Greenbrook road to Somerset street; and a long petition for the cancellation of interest on back taxes, presented by William Uhrhahn.

A petition for a fire hydrant at Codington and Watchung avenues was granted, as was one from Charles Force to make a small addition to a building on Somerset street.

Councilman B. R. Waldron, chairman of the street committee, reported that during the month of May a section of Greenbrook road near the borough limits had been put in good condition and that minor work had been done on other borough streets. The usual budget of bills was ordered paid.

Mayor Townsend called the attention of the Council to a warrant for $17.10 sent from the State Medical Board to Dr. A. H. Dundon for the registration of vital statistics. This amount, at the rate of ten cents a name for each birth, death or marriage, is being temporarily held up. The reason for it is that the borough Board of Health pays the borough physician a salary, which is supposed to include such registration. The matter will be decided at the special meeting.

A petition from promoters of the Orchard Park Improvement Association asked the borough to intercede with the P. S. C. to secure improvements of gas and electric light in the section was laid over until the special meeting. The borough counsel will take up the matter with the corporation.

Junior's Closing Exercises.

The Junior Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church held its closing exercises for the season, at the church, yesterday afternoon, when the little folks took part in a miscellaneous program of vocal and instrumental music and recitations. The Juniors had purchased a handsome new hymn book for the church pulpit and this was presented yesterday and will be used tomorrow for the first time. It is suitably inscribed. After the exercises, ice cream and cake were served.

Approaching Wedding.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Beulah Flinton Lightfoot, of Westfield, and Alfred P. Egan. The event will be celebrated Wednesday afternoon, June 17, at 5 o'clock, at the home of the bride. The wedding will be attended by a number of guests from this city.

Another Borough Special Cop.

Upon recommendation of Mayor Samuel Townsend, at the meeting of the North Plainfield Council last night, Gustav Anderson was appointed a marshal for special police duty.

SUGGESTIONS ON BUDGET

Mayor Townsend Calls Borough Fathers' Attention to $4,500 Deficit Last Year.

WILL FIX RATE NEXT WEEK.

Increase in School Money Will Make It Possible to Account for Deficit Without an Increase —Loss on Back Taxes.

To take up the borough budget for the coming year, the North Plainfield Council will convene for a special meeting next Friday night, at which time the figures submitted by the various committees will be gone over finally and the budget decided upon. A special meeting of the borough fathers was held in May to get the figures in shape, but there was no quorum present. Those who did show up put in several hours work over the figures.

In a special message to the Council at last night's meeting, Mayor Samuel Townsend took up the matter of making the budget as follows:

"At this time, when the budget for the year 1908 is about to be made up, I think it will be of assistance to study the condition of our finances as they stood at the close of the year 1907, and also to note any changes that have developed since that time, having a bearing on our work of estimating the amount that will be required to meet expenses for the current year. Our condition according to the annual report at the close of the year 1907 was as follows:

Current Assets.

Cash	$ 2,800.93
Unpaid tax prior to 1906	1,995.37
Unpaid tax for 1906	1,050.04
Unpaid tax for 1907	14,192.37
Unpaid tax franchises and assessment	2,327.00
	$22,365.71

Current Liabilities.

Board of Health	$ 10.00
Special school tax	20,964.25
Notes payable	4,000.00
	$24,974.25

"This report shows that, even assuming the collection of all unpaid taxes, we started the year 1908 with a deficit of $2,608.54. At the closing of the previous year, viz: 1906, the annual report showed an excess of assets over liabilities of $58.70. It is therefore clear that we did not raise enough by taxation for the year 1907 to meet the expenditure, and this shortage should be made up this year. A review by the finance committee of unpaid taxes prior to 1907 resulted in their reporting an amount of $948.64 as being uncollectable, and not to be reckoned as a good asset. Therefore this amount must also be made up and as experience has proven that there is always a proportion of taxes that are never collected, it would seem the part of wisdom to make a further allowance of say $1,000, to meet this probable deficiency.

"I therefore estimate the deficit to be as follows:

Deficiency as shown by 1907 report	$ 2,608.45
Taxes prior to 1907 considered uncollectable	948.64
Estimated further loss through uncollected taxes	1,000.00
Total	$4,557.09

"Under ordinary conditions the making up of this amount would add considerably to the burden of taxation, but it is our good fortune that the borough school fund will this year be increased by the money received from the State on account of the railroad tax, which tax, being a new scource of income, will be received this year for the first time; consequently we are in a better position to make an increase in borough taxes than we would have been in previous years.

"There was voted for special school tax in 1907 the sum of $24,900. There has ben voted this year for the same purpose $14,200, making a reduction of $10,700. It will therefore be seen that by the lowering of the school taxes the deficit in the borough fund can be made up and still show a saving in the total amount to be raised, provided there are no large increases in borough expenses. As we have control of borough finances we would naturally like to make a good howing in our particular branch of work, but I feel that it is more important to place our finances on a sound footing, rather than pursue a policy that will be at the expense of prudent business methods. While it is proper to borrow in anticipation of taxes that we may reasonably expect to receive, it is not economical to be continuously paying interest on money borrowed in anticipation of taxes, when we are satisfied that such portion is practically uncollect-

CANDIDATES FOR QUEEN OF FIREMEN'S CARNIVAL

Following are the candidates for queen of the Plainfield firemen's carnival: Miss Margaret Townley, for the B. P. O. E.; Miss Margaret King, for the I. O. F.; Miss Lillian Pauley, for the F. O. E. and Miss Mattie De Camp for the Jr. O. U. A. M.. Miss Sarah Hopewell for Woodhull and Martin's is also a candidate. Ballot boxes have been placed in Shreiner's Woodhull and Martin's, Timbo's S. Scheur & Co., and the Hotel Waldorf. Additional boxes will be placed today, together with the number of votes each candidate receives. Collections will be made from the ballot boxes daily by the firemen. J. W. Boyd, care of fire headquarters, has charge of the contests.

Of keen interest to students of Ethnology at the carnival will be the exhibit of a wild Aztex from Mexico. These queer specimens of humanity it is said will be in charge of a United States official during the carnival. These queer people together with trained wild animal show, "Streets of Cairo," the "Hindoo Theatre," the "Old Southern Plantation," "Horse Show" and others will enable any one to both enjoy himself and profit as well by an evening spent at the carnival. Each afternoon an out door show of gymnastic acrobatic and circus acts will be given which will be free. The carnival runs one week, June 15 to the 20.

DON'T ISSUE BONDS SAYS GEO. P. MELLICK

George P. Mellick, formerly chairman of the Common Council's finance committee and a New York banker who has always taken a deep interest in civic affairs during his residence here, agrees with Mayor Fisk on his bond issue views. The mayor's veto of an issue of $17,000 worth of bonds for street improvements at this time, strikes Mr. Mellick as most commendable.

In a communication to this paper, Mr. Mellick says:

"I have been much interested in the discussion regarding the veto of the street bond issue by Mayor Fisk and the explanation of our mayor as to his reasons for disapproving at this time of the ordinance before the Common Council providing for the $17,000 issue of bonds for macadamizing streets.

"It seems to me his arguments are sound and I believe it discreet on the part of the city not to raise money by increasing Plainfield's debt for the improvement of streets in the out lying sections of the city, unless practically all the owners of interested property signify their approval. The loading down of such property with assessments should not be undertaken unless a decided majority of the property owners approve of such assessments."

REV. DR. RICHARDS TALKS TO A CHUURCH BIBLE CLASS.

The Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church brought its year to a close last night, when Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, former pastor and now of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, made an address.

During the past five weeks the association has devoted itself to Bible study. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie has conducted a class in the study of John's First Epistle and Miss Harriet Goddard has had a class of the younger members of the association which has made a study of certain important characters in the Old Testament.

Summer School at the Plainfield Business College.

The Plainfield Business College will begin the special summer school course for tutoring pupils of the public schools on June 22, continuing up to September 1.

The instruction is so largely individual that backward and timid pupils receive just the care, encouragement and help necessary to enable them to make substantial progress in their studies.

Instruction will be given in the following subjects: Geometry, Algebra, Arithmetic, Penmanship, Spelling, Grammar, Punctuation, Composition, Rhetoric, Letter-Writing, Stenography and Bookkeeping.

Application for entrance may be made now. ***

Juniors to Meet Monday.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel will meet at the chapel Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, instead of on Tuesday, as usual. The change is made owing to the fact that Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, the superintendent is obliged to be away from the city on Tuesday.

WANT SPECIAL ELECTION

480 Borough Voters Petition Council to Decide Voting Machine's Fate.

ACTION IS STAVED OFF.

Corporation Counsel Instructs Borough Fathers that Affidavits as to Signatures Are Necessary.

Petitions signed by 480 borough voters, who object to the use of voting machines, were held up at the North Plainfield Council meeting last night and referred to the law and ordinance committee to ascertain if the signatures of the signers were genuine. This action by the borough fathers brought about a stiff argument from Walter L. Linbarger, who presented the petition from the second district. Borough Counsel State Senator Reed was questioned by him as to the legal necessity of obtaining affidavits from the various signers and the two had an argumentative discussion about the point after the meeting. Mr. Linbarger claimed that the State law called for no such affidavits, but Mr. Reed stated positively that the Council would take no action about the petitions, which call for a special election to decide the matter, until the affidavits were secured.

The matter of retention of the machines, which Linbarger claims "deprives the voter of the constitutional right to vote according to the dictates of his own conscience," has been agitated for some time past, and the signatures have been secured during the past two weeks. The petition from the first district was presented by Former Mayor Place, and contains the names of 229 of the 735 registered voters of the district. In the second district, 251 of the 751 registered voters have signed. It is said that the signers represent the leading voters of each party.

According to law, this petition, which is signed by more than the legally required twenty-five per cent. of the voters, calls for a special election to decide whether or not the voting machines shall be retained at borough elections.

MOTORCYCLE HIT WHEEL: WOMAN SLIGHTLY INJURED.

Aigren Nicholysen, of Dunellen, was riding a motorcycle down Watchung avenue at 7:05 last night, and as he reached the East Second street corner, Mrs. Clarence Giles, mounted on a bicycle, attempted to pass in front of him. Nicholysen's machine strpck the rear wheel of the other one and Mrs. Giles was hurled against an obstruction placed on the new brick pavement work to keep vehicles off. It was thought at first that she was seriously injured and Patrolman Cornelius McCarthy had her carried to a nearby store. She received medical treatment and was afterward taken to her home on East Second street in a cab.

Nicholysen was placed under arrest by Patrolman Nolan and went with the officer to police headquarters. He remained there until 8 o'clock when Mr. Giles reported that his wife was not seriously hurt and he was allowed to go. The young woman received a general shaking up and a few severe bruises.

EVERY STOCKHOLDER A DIRECTOR IN THE CONCERN.

The Monarch Investment Company, was incorporated this week for $100,000. The company has been formed to acquire and deal in real estate, personal property, interests, etc., and the principal office is at 221 Park avenue. A meeting of the stockholders was held last night and these officers were elected:

President, Frank H. Smith; vice-president, H. C. Van Emburgh; secretary, William R. Townsend; treasurer, H. B. MacDonald; directors, Frank H. Smith, H. C. Van Emburgh, William R. Townsend, H. B. MacDonald, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., H. G. Black, Fred W. Hand, Thomas J. Hughes, Cornelius van Herwerden, Walter Apgar, John J. Praed, Francis J. Blatz, Joseph C. Blimm, Philip Jahn, John C. Brick Pavement Completed.

With the laying of the brick pavement in the alley adjoining J. A. Smith & Brother's grocery on West Front street, yesterday, the contract was completed by C. M. Meeker. There is one bad section of the pavement in front of L. W. Randolph's store, where in rainy weather the water settles, and this may be fixed later on. Mr. Meeker is under bonds for one year according to the contract with the city and any defects will be made good by him within that time.

"DR. SELWONK" WINS OFFICIAL BLUE BOOK CUP

Vanderbilt Horse Takes Trophy the Second Time and it is Now the Owner's Property.

MOORE STILL TRIUMPHANT.

Three Additional Blue Ribbons Awarded His Entries in Yesterday's Classes— Final Program.

Judge W. H. Moore's string of prize-winning animals continued to capture blue ribbons at the horse show yesterday, and ended the afternoon's program with three more to their credit. In addition they left the ring with three reds, two yellows and two whites. The Vanderbilt entries were not so fortunate although their owner took sweet revenge on his foremost rival by again taking the Official Blue Book cup with his Dr. Selwonk, making it his permanent property. Miss Mabel B. Hooley was a big factor in nearly all of yesterday's classes and closely followed Judge Moore by winning three blues, one red, one yellow and two whites. As the summary stands at present, Judge Moore leads in the number of awards by getting in first place seven times, second five times, third four times and fourth place three times.

The contest for the Blue Book cup was the feature of yesterday's judging and brought out a field of nine entries. Mr. Vanderbilt had two in and Judge Moore three, the owners driving. To the spectators it seemed as though the choice for first place would narrow down to the Vanderbilt and Moore animals but their expectations were not met. "Dr. Selwonk" was awarded the blue and Paul Sorg's ch. g. "Red Oak" took the reserve. As soon as the decision was reached, Robert Fairbairn, chairman of the horse show committee, entered the ring and presented Mr. Vanderbilt with the cup. The latter announced afterward that he would offer another trophy in its place for next year and E. C. Rich, whose "Amanda Baron" took the challenge cup for the second time, made the same statement.

The reputation of Miss Mabel B. Hooley's handsome pair "Quaker Maid" and "Dorothea" was upheld in Class 11 when they won the blue against a field of five other teams. Miss Hooley drove and she handled her entries faultlessly. Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt was in the ring with the no less famous "Phoebe Watton" and "Marie Tempest" while Mrs. Paul Sorg drove "Tease" and "Torment." Mrs. Moore drove "Whitewall Ariel" and "Truette" and the other ribbons were given in the order named.

In Class 46, for local harness horses, the judges' first decision gave first to Miss Hooley's "Dorothea," second to Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton's "Garnet;" third to Charles W. McCutchen's "Bimbashi" and fourth to Miss Mabel B. Hooley's "Bohemian Lad." It was afterward learned by Mr. McCutchen that his entry had been driven by a professional, contrary to rules, and the awards were changed, "Bohemian Lad" getting third.

The Westchester Farm entries again carried off the honors in the jumping classes, the favorites "Taconite" and "Centennial" making exceptionally good marks. Mrs. J. E. Davis rode "Irish Maid" in one of them and took a fourth.

Today's program began at 10 o'clock this morning and continued until 12 o'clock when recess was declared. Seven classes in all were passed upon. Sixteen more remain to be judged, the last one scheduled being for fire department horses, post entries. It will conclude the show in one sense of the word, but a number of dinner parties have been arranged for tonight, one of them to be given by Judge Moore at the Watchung Hunt Clubhouse.

The summary of yesterday's awards:

Class 47—Harness horses, local. First, Miss Mabel B. Hooley's ch. m. Quaker Maid and ch. m. Dorothea; second, Tonzo Sauvage's ch. g. Grand Duke and ch. g. Lord Nelson; third, Miss Mabel B. Hooley's br. g. Bohemian Lad and br. g. Society; fourth, Miss Margaret W. McCutchen's ch. m. All Ablaze and ch. m. Blaze Away.

Class 7—Harness horses, pair of horses over 15 hands and not exceeding 15-2 hands. First, William H. Moore's br. g. Pride O'Prides and br. g. King of Kings; second, Paul A. Sorg's ch. m., Eloquence and ch. g. Emotion; third, Moses G. Byers'

BOROUGH MAYOR WANTS ORDINANCES COMPILED

Before the borough ordinances are compiled for publication in pamphlet form for the year, it is probable that several new measures will be introduced. Councilman Smith recommended a general changing of the fire limitis and this matter led to considerable discussion in which Counsel Reed took active part. He objected to the extension of all limits and wanted to know the purpose of the change.

Councilman Van Arsdale recommended an ordinance forbidding the distribution of advertising circulars and booklets in the borough and this met with favor. Mr. Townsend spoke of the value of an ordinance forbidding the carrying of concealed weapons. Borough Counsel Reed explained that there was no necessity for such an ordinance, for the State law in the matter covered the case completely, but the Mayor stated that he believed a local ordinance would be of assistance to the borough police.

It is probable that some new ordinances will be framed and submitted to the Council at a meeting in the near future.

FIRST PRESBYTERIANS' STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL

Under the auspices of the Pastor's Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church, a strawberry and ice cream festival was held in the Sunday-school room of the church last night. The affair, an annual one, was largely attended and liberal patronage was accorded. The rooms were attractively decorated for the occasion, and during the evening an excellent program of instrumental music was rendered.

The festival was in charge of a committee of which Mrs. Clarence E Bond was the chairman. The other committees were as follows:

Shortcake—Mrs. John S. Johnston, Mrs. E. W. Poinier, Mrs. L. A. Hummer, Mrs. Charles M. Hummer, Mrs. John Brower, Mrs. W. R. Causebrook, Mrs. J. C. Allen.

Ice cream—Mrs. A. E. Hoagland, Mrs. Freeman J. Shotwell, Mrs. John Westervelt, Mrs. D. K. Young, Miss Jennie Abbott, Mrs. A. L. Cadmus, Mrs. Campbell M. Kelly, Mrs. Geo. A. Ballantyne.

Cake—Mrs. W. W. Dunn, Mrs. H. A. Pope, Mrs. A. E. Hyatt, Mrs. Howard Martin, Mrs. Andrew Petrie, Mrs. J. V. McPherson.

Candy—Miss Clara VanFleet, Miss Julia Williams, Miss Lippencott, Miss Cornelia Lounsbury, Miss Louise Loundsbury, Mrs. H. S. Beebe, Miss Dorothea Bull, Miss Ella Reynard, Miss Bessie Bond, Miss Addie Dietrich.

Mrs. Harry Williams was in charge of the waitresses, comprising the young women of the church. The musical program was in charge of Miss Beatrice Miner and Miss Alice Miller and assisted by Clifford Braider, they rendered various numbers on the piano. A feature was a dialogue by Miss Ida Englehart and Miss Florence Fowler.

Special Musical Service.

The regular monthly musical service will be given in the First Presbyterian church, tomorrow night, when the following selections will make up the program: Organ and piano duets, "La Serenata," Bach; "Cavatina," Raff; "Abide With Me," La 'Capella, arranged for this service. The anthems will include, "Sun of My Soul," Salter; "The Lord is my Strength," Rogers; "Sing Alleluia Forth," Buck; soprano and baritone duet, "Love Divine," Schenecker, and the contralto solo, "Great is the Lord," Pinsuti. The quartet choir, Miss Anna Lucretia Case, soprano; Miss Jessamine Burd, contralto; Andrew J. McClintock, tenor, and Herbert R. Byard, baritone, will be assisted at the piano by Miss Alice C. Miller. The service will be under the direction of Clifford Braider, organist.

Will Sing at Ocean Grove.

Miss Anna Lucretia Case, soprano soloist at the First Presbyterian church, has been engaged as the soloist at the Ocean Grove Auditorium on July 4, at the installation of the new organ. At this gathering Former Governor E. C. Stokes is to preside and Governor J. Franklin Fort is to make the address. This will close a great musical week at Ocean Grove, Schumann-Heink and Nordica singing there the two previous evenings.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curtis of New York, formerly of Mercer avenue, are planning a trip to Europe, and will sail soon.

Hot Stove—Cool Kitchen

How do you expect to endure the broiling days of summer if you prepare all the food over a glowing coal fire?

You need a "New Perfection" Oil Stove that will do the cooking without cooking the cook. It concentrates plenty of heat under the pot and diffuses little or none through the room. Therefore, when working with the

NEW PERFECTION

the kitchen actually seems as comfortable as you could wish it to be.

This, in itself, is wonderful, but, more than that, the "New Perfection" Oil Stove does perfectly everything that any stove can do. It is an ideal all-round cook-stove. Made in three sizes, and fully warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo Lamp a substantial, strongly made and handsome lamp. Burns for hours with a strong, mellow light. Just what you need for evening reading or to light the dining-room. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

We will give a three months' scholarship in Drake College, equal to Twenty-five Dollars (our regular rate), to the person who can write legibly the greatest number of times on a postal card (using one side only), the following sentence:

"DRAKE COLLEGE IS THE BEST IN PLAINFIELD."

All cards must be written in ink and must contain the name and address of the contestant.

Exception: Students and graduates of Drake College are barred from competing, inasmuch as this school is so thorough with the teaching of penmanship that our former students would have little or no difficulty in becoming the winner of this contest.

Further information will be furnished on request.

Contest closes July 4, 1908. Send all cards to

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Continuing his series of sermons from quaint texts, Rev. George H. Gardner will speak from the topic "Learning by Experience, or the Logic of Indisputable Evidence" at th evening service at the New Market Baptist church tomorrow. Special music will be a feature.

"Fragments from the Association" was the topic of an address by Rev. Henry N. Jordan at the evening service of the Seventh Day Baptist church last night. He spoke of interesting details of the work of the conference in session at Plainfield last week.

Through the consideration of United States Senator John Kean and State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, official maps of the United States and New Jersey have been presented to Mayor Harry Swackhamer and hung in the Council chamber.

Rev. W. W. Casselberry will officiate at the Communion service to be held in the First Presbyterian church at the conclusion of the morning service tomorrow.

Boating is the popular pastime with boroughites and villagers these June days and C. T. Rogers has all his boats in commission on the lake.

Today's game at New Market is between the New Market Field Club nine and the Mono A. C. team of Plainfield.

WESTFIELD.

Westfield is to have a new town hall, which, together with the ground recently purchased, will cost $75,000. The idea is to furnish room for the fire department, Council room and offices for the town officers. A resolution to issue bonds to that amount, will be introduced at the next meeting of the Council.

Garwood's Board of Education will start the addition to the schoolhouse as soon as school closes, to have the addition ready for use when school apens next fall. All the teachers for next year have been engaged.

The tournaments that were to have been played at the Westfield Golf Club Memorial Day will take place this afternoon.

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

Mrs. M. W. Mix and son, of Stamford, are being entertained at the home of her sister, Mrs. Jacob Foreman, in South Raritan avenue, New Bound Brook.

Mrs. William Duryea, of Millstone, was entertained Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Duryea in Prospect street, South Bound Brook.

Mrs. Lester E. Apgar, of Elizabeth, was recently entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Apgar, in Cedar street, South Bound Brook.

Mrs. Carrie Creger and children, of Elizabeth street, South Bound Brook, have been visiting friends at Allentown, Pa.

A daughter was recently born to Mr. and Mrs. James Malloy at their home in Main street, South Bound Brook.

Mrs. L. S. Cook, of High street, Bound Brook, is spending several days with relatives at Annapolis, Md.

Mrs. Charles Wendel, of Bound Brook, has returned from a visit to relatives at Perth Amboy.

Miss Elsie Bolen, of Mountain avenue, is spending several weeks at Buck Hill Falls, Pa.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The annual excursion of the First Baptist church and Faith chapel to Asbury Park will be on Thursday, July 9. Train will leave Plainfield at 8 o'clock and returning leave the Park at 6 o'clock.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, will omit his tenth discourse on "The Apostles Creed" tomorrow night on account of the musical service. He will deliver the sermon one week later.

Communion service will be held at the First Baptist church tomorrow morning, in charge of the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, and in the evening Mrs. J. H. Heinrichs, a returned missionary from India, will address the Young People's Association and The Temple Builders.

PERSONAL.

Miss Carrie Smith, of Irvington, who has been spending a few days with friends here, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place, will spend the summer at their cottage in Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton M. Neagle, of West Front street, have returned from a visit with relatives at Perth Amboy.

Mrs. H. E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue, and her daughters, who have been sojourning at Atlantic City, have returned.

SUNDAY MUSICAL SERVICE AT THE FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

The choir of the First M. E. church on Sunday evening will give the last musical service of the season. The choir will be assisted by two violinists of Westefild, Mrs. P. B. Scarff and Alfred A. Moser. Arthur Chamberlain will be the baritone.

This will be the program: Two violins and organ, Largo from D minor concerto, Bach; processional hymn, anthem, "O, Gladsome Light," Sullivan; prayer; anthem, "Weary Pilgrims, Know No Fear," Leoni; violin solo, Lullaby, Jocelyn, Godard; alto solo, "Rock of Ages," Remick, Mrs. R. H. Moyer; Scripture lesson; soprano solo, "O, Lamb of God," Bizet, Miss Bertha Van Nuis Willis; violin obligato, by Mrs. P. B. Scarff; violin solo, andante religiouso, Thome-Guilmant, by Mrs. P. B. ONLY ONE OF FOUR IS LEFT IN LONG WALK.

Captain Victor Allo Alone on Way from Cranford to the Pacific Coast.

Cranford, June 6.—Of the four men who started on April 14 to walk from this place to California without money, but one, Captain Victor Allo, remains. He is now plodding along the highways of Illinois, bound for Burlington, Ia.

Postal cards sent to his friends here, with his picture, bear the date "June 1, Fairbury, Ill." Allo has written that he was obliged to "fire" his companions, because they were too lazy to work for their "grub," and depended on him to earn the money to buy food.

Allo, being an expert gardener, had no difficulty in securing temporary employment by means of which he could easily supply his necessities. He is in good spirits, and is determined to complete his journey.

Will Tell of Work in India.

Mrs. J. H. Heinrichs, of Ramapatam, India, who with her husband, is in charge of the work at Yerkes' chapel and other mission work in India, will address the members of the Young People's Society and The Temple Builders at the First Baptist church, Sunday night. Mrs. Heinrichs is a great favorite as a speaker and the societies extend a cordial invitation to anyone interested to attend the service. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor, will preach at the morning service and have charge of the celebration of the Lord's supper, when a number of persons, recently baptized will be welcomed into the church membership.

$75,000 for Yale.

CONFIRMED PROOF.

Residents of Plainfield Cannot Doubt What Has Been Twice Proved.

In gratitude for complete relief from aches and pains of bad backs—from distressing kidney ills—thousands have publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of Plainfield, who so testified years ago, now say their cures were permanent. This testimony doubly proves the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills to Plainfield kidney sufferers.

Rhoda A. Martin, of 24 Jackson avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I had pain in my back and loins for about a year or more, no doubt caused by my kidneys being out of order. I felt it more in the morning, just after getting up or if I did any stooping or lifting. Notwithstanding the fact that I took all kinds of medicines I never found anything which helped me until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at L. W. Randolph's drug store. They not only removed the pain, but they strengthened me in other ways." (Statement made in January, 1901).

Statement Confirmed.

Recently Mrs. Martin's daughter said: "The testimonial given for publication some years ago was true in regard to the benefit my mother derived from Doan's Kidney Pills, and today she is as ready and willing to repeat what she therein said as she was after using the remedy."

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

A Paulsboro iceman made a complaint before Council that the streets were in such poor condition that his ice melted before he could get it served.

A committee of the Camden County Country Club wil meet Mayor Collings, of Collingswood, at his office this afternoon and talk over Sunday golf.

Jefferson Smallwood, who was bitten by a dog supposed to be mad, was sent by the Clayton Borough officials to the Pasteur Institute, New York, yesterday.

The old hotel at Billingsport is closed for the first time in fifty years the application for renewal of its license being held up temporarily by Judge Starr.

Mrs. Henry C. Loudenslager, wife of the Congressman, who was expected to return to her Paulsboro home two weeks ago, is confined to her hotel in Washington by severe illness.

Former Mayor Daniel F. Hendrickson, a prominent real estate man of Woodbury, has announced his candidacy for sheriff on the Republican ticket. This makes a half dozen candidates for the place.

David Lewis, former postmaster of the House of Assembly, was sued for $500 in the City District Court at Trenton yesterday by Benjamin Ackerman, who alleges that the defendant kicked him during a recent meeting of Socialists.

An urgent request has been made of the members of the First M. E. church, Millstone, that the next time they come to service they bring with them all their cast-off gum shoes, which will be sold to raise funds for the annual picnic of the Epworth League.

William H. Chew, of Salem, a member of the State Sewage Commission and publisher of the West Jersey Press and Salem Standard, has been appointed by Colonel John A. Mather, of the Third Regiment, National Guard, as paymaster with the rank of captain. He succeeds Captain Alonzo Thompson, who resigned.

For the second time in succession a male member of the senior class of the Haddon High School, Haddonfield, has won the valedictory, Edward Wayne Marshall being the fortunate student this year. The graduation exercises were held in the opera house last evening. The annual address was delivered by former Governor Stokes, of Millville.

William Rannenberg, chairman of the Council of the town of Union, in Hudson County, has issued a proclamation empowering any person to kill all dogs running at large in the town from June 1 to October 15, 1908, unless the dogs are muzzled. Any one who interferes with the carrying out of the above is liable to a fine of $5 or a five-day term in the county jail.

Dr. George W. King, medical superintendent of the Hudson County Almshouse at Snake Hill, sent a communication to the County Board of Freeholders yesterday setting forth that the institution is overcrowded. He asked that the building be enlarged and that temporary relief be supplied by the transfer of twenty-five patients to the State asylum at Morris Plains.

Bertha Reed, six years old, colored, of Palmyra, whose mother deserted her after she had been badly burned and whose life was saved by several white persons volunteering to have portions of their skin grafted on the child, is getting along very well. The mother of the child called over the telephone last week and inquired after her daughter, but she has never been at the hospital.

Important steps in the proposed erection of a new Burlington County hospital to be located at New Lisbon, were taken yesterday by the committee of freeholders having the matter in charge, when the plans and specifications were canvassed and arrangements made to advertise for bids. For this purpose the Board of Freeholders has appropriated $12,000. The structure is to be of brick, two floors and basement, with a lighting plant and all necessary conveniences.

Wilbur Roselle, a Clayton barber, was surprised yesterday to find his four-year-old daughter playing with a big, fat wallet, which she called her "dolly." Investigating, Roselle was astonished to find it contained several hundred dollars in $5, $10, and $20 bills and a check made payable to Frank M. Crane, a Clayton lumberman. He returned the purse intact. Mr. Crane was also surprised as he had not yet discovered his loss. He had dropped it on the street, and the little girl who found it was handsomely rewarded.

As Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Wetherill, of Edgewater Park, were on their way home in their large touring car about midnight Wednesday night, the machine suddenly burst into flames, and Mrs. Wetherill, becoming excited leaped out while it was going at full speed. Her husband followed, but neither was badly hurt. They feared an explosion, but the chauffeur used his wits, stopped the car and soon had the fire subdued in using wet sand. The accident occurred in a lonely spot eight miles from home, and it was hard to find help.

Captain Tieman Horn, formerly of this city, who for some time was stationed at Fort Hancock, is now living in Washington.

The Iola Club will play its opening game of the season today, having the strong Hamilton A. C., of Rahway, for its opponents. The Hamiltons have not been beaten this year and a good game is anticipated. The Iolas will lineup as follows: Denton, rf; Becker, cf; V. Meany, lf; V. Meany, lf; B. Chilton, 3b; Conolly, 2b; Farr, 1b; Thompson, ss; Layton, c; Smith, p.

The Junior O. U. A. M. nine will play the Garwood A. C. at Garwood this afternoon. The team will leave town on the 2 'clock car from the trolley stand.

The Elizabeth A. C. will be here this afternoon and meet Clinton Avenue at Crescent Oval. When these teams played a few weeks ago, the Elizabeth boys walked off with the honors. Today it may be different.

Clifford Randolph, who will pitch for the Clinton Avenues today, is in the best of condition and will no doubt show up well.

"Lou" Wiltse, who is on the pitching staff of the Jersey City Club, is in prime condition, although he is not being used regularly by Manager Bean.

The Union League, after a five weeks' campaign, ended its career yesterday. Wilmington and Baltimore withdrew two weeks ago, which left the organization with a six-club circuit. President Al Lawson ascribes the disruption of the league to rainy weather and bad financial conditions. Elizabeth and Reading will probably join forces with the Atlantic League, having made applications to President J. Walter Dobbins, of that organization. The Brooklyns will continue to play independent ball in the City of Churches and will be known as the Ridgewoods. The last game was played in the ill-fated organization yesterday, when Washington defeated Philadelphia by the score of 6 to 3, in the former city.

Gene McCann, who is keeping in shape by practising with the Skeeters every day, yesterday received an offer to manage the Macon (Ga.) team. McCann said if satisfactory terms can be arranged he will accept the proposition.

Jimmy Sheckard, the Chicago Nationals' outfielder, whose eyes were injured in Chicago on Tuesday as a result of the explosion of a bottle of ammonia, will not lose his eyesight, as at first feared. It is thought that he will be able to resume playing within three weeks.

Shaughnessy, who has been playing fast ball in the outfield for the Washington (Union League) team, has been signed by the Philadelphia Athletics.

Manager McGraw of the New York baseball team has refused several times to reply to questions as to the truth of the report that he was contemplating making some changes in the team. The rumor current was that waivers had been asked on Pitcher McGinnity and Sammy (Strang) Nicklin.

Pitcher Joe McGinnity will not become a member of the Cincinnati team. Manager Ganzel decided to waive on him Tuesday. Pitcher Chas. Rhodes and Infielder Charles of the St. Louis National League team were awarded to the Reds by President Pulliam yesterday.

C. Ebbets, Brooklyn magnate, is agrieved. He has protested against the New York Americans sending Catcher Butler to Jersey City. He says the New York club did not ask for waivers, and that he is willing to pay back the $1,500 purchase money that New York paid to Brooklyn and take Butler back.

GOLF.

It was a disappointment to many friends of Frank O. Reinhart that he did not win out in his match with Travers in the annual championship tournament of the New Jersey State Golf Association. He played a fine game, but was not equal to the good work of Travers.

Dudley H. Barrows showed good form in the championship play at Baltusrol on Thursday, winning his first round match. If he maintains his present gait he will undoubtedly win many honors on the links this season.

Leighton Calkins, president of the Plainfield Country Club, was one of the contestants in the championship tournament at Baltusrol and in the early stages played a good game.

The event at the Plainfield Country Club today will be the weekly competition for the Spring Handicap cups, Classes A and B. At the Park Golf Club there will be the weekly competitions for the challenge trophies and the President's and club cups.

The third monthly handicap of the Dyker Meadow Golf Club scheduled for June 13, will be played today instead. It promises to be an important event.

As the new chairman of the house committee at the Plainfield Country Club, Willard Wadsworth promises an enjoyable season of social functions. There will be the usual dinner-dances at the club Saturday nights and many additional events are being planned.

The officers of the Plainfield Country Club are planning to lengthen the course the full distance, making it a championship links. The condition of the course is now the best in its history and adds greatly to the enjoyment of the contestants.

AN ORDINANCE

To Vacate An Unnamed and Unaccepted Street, On Property of Lemuel E. Hart, in the Rear of Elmwood Place.

WHEREAS it is alleged, that the hereinafter described unnamed street, referred to in two certain deeds hereinafter referred to from Job Male to Lemuel E. Hart, both dated September 1, 1884, have never been opened to public use or accepted by the City, although dedicated as a street, and that Lemuel E. Hart and Lucy Wooley are all the owners of the abutting lands of said street, and have applied to the Common Council of said city to vacate said street, pursuant to Chapter 139 of the laws of 1897 and have filed with the City Clerk the consents required by said act:

AND WHEREAS, the opening of said street would require a large expenditure of public funds and it is to the interest of the city that such street should be vacated:

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

That the unnamed street referred to in two certain deeds from Job Male to Lemuel E. Hart, dated September 1, 1884, and recorded in Book 168 of deeds for Union County, pages 491 and 493, which street begins at the south corner of property owned by Thomas E. Curran on Elmwood Place and runs thence with property of Lemuel E. Hart, south fifty-one degrees and forty-three minutes west two hundred and eight (208) feet more or less, to property of Lucy Wooley; thence with her line south thirty-eight degrees and four minutes east a distance of forty (40) feet; thence still with property of Lemuel E. Hart, north fifty-one degrees and forty-three minutes east two hundred and eight (208) feet more or less, to south corner of lot owned by Lemuel E. Hart fronting on Elmwood Place; thence with the south boundary line of said Elmwood Place lot, north thirty-nine degrees and fifty-seven minutes west forty (40) feet to the beginning, be and the same is hereby vacated, pursuant to the acts of the Legislature in such case made and provided.

Adopted by the Common Council June 1, 1908; approved by the Mayor June 1, 1908.

CHAS. J. FISK, Mayor.
Attest: J. T. MacMurray, City Clerk.

Proposals for Federal Building Site.

Treasury Department,
Office of the Secretary,
Washington, D. C., June 2, 1908.

Proposals will be received, to be opened at 2 o'clock p. m., July 1, 1908, for the sale or donation to the United States of a suitable site, centrally and conveniently located, for the Federal building to be erected in Plainfield, N. J. A corner lot of approximately 160x147 feet is required. Each proposal must give price, the character of foundation obtainable, the proximity to street cars, sewer, gas, and water mains, etc., and must be accompanied by a diagram indicating the principal street, the north point, the dimensions and grades of the land, the widths and paving of adjacent streets and alleys, whether the alleys are public or private, and whether or not the city owns land occupied by sidewalks. The vendor must pay all expenses connected with furnishing evidences of title and deeds of conveyance.

Improvements on property must be reserved by the vendor, but pending the commencement of the Federal building they may remain on the land upon payment of a reasonable ground rent. The grantor must, however, remove all improvements on thirty days' notice so to do.

The right to reject any proposal is reserved. Each proposal must be sealed, marked "Proposal for Federal building site at Plainfield, N. J.," and mailed to the Secretary of the Treasury (Supervising Architect), Washington, D. C. No special form of proposal is required or provided.

(Signed)
GEO. B. CORTELYOU,
Secretary.

A CONVENTION PRIMER

Important Information Concerning Past and Coming National Political Conventions.

THE FIRST DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS.

Where and when was the first national Democratic convention held for the nomination of both president and vice president?

At Baltimore May 20, 1835.

Who were nominated?

Martin Van Buren of New York for president and Richard M. Johnson of Kentucky for vice president.

Was a platform adopted?

No, nor was there any address to the people issued.

Who were the opponents of Van Buren in the election?

William H. Harrison, Hugh L. White, Daniel Webster and William P. Mangum, all of whom received electoral votes.

Who were elected?

Van Buren had 170 of the 294 electoral votes cast; but, as Johnson had only 147 (not a majority), the election of vice president was thrown into the senate, where he was elected by a vote of 33 to 16 for Francis Granger.

At what convention was the first Democratic platform adopted?

At the convention held in Baltimore May 5, 1840, where Van Buren was renominated for president and Richard M. Johnson was renominated for vice president.

Were these candidates successful?

No; they were overwhelmingly defeated by William Henry Harrison and John Tyler, who were nominated by the Whigs in national convention at Harrisburg in December, 1839.

PAINTING TIME

Much time spent in painting is often wasted because the paint is bad and cracks, peels or rubs off before the season is over. It is false economy to use cheap paint, because the labor required to apply it costs as much or more than if good paint is used.

able.

"In this conection I wish to say that a more rigid enforcement of the law governing the collection of taxes would seem to be desirable. The great majority of our people are perfectly willing to pay their fair share of the burden of taxation, but they may reasonably object to making up deficiences caused by the default of others. Owing to the absence of our collector through illness for some time past the work of following up delinquents has suffered. As he has now returned to his work, and is much improved in health, it is hoped that the collection of balances outstanding will be taken up and pushed vigorously."

When Cleansing Cretonne.

The craze for cretonne has now got to such a stage that the fortunate owners of this pretty and serviceable fabric are looking about them for a means of cleaning it. It should first of all be thoroughly shaken in the open air, and then washed in bran water without rubbing. Rinse in a second bowl of bran water, to which salt and vinegar have been added in the proportion of one tablespoonful of each to a quart of water, in order to prevent the colors from runnning.

Wring tightly and roll up with a fold of clean towel between each roll. Using a heavy hot iron, iron the cretonne on the wrong side until it is quite dry. As the bran water itself stiffens, there is no necessity for straching.

A Useful Color.

Whether the leather-colored goods are manufactured to correspond with leather-colored shoes or the reverse is not known, but most assuredly the color enjoys the distinction of being popular. On one neat dress of tan shantung the trimmings were of white, piped with red silk. The three colors combined splendidly and the red offset the beatuy of shape. Leather colored silks, linens, lawns and fine weaves are found everywhere. The trimmings are more of white than ecrue, though often white is combined with dark brown. For a jumper suit a leather-colored linen, all edges bound with brown, would be neat, especially if worn with a white guimpe and tan hat trimmed with white flowers.

She Came Back.

Hans Growyost, a worthy Western farmer, has a wife who has long rendered his life anything but a couch of roses. One day not long ago she(in fit of pique, packed up her goods and left him, vowing never to come back. The news went around among his neighbors, and at night several of them came to condole with Hans. He sat on his front porch poffing away at his pipe. "Hans," remarked one of the nighbors, "I pity you." "My poy," replied the honest Dutchman, as he knocked disturbedly the ashes out of his pipe, "you vas right. She has shust come back!"

Six Weeks in Europe for Three Hundred Dollars.

A well-known gentleman of Plainfield, not in the excursion business, is forming a small party—from five to ten—which he will conduct for a six weeks' trip to Europe this summer. The itinerary will include England, France, the Azores, Gibralter, Rome, Naples, Venice, &c., or instead of Italy, Holland, Belgium and Switzerland, as the party may prefer. The total cost need not exceed $300. This covers ocean passage on "one class" steamer, all railway and other traveling expenses, hotels, &c.

The plan is to start late in July or about the first of August. Anyone interested may address "European," care of The Daily Press. 5-29 6-1-6

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

I desire to correct a mistake which occurred in connection with the exhibition of Class 46, "Harness Hores, Local, Amateurs to drive." My gelding, "Bimbashi," was awarded third prize, Mrs. Reeve Stockton's "Garnet," fourth, and Miss Hooley's "Bohemian Lad" next. But by an unintentional mistake on my part, or on the part of my stable management "Bimbashi" was driven by a professional, and not by an amateur as required, and was therefore disqualified. I was occupied with official duties when the class was called and did not notice the error until just after the awards had been made, when it was very properly mentioned to me. I immediately brought it before the judges, requesting them to change the awards and disqualify my horse, which they did, and the third prize was accordingly given to Mrs. Stockton, and the fourth to Miss Hooley where they deservedly belonged.

I regret exceeding the blunder and the unwitting injustice which was done the young ladies mentioned, from whose deserved honors I would be the last to detract.

Very truly yours,
C. W. McCUTCHEN.

PYTHIANS' PRESENTATION

Perseverance to Have Big Time When Pythian Altar is Brought Here.

RAISING THE COUNTY FUNDS.

State Grand Lodge Officers to Be Present—History of Trip Through State to Be Kept.

On Friday night, June 19, Olive Branch Loldge, No. 78, Knights of Pythias, of Elizabeth, will make a fraternal visit to Perserverence lodge No. 74. Olive Branch lodge will be accompanied on this occasion by large delegations from Harmony Lodge No. 99, and Volunteer Lodge, No. 110, of Elizabeth; Linden Lodge, No. 2, of Linden; Euclid Lodge, No. 153, of Woodbridge; Somerset Lodge No. 56, of Bound Brook; Lodge of the Castle, No. 82, of Somerville; as well as delegations from numerous other lodges in Newark and the neighboring territory.

The main feature of the occasion will be the presenting of the Pythian charity altar to the Plainfield Lodge by the Elizabeth Lodge accompanied by the usual social entertainment and speechmaking, etc., of a rare kind that always accompanies these presentations of this Altar as it goes on its rounds from lodge to lodge throughout the state of New Jersey everywhere impressing upon the members of this Grand Order the duties that Knight of Phythias in good health owe to those of their fraternity who after years of good work have grown old and infirm. At some near future date the Knight of Pythias of this State propose to erect an institution that will be a credit to any order providing for the care of the aged Pythian or his widow or orphan. At each and every one of these meetings there is something done for the cause and invaribly those who attend go home remarkably impressed with th idea that a move of this nature is one of necessity.

Among the Grand Lodge officers who will be present on this occasion are Abram Klenert, grand chancellor; Henry A. Heinrichs, grand vice chancellor and the prime mover or originator of this feature of visitations; grand prelate A. Lewis Drucker, grand master at arms Harry C. Keeler; grand inner guard, W. D. Quick, grand outer guard Samuel A. Dobbins. Also supreme representative John H. Congor.

The committee in charge of the affair for Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, will endeavor to break all attendance records on this date and to that end they ask the co-operation and attendance of every Knight of Pythias who can conveniently be present. The Elizabeth boys are coming in special cars. The members of the unifromed rank will also be out in force on this evening. Unity Company No. 3, of Elizabeth, P. F. Shanley Co., No. 5, of Rahway, and Crescent Company, No. 13, of Plainfield will be well represented. General Superintendent William P. Jaquith of the insurance department of the K. of P., will also be a visitor that evening.

The Pythian Charity Altar is a minature model of one of the handsomest triangular Pythian altars ever produced and it is admired by all who have ever seen it. To Pythians it means a great deal. It is made of hardwood and very handsomely painted, gilded, trimmed, monogramed and upholstered. Each side is of a different color. One is blue with a monogram "F," one is yellow with a monogram "C" and one is red with a monogram "B" neatly put in the centres. The top is made of three triangular pieces of silk plush with a triangular name plate in the centre engraved as follows: Pythian Charity Altar, presented to K. of P. of N. J., by Henry A. Heinrichs, Grand Vice Chancellor, Feb. 20, 1908.

The proceedings of each visit of this Altar is recorded in a book for that purpose that accompanies the Altar. Every one present places his autograph in that record book and thereby makes that act of his a part of the "History of the Pythian Home" of which this book of records and Pythian Charity Altar will in the future form a part and be relics, highly prized by those unfortunate Pythians who through sickness or adversity should be placed in that proposed institution which is now almost an assured fact. Prominent Pythians look upon this move as one of the best that has been brought out in New Jersey in years and that it ultimately will result in the erection of that proposed grand monument to the honor of the Pythian fraternity of the present era.

Planning to Ask For Bids.

There will be an adjourned meeting of the Common Council Monday night to take action regarding the issue of school and other bonds and fix a time for the receiving of bids for building the new Primary school building at Darrow avenue and Essex street.

J. C. Pierson to Build.

Joseph C. Pierson, of West Front street, broke ground yesterday on Dunellen avenue, near Mariners place for the erection of a new house for his own use. It will be the first one of the kind to be erected in Plainfield the architecture being identical with that of a California bungalow.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Electric Crickets," Joseph Hart's most pretentious production will be one of the principal features on the excellent program arranged for the week of June 8th, at Proctor' Newark thater. "The Crickets" is a fantasy with novel scenic and electrical effects and is presented by a comely chorus, a prima donna, Katherine Bunn, who possesses an excellent soprano voice, and William N. Cripps the well known comic opera tenor. Gallagher and Barrett will appear in their side splitting travesty entitled "The Battle of Too Soon." Of especial pleasure to the ladies and little ones will be Holden's Manikins a complete minature theatre. W. H. Sans and Mrs. Morris E. Howlett will make their vaudeville debut in a dramatic sketch "The Savage Revenge." Mr. Sass is a talented actor, Mrs. Howlett was at one time a member of Sir Henry Irving Company. Her husband is the well known whip who for past few seasons has been driving the Vanderbit coach.

A musical singing and dancing turn will bring forth Forster and Forster two of vaudevilles best entertainers. Black and Jones will sing and dance in their native Ethiopean style. Florence Mascotte, a precocious little miss wil be heard in an clever monologue and dainty songs. A decided novety in this theatre will be the initial appearance of Rose Berry and company, in a Chinese sketch. Miss Berr is one of the few American women who can talk the Chinese tongue fluently. New animated pictures.

HOUSE OF LITTLE NELL.

Where Dickens Conceived His Famous Story.

The announcement that the house in Bath where, in 1840, Charles Dickens first conceived the idea of his immortal Little Nell in "The Old Curiosity Shop" is to be "let or sold" is a fact of considerable interest to all Dickens lovers.

At the time that the novelist was first attracted to his theme by the sight of a poor little girl at Bath he and his wife, his (and Landor's) biographer, John Forster, and the painter Maclise were on a visit to Walter Savage Landor in that fair city, and the incident is thus referred to in Forster's "Life of Landor."

"It was at a celebration of his birthday in the first of his Bath lodgings, 35 St. James' Square, that the fancy which took the form of Little Nell in 'The Old Curiosity Shop' first dawned on the genius of its creator. No character in prose fiction was a greater favorite with Landor. He thought that upon her Juliet might for a moment have turned her eyes from Romeo, and that Desdemona might have taken her hairbreath escapes to heart, so interesting and so pathetic did she seem to him. And when some years later the circumstances I have named was recalled to him he broke into one of those whimsical bursts of comical extravagance out of which arose the fancy of Boythorn.

"With tremendous emphasis he confirmed the fact, and added that he had never in his life regretted anything so much as his having failed to carry out an intention he had formed concerning it, for he meant to have purchased that house, 35 St. James' Square, and then and there to have burned it to the ground, to the end that no meaner association should ever descrate the birthplace of Nell. Then he would pause a little, become conscious of our sense of his absurdity and break into a thundering peal of laughter."

Thus, in his somewhat ponderous fashion does John Forster tell the story. It is certainly a great pity that the novelist did not carry out his expressed wish to purchase the house in Bath; but at that time he did not think he could afford it. It seems Dickens had gone to America meanwhile, and was sojourning there when Forster's "Life of Landor" reached him. In allusion to the fact that he (Dickens) had himself intended to tell the story "in cold print" he wrote to John Forster from America: "I see you have told, with what our friends would have called won-derful acuracy, the little St. James' Square story which a certain faithless wretch (C. D.) was to have related."—Pall Mall Gazette.

To Save the Silk Stockings.

Every one who wears silk stockings knows how easily they wear out, and onec lever girl whose needs do not fit her pocketbook has found that by kniting inside feet of silk thread she can wear them and thus protect her fragile hosiery of silk. These feet are made just so they cover the sole and extend only slightly over the foot, that they may be worn with slippers and yet not be seen.

The idea is good, because home-made stockings are of much better quality than are the machine-made varieties, and the girl who originated the idea says that her gossamer hose last just five times as long as they did before she wore her home-made linings.

The Summer Riding Habit.

For summer one will select linen. Most women are wearing saddle-colored linen riding habits, though some prefer the dark blue linen. As it is customary for fair equestrians to wear the divided skirts, the patterns are made amply wide. If one clings to the old-fashioned skirt it should be ankle length, rather close fitting, though not too much so, and the left side is trimmed with a row of small buttons.

NEW THEORIES CONCERNING THE OLD STONE MILL.

An interesting hypothesis is advanced by a Mr. Albinus Hasselgren, of Newport, concerning the round stone ower at Newport, which has been the theme of poets, novelists, historians, ethnologists, geographers and antiquarian controversialists time out of mind. Discussion breaks out afresh over the particular point of the significance of the "shoulders" as builders and architects would call them, at the top of the round pilars supporting the superstructure. These flanges suggest the rafters of some lean-to, and from this hint the learned Professor Rafn, of Copenhagen, secretary of the Royal Society of Northern Antiquaries, has constructed the theory that the central part of a church or baptistery used by the bishops of Greenland and Vinland, which was a Greenlander's colony, is what we have before us in Newport's "Old Mill." That is wa used as a mill at the close of the seventeenth century is sufficiently well attested by documentary evidence. Mr. Hasselgren presses hard the sticklers for the mill theory by showing that Peter Easton was granted the land of Easton's Point for erecting the first mill, and arguing therefrom that if the erection of a mere wooden mill could have elicted so much public gratitude, it is inconceiveable that the subsequent erection of this remarkable structure, by far the most important building in Newport of its day, should have left absolutely no trace in local annals. The conclusion is entirely reasonable that the tower was not subsequently built, but had been always there, accepted and ignored, as almost a natural object, like a strange bowlder such as Squam Rock at Annisquam, say, or the big sand dunes at the tip of Cape Cod. It had been there since nobody knew when, and there was no particular reason for destroying it, as flat building stone was too plenty, happily, to justify resorting to it, as the Roman Colosseum was for centuries drawn on for cut stone.

The eight round columns supporting the circular tower indicate, according to Professor Rafn, as many aisles centering upon space beneath the tower, answering to the nave of the baptistery. Of course, the supports of the extensions of these aisles detached pillar probably, after the woodwork had disappeared would have been naturally disposed of in the ater settlers' wall-fence building for their farms. It is a pretty picture this theory makes in the imagination—a circular churcn with a round stone tower emerging from the low slanting circular roof. There are many such buildings in Europe dating from the Middle Ages—one remarkably similar at Asti, Italy, and the large baptistery at Pisa is not unlike. At about the year, 1000 A. D., when Lief Ericson voyaged far southward from Greenland, there were three hundred villages in Greenland, with twenty churches and a corresponding number of convents, and regular interchanges of religious visitants between the Northern colonies and Rome are told of in the Sagas. Our intelligent and high-spirited Scandinavian contingent will be likely to rally strongly to the support of the contention that this romantic and mysterious but fortunately well-preserved ruin is the relic of the most ancient Christian church on this continent—the one discovered trace of importance of the most ancient civilization on the shores of North America.—Boston Transcript.

CURLING THE HAIR IN THE HOT WEATHER.

It is first necessary to have the hair free from dirt or oiliness. Unless the hair is perfectly clean and dry it will not curl easily. I recommended the little wooden match curlers, made of heavy wood with a tiny slit in each end. The hair is dampened slightly with a wet comb and the hair very loosely wound around the stick. A gut elastic one inch long is used to slip over the stick from end to end, fastening in the slit ends. If the hair has just been washed, it will curl in thirty minutes; if one's hair is inclined to be the least wavy, the hair curls in ten minutes.

If one expects to travel a great distance and will be on the train over night, it is best to dampen the hair early in the morning, leaving it up all day. Do not have the hair too wet and use a wet comb for the purpose. Hair curled in this manner will remain all day.

Little girls should have their hair rolled over paper tubes made by rolling squares of newspapers for the purpose. The tubes should be as large around as a cigar, so the hair, when unwound, is natural looking in wavy effect. Join the paper ends together with a small safety pin. The paper absorbs all moisture and the hair curls readily in this simple manner.

The Proper Carriage.

When the body is held correctly in a standing position, the main weight is one the balls of the feet, not on the heels or the toes. The chest and the head are held up well, though the latter is not to be confounded with throwing the chin out. I have seen some women thrust their chins forward evidently believing they were holding their heads well. This is an error, for holding the heads well. This is an error, for holding the head correctly draws in the chin a trifle, without allowing it to droop.

A FEW CURIOUS FACTS ABOUT COINS.

While the first actual coining of money is attributed to Pheidon, King of Argos, in 895 B. C., it must not be supposed that there had not existed a keen appreciation of the value and uses of money for centuries previous to the introduction of coinage. The ancient Egyptians had a gold and silver standard of currency and their money was in the form of gold and silver ornaments, rings and nuggets, the purchasing value of which depended on their weight.

The Greeks improved somewhat in this system by first marking the weight on gold and silver nuggets so that it would no longer be necessary to reweigh them every time they were to be used for the purpose of exchange or trade. Then, says the New York World, came the introduction of gold, silver and copper nuggets of graded uniform sizes and values. The next step was the molding and stamping of discs made from the precious metals.

Some of these first coins were enormous, the idea appearently being to discourage the greedy from attempting to acumulate and carry around too many of them. There were copper coins as large as dinner plates. While the idea was based on excellent motives, it had to give way before the demand for smaller and more convenitnt forms of currency, and the giant pennies soon dwindled in size to meet the popular demand.

The earnest trace of the use of gold as money is to be found in the pictures of the ancient Egyptians, weighing in scales heaps of rings of gold and silver. There is no actual record, however, that these rings were what may be termed coins with a fixed value.

Iron, judging from the statement of Aristotle, was once extensively employed as currency. Lead has also served as money. In fact, it still does in Burmah.

Copper has been more widely employed as money than either of the two last-mentioned metals. The early Hebrews coins were chiefly composed of it, while down to 269 B. C. the sole Roman coinage was an alloy of copper.

Tin money was once used in England, probably on account of the rich tin mines of Cornwall. Early English coinage contained much of this tin money, principally in the form of farthings and half-pence.

Silver formed the basis for the early Green coins, and was introduced in Rome in 269 B. C. Medieval money was principally composed of silver.

The only other metals for money are platinum and nickel. The former was coined for a short time by the Russian government and then given up as unsuitable. The latter is used as an alloy and in this country for the five-cent piece familiarly referred to as a nickel.

Coined money was first used on the Continent of Europe twenty-five years before the Christian era. It was in coppers and silver. The gold was not coined there until the eleventh century, and money did not receive the round form to which we are accustomed until the lapse of another hundred years or so.

The oldest coin in the United States is owned by a Southern collector. It was minted about the year 700 B. C. in Aegina. The design in high relief represents a tortoise crawling across the face of the piece.

The Swiss were the first to date their coinage. They introduced the dated coin 400 years ago, and the style was universally adopted within a very short time.

The coin of the smallest value ever issued is the "mite," so called, such as the widow of the Bible story contributed to the poor. Its shape was hexagonal, and its face value one-fiftieth of a cent. Five thousand "mites" are the equivalent in value of an American dollar.

Probably the queerest coins in the world are the roundish, irregular lumps of silver used in Siam. They vary in size from a walnut to a half buckshot, according to the value represented. All kinds of guesses have been made as to the number of one-dollar bills that would be required to equal the weight of a five-dollar gold piece. The guesses range as a rule from about 50 to 500. And when a humorist in the Sub-Treasury asks a visitor which he would prefer, all the five-dollar gold pieces he could lift or the same weight in one-dollar bills, the visitor immediately votes for bills, imagining as he does that proportion will be about ten to one in favor of one-dollar bills as against gold. As a matter of fact, there is very little difference between the weight of one five-dollar gold piece and five one-dollar gold piece and five one-dollar bills. To be exact, just six and a half bills will balance the five-dollar gold piece.

To Preserve the Butter.

If butter is wrapped in a clean cloth which has been wrung out of heavily salted water and has a small lump of charcoal put in the outer folds of cloth, the butter will keep sweet much longer, especially in warm, murky weather.

A Sure Cure.

"The yong man I am engaged to is such a flatterer," said the girl with the new solitaire.

"Well, don't let it worry you," rejoined the young widow. "Marriage soon breaks a man of that silly habit."—Chicago News.

A Tale of the Cape Cod Fisher Folk

By

Joseph C. Lincoln

Author of "Cap'n Eri," "Partners of the Tide," Etc.

Illustrations by T. D. Melvill

Copyright, 1907, A. S. Barnes & Company.

I guess so," I says. "Still I wouldn't kick if I had your knack of getting double price per pound for the bones. You've managed to fertilize with 'em pretty well, Nate."

He fetched a sigh. "They're such nice obliging fellers," he says. "And such good hands at business. Never no beating down nor jockeying for a trade. I always feel perfectly safe in dealing with 'em."

I cal'late that statement wa'n't exaggerated. Most likely a shark feels the same way about dealing with a school of porgies.

Nate had agreed to take back the hens and the pig, as an accommodation. He was to pay three dollars for the hog and the fowls was hove into scales for good measure. There was a lease of the island, too, that had to be canceled. Them simple-minded Tea Leaders had, in the first fever of Naturalness, signed a lease on Horsefoot Bar to run till November. Now that their pulse was normal again they wanted to break that lease, and the job was considerably more painful and expensive than breaking Hartley's arm had been. But Nate let 'em break, though I thought he'd break them afore he got through.

Him and Eureka and me had a good many talks about the Twins when we was alone together. The last of these talks we had on the afternoon of the day afore the grand final emigration. Lord James was over on an errand and he was in the kitchen with us. Eureka begun the talk.

"I ain't quite made up my mind whether they're really crazy or not," she says, referring to the Heavenlies. "They don't act much more loony than some of the earls and such in books. And yet they must be some out of their minds or they wouldn't do such fool things. Once they was all for living poor and Natural. Now they're all the other way. Switching 'round like that is a sure sign of weakness in the top stories."

"Most city folks act to me some crazy," says I. "And perhaps these two, being the toniest kind, is crazier than others. Maybe the higher up you go the loonier they get. I read in a paper once about how some rich big bug give a swell dinner to a pet monkey. The Twins are Solomons alongside of him. And, anyhow, they're mighty nice young fellers. Money may have got to their heads, but their hearts is in the right place."

"'Tain't a question of hearts," says Scudder. "Way I figger it out the Almighty sends 'em down here on purpose. We poor folks alongshore don't have much chance to earn an honest living, and so the Lord takes pity on us and makes men like these two get cracked and hanker to live in the sand and spend money. You put your trust in the Higher Power. He evens matters up in the long run."

His lordship broke in then; and my! but he was top-lofty and scornful.

"Crazy yourselves!" he sniffs. "My 'eavens, I've done some traveling in my time, with Lord 'Enry and the rest; I've been all over. And never in my life 'ave I seen such a Gawd-forsaken country as this, or such a blooming lot of ignorant 'ayseeds as is 'ere. W'y, you don't know 'ow to live at all and yet you're proud of it. You 'aven't no conveniences, and you eat with your knives, and you've no manners. Lord 'elp you, I say! You're all crazy together, and don't know 'ow to act in good society. Mr. Van Brunt and Mr. 'Artley is gentlemen, and what you call their craziness is nothing but the eccentricities of gentlemen. And if you think they're eccentric! W'y compared to some I've worked for, like Lord 'Enry—"

'Twas high time to stop him. "But they're so crazy loose with their money," says I.

He was hotter than ever. "Do you suppose," he asks sarcastic, "that a real gentleman 'as time to 'aggle over a few dirty pennies?"

Nobody said any more for a spell. Then Eureka says, like she'd been thinking:

"I cal'late," says she, "that it's all in the way you've been raised. Maybe I'd act just as queer and looney if I went to the city; that is, if I hadn't posted myself up by reading. I'll lend you the Comforters with 'False but Fair' in 'em, Mr. Pratt, some time."

Next day we all met at the Eastwich depot. Agnes Page and Miss Talford and the Fresh Air tribe, including Redney, who was chipper and gay because he was going back to New York. The Heavenly Twins was there. So was me and Eureka to see 'em off.

We spent 15 minutes or more in saying good-byes. I felt real bad and so did everybody else, I guess. Hartley and Agnes couldn't say enough to me about my sailing through that gale for 'em in the Dora Bassett. The poor old sloop was still tied up to the Wapatomac wharf. Baker had been looking out for her and I was going over that afternoon myself.

Agnes said she and Hartley would surely come back next summer. I must write and so would they. Eureka's brothers and sisters was to have money to help along their schooling, and Washy Sparrow would keep wheeling rocks, or, if he didn't Squire Poundberry would attend to him.

"Pa wanted a holiday on account of your leaving, Miss Page," says Eureka. "But I told him 'twould be a bigger celebration if he kept on to work."

Scudder wa'n't at the depot. He was too busy moving the duds off of Ozone island to get away. But he'd sent a package by Eureka. 'Twas a present for Van Brunt; something to remember him by, he said.

Van opened it. Then there was a general "haw haw." 'Twas that worked worsted motto, "What Is Home Without a Mother?"

"James," says Van, bubbling over with laughter, "this is your property. I couldn't deprive you of it."

His lordship was disgusted. "I wouldn't 'ave the blooming thing in the 'ouse, with all respect to you, sir," says he.

Agnes said she'd take it. It would be a splendid souvenir.

"Scudder's a kind-hearted chap," says Van. "He means well."

That was too much for me. I took a piece of paper out of my pocket. "I as a littie bill I'd made out the night afore.

"Here," I says; "just run your eye over this, will you?"

Van took it. It read so:

"The Natural Life, Dr., to Nathan Scudder, Nature's Nobleman, Rough Diamond, and the like of that.

15 loads of dirt, at $3.00 a load. That's	$45.00
11 hens and 1 rooster at 30 cents a lb. That's the hens and rooster.	12.60 and
1 hog—sold for $6.00 when he was little and thin, and bought back for $3.00 when he was big and fat. That's the hog.	3.00 and
160 quarts of skim-milk the kept the cream and made it into butter to sell (as at 9c a quart. That's	14.40
About 50 lbs. of butter (made out of our cream) at 25c a lb. That's	12.50
Vegetables and truck (mostly from the store). That's somewheres nigh	10.00
Bedding and furniture and kitchen stuff. That's about all the stuff back again.	75.00 and
Lease of Ozone Horsefoot Island for 3 months at $50 a month (a cent more than $4.00 a year is like robbing your grandmarm). That's	150.00
For canceling the lease which was to run till November. That's	40.00
About 60 days, altogether, of secret keeping at $8.00 a day ($3.00 from E. V. B. and $5.00 from M. H.). Call it, say	480.00
Total (it ain't nigh all)	$842.50

And 12 hens and one hog and all the furniture and land knows what else besides."

"And that don't count in half of the Ozone cost," I says; "let alone what you fellers paid for hiring his house and Huldy Ann and all."

Hartley looked over his chum's shoulder.

"Humph!" says he. "I wouldn't wonder if I could add an item to that. What did you pay for those shore-birds you got when you went gunning with Scudder, Van?"

Van blushed up some, but he answered prompt.

"Well," he says, "to tell the truth, Scudder sold 'em to me for five dollars."

"Yes?" says Martin, laughing. "I thought so. I paid him six for mine."

"There's no use talking," I put in; "there may be some good things about living the Natural Life, but—"

"But," interrupted Martin, "the financial profits appear to lie in Scudder's plan; that is, to have the 'good things' live it for you."

The train whistled up the road. Van leaned over and tapped me on the shirt front.

"Skipper," says he, "I won't prophesy concerning next summer. Sufficient unto the day, etcetera. And I won't answer for Martin. But for me, and for this winter, if anybody asks, you tell 'em I've gone back to New York to live the most compound, double duplex life to be found from Harlem to the Battery. That's what!" says Edward Van Brunt.

THE END.

When Cleaning With Gasoline.

Too many persons tell of their failure in gasoline washing. In nine cases out of ten the reason is that too little gasoline is used. If you wash with water, you usually take a good basinful or pailful, but, when you wish with gasoline, you are apt to put a cupful into a generous sized pail. This, of course, is just enough to stir up the dirt and to distribute it in a gray tone all over the face, gloves or what not to be cleaned. Take a generous bowlful of gasoline and wash your gloves, laces, veils, neckwear, ribbons and silken accessories; then rinse them in plenty of clean gasoline. After using, if you will let the gasoline stand for a few moments, all the dirt will settle, and you can carefully pour off the clean gasoline to use at another operation. To clean gloves, put them on the hands and scrub with a little brush, afterward rinsing them like a pocket handkerchief.

Silk washed in gasoline loses none of its dressing; feathers lose none of their curl; plaitings stay plaited. Never, of course, use gasoline in a room where there is a burning stove or where the gas is lighted.

Useful Adjuncts.

"You have made some enemies, have you not?"

"Of course," answered Senator Sorghum. "If you haven't any enemies to start the argument, your friends won't have a chance to get up and holer about your noble qualities."—Washington Star.

The Little Woman's Check Book

By CAMPBELL MacCULLOCH

(Copyright.)

"Phil, dear," said the Little Woman, "the butcher has just sent in his bill, and it's a perfectly horrid amount: $16.72."

"Indeed!" I said, rather aimlessly, and laid down the magazine I had been reading. The Little Woman sat at a desk near the window; she had the end of the penholder between her teeth; there was a cruel smudge of ink upon her forefinger, and her golden head was just a little bit tousled. She was frowning heavily, and she looked at me perplexedly.

"Yes. I don't know how we could possibly have eaten all that meat; do you, Phil?" she queried, anxiously.

The Little Woman deludes herself in the belief that she is a housekeeper, and she worries each month over her "accounts" in a perfectly alarming manner. On the desk lay the new check book which I had given her, and I began to see that behind the perfidy of the butcher lay something else. The Little Woman is proud, very proud; and when I had presented her with the check book some days previously, she had become so important that I began to see a vision of troublous days for the clerks in the bank. I had a dim suspicion that perhaps this new check book lay at the bottom of the present trouble, and that the butcher was merely a bait, squirming uneasily upon the hook of a difficulty. I suggested that she send a check for the amount, to which she agreed after some hesitation.

I drew a little nearer, for I knew that this was the first check, and it was sure to be interesting. I even sat down on the arm of her chair and held my breath. She drew the check book to her firmly; she opened its brown cover with decision; she smoothed it down, and dipped her pen in the ink with an air of finality. After a trying half hour I succeeded in initiating her into the intricacies of writing a check.

Nothing must do but that it must be mailed at once, and I took my hat and went off to the mail box. When I returned she was still sitting at the desk. As I entered she said:

"Will the people in the bank give out the money whenever I write a check?"

"As long as you have a balance there."

"What is a balance?"

I explained that to her, but I could not remove the impression that the people at the bank were a most accommodating set. Then another idea appealed to her.

"You know Nellie was once robbed by two men who came into her house. They found all her housekeeping money, and took it away. They couldn't do that to me, could they, Phil? You see I never intend to have any money at all. I'll write a check for everything. Then no one can steal anything, can they?"

I agreed that this was an incontrovertible fact, and again assured myself that the people at the bank were going to be busy; very busy, indeed. Her head was filled with a continuance of the idea, for she said:

"Father told me that you had to be identified at the bank before they would give you money."

"Father is right," I assured her. "That, however, need not concern you. Let the people to whom you give the checks worry."

"But if I went and tried to get money for myself, would they give it to me?"

"They would be delighted."

"Would they believe me if I said I was Jessica Harmon?"

"Your signature would identify you."

"Oh!" she replied, and then was silent.

Two days after that I had occasion to pass the kitchen, and hearing sounds of argument I basely listened. It was the Little Woman. She was saying:

"Now, Norah, run down to the druggist's and get me ten cents' worth of benzoin. Here's the money."

"Where, mum?" inquired the skeptical Norah, whom I have always suspected of a residence quite near to Missouri.

"Here, silly," responded the Little Woman. "I have written a check."

Then I went away, and began to understand that my suspicion that the bank people were going to be busy was being justified. In the next week I overheard conversation relating to checks for various amounts. Once it was for 62 cents for vinegar. Again it was 18 cents for tomatoes. Once again it was 11 cents for a bag of salt. As I walked upon the streets of our town I began to notice respectful grins upon the faces of the various tradespeople. I smiled back at them quite cheerfully, for I, too, began to have an appreciation of the joke. At the bank, however, there seemed a lack of cordiality for some reason. The paying teller no longer welcomed me with a cheering smile; my old friend the bookkeeper seemed to be possessed of a secret trouble, and there was an air of unrest about the institution. I smiled inwardly, but a trifle uneasily.

One day the Little Woman came home quite late. I had been at the window watching for her, and I saw her turn in at the gate with quite a wearied step. I opened the door for her and as I gathered her in my arms I commented on her tired look. She rested her head against my shoulder and confided to me that she had been compelled to walk home.

"Why? Had you no money?" I inquired, horror-struck.

"You know, dear," she replied, wearily, "ever since you gave me the check book, I never have ready money. I just take enough for car fare, and then I pay for things with the checks." This last was said with an air of conscious pride, for she was proud of her idea in this respect. No bold marauder should catch her napping with hoarded gold.

"But why walk?" I demanded.

"You see, Phil, if I want money when I am down town I always get it at the bank."

I thought regretfully that I had neglected to explain to her about making checks out to "Cash," and here she had found it out for herself. The Little Woman was certainly clever.

"You know you didn't explain to me, but I found out how to do it," she went on. "When I go out I always call for Mrs. Wilson, and we go together. Then, you see, if I should want a little money, say a dollar or so—" here I inwardly groaned as I thought of that bank—"I just step into the bank with her, write out a check to her, and, as they know her there at the place, she gets it cashed and she gives me the money. There, wasn't I clever to think that out for myself?" and she positively beamed from the tired gray eyes. I hugged her just a little closer, and she went on:

"To-day I couldn't find her, and so I went down town by myself. I thought I should surely meet her. I bought a few little things, pins and so on, you know, and then when I wanted to come home, I didn't have the nickel. I walked to the bank and looked in, thinking perhaps Mrs. Wilson might have gone there, but she hadn't, and so I had to walk home, Phil, dear, and I'm so tired."

I held out my arms to her again in sudden pity. I carried her into the library, and placed her in the big leather chair, and brought her a glass of wine, and then I cursed myself for an idiot. I would explain it to her at once. I would show her all about drawing a check for her personal use, and then I thought, wouldn't it hurt her pride? She was so pleased about her way, and it would hurt her terribly if she found there was another simpler way that she hadn't thought of. I decided to wait.

Nearly three weeks went by without further complication, and in time I began to get quite hardened to the appealing looks cast at me by the bookkeeper and the cashier. It was then that Nemesis overtook me. I had gone home to luncheon and had been quite jolly and free from care. At the table the Little Woman said to me:

"Phil, dear."

I answered her by a look of inquiry.

"My check book is quite gone."

I felt a guilty consciousness of relief for the moment.

"I used the last check yesterday to pay the gas."

"Yes?" I ventured.

"Yes, this morning the iceman came and I didn't have a single check left."

"Did he promise to come again?" I asked, for icemen are quite obliging at times.

"Oh, it wasn't necessary," she said, brightly. "You see, Mrs. Wilson was here."

I felt a tightening at the heart, and looked up with an inward quake.

"I told her my book was quite empty, and she offered me hers," said the Little Woman.

"And did you accept?" I asked.

"Yes; it was so kind and thoughtful of her. I just took one of her blanks and filled it out, and gave it to the man."

I could feel my collar getting uncomfortably tight, but I swallowed hard, and tried to say, quietly:

"Does Mrs. Wilson have her account at the same bank?"

"Oh, no. It's quite a different bank, but I'm sure it's just as good as our bank," replied the Little Woman.

I kissed her quite hurriedly and suddenly remembered a most important appointment I had neglected. It was positively vital, and I hurried off to find the iceman. Unfortunately the check had been sent to the bank. He hoped it was of no matter.

I hurried to the bank. I sought the cashier. I knew him by sight, but he had small knowledge of me. I asked for and obtained a private interview. Of course it was after banking hours, but he obliged me. I rather think he scented a good loan, and then I explained. The cashier's eyebrows lifted. It was regrettable. Still, he did not see— I explained all over again. I told him everything. He began to smile. I asked him if he was a married man. He was, and on that ground we struck a mutual chord of feeling. He would see if the check was in. He sent out to the counting room, and the messenger returned with the Little Woman's check. I heaved a sigh of relief, and settled then and there. I explained it all over again, for I wanted him to understand it. He must know that the Little Woman was the soul of honor, and that she would not for worlds have written a check on a bank in which she had no account. In fact she knew little of banks and banking. The cashier smiled appreciatively. He shook my hand and I bound him to secrecy. He agreed, and I was outside with the Little Woman's check safely buttoned within my coat. I hastily sought our bank and there I obtained half a dozen check books. The paying teller and the cashier wilted horribly as they saw me with the pile in my hands, but I smiled at them cheerfully, and went home.

PLAINFIELDERS LOSE IN GOLF TOURNAMENT

Jerome Travers, of Montclair, worked his way to the final round of the New Jersey State Golf Asociation championship tournament at Englewood yesterday and today he will meet Max Behr, of Morris county, in the finals. Dudley H. Barrows went down to defeat yesterday in the second round, Max Behr, his opponent, winning by 4 up and 2 to play.

In the first round for the beaten eight, F. O. Reinhart beat Paul Harrison, of Monclair, 7 up and 5 to play; and in the semi-final round Roy Webb, of Englewood, beat Reinhart, 2 up in a fine match. In the second round for the second sixteen, W. Lester Glenney beat H. S. Dudley, of Hackensack, 4 up and 2 to play, and W. E. F. Moore, of Baltusrol, beat Glenney, 4 up and 3 to play. In the first round for the second beaten ight, C. B. Storrs, of Essex county, beat J. Whitney Baker, by default. In the third beaten eight, first round, Leighton Calkins beat John W. Griggs, of Patrson, by default, and in his semi-final round F. A. Wright, Canoe Brook, beat Calkins, 4 up and 3 to play.

MISS EDNA WILDEY IN STATE TENNIS FINALS

Miss Edna Wildey, of the Plainfield Country Club, and Miss Erra Marcus, of the Plainfield Country Club, will meet in the final round of the women's singles for the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association title at the Country Club courts this afternoon. In the semi-final matches played this morning, Miss Marcus defeated Miss Natalie Wildey, of the Country Club, in straight sets, 6-3 and 6-1 and Miss Edna Wildey won from Mrs. S. F. Weaver, of the Country Club, 6-4 and 6-1.

If the Plainfield woman triumphs in the match this afternoon, seven points for the East Jersey title cup will be added to the Country Club score. By winning her match in the semi-final round this morning, Miss Wildey secured two points for the local club as runner-up in the tourney. The outcome of early rounds of the men's doubles tournament, the semi-fianl and final rounds of which were postponed today on account of the Yale-Princeton baseball game, gives the Country Club two points as runners-up, for the local club has three of the four surviving teams now in the tournament.

LADEW SHOWS A RINGER.

But He Takes No Pains to Conceal It from the Show Committee.

The discovery that Harvey S. Ladew had exhibited a ringer in the combination saddle and harness class on Thursday at the horse show was a surprise to every one yesterday. Mr. Ladew said that his mare had received the sanction of Lewis E. Waring, one of the Club committee. He asserts that "Belle McDonald," the mare entered in the combination class, was sick and that before showing another mare in her place he had consulted with Mr. Waring as to the advisability of his move. Mr. Waring evidently did not object.

The mare that was shown resembled the original entry. He purchased her from Tichenor Grand at an auction sale on Tuesday last and as she was a much handsomer mare than "Belle McDonald" she would have stood a very good chance of winning the blue ribbon if her identity had not been discovered in the show ring. She immediately got the gate and Mr. Ladew was taken to task, though the only thing that could be charged against him was ignorance of the rules and regulations.

Buttfield Team Going to London.

W. J. Buttfield's blue ribbon team of roadsters, "Miss Banahan" and "Miss Westcott," will be shipped to England today to compete in the international horse show to be given in London soon. The team was shown in the roadsters' class Thursday and was accorded first place. Yesterday "Miss Banahan" was shown single in the competition for the Challenge cup and took the red ribbon.

Netted $56 for Missions.

The strawberry festival and entertainment held recently by the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church, netted $56, which will be devoted to the cause of missions. The young women are gratified over the excellent results of the affair.

Rev. W. A. Therrell, of New York, will preach at the Scotch Plains Baptist church tomorrow morning and night. At present Mr. Therrell is stopping in Plainfield.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. J. K. Van Arsdale and family, former residents of the borough, who have had their residence in New York for a few years, have returned to this city and are living on De Lacey avenue.

Mrs. Isaac L. Miller and Miss Miller, of Watchung avenue, left this morning for thes ummer. Their address will be Wurtsboro, Sullivan county, New York. Mr. Miller and his son, Brockholst K. Miller, will remain at home for the present.

Michael Weber, of East Third street, will sail on Thursday, June 11, on the steamer Grosser Kurfurst for Bremen. On the same day Miss Lucy McAdorey, of this city, will sail on the steamer Baltic for Dublin. They purchased their tickets through the agency of Mulford Estil.

Asphalt Oil vs. Water.

Plainfield's wide-awake mayor is advocating the use of asphalt oil on macadam streets, to hold the surface firm and keep down the dust. He regards it also as an economical means of repairing that kind of pavement. Mayor Fisk also urges the Council to take up at once the matter of repairing streets by that method, in connection with the Public Service Corporation, which, he said, had agreed to use the oil and bear their part of the expense on streets where trolley tracks are laid. It may be worth while for New Brunswick's officials to look into that subject.—New Brunswick Times.

TENTH TALK ON CREED

Rev. Dr. Herring Explains Meaning of "I Believe in the Holy Catholic Church."

THE PRESBYTERIAN BELIEF.

The Church Is Household of God, Body of Christ, Temple of God and Bride of Christ.

"I Believe in the Holy Catholic Church," was the theme in the tenth discourse on "The Apostles Creed," delivered by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring at the First Presbyterian church, last night, and in his treatment of it he explained what Christ meant by the Church and presented a study of four figures in the New Testament which tells what the Church is. Dr. Herring spoke as follows:

"We have already spoken of our belief in the Holy Catholic church as one of the important elements in our Creed; important because Christ Himself established the church.

"That we may know what Christ meant by the Church, let us study the four figures in the New Testament which tell us what the Church is.

"First: The church is said to be the household of God. In other words the church is a home. That household may be as wide as the world. Your household is not circumscribed by four walls. It is not held together by similarity of thought, but by that indefinite something called relation, in which there is the thought of love. Your son may be in college in Germany—your daughter a missionary in India—and yet with the distance of the ends of the earth between you, you are all of the same household; so the church of God is a great household. We feel the same interest in the members of the family in distant lands that we feel in the home family. There are many things that separate the members of the family, there is the one thing that unites them. It is devotion to the Lord Jesus, the Redeemer and Master.

"The next figure is this: The Church is the body of Christ, and Christ is the head of the body.

"Christ came to the earth in bodily form, lived here ome thirty years and preached three years. On the Resurrection Day, that body arose from the dead, and yet He has left another body in the form of the church. The church in His living body which does the work of the Lord in the world. Christ, then, dwells in the world and is carrying on His work to completion. The church die? Why! the Gates of Death shall not prevail against it because He lives. He is the head—the church is His body. God's intimate relation with His people in the Old Testament is seen in the picture of the Temple. In the Tabernacle and the Temple there was the manifestation of God's presence in thec loud above the Ark of the Covenant. It was an indication that God was with Israel. Today God is with His people in the church.

"The third picture of the church is seen in the word 'ecclesia' from which we get the word essleciastical. Ecclesia literally means 'called out.' The church is made up of those that are called out from the world as a force to win the world for Christ. It is in this sense that we say:

"'Like a mighty army moves the Church of God,' and every man is called out from the world to recognize that he is under the Kingship and Leadership of Christ.

"The last picture is that of the Bride of Christ. The church is more than the servant of Christ, more than the body of Christ; the church is the bride of Christ. Can there be any picture that represents His relation to us nearer than that? God is preparing us then to be His companions forever.

"Now if all this is true—and it is true—should you not belong to the church in some way? What an honor it must have been to have belonged to that first church of one hundred and twenty on the Day of Pentecost. The Holy Spirit came not on one man here and another man there as he was praying in secret to the Lord, but as they were all together in one place—then it was that the Holy Spirit came upon them and endued them for service. It was that body of organized Christians that brought to the world the knowledge of Jesus. It is the organized church today that has also the selfsame mission.

"The Church is the Household of God, the Body of Christ, the Temple of God, the Bride of Christ. Isn't it worth while to belong to it?"

FATHER BOGAN SPEAKS AT A NEWARK CEREMONY

Several thousand persons attended the laying of the cornerstone of the new St. Columbia's School on Pennsylvania avenue, Newark, yesterday and upward of 2,000 men and children took part in a parade and each carried a small American flag.

Among those present who made addresses was Rev. B. M. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's church, this city. He said that many of the best educators admit now that a religious training is necessary in all schools, for children who were taught in school to obey the commandments of God would obey the laws of their country and be the future protectors of our great nation. It was wrong to permit children to grow up with no sense of responsibility to God, the Creator of the World and them and of all things. Some persons criticized the erection of fine Catholic school buildings like the one the pastor of St. Columbia's church was building, without the assistance of the city or the State, relying only on the cotributions of the Catholic people and friends of education. But the school had proved a blessing to the city of Newark, and parochial schools had done much for the entire country by teaching boys and girls to know and love God and to be loyal American citizens, for a good Catholic must be a good citizen.

Father Bogan asked the blessing of God upon the people of St. Columbia's church, upon the energetic, zealous and able pastor, and also upon all who had assembled to see the corner stone of a new Catholic school laid.

H. G. RUNKLE OPPOSES PROPOSED BOND ISSUE

H. G. Runkle, one of the largest taxpayers in the city, has joined with George P. Mellick and many others who are deeply interested in Plainfield's welfare, in upholding Mayor Fisk in his veto of the ordinance providing for a bond issue to improve certain outlying thoroughfares. Mr. Runkle is one of New York's most prominent financiers and his opinion concerning the wisdom of the mayor in protesting against piling up bond issues on the city of Plainfield should have much weight with the city fathers.

"In reply to a request of The Daily Press for his idea of the matter, Mr. Runkle said today: "I am in entire accord with the views expressed by his honor, the mayor, in his veto message." The Plainfield Protective Association has been particularly active in the matter since it was reported that the Common Council might pass the ordinance over the mayor's head. In response to an appeal to the taxpayers that they put in writing their views and make them known to the city fathers, much has been accomplished. Already more than 100 large taxpayers have sent letters and postal cards to the city clerk, notifying the Common Council that they agree with Mayor Fisk and heartily approve of his veto.

BOYS' WEIGHT IN CHERRY TREE CAUSED ITS TRUNK TO BREAK.

In trying to unfasten a swing rope from a high limb on the cherry tree in the yard of their father, John Hummel, of Duer street, Friday afternoon, his two sons, George and Fred, got a bad fall when the big tree, overbalanced by their weight on one branch, broke off close to the ground. The boys, who are twelve and eight years old, hung on tight to the limb and were uninjured except for a few scratches.

The tree broke off about four feet from the ground, where the trunk was badly rotted through. Some thirty feet above the ground was a big horizontal limb, where the boys had a swing. They had been told by their father to take it down and were out on the limb untying the rope when the tree trunk broke off.

Dog Biting Cases in Court.

Mrs. Frederick Boland, of West Fourth street, appeared in the city court Saturday, as complainant against John Humes, of Dunellen avenue, claiming that a dog owned by him had bitten her nine-year-old son. It was proven to Judge Runyon's satisfaction that the boy was not on Mr. Humes' premises at the time and the latter was directed to pay the doctor's bill for treatment. Mrs. Cavanagh, of Richmond street, was also in court, Saturday, with a similar complaint against A. H. Parker, who owns a dog that bit her son. The police were instructed to see that Mr. Parker has the dog muzzled.

—Neuman Brothers are still receiving daily consignments of choice strawberries. Their display of fruits and vegetables is always the largest in the city.

TALKS ON INDIA'S NEEDS

Mrs. J. Heinrichs, a Missionary, Speaks on the Work at Yerkes Chapel.

AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Tetta, Where Plainfield Edifice is Located, Is Filled with Heathen Idols—Much to Be Done.

An interesting service was held last evening in the First Baptist church under the auspices of the Young People's Society and the Temple Builders, a men's missionary organization of the church interested for years in maintaing the Yerkes chapel at Tettu, India. Rev. Dr. Chambliss presided at the meeting, F. S. Thompson, president of the Temple Builders, reading the Scripture lesson and offering prayer.

The address of the evening was given by Mrs. J. Heinrichs, of Ramapatan, India, who for the past nineteen years has been associated with her husband in missionary work in India and who have had charge of the Yerkes chapel at Tettu. Mrs. Heinrichs is an earnest and forcible speaker, and she held the close attention of her audience while she told of the peculiar condition in India resulting from the vast area of the country, the enormous population of 300,000,000, the caste system, the evils of child marriage and the degradation of idolatrous worship for thousands of years.

Mrs. Heinrichs described some of the difficulties encountered by pioneer missionaries, gave an outline of her husband's work at the head of the theological seminary in Ramapatam; told some incidents of the recent great revival in India and of the need of the Yerkes chapel at Tettu, a small city full of heathen temples. She closed her address with earnest words urging the claims of the great commission, "Go teach all nations," on Christians who stay at home as well as on those who are called to service in foreign lands.

The closing prayer was made by Paul Scarborough, president of the Young People's Society. An anthem by Sullivan and "Crown the Saviour King of Kings," were beautifully rendered by the choir.

TWO RUNAWAYS CAUGHT BY PATERSON POLICE

The local police received a telephone message from Paterson, late last night, informing them that the authorities had arrested two boys, William and Frank McCarthy, who had run away from their home in this city. An investigation showed that they are the sons of William McCarthy, of East Sixth street, and that William, Jr., is the boy who was recently arraigned before Judge Runyon for incorrigibility and committed to await theh action of the juvenile court.

Chief Kiely stated this morning that he was very much surprised to learn that the youth had been released. He asked the county authorities about it and was told that Mrs. Williamson, the probation officer, had given the order on which he had been let go. His release only served to give him another opportunity to return to Plainfield and make more trouble for his parents by inducing the younger brother to run off with him.

The father was notified of the arrest of the pair and left for Paterson to ge them. Mrs. Williamson's action in having William paroled has led to considerable criticism as the boy has been given numerous chances to do better but insists on making trouble for his people and the police. His commitment by Judge Runyon was asked for by his father.

Juniors' Annual Picnic.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church enjoyed its annual picnic at Chimney Rock, Saturday. The party comprising twenty-three little folks was chaperoned by Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Goodrich. The trip was made part the way by trolley, leaving only a short distance to walk. The day was spent playing games, on the swings and in various ways of amusement, and at noon all enjoyed the refreshments provided. The return journey was made late in the afternoon.

Orchestra Practises Tonight.

At the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra in the association building tonight for practice, the pieces loaned by the Plainfield public library will be taken up. During the summer regular practises will be held the second and fourth Monday nights of each month.

WINNERS AT HORSE SHOW

Judge Moore Carried Away Biggest String of Blue Ribbons for the Three Days.

VANDERBILT TAKES TWO CUPS.

He Also Captures Numerous Blue Ribbons—All Exhibitors Said They Were Well Pleased Here.

The Plainfield Riding and Driving Club's fifth annual horse show closed Saturday afternoon with Judge William H. Moore's stable triumphant in the number of awards. His big string of four-footed patricians carried off a total of twenty-nine ribbons in the three days, thirteen blues, nine reds, four yellows and three whites. Second place in the summary fell to Miss Mabel B. Hooley, of the borough, whose winnings aggregated twenty-one of the coveted trophies. Of these five were blue, six red, seven yellow and three white.

Although Reginald C. Vanderbilt's stable was third, the owner had the satisfaction of carrying off the Riding and Driving Club's $250 challenge cup for harness horses with his handsome chestnut mare, "Phoebe Watton." It was the feature class of Saturday's program and while there were five other entries, the choice for first place quickly narrowed down fo the winning animal and Judge Moore's "Pride o' Prides." After the first line-up they sent out several times for further inspection, so close was the decision. The owners were driving and they did everything in their power to land the cup. "Phoebe Watton's" victory was received with generous applause.

Looking at the summary in another way, Mr. Vanderbilt was the most successful exhibitor at the show in view of the fact that of the three challenge cups offered as prizes in the harness classes he won two. His "Dr. Selwonk" brought home the Blue Book trophy on Friday, winning it two years in succession. Mr. Vanderbilt has announced that he will offer another cup to take its place next year. He declared Saturday that he was very well pleased with his successes in Plainfield and that he would be a prominent exhibitor at the coming shows.

Class 37, for champion saddle horses, was another of Saturday's classes that called for careful judging and caused plenty of speculation among the spectators. Nine animals competed and according to the conditions in the event of a sufficient number of comparatively large and small sizes, they were divided. In the heavyweight class, George Watson, Jr.'s "Vesta Tilley," champion of the Philadelphia show two weeks ago was declared the winner, and Miss Hooley's "The Czar" was second. In the lightweight division, the judges passed the Philadelphia winner, Miss Emily Bedford's "Miss Ann," and gave the blue to Rufus L. Patterson's "Durham." Udo M. Fleischmann's "Mayor" was awarded the reserve.

A murmur of approbation arose when three handsome equipages swung into the ring to compete for honors in Class 21 for Park four-in hands. Judge Moore handled the ribbons over his fine bays, "Diplomat," "Councilman," "Minerva" and "Debator;" George Watson, Jr., drove "Masher," "Ascot," "Empress" and "Princess" and a professional was on the box for Otto H. Kahn's "Sultan," "Khedive," "Pasha" and "Regent." First prize of $75 went to Judge Moore and second, $25, to the Kahn team.

Classes 43 and 45 for hunters and jumpers furnished lots of excitement. Several of the animals balked at the barriers and on one occasion John J. Kelly's brown gelding, "Keystone," scared the lawn promenaders by trying hard to jump the track fence. L. Victor Froment was thrown after taking the barrier directly in front of the grandstand by his mount, "Bally," stumbling, but received no more than a slight shaking up. In Class 43, the Westchester Farm's entries carried off three of the four ribbons. In No. 45, for the Watchung Hunt Club cup, Miss Hooley's chestnut gelding "Crusher," was first and Lewis Waring's "Grand Slam" second.

The attendance Saturday afternoon was the largest that has been noted at any time since the local show has been given. Everyone of the box holders had two or three visitors and the grandstand seats were nearly all taken. Several hundred people viewed the competitions from points of advantage about the lawn. The interest displayed was a source of satisfaction to the Riding and Driving club members and it will mean still greater efforts for next year's exhibition.

The summary of Saturday's awards follows:

Class 49—Local Station Rockaway Horses. First, Tonzo Sauvage's b. m. Bluebell; second, Thomas A. Doe's

NEW IDEA MEN ACTIVE

Independents Organize Club and Will Take Part in Local Campaigns.

FOR SEPARATE NOMINATIONS.

Adopt Constitution—To Elect Officers Tuesday Night, June 16—Some Political Chat.

Determined to perpetuate its identity, the New Idea organization of Plainfield has taken formal steps to form a central league here which will take a hand in all municipal campaigns. With that end in view a call has been issued for New Idea voters to meet at the Coward building on Thursday night when officers for the year will be chosen and arrangements made for a campaign preceding the time of nomination in the fall.

At an informal meeting last Friday night when G. W. V. Moy acted as chairman a constitution was adopted and plans effect for merging the four ward branches of the Union county Republican League for equal taxation into the new central body which has chosen as its name "The New Idea League of Plainfield." The Plainfield Republican Club will hold a meeting on Thursday night.

It is said on good authority that the New Idea forces will have a complete ticket in the field for nomination next fall by the Republican party. This ticket will include a candidate for mayor, candidates for Common Council and for other minor offices.

It is also the purpose of the New Idea men to have their say regarding the nomination of candidates for the Assembly.

HOOLEY SETTERS TAKE ALL FIRST PRIZES

The Meadowview Kennels, owned by Abram G. Hooley, of Rockview Terrace, made a clean sweep with English setters at the North Jersey Kennel Club's fifth dog show at the Oratani Field Club, Hackensack, on Saturday. "Meadowview Don" took first prize in the classes for limit dogs, open dogs, rosette class and winners dogs. "Meadowview Beatrice" received first, limit bitches; "Lady Allister," first for open class, bitches and first in the rosette class. The other awards to the entries from Mr. Hooley's kennels were as follows: First, winners, bitches, "Lady Allister;" first, brace class, "Meadowview Kennels;" first, team class, "Meadowview Kennels."

The "Meadowview Kennels" also won the silver cup for best entries in team class, the S. W. Carey prize for best American dog or bitch; also first leg on Former Senator William M. Johnson cup to be won twice for best English setter; American or Canadian bred, and the Dr. Davis St. John cup for the best setter of any breed.

Harry M. Postem, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., officiated as judge. He is one of the best known breeders of English setters in this country and owner of Champion "Mallwyd Sirdar."

Miss Antoinette S. Johnson a Bride.

Miss Antoinette Sophie Johnson, of 723 South avenue, and Carl Frederick Larsen, of Westfield, were married Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the home of the bride, by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church. A small company of friends was present to witness the ceremony and attend the reception which followed. The bride is a graduate nurse and has been living at the home of Louis Beck on South avenue. Upon their return from a wedding journey they will continue their residence there. The bride received a number of handsome gifts from friends in this city and elsewhere.

Trolley Car Strikes a Rig.

Main line trolley car No. 1,925, eastbound, struck the rear of a rig occupied by Mrs. George Parker, of Road Ending, in front of Randolph's drug store, Saturday night. The vehicle protruded too near the tracks and motorman Waldron failed to notice he could not pass it. Mrs. Parker, who held an infant, became hysterical after the crash and was taken into the pharmacy by Patrolman Messler. She was notinjured. The vehicle was slightly damaged and the horse received a few cuts.

Death of New Brunswick Resident.

Daniel Vliet, a well known resident of New Brunswick, died at his home in that city, yesterday. He was a retired tailor and numbered many Plainfielders among his acquaintances. The funeral will be held at the residence, Hamilton avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 and Mrs. John Manley, of Park avenue, will sing at the service.

"JEEMS" HIT COP NOLAN; THEREBY HANGS A TALE

A young negro giving his name as "John Smith," of Westfield, and standing six feet four inches in his bare feet, meandered into Gloekler's saloon, Saturday night, with the one fixed idea that he wanted trouble. He insisted on sitting on a table and when put off it two or three times, swung up to the bar and announced in loud tones that no white man would be allowed to have a drink over it. The negro's size drove thirst away from everybody in sight so a hurry call was sent for the police.

Patrolman Messler responded and after getting Smith to the street, was joind by Patrolman Nolan. The prisoner was still scrappy and made a pass at the latter officer, smashing in his helmet. It was a bad mistake for John Smith. Patrolman Nolan has a reputation of hitting first and explaining afterward and his locust descended on the negro's cranium with a dull, sickening thud.

"I'm cold," he yelled, and then another tap from the wood warmed him up so quick he wanted to run all the way to Sycamore street headquarters.

When arraigned before Judge Runyon, this morning, he admitted being in wrong but begged for mercy. he was sentenced to sixty days in jail.

After the trial was over, a young colored woman from Westfield, who owned up to being the prisoner's affinity, was asked by Chief Kiely what his right name was.

"Ah dunno," she said; "Ah's been acquainted with him fo' two yeahs but ah only knows him as "Jeems" and she had a faraway look in her eyes that showed it would be useless to interrogate further.

FIRE GUTS HOME OF COUNCILMAN C. A. M'GEE

Fire, starting in the kitchen from an unknown cause, did damage to the amount of $2,000 at the home of Borough Councilman Clifford A. McGee, on Wellow acenue yesterday morning when the kitchen and bedrooms on the second and third floor at the rear of the house were gutted by the flames. The blaze was discovered by Mr. McGee's six-year-old son Norman, who waked his father and mother and shouted the alarm at about half past eight. Mr. McGee sounded the alarm from box 153 at Willow and Giraud avenues and the firemen confined the damage to the rear of the building.

Speaking of the work of the department to a Daily Press reporter, the Councilman said: "Those boys did awfully good work. It looked to me as though the house was doomed, and I believe it was only saved by the promptness of the firemen in hitting the blaze. I am very proud of the North Plainfield fire department. My loss was due almost entirely to the flames, for the house is not damaged at all by water. A hydrant stream was used in the kitchen, but the firemen saved a lot of damage by water because they used a chemical stream on the second and third floors."

Mr. McGee denied the rumor that the fire was started by his son, who is reported to have been playing with matches in the kitchen. The little fellow was the only one awake in the house, for the maid had gone to church. There was no fire in the range or gas stove. The Councilman's loss is entirely covered by insurance. He will immediately begin the work of re-construction, which will be a restoration of the house as it was before the blaze. The roof was undamaged and the family is still living in the house.

Horse Show Big Financial Success.

The fifth annual horse show of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club was the most successful from a financial point of view in its history. The returns from admissions at the gate will reach nearly $3,000, while the money received from the numerous entrise was over $2,200. It is estimated that the aggregate amount will reach between $6,000 and $7,000, all of which remains in Plainfield. In addition it is a conservative opinion that from a money standpoint the show was wroth nearly $10,000, considering the amount spent here for the care of the horses, the army of men required to look after them and that expended by exhibitors in various other ways.

An Approaching Wedding.

Announcement is made of the approaching wedding of Miss Alice Kirby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ernest Kirby, and Frank Lamar Scheffey, of Glen Ridge, which will take place in Christ Episcopal church, that place, Wednesday evening. Miss Kirby is the only neice of Mrs. Joseph O. McKelvey, and Miss Adele Kirby, of Grandview avenue. The latter will be the maid-of-honor.

LAW-BREAKERS WARNED

Judge Runyon Declares That Foreigners Must Respect the City Ordinances.

A BAN ON WEAPON CARRYING.

Sends Three Men to Jail for the Offense and Punishes Others for Dessecrating the Sabbath.

Aroused to just indignation by a large number of Italians arraigned before him on charges of disorderly conduct on the Sabbath and the carrying of concealed weapons, Judge William N. Runyon issued warning in the city court, this morning, that the foreign element in the city must obey the laws of the community.

"I want everyone to understand," he exclaimed, "that our Sunday is not to be turned into a day of revelry and as for the carrying of concealed weapons it will not be tolerated by this court. Unless a man is engaged in a dangerous occupation there is no need in this country for anyone to have a knife or revolver in his pocket and I will punish every prisoner brought before me for it. This applies to English, Americans, Italians or anyone else and the sooner it is realized the better it will be for everybody concerned."

The magistrate's remarks followed four cases in which a total of nine Italians were implicated. The first prisoner was Luigi Carlminio, arrested yesterday by Patrolman Flynn for helpless intoxication at South avenue and Centre street. He was fined $8 and paid. After him came Carmone Consoli and James Popolli, arrested by Chief Kiely and Detective-Sergeant Flynn for disorderly conduct in the "bee hive" apartment house on Watchung avenue near the raceway. Popolli was sent to jail for forty days and Consoli for twenty.

The arrest of these two men led to another disturbance a little later in the afternoon by relatives accusing Popolli's daughter of being responsible for the police coming. Her brother and brother-in-law and several other men started to beat her on Watchung avenue just as Patrolman McDonald came in sight. Several of the assailants ran while others stood and at the woman's instignation the officer arrested Pedro Raphael, Michael Mascagni and Dominick Matti. She declared they had struck her but when they were arraigned in court she changed her attitude and was positive it was the men who had run away who were the ones watned. There was nothing else to do but to discharge the three.

Another case brought out a second batch of three men, Dominick Delallo, Guisseppe Annodio and Joseph Rigio, all residents of the Terrill road colony. They boarded an in-bound Scotch Plains trolley last night and got into a muss with several Plainfielders. The car was stopped at Berckman street and the Italians were put off but they ran after it as far as the Richmond street switch, throwing stones at the passengers on the back platform and threatening to shoot some one. Patrolman O'Keefe was called and captured two of them and the third was arrested later by Detective-Sergeant Flynn at Hunter avenue. A search of their clothing revealed two loaded revolvers and a razor.

"There may be some doubt as to who was to blame for the trouble on the car," said Judge Runyon in addressing them, "but you had no right to come into Plainfield with those weapons. Fifty dollars or fifty days for each."

The defendants had no money and will serve the jail sentences. It was after they had been taken back to cells that the magistrate issued his warning and as there were a large number of foreigners in court it is believed his remarks will have a salutary effect.

MANY ATTRACTIONS LISTED FOR FIREMEN'S CARNIVAL.

Many novel features will be introduced during the Firemens' carnival, June 15 to 20.

The Southern plantation scene promises to be interesting and the band of Aztec Indians will doubtless come in for a lot of attention. A vaudeville, Fereris Trained Wild Animal Show, Comic Opera in Tabloid form, Moving Pictures, Camels, Elephants, and Oriental street, Genuine Egyptians, Turks, Hindoos, Bedouin Arabs, Moors will all take part in the carnival and all the incidents of an up-ti-date circus. Much interest is being manifested to see who wil have the honor of being crowned "Queen of the Carnival." Miss Lillian Pauley, whose name was mentioned by the carnival committee on Saturday as one of the candidates, has withdrawn from the contest. Miss Pauley says she did not know that her name was to be presented.

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

Miss Louise Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Coddington, of Mt. Horeb, and Jacob Long, of Washington Valley, were married Thursday at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Mr. Ocherson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of that place. Miss Olive Elliott was bridesmaid, while Walter Robinson, brother of the bride, acted as best man. Mrs. George Wyckoff, of Bound Brook, played the wedding march. About seventy-five relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony. After a short wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Long will make their home on their farm in Washington Valley.

Mrs. Peter Kouhler, of Elizabeth and High street, is spending several days at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Amzi Storr, at Belle Mead.

Miss Ethel Lutz, of Newark, has been visiting at the home of S. D. Opie, at Neshanic.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

As a result of the twenty-fifth annual readjustment of postmaster's salaries, now in progress by the post-office department at Washington, Postmaster Henry S. Garretson will receive an increase of $200 in his salary as head of the local office. The salary has been raised from $1,300 to $1,500 and the increase will go into effect beginning July 1 and holding good for one year thereafter. Postmasters salaries at Bound Brook, Somerville, Metuchen and Rahway, have also been increased.

The Riverside A. C. team, of Rahway, did not put in an appearance to play the Dunellen A. C. nine Saturday, and after waiting around on the field until after 4 o'clock, the local boys gave up expecting their opponents. No word has been received from the Riverside manager as to why the game was cancelled, but an effort will be made to arrange another game.

Miss Marjorie Harris, Raymond and John Dutcher, as members of the senior class, Plainfield High School, attended the reception tendered the class by Principal Ira W. Travell at the school Saturday night.

Rev. George H. Gardner has been appointed one of the judges in the prize speaking contest to be held at Bound Brook Friday night. The prize is to be a gold medal worth $10.

Several new members were received into the Presbyterian church at the communion service yesterday morning. Rev. W. W. Cassleberry officiated.

A CONVENTION PRIMER

Important Information Concerning Past and Coming National Political Conventions.

THIRD OR OTHER PARTY CONVENTIONS.

What parties have held national conventions besides the Republicans and Democrats?

There have been several. The first political national convention ever held was by the so called Anti-Masonic party in 1831. The Democratic party has been in existence since that date. The National Republicans were followed by the Whigs and they by the Republicans, who have been in existence since 1856. Other parties which have nominated presidential candidates have been the Liberty party, the Free Soilers, the Americans or Know Nothings, the Liberal Republicans, Prohibitionists, Labor, People's, Socialists.

Has any national party besides the two great predominant parties ever been successful?

No, but they have sometimes so held the balance as to determine the election. For instance, the Liberty party defeated Clay in 1840, and the Prohibitionists defeated Blaine in 1884.

What parties besides the Republican and Democratic will probably nominate presidential candidates this year?

The Prohibitionists, the Independence League, the Socialist and possibly some Labor party.

What would happen if a third party candidate should obtain enough electoral votes to prevent the Republican or Democratic candidates from having a majority in the electoral college?

The election for president would be decided by the house of representatives and that for vice president by the senate.

Waist Sale Greatest For Reason.

Greatest in Entirety, in Every Item—and here is the basis on which this remarkable event rests: Thousands of women still recall with pleasure and profit the stupendous sale of a year ago. We sold more waists in a given time than we (or any other store) ever did before or since. Business policy as well as ambition demands that sales for comparative periods be surpast. This event was planned with such an aim. That the object will be accomplished there can be no doubt. We have concentrated into the following items bargains that cannot fail to arouse enthusiasm, that open the opportunity to buy waists for about every summer occasion at prices that in many instances mean almost two for the value of one. We know that we have the strongest presentation ever made Newark women—and they acknowledge this as they see the waists. That is why department and special first floor tables have been crowded from opening of the doors.

$1.00 and $1.25 White Lawn Waists—That this is the greatest waist bargain ever at the price we assured ourselves before making the offer and assertion. We knew we had something extraordinary, and an inspection of recent special sales in Newark and New York proved the point. So you may come with great expectations and not be disappointed; some beautifully lace, others embroidery, trimmed; still others with medallions of fine embroidery; models with yokes for stout women, "up-down" effect, and dozens more; we cannot attempt to begin even mentioning them; see the waists; you will buy and be glad we told you about them—fresh $1.00 and $1.25 white waists, at ..... .69

$1.50 Lawn Waists—When we have a sale we aim to have the bargain so decisive that there can be no question about it; some of these waists are worth even more than $1.50; pretty sheer white lawns and cross-bar dimities; some colored, with dots and checks; all with stylish collars and cuffs; open front and back; at the popular price of $1.00

$2.50 and $3.00 Waists—Hundreds in this group that have sold at $2.50 and $3.00, almost any style you desire; many cannot be distinguished from the real hand embroidery; many with eyelet embroidery, styles adapted to any figure—short or tall; many with lace yokes; others "up-and-down" side pleat or embroidery trimmed, acme of waist beauty, at..... $1.95

$3.00 and $3.50 White Waists—Some with twelve rows of French Valenciennes lace, back and front interspersed with tucks; sleeves also trimmed; still others with yoke of embroidery and rows of fine lace, tuckt back; others with medallions and rows of lace, embroidered yokes; come early and choose from all these fine waists at the special price of..... $2.45

$1.75 and $2.00 Lawn Waists—Plenty of them; to describe each would be a task, indeed; suffice it to say they are all fresh and new; bought six weeks ago price would be $1.75 and $2.00 and more; very fine laces and embroideries; we know that you will be pleased with the styles—come and see; all sizes up to 44; savings that run to almost half, at..... $1.25

$2.00 and $2.50 Lawn Waists—Never sold before under $2.00 to $2.50; fine imported embroidery and Valenciennes lace trimmed; we desire particularly that you compare any waist in this sale with any waist in Newark at this price, to verify our claim of unmatcht value; yokes, straight fronts, embroidery trim, treated bayadere and many more; every waist wonderful, at..... $1.50

CAN'T SELL PHOTOGRAPHS WITHOUT CONSENT OF SITTER.

A person has the right under the Constitution to prevent the use of his photograph for purposes of advertising, sale, or trade, according to the decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in New York, last week. Helen Wyatt, who brought suits in the name of a guardian because she is under legal age, sued two stores for $5,000 each for displaying for sale, without her consent, her protographs, on some of which were written "Miss Wyatt."

The firms alleged in defense that Miss Wyatt had informed the photographer who made the photographs that she was a "professional," had appeared before the public as an actress, and in consideration of reduced rates waived her rights in the photographs. The lower court gave Miss Wyatt an interlocutory judgment by sustaining her demurrer in both suits to the constitutional questions raised, from which the firms appealed. In affirming this judgment, Justice Ingraham said in part:

"I can see no constitutional objection to this law, and I am of the opinion that it is justified not only for the protection of the rights of individuals, but from considerations of public welfare." All the justices concur.

QUALITY COUNTS SO DOES DIVERSITY

PRACTICALLY EVERY house in business habitually and persistently lays stress upon the quality of its merchandise. It is a string played upon by high and low alike, by good, bad and indifferent stores—yet we do not find quality in all the stores where it is much talked about, but only here and there; and while we admit it is a good claim to make—we make it ourselves frequently, and with reason—we hold that quality is not all that is desired in merchandise. People want diversity. Variety of styles and good taste in the matter of selection are as essential to most people as the quality of the goods. The fabrics may be very worthy in the matter of weave and dye and yet be homely, and there may be stores with not only goods of quality, but also of beauty; yet they may lack variety to choose from, and therein fall short of pleasing their patrons.

Here we pay as much attention to securing a wide variety of styles and as many exclusive things as possible as we do to the qualities of the goods, always, of course, keeping quality in mind. So we present to you the most diversified stocks to choose from, affording you the widest play for your taste, whims and wishes.

When you want to buy with most pleasure you will come here, because you know that quality and price being right you can choose with the greatest satisfaction.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

State Banking Commissioner D. O. Watkins, of Woodbury, left yesterday on a two weeks' fishing trip in Maine.

Fred P. Kirby, of Woodbury, has announced his candidacy for sheriff of Gloucester county, on the Prohibition ticket.

Rev. William Pinkersgill baptized four men and two women in the Delaware at the foot of Sixth street, Gloucester City, yesterday.

The examination of a portion of the stomach of one of the horses recently lost by T. J. Williams, of Williamstown, revealed the presence of strychnine.

Anthony Sauerwitz, four years old, of 313 River street, Paterson, last evening was run down by an automobile owned and driven by Edward Van Houten, Jr., of 490 River street. Both bones in the little fellow's left leg were broken.

Success of the plan of serving soft drinks during the services of the Men's church, Atlantic City, last Sunday night, has encouraged Rev. Sydney Goodman to install regular "buets" at next Sunday's service. "We will have drinks in reach of every man who attends, even if we must have buets and serve the beverages," he said.

Aroused by the action of the railroads in raising the commutation rates to southern points in New Jersey, the New Jersey State Civic Federation is organizing a league of railroad commuters for the purpose of carrying the matter to the Interstate Commerce Commission and to secure the enactment of such legislation as will protect the commuter in the future.

Judge Starr Saturday granted a license to Jesse Thompson for the old Billingsport Hotel, near Paulsboro, and denied the application of William Cunningham nearby. The court declared while Cuningham's hotel was better able to accommodate the traveling public, yet that of Thompson's has had a license for 200 years and had agreed to make great improvements.

George Taylor, unmarried, aged thirty-two years, who boarded with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Moore, on Spring street, Bordentown, attempted to commit suicide at the Moore home yesterday by tying a piece of rope about his neck and then to the bedpost in his room. Mrs. Taylor, on hearing a scuffle, investigated and found Taylor hanging. She cut him down. Taylor says he does not remember anything about it, as he had been drinking.

In reply to the petition of his wife, who seeks the custody of their two children, Thomas H. Scull, of Cape May, through William C. French, in the Court of Chancery, Camden, yesterday filed an answer alleging that Mrs. Scull is not a fit person to look after the little ones. He avers that his wife is as "crafty as a fox and as cold-blooded as a fish." While praying that his wife be denied the custody of the children, the husband asks that, in the event of a change being made, the family be reunited.

Two counties are at war over a bridge tender. Burlington county appointed Hezekiah Adams to the office. Jacob Endicott, of Atlantic county, bid $4 less and the Atlantic Board of Freeholders decided that he should be named. The tender is to operate the draw at Port Republic, where the bridge links Burlington and Atlantic counties together. Judge E. A. Higbee and John K. Johnson have been named as a peace commission to go to the next meeting of the Burlington freeholders and straighten out the matter.

On Tuesday next Senator John Hinchliffe will entertain Borough President George Cromwell, of Richmond, Staten Island, in Paterson. Mr. Cromwell will bring a party of officials from Richmond Borough with him and visitors and entertainers will number about sixty. The guests will be served with luncheon at the Hamilton Club at 12 o'clock, and at 1 o'clock a tour through the northern part of the county will be made, with Dr. Prince's home, at Ringwood, as the objective point. After a brief stay there the party will return to the North Jersey Country Club, where dinner will be served in the evening.

REV. G. M. SHOTT RESIGNS LYONS FARMS PASTORATE.

At an adjourned meeting of the Lyons Farms Baptist church Friday night the pastor, Rev. Gideon M. Shott, offered his resignation, to take effect on or before September 1. He will supply the pulpit during June. The church granted him the months of July and August as a vacation.

Rev. Mr. Shott was formerly pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church. The work of nearly three years at Lyons Farms has proven too much for the strength of the pastor, he declares. He took an active part in the building operations begun a year ago, now about to be resumed.

The pastor has not announced where he expects to go, but has indicated that he would be away most of the summer. The church granted him the use of the parsonage till September 1, if they do not call a new pastor sooner. He preached yesterday morning and administered the Lord's supper.

Proposals for Federal Building Site.

Treasury Department.
Office of the Secretary.
Washington, D. C., June 2, 1908.

Proposals will be received, to be opened at 2 o'clock p. m., July 1, 1908, for the sale or donation to the United States of a suitable site, centrally and conveniently located, for the Federal building to be erected in Plainfield, N. J. A corner lot of approximately 160x147 feet is required. Each proposal must give price, the character of foundation obtainable, the proximity to street cars, sewer, gas, and water mains, etc., and must be accompanied by a diagram indicating the principal street, the north point, the dimensions and grades of the land, the widths and paving of adjacent streets and alleys, whether the alleys are public or private, and whether or not the city owns land occupied by sidewalks. The vendor must pay all expenses connected with furnishing evidences of title and deeds of conveyance.

Improvements on property must be reserved by the vendor, but pending the commencement of the Federal building they may remain on the land upon payment of a reasonable ground rent. The grantor must, however, remove all improvements on thirty days' notice so to do.

The right to reject any proposal is reserved. Each proposal must be sealed, marked "Proposal for Federal building site at Plainfield, N. J.," and mailed to the Secretary of the Treasury (Supervising Architect), Washington, D. C. No special form of proposal is required or provided.

SMITH MAY STAY AT HOME.

Leader of Jersey's Democratic Big Four Not Eager to Go to Denver.

Former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., may not go to the Democratic Convention in Denver as the head of the New Jersey delegation and chief member of the "Big Four." Mr. Smith says he is very tired by the stress of business cares and that a warm time at the convention preceded by a trip across a good part of the continent, is not the sort of holiday he cares for.

Mr. Smith's half-determination not to go to Denver is regarded by many Jerseymen as an indication that paramount in his political desires was the defeat of Bryan for the nomination. Having done as much as was possible in New Jersey toward this end, it is thought that Mr. Smith is well content to stay at home.

DR. VAN DYKE'S LECTURES.

To Speak on Spirit of America at Paris and Other Universities.

Dr. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton University has accepted the American Lectureship at the University of Paris and other French universities for the coming year. The lectureship was tendered by the authorities of Harvard. His subject is announced by Van Dyke as "The Spirit of America; Its Expression in Literature, Education, and Social Effect."

Dr. Van Dyke has requested that leave of absence without salary be granted him by the Princeton University authorities, and expects to sail for Paris with his family after the marriage of his daughter at Avalon on June 30. He will occupy the chair filled during the past year by Dr. George Price Baker of Harvard.

The Good Fellow.

He cut a dash;
No throat went dary.
When he had cash
He made it fly.
But now that he is very broke,
He's but a rather tiresome joke.

He sought a crowd
(Not hard to find)
Of talkers loud—
You know the kind.
And for a while he was a prince;
But now he's just a human quince.

NO MORE BOND ISSUES.

It is but reasonable to expect that, will be made by the city fathers tonight to pass over the mayor's veto the bond issue ordinance providing for the macadamizing of certain thoroughfares. When H. G. Runkle, George P. Mellick, John M. Whiton and more than a hundred other taxpayers, whose opinion on the subject are valuable, support the mayor in the stand he has taken in the matter, it would be an insult to the city fathers to raise any doubt as to their intentions.

Mayor Fisk, in his message to the Common Council giving his reasons for returning the ordinance unsigned, stated that he would not approve of bond issues for such purposes. He took the position that it would be a waste of the taxpayers' money to follow the red-tape and costly procedure involved in a bond issue. Let the abutting property-owners first petition for the improvement and then when they have contributed their share let the city do the work. Such was his advice. The saving by following this method would be considerable. Piling up bond issues needlessly, he holds, is the forerunner of financial disaster, and in this he finds no end of supporters. Some of those who commend the veto do so on the ground that there is no need for making expensive improvements in the outlying districts at this time. Others because they object to the dangerous practise of issuing bonds under every conceivable pretext. There are still other reasons advanced but all agree in opposing the ordinance. It is safe, to say, therefore, that we will hear no more about bond issues for some time to come.

DEVELOPING LAND TRACTS IN PLAINFIELD'S SUBURBS.

Real estate men in the suburben sections of the city started the development of tracts at Graceland and South Plainfield yesterday through free excursions from New York city. Graceland, the newly opened up tract on South avenue near Westfield, was visited by many New Yorkers who came out for the day on a special excursion. It is reported that the Central Railroad of New Jersey will erect a station at the tract and that the place will be re-named South Westfield.

Two large tracts of land at South Plainfield were formally opened yesterday, when special trains on the Lehigh Valley brought home seekers from New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City to inspect the sites. Samuel Goff is promoting the tracts and has opened a real estate office on the property. Four streets have been cut through and some houses are already in course of construction.

Cyclists Went 75 Miles.

About twenty members of the Plainfield Cycling Club went on the regular weekly run yesterday, when the cyclists went to Cranbury and back by way of Princeton, Belle Mead, Stork Farm, Somerville and Bound Brook. The distance covered was about 75 miles. The riders stopped for dinner at Cranbury.

E. M. FRENCH BELIEVES IN CITY BOND ISSUES

Referring to the circular of the Plainfield Protective Association, Elston M. French declares he is not in accord with the views of the members of the executive committee on the mayor's veto of the street improvement bond issue. The proposed street improvements contained in the ordinance for macadamizing he believes are necessary for the welfare of the city at large as well as for the properties fronting on the given streets.

"Nothing will sell land more readily than a good street upon which to approach it," he declares. "It will encourage the development and upbuilding of outlying portions of the town and increase the taxable valuation of the land much more than the amount of assessment."

Mr. French stated that he would recommend the passage of an ordinance covering the improvement proposed, and in order to relieve the property owners of any unnecessary burden, extend the time of payment to five years from the date of the assessment, adding interest at six per cent. and having yearly payments of twenty per cent. made annually, with the privilege to pay the entire amount without interest if paid within ninety days after the assessment is levied. As the city can borrow money at 4½ per cent upon its bonds, it will be making a profit as far as the interest is concerned. A very small portion of the assessment is borne by the city at large, as the property owners directly benefited pay about 80 per cent of the cost.

The new fire house is to be built in the Netherwood section, but there is no team owned by the fire department which can drag the lightest apparatus through some of the streets in that end of the city during four or five months of the year.

Mr. French says he thinks that the city is not progressive enough in the matter of improvements. He says that in most of the Western cities the street improvements are extended for miles beyond the built-up sections, which encourages revelopment and shows an enterprising spirit, which might well be emulated in this city.

Visiting Borough School.

Miss Kate Savage, teacher in the high school at Egg Harbor, is the guest of County Supervisor and Mrs. H. C. Krebs this week. Today Miss Savage is visiting in the high school department of the Somerset street school.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Ladies' Circle of the Baptist church at its annual meeting held at the home of Mrs. James H. Parks on Wednesday re-elected these officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. James H. Parks, president; Mrs. F. W. Westcott, vice-president; Miss Lydia Hayes, treasurer, and Miss Hannah Hayes, secretary.

It looked bad for the locals at Somerville Saturday until the ninth inning. However, all is not lost that is in danger as was proven by the batting rally which developed when the last chance came.

Rev. Mr. Thurnell, who is making his home for the present in Plainfield, occupied the pulpit at the Baptist church yesterday at both services.

The Scotch Plains second team also had a win Saturday afternoon, defeating the South Plainfield team by the score 6-8.

Robert Jahn, of Perth Amboy, was the guest over Sunday of his mother, Mrs. Robert Jahn, of Park avenue.

A well attended meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held in the parlors of the Baptist church last night.

The weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held last night in the Methodist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Poff, Sr., entertained relatives from out of town over Sunday.

Miss Caroline Lent was the guest over Sunday of friends in Brooklyn.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Christian Endeavor consecration meeting was fairly well attended last night and much interest was shown. President Jackson took charge, as Mrs. Jackson had not yet sufficiently recovered from her recent illness.

Preparations are being made for the popular annual strawberry and ice cream festival which will be held by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist church on Wednesday evening.

The rehearsal of "Miss Matilda's School" was postponed on Saturday as "Miss Matilda" was detained in New York.

Scotch Plains was victorious over South Plainfield by 5 to 3 in Saturday's baseball game.

Prof. Douglass on Mission Work.

Rev. Dr. Ryder, field secretary of the American Missionary Association, who was to have spoken at the Congregational church yesterday morning and evening, was detained by illness, and Prof. Paul Douglass, of Upper Montclair, who is associated with Dr. Ryder in the work, took his place. In the morning he gave a stirring address on mission work in the South, telling of the great progress being made there, and in the afternoon he talked to the Sunday-school, telling the children of the work carried on among the colored people of the South, the Indians and Chinese. The regular chuhrc service was held in the evening.

$15,500 Pledged for Improvements.

Rev. J. S. Zelie announced at the Crescent Avenue church yesterday that $15,500 has already been pledged for the church improvements, to be begun within a few weeks. The estimated cost of the alterations will be $25,000 and the balance is to be raised by subscriptions from the congregation. An appeal for the Gilbert Lovell missionary fund will be made Sunday, June 21. The church carries on an extensive mission work in China by money raised in this way each year.

Running Race at Driving Park Today

H. A. Bourne's well known brown mare, "Mrs. Bessie Fullum," and Louis Batjet's brown mare "Tobassa" have been matched for a running race at the Driving Park at 4:30 this afternoon. A stake of $100 a side has been posted. Both horses have taken part in several local meets and are considered among the speediest hunters and jumpers in this section.

Caught a Large Catfish.

One of the largest specimens of a catfish seen in this section of New Jersey was caught Saturday night by William H. Hand, lock-tender at Bound Brook. It was caught in the Raritan Canal with an ordinary hook and line, the hook being number one size. The fish measured twenty-four inches in length, five inches across the head and weighed six pounds.

Dr. Maxson Commencement Speaker.

By the unanimous vote of the senior class of the Plainfield High School Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the city Board of Education, has been asked to make the commencement address at the graduation exercises of the class, to be held this year at the New Plainfield theatre the night of June 18.

Wedded at the Parsonage.

Seconda Ollearo, of Orange, and Miss Perside Bianco, of this city, were quietly married Saturday night at the Grace M. E. church parsonage. Rev. Orra J. Shoop performed the ceremony. Only the necessary witnesses were present.

FUNERAL IN NEW YORK.

Death and Burial of a Man Nobody Knew Much About.

"Dying made easy, is a good motto for New York," said a business man to his friend who is a visitor from the middle west. "The other night when I got home I saw an undertaker's wagon standing at the entrance. Cheerful sort of thing to see after you have been out to the play and a supper with your friends.

"On the way up to my flat I came across the undertaker's men carrying upstairs the body of a man. The undertaker explained that the corpse was that of an elderly man who had died that night at a hospital and who had lived with the people in the apartment below mine. His friends had employed the undertaker to take charge of the body and arrange for the burial.

"The next day as I was going out I met the undertaker. I thought it was the decent thing for me to show respect to the dead, particularly in view of the statement of the undertaker that the dead man had no friends in the city. The people with whom he lived were acquaintances only.

"I followed the undertaker to the room. Only a few persons were present. The undertaker took a prayer-book from his pocket and read the Episcopal burial service.

"After that the undertaker's employes carried the coffin downstairs and placed it in a hearse. He and his men stepped into the carriage. The cortege moved down the street. I learned later that the body was shipped to the former home of the deceased.

"The head of the apartment where the stranger had a room said to me:

"'We didn't know much about him. He was quiet in his coming and going. When he was taken sick he asked to be sent to a hospital. It was done.

"'The day before he died he sent a request to have any service that might be held in case of his death, at the apartment where he had lived. That was all right.

"'I knew nothing of his antecedents. When I spoke to an undertaker about it he said he would attend to everything, and he did, but when he read the service I was as much surprised as you were.'

"The undertaker told me afterward that he was an ex-preacher, and that he frequently officiated at the funerals of strangers. And I say again, dying in New York is easy."—New York Sun.

Record of Long Service.

John Copping, who claims to be the oldest police superintendent in England, has placed his resignation in the hands of the Huntingdonshire justices, after an active and meritorious service of 55 years.

His Qualification.

A certain New York alderman was asked, when it first became known that he had political ambitions, what qualifications he had for that office. The aspirant for public honors proceeded to name a number of his accomplishments. Finally he wound up by saying:

"But what counts for more than all else is that I can marry mutes in their own language. And that, let me tell you, is no mean qualification. Of all persons who wish to enter the state of matrimony none are so restricted in their choice of officiating clergymen or magistrate as the deaf and dumb. There are a few preachers in town capable of performing a marriage ceremony in that language, but a couple of mutes who wished a civil marriage alone would be hard put to it to find a competent person among the city's officials. I learned the sign language a few years ago, when I was laid up in a hospital, and I think it would be a good thing to give me the place for the benefit of mutes who wish to be wed."

The man was elected, and in recognition of his one shining talent he really has been called upon to officiate at a number of these "quiet" weddings.

Cats Prey on Rabbits.

Farmers and gunners of Pennsylvania are taking steps to have the game laws so amended as to impose a fine upon owners of cats that kill wild rabbits, just as in the case of dogs caught chasing the cotton-tails. At this season of the year there are numerous wild rabbits in the fields and woods close to the town and three times as many of them are killed by cats as are caught by dogs. Some of the cats have become particularly skillful in stalking the young rabbits, and when within springing distance they pounce upon the unsuspecting bunny much as they would upon a rat Quietly Wedded by Dr. Schenck.

Miss Sue Pomp Berg, daughter of Dr. J. F. Berg, of Prospect avenue, became the wife of William Coulter Boyd, of Bayonne Saturday evening. The ceremony was performed at the home of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, who officiated. The wedding was a quiet affair, only the necessary witnesses being present.

An Expert Coach Horn Artist.

Louis Anderson, the coach horn artist who summoned the classes at the horse show, attracted considerable attention by his performances on the instrument. He is considered the best in America and during the Barnum & Bailey tour of Europe was engaged as an exclusive feature for solo work.

NEW IDEAS FOR PILLOW COVERINGS.

The woman who does not confine the cushions of her summer divans entirely to madras and washable cottons should have one of the new filet pillow covers which are much easier to make than they look.

The pillows should be quite small and flat, about the size used in baby coaches and the covers made of alternate squares edged with Cluny lace, should button on that they may be often washed.

Select for the linen squares an open work design in which eyelet work predominates; use only enough of the satin stitch to make stems or a few dots. Do not have too much work on these squares; the main thing is to have them quite open to show the colored silk or mercerized pillow cover beneath.

Even easier is one of the covers made from an entire filet square that just fits the pillow. The cover may be alike on both sides, or, if that is too expensive, the underside may be of sheer lawn or of inexpensive filet net.

Some of the imitation filet squares are very good looking and if dyed with tea to a creamy tint will make charming sofa pillows at comparatively little cost.

Sometimes these covers are finished with a narrow overcasted seam; more often they have an edge of Cluny put on flat, without gathering.

Linens Deservedly Popular.

Linen gowns are already being carefully considered in relation to the new summer schemes, and this season one of the favorite colors where the linen gown is considered is a warm and attractive russet, a little redder than the sailcloth linen of whilom fame, but very nearly approaching its tint. These linen gowns will be fashioned in the simplest manner possible, the coat bodices opening over gilets of oatmeal-colored toile, powdered with large russet spots, or trimmed with soft, thick, whitecords or with soutache to match. The hats designed to be worn with them are carried out in rustic straw, loosely woven in rush fashion, and trimmed with russet-colored shantung or velvet ribbon, and masses of huge purple plume covered with a soft bloom, or, in place of this, with clumps of crab-apples, bunches of huge white heart cherries or wreaths or ripe strawberries.

Manicuring Elephant's Foot.

Accustomed to the dry climate of the Indies, the elephants imported to temperate and rainy countries are subject to many diseases of the flesh and skin to which the veterinary surgeons of national and municipal zoological gardens are compelled to give the closest watch. The smallest scratch on the sole of an elephants foot is apt to become serious, unless immediately treated with an antiseptic, and the horned substance of the feet, not being exposed to the wear produced by roaming through a wilderness, grows in captivity as rapidly as the finger nails of a human being. An illustration in Popular Mechanics shows a veterinary surgeon trimming these nails with a chisel and mallet.

A Homemade Trimming.

A beatuful trimming that is possible for the girl who embroiders is made of bands of pale satin with trails of tiny roses and foilage in different shades of pink and green crossing and recrossing to form a series of oval wreaths jointed together.

The bands may be any desired width and the embroidery should be done in Kensington stitch with the edges of the design sightly padded to give a raised ecect. Whereever there is a turned over petal it should be heavily padded and worked in satin stitch.

If a soft satin is used it is better to baste the banding on tissue paper before working, or it may pull.

Have You a Grievance?

When we have a grievance it is so tempting to go and talk it over with friend or relation.

Tempting, yes; wise, no.

For, as a rule, we are so keen in the irritation of the moment for sympathy that the temptation to "paint with a big brush" is almost irresistible.

And later—well, later probably we find that there were extenuating circumstances; the culprit was not so black as we had fancied, and in our penitence we would give a great deal to be able to recall the unjust things that we said. For, rest ssured, we wil always be reminded of them by the person in whom we confided.

For the Kitchen Scrapbook.

Two gills of liquid make one cupful.

Four teaspoonfuls make one tablespoonful.

Half a pound of butter will make one cup.

Four cups of flour make one pound.

A Sure Cure.

Fatley—That obesity doctor you sent me to is charging me $200 for one consultation, and he's given me no prescription, either.

Flint—That's his method of treatment. He sends you a thundering big bill to worry over and you get thin.—Boston Transcript.

"Did you have any trouble in learning to play the cornet?"

"None worth mentioning. All the neighbors were poor shots."

The Explanation.

Aunty—Tommy, I put three pies in here, yesterday, and now there is only one. How is that?

Tommy—Please, it was so dark Aunty, I didn't see that one!—Punch

Knew His Business.

Charlie Loveday—Um—ah—er—er—er! He! he——!

Jeweler (to his assistant)—Bring that tray of enegagements rings here, Henry.—Spare Moments.

UNWELCOME CRAMPS.

Who hasn't wakened in the dead of night with an excruciating cramp in the leg? Fortunately it does not last long, but the agony of even a minute or two of this particularly unpleasant nocturnal complaint—strangely enough it rarely makes itself felt out of bed—makes welcome any suggestion for its cure.

As a rule this cramp comes from a run-down system, often a weak heart, and a tonic will help to overcome the tendency.

It may sometimes be avoided by having the feet slightly elevated in lying down.

During the attack stretching down the ankles and toes as far as they will go will sometimes give quick relief. When the pain lasts longer than usual it is well to throw cold water over the part affected.

Solid Backing.

Little Ethel is the young daughter of a contractor in Philadelphia. One of her sisters has recently entered into an international marriage.

Ethel was asked the other day by one of the teachers, "whom did the ancients say supported the world on his shoulders?"

"Atlas," answered Ethel.

"Quite right," said the teacher, "and what supported Atlas?"

"Oh," answered Ethel, "I suppose he had an American wife."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Betting in the Nursery.

"Mamma," said her boy, "I just made a bet."

"What was it?" she asked.

"I bet Billy my cap against two shoe buttons that you'd give me a penny to get some apples with. You don't want me to lose my cap, do you?"

He got the penny.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Ragout of Lid.

Paris modistes, having exhausted the possibilities of decoration of hats with flowers, fruits, and feathers, have decided to see what they can make of the produce of the kitchen garden. First experiments are to be made with tomatoes, while the cucumber and the parsnip loom threateningly on the horizon.—Paris Despatch.

A Mayonnaise Hint.

See that the olive oil is kept in the refrigerator now that the warm weather is here. Otherwise the mayonnaise will be a failure. In summer, more than in winter, the bowl in which the mayonnaise is made, as well as the ingredients of the salad dressing, should be very cold.

Human Nature.

"What are your plans for vacation?"

"I expect to write for about three pounds of various booklets."

"Yes?"

"Examine them carefully, and then go where I have always gone."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Keep it Yourself.

Aye, "know thyself!" Naught matters so
You gain that information.
But then don't let your neighbors know;
You'd lose your reputation.
—Philadelphia Press.

Tired of No. 1.

Blanche—Hilda is anxious to be married again.

Rose—I didn't know her husband was dead.

Blanche—He isn't; that's just the reason.—Philadelphia Ledger.

On the Trail.

"I'm gunning for railroads," announced the trust-buster.

"Then come with me," whispered the near-humorist. "I can show you some of their tracks."—Southwestern Book.

Cleaning Mother of Pearl.

Mother of pearl never should be washed with soap, for it discolors and destroys the brilliancy of the shell. The right method of cleaning is with whiting and cold water.

Beyond the Limit.

"Jones looks a good deal like a has-been to me."

"A has-been! I should say so! That fellow would be blackballed in the Down and Out Club!"

Room For Excitement.

The settlement of 187 states for places in the Repulican Convention ought to be exciting enough to command the interest of the most exacting practical politician.

Recognized Them.

"See thoe two men? They are partners in crime."

"Looked to me like a song and dance team from the moment I set eyes on them."

Her Weakness.

"Is she good looking?"

"Well, she would pass in a crowd."

"Pass what?"

"Anything but a millinery establishment."

Mean.

"I hate ironical people."

"Why?"

"They are always saying the things that I wish I had said myself."

How to Head off Criticism.

Forgiveness is always extended for the mixing of metaphors if the mixer takes the precaution to let it be known that he is aware of the mixing.

The Merry Widow

By ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY HENRY W. SAVAGE

CHAPTER I.

The Girl With the Millions.

"THE widow just now is the queen of our diplomatic chessboard," sighed the Marsovian ambassador's pretty wife. "She will be here tonight. My husband is hanging over the banisters watching for her."

"But what reason?"

"Oh, he has exactly twenty million reasons for"—

"I don't understand," murmured M. de Jolidon.

"No? Then you are probably the only bachelor in Paris who doesn't. She was the daughter of a poor Marsovian farmer—no dowry but her beauty. An enormously rich old banker named Sadowa, wealthiest man in Marsovia, fell in love with her, married her and did her the exquisitely graceful favor of dying a week later. She inherited his whole fortune—$20,000,000."

"And now I suppose she has come to Paris to spend it?"

"Oh, the money is safe enough for the present, I believe, in the Bank of Marsovia. But my husband wants it to stay there. So does the Marsovian government. Ours is not a rich country, M. de Jolidon. That's why a new white hair appears in my worthy husband's head every time one of your Parisian lady killers makes love to her. It's all absurdly simple."

"Well," laughed De Jolidon, "his hair needn't turn whiter on my account. I'll be the one Frenchman who won't make love to Mme. Sadowa."

"But you must."

"What?"

"You must marry her, at any rate."

"Are you mad, Natalie, or is this"—

"It is no joke, and I'm not mad. I've thought it all out."

The ambassador's wife glanced nervously about her. She and De Jolidon were ensconced in an alcove of the salon.

It was the night of the embassy ball. From the adjoining ballroom came the strains of a waltz and the soft gliding of hundreds of dancing feet. Guests were passing and repassing along the great hallway and broad stairs at the rear of the salon. But for the moment the two had the room to themselves.

"Listen," she said. "My husband suspects nothing thus far, but he is certain to in time unless"—

"Unless I divert his thoughts by marrying some one else? I can't, and you know I can't, for I"—

"Hush! You mustn't say it. I am a dutiful wife. And—what are you doing?" she queried as he snatched up her fan from the table. With the pencil that dangled from his dancing card De Jolidon scribbled three words on one of the ivory sticks of the fan, then handed it to his hostess.

Natalie, with a little catch in her breath, slowly read the words aloud:

"I—love—you!"

"Why did you write this?" she asked.

"Because you forbade me to say it," he retorted.

"Tell his excellency I have come back," broke in a voice at the door.

As a servant hurried off with the message the speaker waddled into the room. He was a stout, ungainly little man, clad in the quaint national costume of Marsovia. Bald of head, popping of eye and with abnormally long red mustache, his was a personality to excite laughter in a mummy.

The newcomer was Nish, messenger and clerk of the embassy. At his approach Natalie and De Jolidon slipped away to the ballroom. A moment later a tall, lean, fussy man with hooked nose and mincing gait trotted down the stairway and into the salon.

"Well, Mr. Nish," he asked peevishly, "did you find Prince Danilo at home?"

"No, your excellency," faltered the little man. "He"—

"Did you go thence, as I told you, to the American bar at"—

"Yes, sir. But he was not at home there tonight."

"Odd. He's usually very much at home there, I'm told. So you failed in your mission? You couldn't find him?"

"Oh, yes, your excellency, I found him—that is to say, I"—

"Oh, you found him at last? That's better. Where?"

"At Maxim's, your"—

"Maxim's, eh?" snorted Ambassador Popoff scornfully. "Idling away his time, as usual, when"—

"Oh, no, your excellency, not exactly 'idling,' if I may say so. He seemed very busy. There were a number of bottles and"—

"Was he sober?"

"Not distressingly so, your excellency. In fact, if I may"—

"Did you give him my message? Did you tell him?"

"I gave it word for word, sir. I told him his country was calling for him and that your excellency desired his immediate presence at the embassy."

"Well, what was his answer?"

"He said, 'Give my country my regards and tell it to go to'"—

"Where?" snapped Popoff as Nish paused in embarrassment.

"I'd—I'd rather not say, sir; no place I'm at all familiar with."

"Oh, the ingrate," wailed Popoff, "the ingrate! Here he has been employed at the embassy all these months, and I've winked at his loafing and his dissipation, and the very first minute I really need him he refuses to come."

"Oh, no, your excellency," pleaded Nish; "scarcely as bad as all that, if I may say so—not 'refused' exactly. He will come. At least he promised to."

"Ah, that lifts a load from my brain if he promised he'll come! Diplomatically speaking, Prince Danilo's word is as good as his bond."

"Diplomatically speaking, your excellency," affirmed Nish, "he agrees to be here as soon as he has finished the magnum of champagne that was in the ice pail beside him when I left."

"How much of it was gone?"

"The cork was not yet drawn, but"—

"Be on the lookout for him, Mr. Nish. When he comes put ice on his head if necessary. Sober him at any cost."

"I fancy it will be cheaper than filling him up. I'll do my best, your excellency."

But the ambassador at a whispered word from a servant had already pottered out of the room as fast as his somewhat shaky old legs would carry him, and the voluble Nish ran along in his wake.

A commotion swept through the scattered groups in the foyer—a murmur, a rustle, a whisper that resolved itself at last into the excited phrases:

"The widow has arrived!" "Twenty millions and unincumbered!" "Widow of Sadowa, the animated money bag!" "A Monte Cristo fortune for some lucky man!" "Her name is Sonia Sadowa; twenty millions—red hair, too, but a beauty!" "Twenty millions!" "The Merry Widow!"

Down the stairway from the dressing rooms and into the salon swept a woman—young, beautiful, vivacious. A light of mischief danced in her great dark eyes.

Her masses of auburn hair shone like an aureole above her rather pale, delicate face. About her hovered a half score of gallants, all vying for a word, a look, from the beauty (and fortune) of the Paris season.

Two men—the Marquis of Cascada and the Count de St. Brioche—were lucky enough to claim for a moment or two her attention.

"No, no!" Sonia was saying in protest. "At home, in Marsovia, men don't make such pretty speeches. Courtship there is very primitive and marriage is for life. When a man makes love to another's wife, he is promptly shot. When a wife flirts, her husband beats her black and blue—a good plan. Why not try it in Paris?"

"Delightful!" exclaimed Cascada. "Do you know, madame, we have been counting the moments until you appeared?"

"I can well believe it," assented Sonia. "It must have been just like counting money."

"Oh, madame!" protested the group, horrified.

"Don't I know?" retorted Sonia, a little bitterly. "It's always like that. People count me like so much money. If it is coarse for me to say so, remember I'm a farmer's daughter and that in my country people call a spade a spade."

Popoff and Natalie came hurriedly in to pay their respects to the guest upon whom Marsovia's hopes so depended. At a sign from the ambassador the others drew back.

"So you were shocking some of our Paris gallants?" beamed the ambassador. "What a child of nature you are!"

"You mean," countered Sonia, "that I am a peasant dressed up. How I wish sometimes that I were a real peasant again!"

"Ah!" chuckled Popoff. "Child of nature, true child of nature, always remembering the dear old days on the farm—the bleating of the pigs, the new laid milk, the tomatoes freshly dug up and all the simple joys of the country! But I want you to meet tonight some of our Marsovian nobility—for instance, Prince Danilo, a charming young fellow. He'll be here presently. Danilo is"—

But the mischief had died out of Sonia's eyes. Her face was paler than was its wont, and there was a stern look as of pain about the daintily chiseled mouth.

"I have already met Prince Danilo," she said curtly.

"Really?" cried Popoff. Then, noting her change of expression, he added with apprehension:

"I hope it was not on one of his wet days—a charming, lovable youngster in spite of his"—

"I am not interested in hearing about him," broke in Sonia in a curiously level, emotionless voice. "It was long ago that we met. He will have forgotten me even as—as I have forgotten him. Let us talk of something else, please."

Even Popoff could see something was seriously amiss.

THE MERRY WIDOW.

THE LATE ARRIVAL WAS PRINCE DANILO.

(To Be Continued.)

Alas! Alack! The outlook's sad.
The thing is daily getting worse;
It's bound to put us to the bad.
And leave us with an empty purse.

Those flowers all cost quite enough,
It seemed, in simpler days than these;
And feathers were expensive stuff,
But still we had to buy to please.

And then there came along the fruit
For ornament. At that the stress
Became, in fact, a case of loot
Of pocket-book, aye, nothing else.

And now, good sooth, they say that veg-
Etables are to add their charm
Unto her lid. This is a wedge
That tends to fill us with alarm.

For if she finds they're what she wants—
You know that sort of thing ne'er stops;
The apprehension's one that haunts
Won't she soon want, too, steaks and chops?

CLINTON AVENUE TEAM WALLOPS ELIZABETH A.C.

The Clinton Avenues redeemed themselves on Saturday, when they defeated the Elizabeth A. C., on Crescent Oval by a score of 6 to 4. The first contest between these teams a few weeks ago resulted in a defeat for the locals by a score of 6 to 5, but Captain Brit. Martin was prepared for the county seat boys this time and refused to let them get away with a victory.

Clifford Randolph, who stood on the firing line for the home team, had everything with him and he fanned ten of his opponents, but in spite of this they succeeded in getting seven singles off his delivery, while Lloyd, who was in the box for Elizabeth allowed but six hits. It was the remarkable fielding of the visitors that prevented a worse defeat. Jack Martin was right on the job, securing a run, a hit and having two put outs and an assist. The whole team played championship ball and the exhibition was a creditable one. The only weak spot was behind the bat, Moffett allowing nine stolen bases.

Next Saturday the local team will go to Somerville and play its first games with the West Ends, postponed from Memorial Day, and Manager Dorflinger feels sure that his aggregation will return with a victory.

The summary of Saturday's game:

PLAINFIELD'S JR.O.U.A.M. DEFEATS GARWOOD A.C

The Jr. O. U. A. M. team, of this city, defeated Garwood A. C., at the latter place, Saturday afternoon by a score of 11 to 6. The Juniors were strong at the bat, driving Parker out of the box in the second inning, Ferrel pitching the rest of the game. Van Arsdale pitched a good game and was ably caught by Kaster. Y. M. C. A. NINE LOSES LEAGUE GAME AT NEWARK

Careless base running, together with a collection of six glaring errors, caused the defeat of the Y. M. C. A. nine by the Newark association team at Newark Saturday afternoon. The score was 13-9. This puts the Newark boys at the head of the association State league, for they have won both their games. Plainfield is in second place, having won one and lost one. Summit won from Elizabeth by a score of 8-3 and is now tied with the local nine. The Orange Trenton game was postponed.

The Plainfielders had no trouble at all hitting Manual, the Newark pitcher, and got sixteen hits. Scott got a three bagger, and Craig, Loizeaux, Miller, Conover and Hanks each hit safely for two bases. The local boys tried to stretch their hits for more bases than they earned, and several times got caught by trying to make another bag. Conover was effective for the Plainfielders, but got poor support, Conway having four errors marked up against him, while Craig and Loizeaux each contributed a misplay. The local twirler fanned two and gave two passes, while Manual proved a puzzle to six batsmen and gave a single base on balls.

After hte local nine had made two runs in the first inning, (from four safe hits), the Newark boys started to make runs, and in the second, third and fourth piled up a total of eleven tallies, clinching the game at the start. The score:

Newark . 0 3 5 3 0 1 1 0 x—13 11 4
Plainfield 2 0 3 1 0 0 0 3 0— 9 16 6

Highlands Defeat the Giants.

The Highland A. C., defeated the Giants on Hope Common Saturday afternoon duplicating the score they made against the Juniors, which was 15 to 3. Conshay, Wunderlich and Winters were the battery for the Highlands and Brown, Gouard and Willis for the Giants. Conshay pitched his first game for the Highlands and allowed but one hit in six innings. Wunderlich then relieved him and only one hit was secured from his delivery. The winning team collected five two-baggers, made by Brown, Conshay, Curtis, Hansen and Kyle. Gouard, of the Giants, played a fast game. Next Saturday the Highlands will meet the Climax A. C., at Scotch Plains.

CUP COMPETITIONS AT PARK GOLF CLUB

Ideal weather brought out a large field of golfers at the Park Golf Club, Saturday, to compete for the various challenge trophies, as well as those in weekly competition. The course was greatly improved over the previous week and low scores were the rule. The fact that there are several cups, subject to challenge each week, had the tendency of increasing the interest and stimulating the rivalry among the players.

Walter M. McNaughton, holder, defeated W. R. Faber, challenger, by 1 up for the Hydewood Park cup; Charles B. Morse, holder, defeated W. V. Byard, challenger, by 2 up and 1 to play, for challenge trophy number two, and Dr. H. K. Carroll qualified as holder for challenge trophy number five.

The events for next week include matches between W. R. Faber, who has challenged C. B. Morse for trophy number one; W. V. Byard, who has challenged Dr. A. W. Anderson for trophy number three, and Dr. H. K. Carroll, who has challenged Leon R. Thurlow for trophy number five.

The leading scores for the President's, Club and Summer cups, weekly competition, are as follows:

Dr. H. K. Carroll, 93, 10-83; E. E. Gano, 95, 10-85; W. V. Byard, 102, 15-87; Charles B. Morse, 105, 14-91; A. W. Kenworthy, 106, 15-91; Dr. A. W. Anderson, 118, 18-100.

In the approaching and putting contest, postponed from Memorial Day, Miss May Shreve and W. V. Byard were tied with Miss Grace Ten Eyck and J. B. Betts with a score of 8, and in the playoff, Miss Shreve and Mr. Byard won out by the same score.

SATURDAY'S RESULTS ON P. C. C.'S COURSE

Despite the many other attractions including the horse show, the course of the Plainfield Country Club was occupied by a large field of players on Saturday and many good scores were returned. Frank O. Reinhart, Leighton Calkins and W. Lester Glenney, who took part in the championship tournament at Englewood Thursday and Friday and who were defeated in the semi-final rounds, returned home and engaged in the competition at the local club.

The chief event for the day was the weekly competition for the Spring handicap cups, Classes A and B. In the former class, W. D. Riggs won first honors with a 71 net, receiving three points, while S. H. Patterson and Leighton Calkins were tied for second place with a net 74, each getting a point and a half. The leading scores follow:

W. D. Riggs, 83, 12-71; Stuart H. Patterson, 91, 17-74; Leighton Calkins, 82, 8-74; Frank O. Reinhart, 79, 4-75; R. S. Rowland, 85, 7-78.

In Class B, W. L. C. Glenney won first honors with a net score of 77, while Laurens H. VanBuren and D. H. Rowland finished second and third with scores of 80 and 81. The scores of the point-winners in this class were as follows:

W. L. C. Glenney, 102, 25-77; Laurens H. VanBuren, 105, 25-80; D. H. Rowland, 99, 18-81.

While the play was in progress on the course the many social features provided at the clubhouse were being enjoyed. During the afternoon tea was served and in the evening many remained for the dinner dance, which has become a fixture at this popular place.

St. Mary's Team Wins.

The St. Mary's baseball team opened the season Saturday by winning a decisive victory over the Harrison A. C. team by the score of 11 to 4.

A feature of the contest was the heavy hitting and fast fielding of the winning team. Games have been arranged between some of the best teams in this city and vicinity and good contests are assured. The team will play Plainfield A. C., Saturday afternoon on the Clinton Avenue grounds and a fast game is promised.

Russell O. Howell, of Westervelt avenue, has been engaged as the superintendent of the Mono Investment Company's storage warehouse on North avenue.

Plainfield A. C. Victors.

The Plainfield A. C., defeated the Monroe Avenue A. C., Saturday afternoon by the score of 15 to 6. Snyder of the Monroes, pitched winning ball, having a record of ten srike-outs, but he was given poor support, while Luthman, of the Plainfield A. C., fanned eight men and was well supported throughout. The feature of the gam was a catch of a long fly to right field by Bert Hanson, of the winning team, who ran after the ball, which landed into the right-fielder's hands and then bounced high in the air. Hanson was there to catch it when it came down.

SCOTCH PLAINS BOYS WIN

Somerville Team is Defeated Through Superior Fielding of the Visiting Team.

WON IN THE NINTH INNING.

'Plains Bats Out Five Runs When Score Stood 6 to 2 in Favor of Somerville.

With the score 6 to 2 in favor of the West Ends, in the game at Somerville, Saturday afternoon, the Scotch Plains team came to the bat in the ninth inning and pounded Kraft for four singles and two two-base hits and when the hit-fest was over the visitors were in the lead by a score of 7 to 6 and won the contest by that score as the home aggregation was shutout in its half of the ninth inning.

The game which was the opening one of the season at Somerville was a heavy-hitting one throughout, Kraft and Ortleib being touched freely, but the home team outclassed the visitors in fielding. No matter how hard the ball was hit it would always go into the hands of a fielder.

Scotch Plains opened the ninth inning with Flannery at the bat, who beat out a bunt. Baldwin followed with a single and Joe Albert met one and the scoring began. Frentz was there with a timely hit and Allen came to the rescue with another single. This continued until the 'Plains had scored five runs and won out. Many fans had left the grounds feeling sure that the home players would win. Both teams will meet again later in thes eason. The score by innings:

Scotch Plains....1 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 5—7

MISS MARCUS WINS IN STATE TENNIS FINALS

Defeating Miss Edna Wildey, of the Plainfield Country Club, in the final round of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis tournament at the local club courst Saturday afternoon, Miss Erra Marcus, of the Danforth Club, won the women's singles championship of the State and secured five points for her club for the East Jersey trophy cup. Miss Marcus won her match in straight sets, 6—3 and 6—4.

As runner-up in the tournament, Miss Wildey won two points for the local club, and as three out of the four surviving teams in the men's doubles tournament are composed of country club players, Plainfield is sure of four points, with a possibility of nine, if a local team wins the tournament. No date has been announced for the play in semi-final and final rounds of this tournament, which was postponed Saturday on account of the Yale-Princeton baseball game. Those women players who were defeated in the first round of the singles will compete in a consolation tournament at the club, but no date for the play has yet been announced. As winner of the tourney, Miss Marcus will receive a silver or cut glass prize, as will the runner-up, Miss Wildey.

Special Musical Service.

The monthly musical service at the First Presbyterian church, last night, under the direction of Clifford Braider, organist, attracted a large congregation and the various numbers rendered by the quartet choir, as well as the solo parts, were enjoyed. The solo numbers included a soprano and baritone duet, by Miss Anna Lucretia Case, and a contralto selection by Miss Jessamine Burd. Andrew J. McClintock, the new tenor, has made a favorable impression and his voice is a pleasing one. Last night Miss Alice Miller assisted at the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Murphy, of East Second street, have returned home after a few weeks visit with friends in Colorado.

THIS DOG BITES CHILDHEN, BUT ALWAYS ON THE CHEEK.

"Black," the hound belonging to George Gould, of Somerset street, which bit five-year-old Edward Brown a week ago, snapped at the three-year-old son of John Hoagland, of Somerset street, Saturday evening, biting the little fellow on the left cheek in exactly the same place as the Brown boy was bitten. The injured boy was taken to Dr. F. J. Hughes' office, where the physician cauterized the wound, which proved but a scratch.

The boy saw the dog sleeping in the gutter in front of his home and started to play with it. The animal woke up cross and snapped, grazing the boy's cheek with its teeth and barely missing his left eye. Mr. Hoagland has requested that "Black" be killed.

Last Musical Service.

The vested choir of the First M. E. church gave its last special musical service for the season, last night. The choir was assisted by Mrs. P. B. Scarff and Mrs. Alfred A. Moser, of Westfield, violinists, and Arthur Chamberlain, baritone. Miss Bertha VanNuis Willis, soprano soloist, took the solo parts in her usual excellent and pleasing manner. The chorus sang well throughout and the service was attended by a large congregation.

At the Borough Court.

Michael Kane, of Harmony street, was arrested late Saturday night by Marshal Kiernan of the borough, when he was found helplessly drunk on Somerset street. Marshal Pope entered a charge of disorderly conduct against Joseph Rafferty, who had also been drinking, and was locked up the same night. Both will be given a hearing tonight.

Picnic to Scotch Plains Notch.

Members of the Y. W. C. A., fourteen in number, took a walk to the Scotch Plains Notch Saturday afternoon and had supper in the glen. The party went by trolley to Scotch Plains, returning the same way.

SEMINARY GRADUATES FIVE

Briarley School's Headmaster Addresses Those Who Receive Diplomas.

MUSICAL PROGRAM RENDERED.

Four Graduates Will Enter Wellesley and One Will Matriculate at Smith—Miss Arnold Presents Sheepskins.

The exercises attending the graduation of five young girls at the Plainfield Seminary today, were full of interest and delight to the large number of guests who filled Seminary Hall. The decorations of the hall were beautiful, the white columns being twined with red roses producing a truly Dresden effect.

Miss Kenyon introduced the speaker of the day, J. T. Croswell, the head master of the Briarley School, New York, who, from a large experience in teaching girls spoke many words of wisdom to the graduating class. In opening, he said, three miracles had been wrought in Plainfield this morning. The first was the miracle of dawn, the second the miracle of spring and the third the miracle of girlhood changed into womanhood. In the latter miracle, he said, all the universe, their own nature, time and religion were helpers.

In leaving the formal culture of the school and its criticism, he urged on the class the culture that means growing up, avoiding the follies of youth as well as the follies of age and seeking the wise counsel of men and books. He gave the class on old Greek proverb, "The same road that goes up is the same road that goes down." He said the paths to right and wrong were not merely divergent roads but they were roads up and down. In choosing their paths in life, they would either go up and up, or down and down. Culture he said was choosing daily the best things, the best books the best plays, the best in themselves and the universe.

Miss Henry, from New York, rendered with rare expression and grace on the violin the following numbers: Rhapsodie Hongroise, Hauser; Humoresque, Dvorak. She was accompanied by Mrs. Samuel Van Buren.

The presentation of diplomas was made by Miss Arnold, the principal of the school, who, in congratulating the class on the completion of their course of study, hoped that the five girls graduating today might be five women brave enough to meet the duties of their lives cheerfully, hopefully and faithfully.

Mrs. Arnold said the Declaration of Independence gave to man the inalienable right to the pursuit of happiness. She believed man's right was the possession of happiness, rather than its pursuit and she wished the class that posession of happiness that came, not in its pursuit, but in the performance of duty well done.

Of the graduating class, Misses Marion Strong Brown, Marguerite Carpenter the class president, Janet Louise Millar, Marguerite Siementhal Ostrom, and Susanne Clifton Wharton, will go to Wellesley College and Miss Brown to Smith College.

The opening and closing features of the exercises were songs very sweetly sung by Misses Dorothy Hoar, Frances Hyde, Elizabeth McGee, Jean Saunder and Susanne Wharton. They were accompanied by Miss West.

All the class rooms and the gymnasium were opened to visitors. In the latter was the work of the drawing class, many specimens of drawing from life and casts as well as water colors being shown.

The exhibits of maps made by pupils in the geography and history classes were most interesting, as was the work of the literature class also.

A Princeton Honor Man.

William Parmly Dunn, organist at the Crescent Avenue church, who is to be graduated from Princeon University tomorrow, is one of the '08 honor men. He is among the first eighteen of a class of two hundred and fifty which entitles him to membership in the Phi Beta Kappa Society.

The Loyal Temperance Legion will hold its closing exercises in the W. C. T. U. rooms tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

NEW HOSPITAL GOVERNORS

Charles W. McCutchen and Louis K. Hyde Chosen to Fill Vacancies.

WM. C. KINNEY PRESIDENT.

Seven Members of Board Re-elected —Kirmess Netted $6,200— New Wing to be "Isolation Ward."

John M. Whiton, Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Percy H. Stewart, Harry G. Runkle, James W. DeGraff, Samuel Townsend and Henry L. Hall were re-elected as members of the Board of Governors at the annual meeting held last night, and Howard W. Beebe was also elected a member. In place of the late Rev. Eskine M. Rodman and J. Evarts Tracy, who recently resigned, the board elected Charles W. McCutchen and Louis K. Hyde as members to serve one year.

At the nrst meeting of the new board, which immediately followed the annual session, William C. Kinney was elected president, Edward H. Ladd, Jr., first vice-president, Henry L. Hall second vice-president, Howard W. Beebe, secretary, and Julius E. Erickson treasurer.

The committee in charge of the recent Kirmess reported the net proceeds to be somewhat in excess of $6,200. At the request of the donors of the building for the care of contagious diseases, it was decided to hereafter call that structure the "Isolation Ward."

The report of the medical director for May was as follows: Patients at date of last report, 36; admitted, 64; total number treated, 100; discharged cured, 59; improved, 4; not improved, 2; died, 4; remaining, 31; hospital days, 1,204; operations, 62; three patients were received in the isolation ward for contagious distases. In the dispensary there were 58 patients, 166 visits of patients and one operation.

BOND ISSUE ORDERED FOR NEW SCHOOL BLDG.

Following the action of the Board of School Estimate in determining that $35,000 would be needed for public school expenses during the coming year, exclusive of the amount apportioned by the county superintendent of schools, an ordinance was introduced at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, appropriating that sum and providing that it be made a part of the regular tax budget this year. The ordinance was presented by Mr. Buxton and was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised.

A resolution offered by Mr. Buxton and adopted, approved the form of bonds to be issued for the purchase of property and erection of the new police station. The amount of the bonds is $25,500. There are to be fifty-one, payable semi-annually and bearing four and half per cent. interest. Another resolution offered by the same member and adopted, fixed Monday night, June 22, at 8 o'clock as the time when bids will be received for these bonds, as well as for the $95,000 issue of school bonds with which to erect the new school at Darrow avenue and Essex street. The members decided to hold another adjourned meeting Monday night to approve the form of school bonds.

On motion of Mr. Buxton the certified check of Alexander Milne, who received the contract for building the new police station, was ordered returned, as his bond has been properly filed. Mr. Gloak as chairman of the street committee, offered for approval the bonds of N. B. Smalley & Company, who received the contract for furnishing crushed stone. They were approved and filed.

Westfielder's Effort in Vain.

A well-known Westfield resident called at police headquarters yesterday afternoon and made an effort to have the imprisonment of "John Smith," of that place, sentenced yesterday morning to sixty days, rescinded in favor of a fine. He said the prisoner's right name is James Jones Smith, or Jones, is the negro who attempted to "beat up" Patrolman Tobias Nolan Saturday night, only to undergo the experience of having a locust stick rap out a two-step on his skull. The Westfielder was notified that the original sentence would stand.

Crescent Company Meeting.

CITY CONTRACTOR'S PLEA

Stone Company Man Tells City Fathers They Must Make an Award.

PUBLIC LIBRARY STATEMENT.

Dog Catcher Appointed — Protest Against Abuse of L. T. L. Fountain—Routine Matters.

Taking exception to Mayor Fisk's suggestion that the city do the work of macadamizing streets, instead of awarding the contract to the lowest bidder, Warren B. Travell, of the Watchung Stone Company, entered a protest at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night. He quoted the law bearing on this matter to prove that the city has no legal right to do this, but that it is compelled to give the contract to the lowest bidder. The communication was referred to the committee on public affairs.

The petition of Mrs. W. G. Wright, of West Eighth street, asking for permission to move a house from its present location to 640 West Eighth street, was granted on motion of Mr. Buxton of the finance committee.

Mrs. Alvah Ten Eyck, superintendent of the Loyal Temperance Legion, protested against the abuse of the public fountain at the city park, which was placed there through the work of the children who raised the money for the object. She declared that the fountain has been defaced and broken and instead of being a benefit to man and beast is rendered useless. The matter was referred to the committee on public affairs.

The annual financial statement from the treasurer, J. Herbert Case, of the Public Library and Reading Room, was presented and referred to the finance committee. In the general fund it showed the total receipts to be $8,180.90, disbursements, $6,302.95, and a total balance of $3,792.43, which includes a balance left over from last year.

A communication was received from the Plainfield Protective Association approving the action of Mayor Fisk in vetoing the ordinance providing for an issue of $17,000 worth of bonds for macadamizing street, and two lengthy petitions from citizens in support of Mr. Fisk's position. They were filed, and later in the evening there was a lengthy discussion of the subject.

The appointment by Mayor Fisk of Special Policeman Harry Berlowitz as dog catcher as confirmed, Mr. Montgomery alone voting no, because last year's official canine destroyer was reported to have entered a private property and removed the muzble from a dog for the purpose of taking him to the pound. He believed that the owner of a dog should have some rights and he was not sure that Mr. Berlowitz would observe the rules.

Cyrus F. Boice was appointed poundkeeper by the Mayor and the appointment was confirmed, Mr. Montgomery again voting no, but in this case he gave no reasons for doing so.

A petition was received from William H. Bohl, the contractor, for permission to erect a one story cement block building at 220 East Fourth street to be used as a carpenter's shop, the structure to be 25x80. On motion of Mr. Buxton the building inspector was authorized to give Mr. Bohl a permit to erect the building.

Another claim, this one for $3,192.67, of C. M. Meeker, on account of the brick pavement contract, was approved on motion of Mr. Buxton, chairman of the finance committee, but payment was withheld until all liens against Mr. Meeker are satisfied or until such time as the corporation counsel shall approve payment.

MISS MAXSON'S PUPILS IN SUCCESSFUL PIANO RECITAL.

Assisted by Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnson, violinist, a successful piano recital was given by the pupils of Miss Mabel A. Maxson at her home on West Sixth street yesterday afternoon. A large gathering of parents and friends of the pupils were enthusiastic in praise of the playing of the nine pupils who took part in the program.

Mrs. Truell-Johnson rendered numbers from Wienowski, Raff and Godard, and Miss Maxson played selections from Listz and Schubert, also acting as accompanist for the violin music. The pupils who took part in the program were the Misses Kelly, Ogden, Brown, Fawcett, Johnston, Stevens and Masters Lee, Gribbon and Hochberger.

Y. M. C. A. Officers Back.

Physical Director George L. Listman and General Secretary Herbert E. Parker and Boys' Secretary Chas. B. Batchelor of the Y. M. C. A. have returned from the association conference held at Atlantic City last week.

MISS TOWNLEY LEADS IN CARNIVAL QUEEN CONTEST

The first collections from the ballot boxes used to receive votes for Queen of the Firemen's carnival was made this morning by Captain Daley. It showed that much enthusiasm has already been roused by the contest and that Miss Margaret Townley, who has been nominated by the Elks, is in the lead with a total of 1,073. The Jr. O. U. A. M. candidate, Miss Mattie De Camp, is second, with 930 votes. The other contestants and the result of the polling is as follows: Miss Sarah Hopewell, Woodhull-Martin department store candidate, 795; Miss Margaret King, Foresters, 560; Miss Ella M. Adams, F. O. E.'s, 509.

Ballot boxes are located at Schreiner's pharmacy, Scheuer's grocery, Timbo's restaurant, Woodhull and Martin's department store, Greer and Greenwood's haberdashery and the Waldorf annex restaurant where ballots may be obtained. The boxes will be opened each day and the vote announced in these columns. The contest closes June 19. The young woman winning will be crowned Queen the following day and with the members of her "court" will have entre to all theh attractions on the carnival grounds.

The prizes for the contest are on display in a window at Doane's jewelry store on Park avenue and are as follows: First prize, a solitaire diamond ring; second prize, sterling silver toilet set; third prize, a gold and inlaid pearl handled umbrella.

'PLAINS TO USE OIL TO ABATE DUST NUISANCE

Residents of Scotch Plains, in the vicinity of Park avenue and Front street, have started a subscription to have the streets sprinkled with oil, in order to abate the dust nuisance. The thoroughfare is much frequented by automobiles and the dust raised is a bane to the property owners and housekeepers. It is stated that $100 is needed to have the street properly oiled, and although the subscription was started only last night, half of the necessary amount has already been raised.

Some time ago the property-owners made application to the township committee to remedy the dust nuisance, but nothing has been done, the committeemen claiming that the oiling of the streets would be of only local benefit. Much interest is being shown in the formation of a village improvement society and it is probable that an organization will be shortly effected.

COLORED CHURCH FLOCK JOINS CHATAUQUA CIRCLE.

The colored people of Plainfield who have identified themselves with the movement known as the Chatauqua Circle, have about perfected the organization and the officers-elect will be installed at a meeting be held at Bethel chapel, tonight at 8:30 o'clock. Rev. F. D. Tildon, pastor of the chapel, will preside and all interested are cordially invited to attend. Association with Mr. Tildon is Rev. Mr. Cannon, of this city, who is the State secretary of the organization. Both are well educated divines, Mr. Cannon being graduated this year from Princeton Theological Seminary, and they have the interest of the colored people of the city and State at heart.

The colored people of Plainfield and the State have been making steady progress along educational lines and are using every opportunity offered. They have a newspaper called "The New Jersey Gazette, which has been made the organ of the colored Republicans in New Jersey during the approaching campaign.

Peter Malloy Killed.

Struck by a box car being shunted on a siding by the switch engine at the Bound Brook station, Peter Malloy, of Oak Tree, was instantly killed late yesterday afternoon. The dead man was sixty-five years old and had been a resident of Oak Tree for many years. Michael Malloy, of New Market, is his half brother, and relatives by the name of Regan survive him in Newark.

"The Chronicle" Sold at Auction.

Henry L. Holmes, receiver of the Orange Chronicle Company, sold the plant yesterday afternoon at auction. The three story brick building, the job printing plant and "The Chronicle," which were appraised at $45,000, were sold for $21,600 to Alfred Yankauser, of New York. The purchaser is said to represent interests which will start a daily newspaper for the Oranges.

COPS HOLD UP A TRAIN

Seventeen of 'em Swarm Over Freight Cars in Search of a "Murderer."

FOUR RIDE STEALERS CAUGHT.

One of Them Proves to Be Plainfield's "Bad Boy" Just Released by the Paterson Police.

Local Police headquarters received a telegram shortly after 6 o'clock last evening asking that a freight train, proceeding from Bound Brook toward this city, be stopped and that all men stealing a ride on it be placed under arrest. It was explained that a murder had been committed at Somerville and the suspects were on board. The message was signed by County Detective George Totton, of Somerville.

The night patrolmen were just assembling at the station house when the word was received and seventeen of them were hustled out to the Jersey Central tracks. The train was drawn by locomotive 588 and as it pulled over the Park avenue bridge, the engineer was signalled to stop. He continued on for safety purposes as far as Washington street, the officers in the meantime clambering up on the cars from both sides.

A hurried run over the train brought to light three men and a boy, the latter proving to be William McCarthy, of this city, who only yesterday morning was in the custody of the Paterson police. He was released by them and came direct to Plainfield, afterward taking a side trip to Bound Brook by way of getting a little fresh air after his confinement. He was on his way back when the police yanked him out of a box car.

The men described themselves as William Conway, of Elizabeth; William Herbert, Bayonne; and Thomas Carberry, Elizabeth. They were locked up pending the arrival of Detective Totten and the police continued to watch all other trains. With the arrival of the 2:17 train from Philadelphia, this morning, four more suspects were captured riding "blind baggage." They were entered on the docket as Charles Miller, Philip Miller and John Claire, of New York, and Joseph Goldberg, of Philadelphia. They asserted that they were beating their way from the Quaker city to Gotham and had never been in Somerville in their lives.

The seven men and McCarthy were arraigned before Judge Runyon today but as a full description of the suspects had not been received they were remanded until tomorrow morning. In the meantime, the Somerset authorities will be notified to have a representative on hand if any of them are to be kept prisoners. Young McCarthy will be sent to Elizabeth in any event as he was committed a short time ago to await the action of the Juvenile court and was released on probation by Mrs. Williamzon without the knowledge of the local police.

It was learned late last night that the crime mentioned in the telegram was not a murder but may eventually prove to be one. The victim is a wanderer and was hurled out of a freight car by two companions as the train stopped in this city was passing over the creek bridge just east of Somerville. The man fell twenty five feet to the jagged rocks below and was mortally injured. Several people standing near the tracks witnessed the affair and the victim was hurried to the Somerset hospital. It was said this morning that he cannot live. Nothing was found in his pockets that would throw light on his identity but he appears to be about forty years of age and or medium build. The men who threw him out of the car were both dressed in black.

Sunday-School Teachers Meet.

The weekly meeting of the Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union was held at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Miss White conducted the devotional exercises, while Mrs. Woodruff taught the lesson, the topic being "The Risen Christ by the Sea of Galilee." Mrs. Elvain Van Name spoke on the topic, "Patience in Forming Habits." The union will hold two more meetings, June 15 and 22, before adjourning for the summer.

Assisted at Music Recital.

Miss Frances Rittenhouse and Miss Muriel Collins, of this city, pupils of Miss May Vincent Whitney, assisted at a delightful music recital given at Miss Richmond's private school, Cranford, yesterday morning, and they were accorded a flattering reception by the large audience. They displayed remarkable technique in their renditions on the piano and were obliged to respond to reepated encores.

CO. K. TROPHIES AWARDED

Sergeant Apgar's Squad, Sergeant N. H. Hort and Private Ulmer Get Cups.

FOR SHOOTING AT THE ARMORY

Sergeant Pearsall Makes Presentations; Address by Former Lieut. Lewis and Entertainment.

Trophy cups won on the Company K armory range during the winter's contests with the rifle, were formally presented by Sergeant Pearsall, formerly quarter-master sergeant of the company at a reception held in the armory last night. The presentations were made in the presence of about 150 friends of the soldier boys and at the conclusion of the awards, Former Lieutenant J. M. Lewis made a short address. The "Musical Stewarts" were the then introduced, with Harry Cook at the piano, and the program of entertainment which followed included numbers by William Firstbrook and Harry Holmes. A buffet luncheon was served late in the evening.

The inter-squad shooting trophy, offered by the company, was won by Quartermaster Sergeant George L. Apgar's squad, which included Corporal Philip Winter, and Privates Beethen, Hahn, Mundy, Palmer, Sharp, Van Arsdale and Winn. The names of the winning team will be inscribed on the cup. The shooting for this trophy concluded May 11, and this is the first time it has been offered.

The competition for the individual cups offered for marksmanship developed some good shooting. The Sampson trophy, offered by Walter Sampson, a former member of the company, was awarded to Sergeant N. H. Hort, who made a score of 97 out of a possible 100. Every enlisted man in the company was eligible to compete for this trophy. The Rothberg trophy, offered by Samuel Rothberg, was won by Private Oliver Ulmer, with a score of 94 out of a possible 100. This competition was only opened to privates.

The company is now in a prosperous condition. There are sixty-five men and three officers on the roster and it has been necessary to start a waiting list of candidates.

WORKING ON JOINT SEWER PROPOSITION

Promptly following the suggestions of Mayor Fisk relative to the proposed trunk sewer the plans of which include Plainfield and several surrounding towns and cities, Councilman F. E. Mygatt, chairman of the committee on public affairs, to whom the message was referred, presented a report at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council last night.

The report recommended that copies of the Mayor's message be printed and sent to the officials of Fanwood, Scotch Plains, North Plainfield, Dunellen, Lincoln, New Market, Bound Brook, Somerville, Rartian and New Brunswick, and that the Common Council appoint a special committee, with a view of taking up the question with similar representatives which the governing bodies in the various towns and cities will be requested to name.

It is the purpose of the committee on public affairs to arrange a conference of representatives of all the municipalities included in the proposed sewage, with a view to discussing the proposition thoroughly and carefully. It is also probable that representatives of the State Board of Health will be invited to join in the conference and give their opinion regarding the proposed improvement.

The report of the committee on public affairs was adopted and no time will be lost in taking up the matter with the interested parties.

Preparing Choir Boys' Camp.

Arrangements for the summer camp of the Holy Cross choir boys are now practically completed and about thirty of the singers will be under canvas at Hedges Lake, near Shushane, N. Y., for two weeks, beginning July 13. Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the church, will go to the lake for the preliminary preparations July 7. This is the third season the boys have camped at the lake.

Rafferty Fined; Kane Freed.

Joseph Rafferty, who was arrested Saturday night for disorderly conduct on Somerset street, was fined $3 at his hearing before Borough Recorder Dolliver at the session of the borough court last night. Joseph Kane, nabbed the same night on a charge of intoxication, was dismissed with suspended sentence.

PASS BOND ORDINANCE OVER THE MAYOR'S VETO

By 6 to 3 Vote, City Fathers Decide to Raise Money to Macadamize Streets.

P. P. A. MAKES A PROTEST.

Many Leading Citizens Uphold the Mayor for Reasons Given in His Message—A Lively Argument.

Notwithstanding the veto of Mayor C. J. Fisk and the vigorous opposition of the Plainfield Protective Association and many large taxpayers, the ordinance providing for an issue of $17,000 worth of street improvement bonds, was passed by the Common Council at the adjourned meeting, last night, by a vote of 6 to 3. This action was not taken, however, until after a free and full discussion, in which various members of the Common Council and R. Henry Depew, president of the P. P. A., had a part. N. H. Saxton, of the west end, urged that the ordinance be passed, that the property-owners on his street were anxious for the improvement and ready to pay their share for the work.

When the time arrived to take up the matter, by a unanimous vote Mr. Gloak's motion that the ordinance be considered was adopted. After the discussion, those who voted to adopt the ordinance were Councilmen Buxton, Gloak, Montgomery, C. C. Randolph, Suydam and President Tolles, while those who opposed it were Councilmen Hall, Mygatt and Taylor.

The matter was brought before the Common Council when Mr. Gloak moved that the members direct the objections to the ordinance entered upon the minutes and proceed to consider the ordinance. At his suggestion the Mayor's veto was read again. He then made another motion that the ordinance be adopted on third reading, nothwithstanding the Mayor's veto. This was not seconded at the time, Mr. Mygatt accepting the opportunity to extend the privileges of the floor to anyone present in the lobby. Mr. Buxton objected, explaining that the ordinance had been carefully prepared by the corporation counsel, adopted on two readings, and when a public hearing was granted no one appeared to speak for or against it. He thought the time had passed for a public hearing.

Explaining his position Mr. Montgomery said that in looking over the long list of names of persons who sustained the veto he had noticed that only one person, Donald McInnes, lived on a street that was not macadamized. All of the other signers resided on macadamized streets and therefore cared little about those who do not have the improvements. He expressed himself strongly in favor of the ordinance.

Recalling Mayor Fisk's message early in the year, Mr. Gloak emphasized that part referring to his recommendation that all streets intending to be macadamized be acted on early so that there would be no delay as in previous years. The ordinance had been discussed carefully and thoroughly and all were satisfied to have it go through as shown by the ten votes cast for the ordinance on the first and second readings.

Mr. Gloak declared that the Mayor had had a change of heart, which he had a perfect right to undergo, but he held that he had just as much right to urge the passage and vote for the ordinance because ne thought it was right.

The question of children walking to school in the west end through muddy streets and walks that are not flagged was forcibly presented by Mr. Suydam. In some cases he held that it was impossible for small children to go to school on some days. He had talked with the Mayor about it and was informed that this was a matter for the street committee men to consider, and it was up to them to get busy. He contended that every west end improvement is objected to. The people in that part of the town pay taxes on the sewer bonds, yet they have no sewers, they pay school tax and yet they have no school accommodations, they pay for street improvements in every other part of the city, including the brick pavement and yet they themselves are obliged to get along with unimproved streets and walks that are not even flagged.

At this point the privileges of the floor was extended to Mr. Depew,

WESTFIELD.

Some of Westfield's citizens are objecting to the crowds brought to the town on Sundays by a New York real estate company. About 500 people came Sunday to attend a sale between Westfield and Fanwood. The crowd was orderly. Twenty-five stages conveyed them from Westfield depot to the sale. Westfield officials have nothing to say, as the sale was not conducted within the limits of the town.

Westfield Council has asked the railroad officials to place signal bells in the gatemen's shanties at Central avenue and Broad street crossing. The bells are to give warning to the gatemen on stormy or foggy nights when train lights are not plainly visible.

The Westfield Council held a regular meeting last night. The ordinance to issue town bonds to the amount of $75,000 for a town hall was presented.

MOTORCYCLE RUNS AWAY.

Pastor Jumps and His Shoulder is Dislocated.

Paterson, June 9.—The Rev. James H. Carroll, of 18 West street, Bloomfield, had his shoulder dislocated Sunday night in jumping from his motorcycle, which ran away with him on Market street.

Mr. Carroll is pastor of the First Advent church, at 25 Hamilton avenue, Paterson, and of the Second Advent church, on Belmont avenue, Jersey City. He uses a motor cycle in travelling between his home and the two churches.

PREPARING FOR DENVER.

Democratic National Committee to Meet in Chicago June 16.

Chicago, June 9.—It was announced today by Urey Wodson, secretary of the Democratic National Committee, that a meeting of that body will be held in this city on June 16 for the purpose of selecting temporary officers for the national convention at Denver, and to dispose of such other business as may be submitted to it.

Druggist Denies Charges.

New Brunswick, June 9.—Dr. Joseph F. Bradley, the druggist, who is on trial charged with assaulting 16-year-old May Richards in his drug store last month, went on the witness stand in his defense yesterday afternoon and denied point blank the girl's charges. He called many witnesses to prove his own good character and the girl's bad character. The case was not concluded.

Chalice Stolen From Altar.

Trenton, June 9.—Discovery was made yesterday that some one had stolen a valuable gold chalice from the altar of the Holy Cross Catholic Church. It is supposed that the theif hid in the church last night and did the robbery after the congregation had departed. Considerable damage was done to the altar by the tearing away of the chalice.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

This will be a week of rival attractions for golfers. Nearest this city will be the first annual invitation tournament of the Wykagyl Country Club, of New Rochelle on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, contestants to qualify in four sixteens at thirty-six holes, medal play. All match rounds will consist of eighteen holes. The programme also calls for the usual Saturday handicap.

The Wykagyl Club is proud of the fact that it owns all the land upon which the course extends. This eighteen-hole circuit is one of the most difficult in the metropolitan district, presenting a variety of situations that have met with the approval of all visitors. The turf was never in better condition than now, and intending competitors will be welcome to practise there this week. Entries should be sent to James R. Turner, No. 49 Wall street, New York, not later than tomorrow. The handicap and tournament committee consists of Louis C. Goetting, chairman, C. W. Inslee and T. V. Bermingham. In a one-day open tournament held last season at Wykagyl Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, established an amateur record of 77.

Over Boston way the third annual championship tournament of the Women's Eastern Golf Association will be held today and tomorrow over the links of the Oakley Country Club. The tournament conditions call for thirty-six holes of medal play, eighteen each day.

Side attractions will consist of a driving competition tomorrow morning and an approaching and putting contest the following forenoon. Miss Mary B. Adams, of Boston, won the Eastern championship at Atlantic City last year after a tie with Miss Fanny C. Osgood, the former title holder.

An idea of the play which can be expected at Oakley this week can be gathered by looking at the summary of the last two championships. Many of the same players will be competitors. Last year the conditions were so bad that the scores were higher than at Nassau the year before and higher than they are likely to be at Oakley. It is expected that 90 will be broken at Oakley with the course in its present condition, although the playing length is relatively longer than at either Nassau or Atlantic City.

The result of the recent amateur championship tournament of Great Britain furnished another severe upset, especially to the old guard, which is slowly but surely being forced to the background. E. A. Lassen and H. E. Taylor, winner and runner-up were not given a place on the English team in the annual match between England and Scotland that preceded the tournament. The Scotch team won five matches to four, making its sixth victory in seven years.

Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, remained at Englewood Sunday, the scene of his latest triumph, and, with Oswald Kirkby for a partner, played in a four-ball match against W. C. Shoup and Jock Hobens, the Englewood professional. Travers and Kirkby won by 2 up at eighteen holes.

BASEBALL.

The Clinton Avenues will play the West Ends at Somerville on Saturday, and in view of the fact that Scotch Plains defeated the county seat boys last Saturday, the contest should be interesting.

McGraw has decided to hold on to "Iron Man" McGinnity and he plans to give him more work in the future.

Princeton is picked to win all her home games with Harvard and Yale.

According to the expert writers, Billy Gilbert is a better second baseman than a big majority of the big leaguers. McGraw evidently made a mistake when he released him.

Fred Burchell, of the Boston Americans, is one of those quick return pitchers after the manner of Patsy Flaherty.

The old suggestion about numbering baseball players like a lot of mannikins has been revived. It is considered a poor idea. The more of that sort of thing there is the less will grow the personal interest in players.

The Plymouth (Mass.) High School has one of the fastest young pitchers in New England this year in Bennett, a southpaw who, while only seventeen years old, has outclassed many older pitchers. In the last three games he pitched for the high school he struck out 18, 21 and 19 men, respectively. His speed is wonderful, considering that he is slight of stature. When not pitching he plays third base, and here too he plays excellent ball.

The Trenton Y. M. C. A. team will be here Saturday to meet the local association nine on Crescent Oval. This will be the first contest between these teams this year and it should bring out a big crowd. The Trenton boys have one of the fastest teams in the State, being made up of college players. Manager Listman will have his aggregation out for practice this week so that it will be able to make a good showing.

On Saturday, June 20, the Orange Y. M. C. A. team will be here for a league game and during the next two weeks the locals will have their hands full if they want to hold their own.

In passing an ordinance providing for a bond issue for further street improvements at this time, over the Mayor's veto, no fault can be found with the Common Council. The members of that body are chosen to legislate for the best interests of the municipality and knowing the high standard of the body, no one will question their sincerity of purpose. The city's fathers today compare favorably with any similar body that ever represented the taxpayers for each and every one of them is a conscientious and able servant of the people.

We do not recede, however, from our position that the mayor was right in vetoing the ordinance for the very reasons stated in his message. It was indeed flattering to find among his honor's supporters such a representative body of citizens as was numbered among those who urged the city fathers to heed the mayor's warnings. After the intelligent taxpayer peruses the list of names of those who remonstrated against the bond issue, we feely sanguine that he will agree that there was much merit in the mayor's argument.

These are but a few of the supporters of his contentions picked at random from the communications received by the Common Council last night: Alexander Gilbert, George P. Mellick, C. W. McCutchen, H. S. Runkle, George H. Goddard, J. W. Jackson, Dr. Ellis W. Hedges, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, A. M. Runyon, Otto Arens, A. G. Hagerdorn, William M. Sandford, W. A. Garrigues, H. M. Stockton, Samuel Huntington, O. T. Waring, George A. Chapman, J. Stephen Higham, Mrs. Caroline T. Lincoln, William Palmer Smith, J. Herbert Case, William H. Wherry, George E. Hall, Percy H. Stewart, John Bushnell, John M. Whiton, Issac W. Rushmore, James T. Closson, Joseph W. Sandford, David E. Titsworth, William M. Stillman, Charles H. Detwiller, Charles W. Eoff, D. S. Alpaugh, Frederick W. Yates, F. W. Wallace, John F. Harman, Charles H. Hand, Frank H. Martin, Henry P. Talmadge, Thomas M. Day, Julius E. Erickson, George E. Stillman, DeWitt C. Ivins, W. B. Wadsworth, H. G. Runkle, W. E. Lowe, Edwin S. Hooley, W. Kaufman, T. J. Mumford, John B. Dumont, Pierre Malli, G. Herbert Condict, C. Wesley Holland, Edward H. Ladd, Jr., G. Wharton Edwards, C. B. Tyler, R. Henry Depew, V. W. Nash, Sr., C. W. Beebe, A. A. Tilney, I. H. Brown, H. C. Dekanatel, J. R. Greason, S. L. Hobbie, Elliot T. Barrows.

James E. Martine is certainly entitled to one good, long laugh on his friend, James Smith, Jr., who controlled the State convention in order that the delegation might not slip away to Bryanism. At the time, Mr. Smith prevented the "farmer-orator" from realizing his cherished ambition to be a delegate-at-large, giving him an alternateship as a booby prize, but as the Newarker has become disgusted and will not go to Denver, the Plainfield farmer most likely will fill the vacancy.

Surely no one should dissent from this expression of opinion on the part of a Paterson exchange: "There is not much likelihood that ex-Governor Franklin Murphy will receive the Republican nomination for vice-president. And it is very fortunate for the Republican party that this is the case."

At any rate, one must be thankful that the Common Council is composed of independent men.

Henry Drake, of North avenue, who several months ago fell down stairs at his home and broke his leg, has so far recovered as to be able to be out on crutches. The broken bones are rapidly growing stronger and Mr. Drake hopes to return to work soon.

BOND ORDINANCE PASSED

who made a strong presentation of facts against the adoption of the ordinance. In the first place he held that the returned postal cards protesting against the intended action, represented all quarters of the city and not any one section. He maintained that in some cases only twenty and thirty per cent. of the property-owners had petitioned for the macadamizing.

"The taxpayers today are seriously considering the question of bond issues," continued Mr. Depew. "In the past, the city has been quite free from such indebtedness, but I realize that this cannot continue. Bonds must be issued if we are to have improvements, but unless great care is exercised the city indebtedness will be increased from $300,000 to $600,000. We previously paid a tax rate of $2.48 on a fifty per cent. valuation, and last year the rate was $1.46 on a one hundred per cent. valuation, which equals $2.92 on the fifty per cent. basis. We are told that the tax this year from the railroads will cause a low tax rate, but the two or three point drop will be increased forty-six points at the present rate of indebtedness.

"The people of the city are always ready for reasonable improvements, but they do not want a big bond issue or high tax rate. It is a mistake to pass a blanket ordinance, when only a few people want an improvement. Plainfield has always had the reputation of being well governed by men who have been carfeul, but this cannot be guaranteed for the future and the Common Council should not establish a bad precedent, which in years to come will be brought up against us. It is infinitely better for the people to suffer a little inconvenience for awhile than to pile up a big bonded indebtedness that will become a burden."

In stating his position, which was in favor of the ordinance, Charles C. Randolph explained that on many occasions streets not petitioned for had been macadamized, and they were in the Netherwood district, too. He agreed with the Mayor regarding bond issues, but he added when the Common Council wanted to issue $30,000 worth of bonds for the new police station not one word of objection was raised.

"I will gladly go over the West End with any member of the Plainfield Protective Association or any one else and prove to him that the improvements in that part of the city are needed," continued Mr. Randolph. "The little children have been obliged to go to school through mud and slush until they are tired of it. In sending out postal cards urging people to protest against the ordinance no opportunity was given them to express a favorable opinion, neither were they asked to do so."

Again speaking on the subject Mr. Montgomery stated that the petitions containing 170 names represented a population of 20,000, and again he emphasized the fact that all but one of the petitioners live on macadamized thoroughfares. He did not believe that it would be legal to require the property-owners to pay their share of the street improvement in advance, as had been suggested.

Mr. Buxton, who favored the ordinance, said that he had made a personal canvass and out of sixty-four property-owners interviewed by him in the Fourth ward, only one objected to the ordinance. That one was a woman who said that if her street was macadamized it would make it a thoroughfare for automobiles and she did not like "the pesky things." Out of the 160 names on one petition he learned that ten live in his ward.

In stating his objections to the proposed improvements, Mr. Tayor said that they were not because they happened to be in the Fourth ward, but because so few had petitioned for them. He did not consider the work to be of public benefit. Mr. Hall shared Mr. Taylor's views, adding that as servants of the people they had no right to spend their money except as they directed. He opposed the ordinance because of the protests against its adoption.

Mr. Mygatt took the position that those who had signed the petitions protesting against the adoption of the ordinance, in some cases own property in all parts of the city and have a right to be heard. He admitted that the arguments of Former Councilman G. P. Mellick in a letter published in The Daily Press had had much to do with forming his opinion for he realized that Mr. Mellick had had considerable experience in city affairs and knew whereof he spoke. He also stated that Mayor Fisk's opinions should be considered as coming from a man who has had a wide knowledge and experience in such matters. He likewise mentioned the names of John B. Dumont, O. T. Waring and others, who had opposed the bond issue. He added that it is a time when everyone is retrenching in expenses and he did not think the Common Council ought to expend $17,000 for such an improvement just now. It should weigh carefully the arguments of Mayor Fisk and others. He was sorry that West Eighth street was included in the ordinance for he would like to see that street macadamized to the city line and he would like to have it so arranged that the work could be done at once and paid for without any delay. In reply Mr. Montgomery said that it must be understood that the property-owners pay two-thirds of the cost and the city one-third, and that by the time the cost is to be paid, four or five years from now everyone may be on the wave of prosperity.

President Tolles also spoke in favor of the ordinance, saying that it had been carefully considered and all had previously agreed to the improvement. He believed that when the work was completed all would be pleased and that the cost would not prove a burden. He had understood that Mayor Fisk concurred in the proposed action and believed that he did until a recent change of heart. In reply to a question as to how many postal cards had been sent out by the Plainfield Protective Association, Mr. Depew said that 1,000 had been used, from which there were 153 replies.

"When Mr. Mellick was a member of the Common Council," said Mr. Gloak, "we talked about a new police station, but he did not object then to an issue of bonds. I think everyone who opposes the ordinance is unduly frightened. The city will have to pay about $6,000 of the $17,000 and from the way some people talk one would think the city was going to the dogs right away."

This concluded the argument and Mr. Gloak called for a vote, with the result as stated. Among those in the lobby during the discussion were G. W. V. Moy, W. S. Angleman, Mansfield Smith and John Dietrich, but they took no part in the debate. Mayor Fisk was an interested listener, but he refrained from giving any opinions.

RATS OVERRUN A VILLAGE.

Driven by Starvation From Closed Tannery Belonging at one Time to Former Plainfielders.

Telegraphic dispatches sent out from Middletown, N. Y., today, state that the village of Great Bend, Pa., is besieged by armies of immense rats and the residents of the place are at their wits' end for relief. The story is of more than ordinary interest locally from the fact that the rodents came from a closed tannery, formerly the property of the Chapot brothers, who conducted the chamois factory near Rock avenue for several years. They moved to Great Bend after the local plant was burned down.

The rats used to feed on refuse from the hides at the tannery but the Chapots sold the place to a trust, which closed it down, and the rodents began to starve. They moved from the tan yard to the village and have been killing chickens and even grown fowls. They are described as being nearly as large as wharf rats and so ferocious that cats are afraid to tackle them.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The local fans will have to do without their weekly ball game for another two weeks, as the local team goes to Flemington Saturday afternoon of this week and play Clinton Avenue at Crescent Oval the following Saturday. After that Manager Alberts' schedule shows nearly all home games for the balance of the season.

There will be an exhibition of school work in several class rooms at the public school tomorrow afternoon between the hours of 3-5. All the parents and friends of the school are cordially invited to attend.

Miss Marion Goodman, who underwent an operation for appendicitis several days ago, continues to improve and will soon be able to leave Muhlenberg Hospital.

John Waltz, a former resident here but now of Siegfried, Pa., has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Louis Morel, of Park avenue.

Samuel Clark, who has been spending several weeks with relatives here, has returned to his home at Muncie, Indiana.

Fanwood Council, R. A., holds its semi-monthly meeting tonight in the library rooms.

The yearly examination for promotion is being held at the public school.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Alletta McDowell, whose father manages the kennels of the Watchung Hunt Club, was badly bitten yesterday about the face and hands by one of the hounds. The wounds were cauterized by the club's doctor and at the last report the child was resting comfortably.

Clarence Taylor, who was recently injured by a self-inflicted gunshot wound, reported at the Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday and after careful examination was told that he might discard his crutches and resume his work.

Miss M. Nevius will be in charge of the prayer-meeting at the Baptist church this evening.

Peter C. McDonough, of this village, is building a new house in North Plainfield.

Archie Steengrafe has bought an automobile.

REFORMED CHURCH TO JOIN VICE CRUSADE.

The General Synod of the Reformed church, which is meeting in Asbury Park, has abandoned the cares incident to the convention and those in attendance have devoted their time to recreation Saturday night a large number attended the Glee and Mandolin Club concert given by Rutgers College in Library Hall, and yesterday morning boating on Deal Lake and trolley trips were the order of the day.

Saturday morning's business sessions was replete with argument upon the resolution offered that the Reformed church join with the other twenty-five denominations which go to make up the federal council of the Church of Christ in America. The first meeting of this council will be held in Philadelphia, December 2 to 8, and delegates to this convention must be furnished with $250 for expenses.

This federation of churches, which is open to thirty Protestant denominations, nearly all of which have joined, is organized for the object of combating vice in all forms. Rev. Andrew J. Walter, of Harlingen, in speaking for the resolution offered, said that in the recent excise battle fought at Trenton between the saloon men and the church contingents, the latter lost because they were unorganized.

The resolution was finally adopted and the following elected as delegates to the meeting of the council: Rev. Dr. John G. Fagg, New York; Rev. Dr. Ame Venema, Passaic; Rev. Irving H. Berg, Catskill; Rev. Edward S. Ralston, Poughkeepsie; Rev. William H. Boocock, Bayonne; Rev. Dr. Isaac W. Gowen, Weehawken; Rev. Dr. George R. Lunn, Schenectady; Rev. Matthew Kolyn, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Rev. Henry Harmeling, South Holland, Mich.

The railroad expenses of synod have amounted to about $1,000 more than was expected. To date the amount spent for fares is $3,755.13.

Special from 'Patcong.

Edwin Bellis, who is one of the local tent-dwellers at "Camp Ram's Horn," Lake Hopatcong, got an involuntary swim Satruday afternoon at the lake as he was about to set out in a boat with Frank Schuck from the dock at Nolan's Point. Bellis' entry into the boat destroyed its equilibrium and both he and Schuck went overboard. They were "rescued" by "Jack" Hall.

NEW TRIAL GRANTED MARTIN AUTO COMPANY

Yesterday was opinion day in the Supreme Court and there were many opinions handed down of the cases argued at previous terms. Of cases in which Plainfielders were interested was the opinion in the suit of Alfred L. Ellis, of Metuchen, against the F. L. C. Martin Automobile Company, in which case Ellis sued the company and at the trial of the case in New Brunswick recovered a verdict against the automobile company and the Martin concern carried the case up. The opinion is by the court and decides that the verdict should be set aside and a new trial granted.

Another case of interest to Plainfielders is the case of Garret G. Durham against the Public Service Company. In this case Durham sued the company to recover damages for injuries received at the hands of the Public Service Company and the lawyers of the Publis Service Company filed a demurrer to the declaration filed by Durham's lawyer, W. V. Moy, and the opinion handad down yesterday by Justice Menturn sustains the contention of the lawyers of the P. S. C. and the costs of the demurrers are placed on Durham.

FEAR RABIES FROM PET.

Woman Let Dog Lick Scratch on Hand Before it Went Mad.

Mrs. Mabel Reed, of Mount Holly, allowed her pet greyhound Belle to lick her hand a few days ago. The dog afterward went mad and Mrs. Reed hastened to New York yesterday to take the Pasteur treatment. She is unnerved by fright. Mrs. Reed was accompanied to New York by her father, William S. Kelly, vice-president of the H. B. Smith Machine Company.

On Thursday last Mrs. Reed was playing with the greyhound. She allowed the dog to lick a needle scratch on one of her hands. On Saturday the animal began to act strangely. It was placed in care of Dr. P. L. Gaunt, a veterinary, who shot the dog a few hours afterward.

Dr. Gaunt carried the dog's head to the Pasteur Institute, and the experts there decided that the animal had been suffering from rabies. Mrs. Reed will remain in New York for twenty-one days, taking treatment each day.

CANNON DAY AT PRINCETON.

Five Hundred Guests Listen to Exercises of Graduating Class.

The commencement exercises at Princeton University continued yesterday with the annual "cannon exercise" of the graduating class, which consisted of an address by the President of the class, Chalmer Martin Hamill; the reading of the class poem, class history and prophecy, the annual joy oration, the presentation oration, in which Roy S. Durstine, the university's funny man, held up the foibles of his classmates for the amusement of the guests, and the singing of the class ode.

At the close of the ceremony each senior smoked a yard-long peace pipe and then hurled the pipe at the cannon. With the singing of the ode "Nassau" the ceremony ended.

More than 500 guests filled the stands erected around the Revolutionary cannon which is buried muzzle down in the centre of the campus.

To Clean a Lace Yoke.

Many people are puzzled by the problem of how the lace yoke of a gown may be cleaned without detaching it from the bodice. If it is washed in the ordinary way, by dipping it into a basinful of soapsuds, the almost inevitable result is that of wetting the material of the gown, the color of the latter staining the lace.

By far the best result, however, may be gained by first rolling a corner of a bath towel into a thick pad and placing this under the lace.

A brush or cloth should then be dipped in a good lather and dabbed over the yoke, the lace meanwhile being well squeezed between the fingers.

If this is repeated with fresh soap once or twice and a dry piece of towel substituted when the original corner is saturated, the cloth or silk of which the bodice is made will be kept perfectly dry.

The Problem of Gloves.

The long gloves of white, black or colored materials are close fitting. They are almost skin tight and must fit the arms perfectly. Comparatively few ornamental gloves are worn, taste demanding something of excellent quality and plain workmanship. The best grade of silk gloves sells for $2.50.

Many prefer the double tipped gloves but the woman who would have her fingers appear neat knows that the pudgy double tip is not conductive to the graceful finger tips so much desired. Fortunately, good silk gloves, if colored, do not lose their color when washed. Washing after washing finds them retaining the same beautiful color and lustre.

A LITTLE ADVICE ABOUT BUYING A KODAK.

"I will get a cheap one to experiment on," says the amateur, "then get a better one after I learn." There is little advantage in this and you will find that it is far more expensive in the end than a good one at the start.

If you really fail to learn the art, then you can sell the good kodak at almost the price you paid for it. A cheap one does cheap work and the repeated failures are not the fault of the artist, but the result of a poor kodak. Take good pictures and sell them. One young man nettel quite a sum of money in a small town making pictures of various streets, driveways, churches, the schoolhouse and places of interest. He sold enough postals and secured enough orders in his own home town to keep him busy all last summer and late into the fall. Good pictures are ready sellers, especially scenes of interest in one's own town.

It is not necessary to go into Niagara or well-known resorts to get good subjects, for the professionals take care of that work, but every city, every town or little hamlet affords its own places of interest and beauty, and the smaller the place the more natural beauty will be found in the rural districts. The nearer to the city life one gets, the more perceptible are artificial places of beauty.

A WANT THAT IS NOT SUPPLIED.

It is time that some enterprising business woman should take advantage of the present condition of utter disregard on the part of business men to cater any longer for clothes and hats suitable for elderly women.

It has come to be a positive hardship for women from 50 on to find a hat to wear in the large shops which have millinery departments, or at the private establishments scattered about the city. In the latter class of shops they will offer to make up a suitable hat, but that is not always convenient for the buyer. The fact is, a large public is by this means irnored and put to disadvantages. No one has yet had the business sense to perceive the present matron's taste and to recognize the modern style in which women of the age referred to desire to dress.

The frumpy, old-fashioned styles will no longer be tolerated, neither do the women of good taste—when grandmothers—wish to appear with hats, gowns and costumes fit for their youngest daughters. The business world of France has always made the dress of a woman of a certain age a perfect study, so that no woman elsewhere is ever so fitly or so beautifully costumed on all occasions.—Vogue.

THE PROBLEM OF THE SMALL BOY.

Striped madras is a favorite material in the suits of the small boy.

The Russian blouse suits are nearly all made with the yoke, sailor collar and general finish of the Peter Thompson.

The stiff Buster Brown collar does not appear as frequently as last year.

An original appearance is bestowed by the diagonal opening of the tunic.

Some of the less mannish coats have the ship band around the arm.

For the boy with the Lord Fauntleroy temperament white reefers are offered.

Black and white and navy blue and white stripes will form correct hosiery for the small boy.

The white-trimmed straw sailor is inflected variously for his wear.

The average hat of this sort sells for about $2.50.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Another new mission chapel, soon to be built in Trenton, will make the number of church buildings in that city nine. The new work is a mission of Christ church.

Captain Mark Bristol, of the battleship Texas, on a visit to his home at Glassboro, was met by the Citizens' Military Band and escorted to his home, where a big reception was held.

All Saints' Memorial church, Lakewood, have received, under the will of Miss Gertrude Leslie, who died last March, her Lakewood residence, the rental of which is to pay the salary of the organist and the choir and to keep the organ in repair.

Charges that Rev. J. H. Clarke, their pastor, had neglected a prayer meeting to attend a theatrical performance, as stated in conference, were branded as untrue in a letter issued at the instance of the officiary of Memorial M. P. church, Camden, yesterday.

On her way home yesterday morning Mrs. Rachel Busch, of 1017 Chestnut street, Camden, saw a three-year-old boy asleep between railroad tracks. She took the little fellow to her home, where he was unable to give his name or address, and he was taken to the city hall.

Christian Swick, an employe of the People's Brewing Company, Trenton, was seriously injured Saturday night by falling into an empty beer vat at the brewery. Swick was working about the top of the vat when he missed his footing and fell in, striking the bottom with great force.

Committed to jail yesterday by Justice of the Peace Walsh, of Camden, on a charge of attempted assault preferred by Mrs. Anna Lulekess, of 1241 Kaighn avenue, Chas. Kaulls said he would blow up the woman's house with dynamite as soon as he is released. The defendant had been a boarder at the house.

"Atlantic City will never go dry," said Water Commissioner Louis Kuehnle yesterday. "Our big new pump, which can supply 12,000,000 gallons daily, is now in working order and will go into commission July 1." The resort uses in summer 7,000,000 gallons daily. In addition to the new pump it has several others in the works on the mainland.

Frank Ashmore, a Trenton boy, was injured Saturday afternoon in one of the first games of the Junior Baseball Association. Ashmore was catching in a game when a foul tip struck him in the face. His nose and lips were badly lacerated and two teeth were knocked out. His wounds were dressed at St. Francis' Hospital.

When her cousins, the Misses Myrtle and Velma Pitts, from Philadelphia, went to visit her last night, Mrs. Walter Fowlk, of Vineland, took them for a drive about the pretty town. The horse became unmanageable and, turning abruptly, threw all three violently to the hard road. All were picked up bruised and bleeding. Mrs. Fowlk is still in a critical condition, with perhaps a fracture of the skull.

Four men and two women, the latter mother and daughter, were immersed in the Delaware river at Fifth street, Gloucester, Sunday afternoon, by Rev. William Pickersgill, of the Helping Hand church of that city, assisted by Rev. August Diehl. A crowd of more than 1,000 persons witnessed the ceremony, and the little congregation of the church gathered on the banks of the river sang old-time hymns.

OGDEN IN HAVANA?

Missing Keyport Man Said to Be Practising Law There.

Asbury Park, June 9.—Benjamin B. Ogden, former Mayor of Keyport, who disappeared in September, 1903, after indictments had been found against him for embezzlement, it is said here on good authority, is practising law in Havana, Cuba, under an assumed name. Ogden, it is said, has been seen in Havana within the last two weeks.

At the time of his disappearance he was in charge of the settlement of several estates aggregating $100,000 in value. Many persons in Keyport and other towns and cities in the county suffered through their dealings with Ogden, and it is believed if no official steps are taken to apprehend him a movement will be made by his creditors with the hope that a portion at least of their losses can be recovered. Ogden was Republican leader in Keyport. He ran for Surrogate and was defeated. Shortly afterward his partner, Judge Alferd Walling, who was also his brother-in-law, committed suicide.

New and Simple Motor.

Rahway, June 9.—A. Gibby Spencer, of this city, has patented a four-cycle motor (not rotary valve), with neither cam, camshaft nor eccentric, using half-time shaft only for commutator. The innovation simplifies the motor so that it is almost impossible for it to get out of order, and more than 50 per cent. of the parts now used in four-cycle motors are eliminated, not only for very much reducing the weight and wearing parts, but lessening the cost of construction. It will be especially desirable for use in motor boats because of its simplicity and light weight, while it can also be used to operate street cars, run machinery, etc. The patent was issued on June 4.

MRS. ELLER DROWNED.

Body of Elizabeth Woman Found in River by Boys.

Elizabeth, June 9.—the body of Mrs. Jacob Eller, wife of the former proprietor of Union Grove, on Elizabeth avenue, was found floating in the Elizabeth river near Pearl street yesterday afternoon by three boys. Stephen Pittius pulled the body out of the water with a boat hook and summoned the police.

At headquarters is was identified by Patrolman Lehman. There were no marks on the body to indicate violence, and the theory most generally held is that she accidentally fell into the water. This would seem to be plausible, except for the fact that she was seen walking on Elizabeth avenue yesterday morning and such an accident seems unlikely to have happened in broad daylight. Members of the family spurn the suggestion of suicide. Mrs. Eller was nearly 50 years old, and had lived with her son at 815 Elizabeth avenue. The body is still at the morgue, but has been claimed.

FOUND DEAD IN LOT.

Autopsy Decided on to Find if Assault Caused New Brunswicker's Death.

New Brunswick, June 9.—The body of Thomas Martin, of 53 Remsen avenue, employed as foreman for a department in a local manufactory was found yesterday morning in a lot at Easton avenue and Hamilton street. The man had evidently been dead some time.

The boy who made the discovery notified passersby and an examination of the body showed the face covered with blood, which caused the police at first to suspect foul play. It was later learned, however, that Martin was subject to hemmorrhages and may have died from that cause.

It was ascertained that Martin was invited Sunday night to attend the christening of the child of an Italian employed in the department over which Martin had charge, and he consented. It is thought that returning home Martin was seized with an attack of coughing and expired. County Physician Suydam was notified and decided to make an autopsy to determine if Martin's death was due to foul play.

PHILLIPSBURG MAN IS DYING OF ODD DISEASE.

Phillipsburg, June 9.—C. Wesley Mutchier, until recently a State superintendent of public construction work, is dying at the home if his brother, former Assemblyman Samuel B. Mutchier, at this place, from a peculiar disease. Mr. Mutchier was performing his official duties at the new Normal School at Montclair Heights, when taken ill, three months ago, and his condition has baffled his attending physicians ever since.

His affliction was lately pronounced to be hardening of the muscles, which reached the critical stage Sunday. The patient is now starving to death. Gradually he lost control of various parts of his body until Sunday, when his throat became paralyzed.

VOTING MACHINE FIGHT.

Begins at Hackensack Today at Special Election.

Hackensack, June 9.—Hackensack is the first town in New Jersey to take action on the voting machine question and today a special election is being held to determine whether or not voting machines will remain or be removed.

There is a strong sentiment in the community against the retention of the machines, people of all parties objecting to their use. The voting Machine Trust has had its literature sent here to influence the minds of voters, and its local agents are active today in trying to stem the popular tide. If Hackensack rejects the machines every municipality in the county that has been equipped with them will follow suit.

Fort's Summer Capital.

Trenton, June 9.—Soon after his return from the Republican convention at Chicago, Governor Fort will move the seat of the State government to the "summer capital" at Sea Girt. He and his family will occupy the Little White House on the camping grounds of the National Guard. The place has been handsomely renovated and considerably enlarged.

Guardsman Honored.

Trenton, June 9.—Governor Fort was notified yesterday that Captain George R. Koehler, of Company M, Second Regiment, National Guard of New Jersey, has been selected by the War Department at Washington, to take the United States army examination for second lieutenant. He is directed to report July 1 at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

No Bail for Whitmore.

Jersey City, June 9—Before Judge Carey yesterday Alexander Simpson, counsel for Theodore S. Whitmore, withdrew his application for bail for his client. He said that his withdrawal was due to the fact that he was certain that his application would be refused. He said he would wait until the case is reopened in the September term.

Rahway Republican Outing.

Rahway, June 9.—The Rahway Republican Club will go on their first annual outing Tuesday, June 23, over the Lehigh Valley Railroad to Bellewood Park.

CHAPTER II.

Old Love and New.

"WELL, here I am," announced a tall, slender youth, entering the deserted salon a few minutes later with Nish at his side. "I'm here at my country's call, all right, but my confounded country doesn't seem to be on hand to meet me."

His graceful walk was not wholly steady, and there was a flush on the handsome young face. The late arrival was Prince Danilo of Marsovia, attache of the Marsovian legation at Paris. As a diplomat he had scarcely scored a success, for he had a delightfully normal aversion to work and a simple, unfailing joy in the amusements of Maxim's and his clubs.

"I'll hunt up his excellency at once," Nish was assuring the prince. "Are—are you quite in condition to see him, if I may"—

"Oh, I'm all right enough," yawned Danilo, "only I forgot to go to bed last night. If I could reel off a few yards of sleep"—

"Perhaps I could find you some place to"—

"I'd prefer a desk, if you can find one. I always sleep best at my desk. But I suppose"—

"There is a couch, sir, over in the corner behind the palms. How would that do? You could get a nice nap there, and in a little while I'd find his excellency for you. But, sir, if I may say so, why do you waste your life in dissipation when you might marry and settle down? Just think, now! Would not a dear little wife and a home of your own be better worth while than all your clubs? I leave it to you if"—

"You leave it to me?" retorted Danilo. "Then I make it clubs."

"But, if I may say so"—

"You may not," interrupted Danilo, crossing to the couch and throwing himself at full length among its cushions. "By by! 'If you're waking, call me early?'"

He spread a handkerchief over his face and in a moment was sound asleep, leaving Nish to tiptoe out in search of Popoff.

For a few minutes no sound was audible in the empty salon save the distant swell and fall of dance music, punctuated by the slumbrous prince's heavy breathing.

Then Natalie hurried in with De Jolidon. Both looked anxious.

"How careless of me!" the ambassador's wife was exclaiming. "Where can I have dropped the miserable fan? If my husband should pick it up and find on it those words you were foolish enough to write— I wonder if I left it in the niche on the stairs when we were sitting there. Let's go back and see."

They turned back, almost colliding with Sonia, who was entering. Cascada directly behind her.

"Oh, Mme. Sadowa," asked Natalie, "you haven't seen anything of a white ivory fan? I've looked everywhere, and"—

"No," replied the widow; "but I'll look in this room if you haven't made a thorough search here already."

Natalie, thanking her, hurried back with her cavalier to the stairway. Sonia idly began her search, but Cascada interrupted her.

"That can wait," he pleaded, "but I cannot. Won't you hear me?"

"Certainly," assented Sonia cheerfully. "You are going to propose, aren't you?"

"Ah, you read my secret!"

"It required little cleverness. You men are all alike."

"But no man ever before loved as I love!" protested Cascada, his voice unconsciously rising in his emotion. "You are all the world to me. Until I met you I never thought I could"—

"Ring off!" grumbled Danilo in his sleep, vaguely bothered by the loud voice.

"NEVER! NEVER! NEVER!"

"Some one is here!" she whispered, pointing toward the hidden couch.

"You are mistaken," contradicted Cascada, "and even if it were so I am willing for all the world to know how I"—

A long, blissful, sonorous snore from the couch.

Sonia laughed, her eyes alight with amusement.

"Snoring and romance don't go well together, marquis," she observed, "and as the snoring doesn't seem likely to stop the romance must. You say you are in love with me, and I know you are in love with my fortune. Good-by."

"You misjudge me cruelly!" Cascada protested.

"Oh, no, I don't! Men are all alike. Goodby."

As the discomfited marquis made his way wrathfully from the room Sonia mischievously crept across to the couch. There lay the man, sound asleep, his face still covered by the handkerchief. Sonia touched his hair.

"Scat!" roared Danilo, giving his head a shake that let the handkerchief fall from his face.

"Danilo!" gasped the widow, starting back.

At sound of his name the prince sat up, dazed and blinking. His wandering eyes fell on the woman, and, with an exclamation of utter amazement, he stumbled to his feet and stood staring incredulously at her.

"Sonia!" he exclaimed. "Sonia!"

Then, recovering himself, he bowed stiffly and said:

"I beg your pardon, madame."

"No; I beg yours," she replied. "Pray go on snoring."

"You don't remember me?" he asked, surprised.

"Not in the very least," she answered, moving away.

"Yet you called my name."

"You were asleep then. That was different."

"And now I am awake—to the joy of seeing you again."

"The joy is all your own. Is it so surprising to find me in Paris? I am here enjoying my wealth—and freedom!"

"I congratulate you on both, especially the freedom."

"Yes, freedom is one of your fads, I believe," remarked Sonia, "especially freedom from marriage. Do you still make a habit of avoiding marriage—at the last moment?"

to save you, also to give you a chance to save your country from bankruptcy. I want you to marry."

"To what?" cried Danilo.

"To marry—beautiful woman, my boy—twenty millions—Mme. Sonia Sadowa! Hey?"

"Never!" returned Danilo, angrily, as he rose to end the interview.

"Then a Frenchman will marry her, and her fortune and our country will be ruined."

"I won't marry her," repeated Danilo, "and she won't marry me. But for my country's sake I'll keep any Frenchman from marrying her."

"But how?"

"You shall see!"

CHAPTER III.

The Garden Fete.

THE gardens of Mme. Sonia Sadowa's villa, just outside Paris, were gayly decorated for a lawn fete. The grounds were dotted with laughing groups of brightly dressed men and women, for Sonia had particularly requested that all her Marsovian guests wear their picturesque native costume, and the result was a veritable kaleidoscopic carnival of color, a perfect riot of gorgeous hues and striking figures.

Ambassador Popoff, his long, lean figure draped in vivid green, was pacing the alleys of the garden near the entrance gate, pausing nervously now and again to scan late arrivals in search of some one. At length he descried the man he sought. Nish was just bustling into the grounds, and the ambassador at once beckoned to him.

"Now, then, Mr. Nish," cried Popoff as soon as the little clerk had shambled within earshot, "I told you to bring Prince Danilo here and not to leave him for an instant until"—

"He wouldn't let me stay," explained Nish. "He says he won't come. He's giving a party—if I may say so, a very gay"—

"And for the sake of a lot of pleasure seeking idlers the prince refuses to obey my orders and come to Mme. Sonia's?"

"Yes, your excellency. He positively refuses to come. And when I say 'positively' refuses I— Here he is now!"

Danilo, resplendent in the uniform of a Marsovian captain of hussars, strolled nonchalantly forward, with a careless nod that quite ignored the ambassador's glare of reproof at his lateness.

"I understand, prince," began Popoff coldly, "that you positively refused to obey my"—

"So I did, so I did," assented Danilo cheerfully. "But at the last moment I changed my mind and my clothes, and here I am. I've postponed my party for an hour or so. You see, I remembered my promise to help you scare away from the widow any Frenchman who seemed inclined to make love to her. That's why I came."

"Good!" approved Popoff, rubbing his hands gleefully. "Very good! And where do you expect to begin?"

THE GREAT DANGER IN CHEAP CANDIES.

In no part of the world is the candy-eating habit so universal as in the United States. That pure and well-made sweets are wholesome and sometimes highly nourishing is now admitted by physicians of the highest standing. Nothing produced by any of the great manufacturers of confectionery need, therefore, be looked upon with suspicion. But the cheap candies sold by street "fakers," or in obscure shops in the poorer quarters are often extremely dangerous. The ingredients used are always of the most doubtful character, and, as analysis have proved, are sometimes highly poisonous.

From time to time instances occur of children being poisoned by eating these common candies. There have been several deaths from this cause, both in Philadelphia and New York, and recently an important prosecution was levied against a cheap form of chocolate that was sold in the streets of London. Under the searching examination of analysis these caramels revealed a remarkable concoction, the most important feature of which was paraffin wax manipulated in such a way that it resembled the creamy contents of chocolate. The wax is a highly injurious and extremely noisome compound, but it had been colored and flavored until it was fairly palatable.

More recently the Durham inspector under the sale of food and drug acts drew attention to the grave injury acompanying the consumption by children of sweets containing chloroform. The worst offenders in this instance, it appears, are those known as "chlorodyne gums" and "chlorodyne lozenges," usuaully sold in England at a penny per ounce. When the composition of these gums and lozenges was ingestigated it was found that they contained 5-10ths and 5-100ths mimim of chloroform, respectively, per gum and lozenge. Other sweets of the chocolate variety were found to be equally dangerous, since they contained alcohlol in varying quantities.

All of which makes it plan that neither English nor American children should be permitted to eat any form of cheap confectionery. The long-established firms of chocolate makers produce sweets that are perfectly wholesome, but the common candies of the street should always be rewarded with suspicion.

THE PROBLEM OF LITTLE GIRLS' CLOTHES.

If you have, for instance, two or three little girls, whose ages are between 1 and 6 years, you may find the following suggestions valuable in the selection of their midsummer wardrobe:

Get them plenty of "rompers" for playtime.

These garments are made from madras, gingham, chambray and cotton cheviot.

Cotton voile makes up into very pretty dresses for small girls, and so does dimity. The latter material, however, demands more in the way of laundering than the voile.

Only simple models should be selected. A 2-year-old child will have the one-piece style, falling straight to the hem from as hort yoke formed of the material and cut square at the neck. There is nothing prettier as a finish than beading, threaded with narrow black velvet around the neck and confining the puff sleeves.

An older girl could wear little French frocks very simply made, the long waist and short skirt being joined under the threaded beading. This is an especially pretty model for dimity.

Cotton vile in a small check could be made up as guimpe frocks.

The little girl's best dresses could be of lingerie, white dotted Swiss or mull, trimmed with a little lace and a touch of dainty ribbon.

For wraps, get serge in brown, gray, old rose, cream or dark red and make it up in Red Riding Hood style, with the hood lined with fancy silk, carrying out the color of the cloth.

This model is extremely practical, for it can be put over a pretty frock without crushing it and hood part often comes in most convenitnely.

Nice hats will not be much in demand, but pretty sunbonnets or sun hats should be taken.

There should bep lenty of socks or stockings, as the case may be, also dainty shoes and slippers.

Pretty ribbons for hair or sashes should not be forgotten, as these must always be fresh, and quite a number will be wanted.

Given dainty shoes and fresh, crisp hair ribbons, the frock becomes only of secondary importance.

ELKS ENJOIN NEGROES FROM USING THE NAME.

Elks of the United States are interested in the final outcome of a temporary injunction which Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morschauser at White Plains has granted to the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of the Empire State against the Improved Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the World, a colored organization, restraining it from using the name, title, emblem, or membership card of the Elks.

The temporary injunction was obtained by John F. Brennan, a lawyer and a member of Yonkers Lodge of Elks, and Lawyer Thomas F. Curran of Lodge 1 of Manhattan, who represented the Grand Exalted Ruler of the State of New York. Today Lawyer Brennan appeared before Justice Morschauser to argue a motion for a permanent injunction against the colored order, and the matter was adjourned until Wednesday morning. The Elks seek a perpetual injunction against the colored lodge, which they say is in violation and repugnant to the corporate rights of the B. P. O. E.

If the decision of Justice Morschauser is favorable, similar actions in all other States of the Union will be started by the Elks, whose rules provide that only white members shall be admitted.

CITY HIGH BEATS PINGRY

Thirteen Errors Lost Commencement Game for the Elizabeth Boys, 8-3.

SPECIAL CAR FOR ROOTERS.

Half a Hundred P. H. S. Pupils Cheered the Local Nine on Pingey Field—Snyder's Good Work.

Heeled to Elizabeth by half a hundred pupil rooters, in a special trolley car, the Plainfield High School baseball team trimmed the strong Pingry nine in their commencement ball game at Pingry Field yesterday afternoon. The score was 8-3 and the Elizabeth schoolboys lost the game by making thirteen errors.

The special car left the local stand at 2:30 in charge of Motorman Walsh and Conductor Roberts. There were fifty-one pupils on board and the trip was enlivened by cheering and singing. The rooters occupied seats on the stand together and gave lots of vocal support to the nine.

The first inning was a bad one for Plainfield. Two of the four hits off VanZandt were secured by the Pingry batters in this session, and these with a couple of errors netted two runs. In the second, however, the local boys tied the score, Murphey and Snyder coming home on some loose playing in the field. After that Pingry began to make errors regularly and Plainfield had no trouble scoring. Some careless handling of the ball in the sixth let Pingry score the third and last run.

VanZandt pitched steady ball except for part of the first, and was generally given good support. Snyder excelled for the local nine, scoring four runs out of five times at bat. He got the longest hit of the game in the eighth, sending the ball over the right field fence for two bags. In the field, he took eight chances without an error. The score:

PLAINFIELD A. C. WIN TWELVE INNING CONTEST.

The Plainfield A. C., defeated the Central F. C., on Saturday by a score of 6 to 5, in a contest replete with brilliant plays. In the ninth inning with two out and three men on bases, Doughtery hit the ball for a home run and tied the score. It was not until the twelfth inning that the Plainfield A. C. won out by tallying a run. McFadden's backstop work was a feature, throwing out nine base runners at second. The line-up and score by innings:

Summer Wraps For Children.

Many wee tots are frequently dressed for picturesqueness when a child wears a lingerie coat that is not intended to give additional warmth, but a touch of beauty to a dainty costume. When this is the case one can consider a variety of materials for the little affair. First one ciuld select a pretty persian lawn and have it trimmed with narrow valenciennes lace, made over a silk lining.

Whatever the coat is, a lingerie hat or bonnet should match. Often these coats are made all of white over a white silk lining, which is really the prettiest. The edges may be lace trimmed, though not too elaborately.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Fanny Van Cleef, of East Millstone, has been visiting Mrs. Garret Eick, of East Third street.

Prof. Paul Douglass, of Upper Montclair, who has been visiting here for a few days has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place, will leave this week for their summer home at Mohegan, Maine, where they will remain until fall.

Mrs. Walter Roll and daughter, Mildred, of New York, who have been visiting Mrs. Roll's father, Paul Symons, of East Third street, will return home tomorrow.

Cashier D. M. Runyon, of the First National Bank, and family, are spending a few days this week at Newport, R. I., visiting Mr. Runyon's sister, Mrs. Ollif and her family.

Mrs. F. M. Ward, of the borough, for many years contralto soloist at the First Baptist church, sang there on Sunday in place of Miss Gertrude Hinz. She was given a cordial reception by her many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Leggett, who have been occupying the Moore property on Central avenue, have leased George A. Chapman's residence on Stelle avenue and will move there soon. Mr. and Mrs. Chapman will spend the summer abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey F. Stout and Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Zimmerman, of this city, are in Philadelphia, where Mr. Stout and Mr. Zimmerman are attending the annual convention of the National Association of Circulation Managers of America. They are registered at the Bellevue-Stratford.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Christian church will meet at the chapel tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Commencing next Sunday, the session of the Sunday school of Trinity Reformed church will be held in the morning at 9:30 o'clock, instead of the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The children and teachers of the Primary department of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, including the members of the cradle roll, will hold their annual party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Murray, of 205 West Ninth street, at 2:30 o'clock, Saturday afternoon. If the day is stormy the party will be held in the church parlors.

TO ADORN THE NECK.

Tucked stocks are trimmed with finely knife plaited ruffles around the lower edge.

A shirtwaist jabot is made with a one-inch band of insertion that reaches from the neck to the waist line. It is trimmed on each side with a three-inch duffle of mull. At the top is a littlefan shaped bow made of fluted mull.

A white linen collar is slit on both sides of the centre front. It is finished like beading around the edge and a double bow of ribbon is inserted at the inside, the bow ends protruding through the slits. Between the bows are three tiny buttons the color of the ribbon.

There are so many novelty ties that it is impoissible to convey the idea of beauty they really display, for surely the art of bow tying has never been so perfect as today. For example, there is the round collar composed entirely of very fine pin tucks. It is made of white material At the top is a one-eighth-inch band of flowered ribbon. This protects the white collar top. At the front on the lower edge is attached a dainty double bow of flowered ribbon.

To Insure "Real" Puffs.

Girls, save your combings.
Your reward will be puffs.

Those you buy ready made are sometimes a pretty close match, but seldom exact. Try making your own. Stow away in a bag or box all your combings, no matter how little. When you have a generous accumulation take it to a reliabe hair dresser and have puffs made. Don't try to curl it round your finger yourself, the old-fashioned way. It breaks the hair.

The little bit of extra trouble each day will soon reward you with puffs of "your own" at an infinitesimal outlay of money.

Bourne's Horse Wins.

"Mrs. Bessie Fullum," the brown mare belonging to H. A. Bourne, of Westfield, won a pretty running race at the Driving Park from "Mysterious," the brown mare belonging to Louis Batjer, of Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon. L. E. Waring acted as judge. The winner did the three-quarter mile course in 1:19. The stake was $100 a side.

MISS MARY DALY NOW MRS. MICHAEL F. HIGGINS.

Miss Mary Daly, of Summit avenue, and Michael F. Higgins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael A. Higgins, of West Front street, were married at St. Joseph's church on Manning avenue, the borough, at 6 o'clock last night, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Rev. Father Miller, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Agnes Daly, as bridesmaid, while David B. Doyle, of East Fifth street, was the best man. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride and later the couple left for a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in this city. Both the bride and groom have a host of friends in the city and borough. Mr. Higgins has been engaged in the livery business here for many years. He is a brother of Roundsman Maurice Higgins, of this city.

Pleasing Recital by Pupils.

A piano recital was given last night at the residence of Miss F. May Grant, 320 East Seventh street, by her pupils. Of the class who deserve special mention are Masters Aaron and Leo Hirsch, who opened the evening entertainment with a duet rendered in a brilliant manner. One of the youngest pupils, Lillian Steuer, captivated her audience with several pretty selections and responded to three encores. A prize was given to Miss Fannie Berkowitz for rendering her teacher's composition, "Hope Thou in God," with great expression and finish. The audience appeared pleased with the distinct and sympathetic playing with which each number was rendered during the evening.

Ivy Poisoning in Borough Schools.

Ivy poisoning is epidemic in the Somerset Street School and several of the pupils have become infected. Miss Helen Stahlberger, of the German department, has developed the most recent case reported. The poisoning is light in all cases and all the pupils are able to continue with their school work.

Major and Mrs. L. M. Simonson, Divisional officers for New Jersey, will conduct their farewell meeting in this city in the Salvation Army hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. All are invited.

Lawn Social by Epworthians.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church will hold the last social of the season on the lawn of Nelson A. Miller, Washington avenue, North Plainfield, Friday evenning.

SOMERVILLE'S ARMORY WILL COST $25,000

All the members of the Somerset County Freeholders were present at the regular meeting yesterday at Somerville. Colonel Dungan appeared before the board and stated that an appropriation of $25,000 had been made by the State for the erection of an armory. The committee on armory of last year was discharged and a new committee appointed, consisting of Messrs. Fitzga, Codington, Demler, Hoagland and Gibson.

The bill of Thomas G. Winsor for $25.67 was referred back to him to be itemized.

It was reported that the book typewriting machine in the Surrogate's office cannot be rebuilt. The matter was referred back to the proper committee with power.

A delegation of taxpayers from Bernardsville township appeared before the board in the interest of the construction of the road from Basking Ridge through Madisonville to Van Dorn's mills. F. C. Sutro, ex-Senator Childs and others spoke in behalf of the same. The petition will be filed upon the approval of the Township Committee and the guarantee of the 10 per cent.

Messrs. Lutkins, Demler, Codington and Smith were appointed a committee to examine a bridge built in North Plainfield township by John C. Cooper, and to report at the next meeting.

William Reed and T. Cleary of New Brunswick appeared before the board and claimed the reward of $250 for the arrest of James Williams, who was recently convicted for stealing a horse. Messrs. Fitzga, Smith and Gibson were appointed a committee to investigate and report.

Mr. Bunn, chairman of the Committe on Lunacy, stated that his committee had visited the State Hospital in Trenton, and gave the names of the inmates from this county. Approved.

The board approved the action of Prosecutor Reger in offering a reward of $250 for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of John Bussl.

The County Collector was authorized to borrow $20,000 in anticipation of taxes.

Messrs. Bunn, Powelson and Lutkins were appointed a committee with power, for the construction of guard rails on the road from Bernardsville to Oak Stump.

Next Tuesday at 11 a. m. the board will meet at Bedminster to inspect bridges.

CEDARCROFT SCHOOL GRADUATES MEXICANS

The spring term at the Cedarcroft School on Park avenue, closed last night with the annual dance, under the auspices of the school management, for the students and their friends. The affair was attended by many young people, including several former students. The rooms were attractively decorated with flags, school banners and flowers, including a profusion of daisies. Music for the dancing was furnished by a trio, piano, 'cello and violin.

The school closed today followed by the departure of the boys to their homes. Among the students are three Mexican boys, Julio Zetina, Rafael Diaz, Infante and Salvador Sanchez. The last named will return to the school next year, bringing his brother with him.

Rafael Diaz Infante, who belongs to a prominent family in Mexico City, has completed the course of study here and next year will go to Germany to make a special study of civil engineering. Julio Zetina, who has also completed the course of study, will remain at his home in Mexico City, where he will engage in business with his father.

Louis B. Gardner Weds Tonight.

Miss Marie Anita Dieterich, daughter of Mrs. Marie Dieterich, of New York, and Louis B. Gardner, of Watchung avenue, this city, will be married this evening at 7 o'clock in St. Paul's Episcopal church, New York, by the Rev. Dr. Bosch, the rector. The ceremony will be witnessed by a large number of guests, including a number of Plainfield people. The couple will reside in New York, after their honeymoon.

Auto Collides with Bike.

An automobile driven by L. D. Ruld, of New Brunswick, collided with E. Dreyer, of Somerset street, riding a bicycle, at Front and Somerset streets, last night. The wheel was somewhat damaged but Dreyer escaped injury. Each man claimed the other to be to blame for the accident.

Miss Madeline Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Reed, of Myrtle avenue, has returned from Ingleside School, New Milford, Conn., having completed her studies there.

EXCISE PROBERS' PLANS

Fisk Commission Holds First Formal Session at Jersey City, July 6.

ALL MEETINGS ON MONDAYS.

Hugh F. Fox Offers Body Use of Liquor Interests' Statistics—Communications Are Requested.

Gov. Fort's determination to make the excise inquiry a thorough one was evinced at Trenton yesterday, when the commission got together and laid out an exhaustive summer campaign of investigation. At the suggestion of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, of this city, president of the commission also formulated a series of questions, which will be sent to all excise authorities in the various counties with the demand that they be answered at once.

The dates for the sessions at various points were made out as follows:

Jersey City, July 6; Paterson, July 13; Newark, July 20; Trenton, July 27; Camden, Aug. 3; Bridgeton, Aug. 10; Atlantic City, Aug. 17; Asbury Park, Aug. 24; Phillipsburg, Aug. 31.

The sessions have all been called for Mondays in order that, should the commission find good leads, they may be continued all the week.

Municipal authorities have been invited to attend the sessions and submit such evidence that they may have. All organizations for the suppression of the liquor traffic or its regulation, the brewing interests, as well as the liquor dealers, have been invited to attend every session. All citizens interested have been asked to send communications to Peter Backes, the secretary of the commission in Trenton. Particular attention has been ordered by the Governor to the cry of "open" Sundays at the seashore resorts, and the keepers of hotels are flocking here to protest against so rigid an investigation. They will not be accommodated.

The commission also decided to meet with the State Prosecutors' Association at Asbury Park on July 11. The prosecutors are on record as favoring a rigid enforcement of the Bishop's law.

The commission has accepted the offer of Hugh F. Fox, of this city, Secretary of the State Brewers' Associatian to make use of its liquor statistics.

There is a division among the liquor interests as regards this commission, one faction believing that out of the inquiry will come good to their interests, and the other faction doing everything possible to hinder the work.

TWELVE GRADUATES AT SCOTCH PLAINS

County Superintendent of Schools J. J. Savitz will make the address to the pupils of the graduating class at the Scotch Plains grammar school Friday night. Rev. W. R. Mulford, rector of All Saints' church, Fanwood, will offer the invocation at the exercises, and the pupils will receive their diplomas from President F. W. Westcott, of the Scotch Plains Board of Education. The program will include instrumental and vocal numbers by the graduating pupils, and the singing of the graduation song by the class.

Twelve pupils, eight of whom are girls, will receive diplomas. The graduates are the Misses Emma Elliott, Viola Garda, Leora Henry, Bertha Knowlton, Bertha Miller, Anna Louise Outwater, Margaret Reynolds, and Jessie Spencer, and John Brick, William Manning, Louis Morel and Vincent Terry. S. D. Townsend is principal of the school.

Henry Voehl a Benedict.

Miss Ella Vanderite Dilts, daughter of Peter Dilts, of Trenton, became the wife of Henry Andrew Voehl, son of Jacob Voehl, of Somerset street at the Grace M. E. parsonage last night. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Orra J. Shoop at 6 o'clock. Miss Tina Voehl, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the best man was Frank Merritt. Only the necessary witnesses were present at the wedding and the couple left immediately for Atlantic City. After a honeymoon sojourn there, they will take up their residence on North avenue.

Ides' Pal Gets Into Jail.

Grover Edwards, of Westfield, a partner of the late Dutch Ides, the Jesse James of New Jersey, together with Harry Lester, John Platt and John Kom, were arrested at Roselle Park, yesterday by Central railroad detectives and taken before udge Noah Woodruff, who sent them to jail. They were wanted for car trespassing.

WORST BOY JAILED AGAIN; THIS TIME EMBEZZLEMENT

William McCarthy, the fourteen-year-old youth who rather glories in being called "Plainfield's worst boy," and who persists in committing petty crimes, was arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning on a charge of embezzling $2.26 from W. S. Crook, the South avenue grocer. The complaint was made by Chief Kiely and is only one of several that stand against him but was specified in order that he might be held for the Grand Jury. When the charge was read to him, he shrugged his shoulders and remarked simply:

"That's right; I took the money."

He was committed without bail and will be taken to Elizabeth this afternoon.

The boy is the son of very respectable parents who have tried in every way to curb his vicious tendencies but without success. In the past six months he has been in court on numerous occasions and the chances given him to do better were just so much sympathy thrown away. A few weeks ago he was sent to jail to wait the action of the Juvenile court on a charge of incorrigibility but was released on parole by Mrs. Williamson, the probation officer, without the knowledge of the local police. The first they knew of it was Sunday night when a telephone message was received from Paterson stating that he had been arrested there as a runaway.

The boy was brought home by his father Monday morning and Monday evening was caught by Patrolman Saffron when seventeen policemen clambered over a freight train at the North avenue station in search of suspects for the Somerville robbery and assault case. He was found in under a pile or iron in a box car and told the officer he had taken a ride to Bound Brook and was on his way home.

TWO SUSPECTS HELD IN SOMERVILLE ASSAULT CASE.

William Conway and Thomas Carberry, of Elizabeth, two of the suspects arrested by the local police in connection with the robbery and murderous assault on Thomas Heller at Somerville, Monday afternoon, were taken in custody by County Detective George Totten, of Somerville, last night. He believed that they resembled the description of the assailants sufficiently to warrant their being held. The other men caught were brought before Judge Runyon this morning and were let go after a warning to keep off railroad trains unless they paid their fares.

Heller, the victim of the assault, recovered from his stupor at the Somerset Hospital yesterday and last night was able to go to his home in Elizabeth. It was thought at first that he was fatally injured by being thrown off the railroad bridge to the dry bed of Peter's brook, twenty-five feet below.

POLE HURT BY ACCIDENT IN PILING METAL CASTINGS.

While engaged in sorting castings in the yards of the Alumnium Plate and Press Company's plant at West Dunellen today, Nicolo Dvak, a Pole, was struck on the head by a piece of metal tossed by his fellow workman, Jim Succino. The two men were working on opposite sides of a pile of castings, tossing the metal to the pile. Dvak was struck by a casting tossed wild and thrown over the pile.

The Pole was knocked out by the force of the blow and was removed to the shop, later being taken to his home on East Front street, in a carriage summoned from Dilts' livery in Dunellen. The injury consisted of a slight scalp wound, and the man will be "on the job" again tomorrow.

Berlowitz Declines the Job.

Special Patrolman Harry Berlowitz, who, on Monday night, was appointed dog catcher by Mayor Charles J. Fisk, declared today that he would not take the job. He has no desire to spend the summer months catching canines and has so informed Mr. Fisk. This means that it will be necessary to make another appointment.

Local Firm Wins Suit.

Judge R. P. Von Minden today granted judgment to Sachar and Sachar in action in tort against James Stickley, of, Dunellen. The case which has been once postponed, was heard at New Market. The firm brought suit for delayed payment on some furniture and the judgment was for $7.42 and costs.

Will Report on Junior Convention.

William Walters, who is representing Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., at the annual convention of the Funeral Benefit Association of the order in Richmond, Va., will return home tomorrow night. He will present a report at the meeting of Somerset Council Friday night.

COUNTY POLITICAL SLATE

E. R. Ackerman to be Renominated for Senate and C. B. Pierce for Assembly.

KIRKLAND FOR SHERIFF?

Two Candidates for Moxon's Place—Doubtful as to Kirstein—Smith's Statement.

That State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman is a candidate for renomination for the Upper House from Union county became known today although the Plainfielder has declined to define his attitude as yet. At the close of the session, Mr. Ackerman's friends declared that he was not anxious to take a second term because he had practically devoted a large part of his time during his first term to the State's affairs at the cost of his own business interests. It was pointed out that his entire summer last year was spent abroad at his own expense collecting data for a Senate committee and that during the last session his whole time was taken up with Legislative work.

Recently, however, in response to urging on the part of friends throughout the county it is said that Mr. Ackerman would be willing to accept a renomination provided there was no opposition and that the party wanted him for the place. County Chairman Frank H. Smith said today that so far as he had heard everyone is for Mr. Ackerman and that wherever he went he had found the Republicans enthusiastic over him. Smith said that he had heard of both J. R. Covington and A. W. Schwartz being boomed in Elizabeth for John R. Moxon's place but that Moxon had never said to him whether or not he intends to seek a third nomination.

"There seems to be a general understanding throughout our county" said Smith, "to do nothing until after the Chicago convention. In the meanwhile the booms of various prospective candidates for assembly, sheriff and other offices will continue to grow, I expect, but the people will be in a better position to decide better on candidates after the National convention. As far as Senator Ackerman is concerned, I have never heard of a single reason being advanced in opposition to his renomination."

As for Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford, it is said that there will be no opposition to his renomination as he made an enviable record during his first term. The same cannot be said of A. F. Kirstein, of Rahway for he cut little figure at the last session and it is possible that a stronger man will be picked for the place particularly as it is Presidential year.

There are two candidates for sheriff so far. The man who has the inside track so far is Captain Robert Kirkland, of Elizabeth, one of the most popular men in Union county. W. H. Wright, of Rahway, is also in the field for the same plum.

WATER COMMISSION AT WORK ON ITS REPORT

The Municipal Water Commission held a protracted session in the office of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, last night, when there was a full discussion of the report which is to be presented to the Common Council within a short time. Mayor Fisk attended the conference and became acquainted with the details of the matter under discussion.

The report will be divided under three separate headings, the engineering, legal and practical, giving the opinions of the commission on these points. It is expected that the report will be of unusual inetrest and great value, although in the opinion of those in touch with the matter the commission will probably not recommend a municipal water plant for Plainfield.

Board Signs Diplomas.

Diplomas for the fourteen graduates of the North Plainfield High School were signed by the officers of the Board of Education at a special meeting held last night after the cooking class dinner. Miss Myra Cheesman, of New York city, was appointed assistant to Miss Alice Martin as principal of the Watchung School next term. Miss Cheesman has been pianist at the school during the past term.

Jeffery Boys Graduated.

Richard Jeffery and Fred Jeffery, sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffery, of Berkeley Heights, were among those graduated from the Primary to the Grammar grade of Public School, No. 1, Berkeley Heights, last night. The commencement exercises were held in Berkeley Heights Lyceum, under the direction of William Woodruff, principal.

N.P.H.S. COOKING CLASS DINES MAYOR AND BOARD

The cooking class of the North Plainfield High School acted as hostess to Mayor Samuel Townsend and members of the borough Board of Education last night, serving a bounteous dinner, cooked by themselves, in the manual training building. A napkin ballot after the meal showed that it was the unanimous opinion of those present that the teaching of cooking is the most important branch of the school work.

Covers were laid for a dozen diners, and those present were Mayor Samuel Townsend, President James R. Joy, Supervising Principal H. C. Krebs, Tax Collector George F. Brown, and H. A. Woodruff, C. L. Nichols, Herbert Case, J. H. Cooley, E. S. Boyer, Edmund Rushmore and District Clerk Albert Steiner of the Board. C. W. McCutchen, was the only member of the Board absent, and sent his regrets with a mass of flowers which were used as table decorations.

Everything about the meal was the work of the pupils. The table was set in the manual training building, where the free hand drawing by the drawing clas decorates the walls. The table cloth and napkins were hemmed by pupils of the fifth and sixth grades, and the bread was baked by pupils of the seventh and eighth grade. The menu and place cards were the work of the drawing class and the menu follows:

Canape a la Somerset, Consomme a la Townsend, radishes, olives, Miller sticks, flounder a la Krebs sauce Brown; roast lamb a la Joy, peas en Case, Nichols potatoes, Boyer sauce; "Our ship comes in," Rushmore salad, Woodruff sauce; Cooley pudding, cakes, demi-Steiner, toasted crackers, cheese. "Our ships" were dainty sherberts of lemon, served in half lemons and surmounted by tiny masts and paper sails.

Miss Helen Ingersoll, teacher of the cooking class, presided, and at the conclusion of the meal the Mayor and President Joy expressed the appreciation of the diners in short speeches. The actual cooking was done by the Misses Edna Swain, Rae Voorhees, Edith Schenck, Nettie Steiner and Bessie Conroy, and the Misses Florence Fowler, Ida Englehardt, Helen George and Lois Diman acted at waitresses.

EAST JERSEY BAPTISTS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Representatives from thirty-three churches in Plainfield, Elizabeth, Westfield, Rahway, Newark, New Brunswick and other nearby places in the State attended the sixty-seventh anniversary meeting of the East New Jersey Baptist Association in the Roselle Baptist church, yesterday. There were morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

Rev. John V. Ellson, pastor of the East Baptist church, Elizabeth, was chosen moderator, and the Rev. W. F. Meyerand, of Newark, as conference clerk.

One of the important items of business was the decision against the adoption of the unification plan, which would have united all of the societies and organizations of the church in the conference program and made the sessions extend over two days. The plan was disapproved because a majority do not favor a two days' session. Rev. W. T. S. Lumbar, chairman of the committee to consider the matter, reported adversely on the proposition, which was the sense of the committee.

The annual conference sermon was preached at the morning session by Rev. Edward Wilson, pastor of the Emanuel Baptist church, Newark and at the closing session last night, Rev. George B. Lombard, of Newark, made the address.

Held for Juvenile Court.

George Suydam and George Blount, two West End boys, were arrested by Patrolman Saffron, yesterday, for stealing cherries and committing depredations on the Burt property at Seventh street and Lee place. They were committed by Judge Runyon this morning to await the action of the Juvenile court. Blount has been in the city court for various offenses five times since last September.

Petit Jury Discharged.

The petit jurors appeared in the Somerset courts before Judge Schenck yesterday and as no more cases were ready for trial they were discharged for the term, with thanks. Louis Jackson, who had previously pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, was sentenced to two months in the county jail.

DROWNED IN BRICK POND

Seized with Cramps While Bathing, Wm. Harper Sinks Before Helpless Friends.

ALL NIGHT SEARCH FOR BODY.

Recovered at 5 o'clock this Morning by Captain Frederickson—Victim Was an Expert Swimmer.

Seized with cramps while bathing in the old brick yard pond on Leland avenue, near the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp late yesterday afternoon, William Harper, seventeen years old, sank in a treacherous hole twenty feet deep and was drowned. Twenty-five companions saw him throw up his hands and call for help but were powerless to aid him. The body did not come to the surface after the first disappearance and only after consistent grappling on the part of the police all night was recovered at 5 o'clock this morning by Captain Frederickson.

Young Harper was the son of William J. Harper, of 545 East Third street, and was employed as a painter's apprentice by James Hansen. He was at work all day yesterday on a house opposite the Netherwood camp and on quitting for the day decided to go to the brick yard pond for a "cool off dip." He was an expert swimmer and after going all the way across the sheet of water, turned to paddle back. He was directly in the middle when the fatal cramp caught him and rendered his lower limbs useless. The pond is fed by springs and it is believed that a sudden change from partially warm to extreme cold water caused the contraction of the muscles. The place has been a favorite "swimming hole" for several generations of East End boys and a number of other drownings have occurred there in the same way.

Witnesses to Harper's mishap gave the alarm and Chief Kiely went to the scene with several policemen. They adopted the ordinary methods to get the body from the water but all met with failure. Superintendent Amos Andrews, of the water works, finally located it at 8 o'clock and brought it to the surface with a grappling hook but it slipped back as several pairs of hands were stretched out to receive it. A boat was anchored over the spot and Patrolman George Dobson, who is thoroughly at home in aquatics, dived repeatedly to get the victim but the depth and extreme cold water five feet from the top baffled his efforts.

Captain Frederickson joined the searchers late last night because of his familiarity with the bottom of the pond. He lives a short distance away and had located the deep holes when the water was let out for clay digging. His knowledge served the purpose and the body was brought up with a grappler just at a period when the men were getting exhausted and plannnig new methods.

The victim was popular with his companions in the East End and was a member of L. W. Randolph's Sunday-school class in Faith chapel. Beside his parents he is survived by two sisters and a brother.

The funeral will be held at the parents' home on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

CATHOLIC PRELATE VISITS MOUNT SAINT MARY'S

Bishop McFaul, of Trenton, and Monsignor Fox, of Trenton, were in Plainfield a few days ago and visited Mount St. Mary's College, in company with David T. Kenney, with a view to learning what progress had been made. They both expressed themselves as being well pleased and while the exact date for the institution and dedication of the college cannot be determined at present, it will take place early in September, when the students will begin thir course of studies.

Possession of the college will be taken by the Sisters during the latter part of July or first of August and they will at once begin the work of preparation for the dedication in the fall so that everything will be in readiness for the event.

Miss Milne Wedded in New York.

Miss Adele Milne, for several years teacher of the kindergarten at the Somerset Street School, became the wife of Dr. Henry R. Linville, of New York city, at a home wedding in New York city last night. Only the relatives and close friends of the couple were present at the ceremony, which was a quiet affair. The couple have gone to California for their wedding journey, and Professor Linville, who is biology lecturer for the New York schools, will give a lecture course at the University of California summer school.

Mrs. Stewardson, of Fanwood, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. D. Malcolmn Nicoe, of Montclair.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

The professional golfers of the local clubs have received with delight the news that the metropolitan open championship will be played this year. It will be held at the Baltusrol Golf Club, near Short Hills, from September 24 to 26. The long Baltusrol course will offer excellent opportunities for a fine test of golf, and all of the leading professionals will be entered.

The Ridgewood Golf Club has offered the use of its links to the members of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association during the entire season on all days except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

The Western Pennsylvania golf championship will be held in the fall this year, and the course of the Allegheny Country Club has been selected for the tournament from September 30 to October 3.

The Ekwanok Country Club of Manchester, Vt., will be the scene of several big events this year. The first open event will be held from July 23 to 25 for the Taconic cup. The President's cup competition will come from August 12 to 15, and the Ekwanok cup tournament September 10 to 12.

John G. Anderson, the Massachusetts champion, is the only member of the State association rated at scratch in the association's new handicap list. A. G. Lockwood, A. M. Reid, who is also a metropolitan golfer; P. M. Whittemore, and W. C. Chick are on the one handicap mark. About 2,500 golfers are rated.

H. Chandler Egan, the Chicago golfer and ex-National champion, was beaten in the final round for the Southern golf championship by Nelson Whitney of New Orleans, the holder of the title by 4 up and 3 to play. Egan joined the Louisville Country Club to qualify for the Southern tournament.

The leading local golf tournament of the coming week will be the open event of the Wykagyl Country Club at New Rochelle, beginning tomorrow and continuing through Saturday. Four sets of sixteen will qualify in the 36-hole medal play round.

The Griscom cup competition will take place tomorrow and Friday over the Oakley course. Although this trophy was first presented in 1900, it was not until 1902 that the Boston women competed with their metropolitan and Philadelphia rivals. In 1902 the total number of holes up counted, but the Nassau system prevailed in the two following years, while in 1906 and 1907 the scoring was by one point for each match.

During the six years it has competed the Boston team has won four times, the Philadelphia team once and the metropolitan team once.

BASEBALL.

"Iron Man" McGinnity demonstrated on Monday that he is not all in my any means. Pitching against the St. Louis Cardinals, he succeeded in preventing them from scoring a run, and he allowed but six hits. Guess he will stay with the Giants awhile longer.

The famous Trenton Y. M. C. A. team will be here on Saturday and play a championship game with the local association team. The Mercer county aggregation is composed of college players and the contest will doubtless be a good one.

Clinton Avenue needs a good catcher if she intends to hold her own with other teams in the State. With all due respect to Moffett's efforts, he is not strong enough for the position. Last Saturday he permitted nine stolen bases, a sufficient number under some circumstances to lose a game. "Billy" O'Loughlin was never guilty of that.

On Saturday the Clinton Avenues will go up against the West Ends of Somerville and there is sure to be something doing in that town. It will be the first time these teams have met and the result will be watched with interest. Captain Martin will be prepared to give the Somervilles a run for their money.

Scotch Plains will try conclusions with Flemington at the Hunterdon county seat on Saturday. The teams are evenly matched and a fine contest should result. Ortleib will do the twirling for the 'Plains and Joe Alberts will be behind the rubber.

Better team work should put the local Y. M. C. A. team in the running for the State Association championship, and the players should exhibit a little more ginger. Manager Listman has a good string of players and there is no good reason why they should not give a good account of themselves.

There was consternation among some of the fans Saturday night when a well-know sporting extra reached Plainfield with the information that Yale had defeated Princeton by a score of 3 to 2, when the truth was the reverse. The Daily Press bulletin had the correct score, as usual with the return of the games,

Why attempt to scuttle the ship by backing Franklin Murphy for the vice-presidency?

It has resolved itself into a question of "who's who" inasmuch as both John Kean and J. Franklin Fort have each declared the name of the chairman of the New Jersey delegation.

After Mr. Fisk gets through holding excise commission meetings in various cities, he should invite his colleagues to visit "The City Beautiful" where the liquor problem has long since been solved.

As Attorney General Robert H. McCarter has announced that he will take steps against railroad grade crossings as they are menaces to life, residents in the neighborhood of Rock avenue may at last look for relief.

Fagan and Record Withdraw Suits.

Ex-Mayor Fagan and ex-Corporation Counsel Record, of Jersey City, have withdrawn their libel suits for $25,000 each against Police Commissioner Mitchell. At the close of the trial of Police Captain Cummings, who was dismsised from the department, a dismissal that was sustained by the Supreme Court on Monday, Mitchell read a dissenting opinion from that of the majority of his colleagues and alleged that the charges were a poltical conspiracy to get rid of members of the police force who were antagonistic to Mayor Fagan to make room for men who were followers of the Mayor.

Starving in Vacant Lot.

Trenton, June 10.—Thomas Phifer, of Union street, was found lying helpless from starvation in a lot on Third street yesterday by a policeman. It is believed he had been in the lot at least five days. He was taken to St. Francis' Hospital, where he was given nourishment. He said he got out of work, and, after a futile search for employment, went home, to find and children gone. There was nothing in the house to eat, and he started out to beg for food, but fell exhausted.

PETER SCHLICHER BRINGS SUIT TO RECOVER $20,860

The second trial of the suit of Peter Schlicher of Trenton, against Thomas R. Allen to recover $20,869 was begun yesterday morning before Judge Lloyd in Mercer Circuit Court. The first trial lasted four days and resulted in a disagreement.

Both sides are represented by an imposing array of legal talent. Attorney-General Robert H. McCarter, Lindabury, Depue & Faulks and William Ralston Sweeney, the latter a former resident of Plainfield, are appearing for Schlicher, while Allen is represented by Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., Hagaman & Able and former Vice-Chancellor John T. Bird.

The controversy had its origin in 1902, when it is claimed Schlicher was solicted to exchange a mortgage and other property for some stock of the State Telephone Company, Freehold Telegraph and Telephone Company and the Red Bank Telephone Company. According to the testimony of the witnesses for the plaintiff yesterday, negotiations looking toward the deal were conducted for several weeks between Schlicher and R. H. Page, of Princeton. The witness says that an agreement was finally reached in the office of Charles O. Vanderbilt, at Princeton, whereby Schlicher exchanged cash, a note of Page's and mortgages for two mortgages and a number of shares of the Freehold Telegraph and Telephone Company, the State Telephone Company and the Red Bank Telephone Company, owned by Page. The properties exchanged were valued at $20,860.

Mr. Schlicher, when on the stand, endeavored to prove that the stock was worthless. He stated that the lines of the telephone company, which ran from Trenton to Newark via Bound Brook, only had squatters' right on the ground they occupied. He says that the greater portion of the lines traversed the tracks of the Easton and Amboy Railroad Company, and ejectment could have been made in thirty days.

Vice-Chancellor Edwin Robert Walker, who was next called, stated that he acted as receiver of the State Telephone Company, and that the concern had no assets so far as he could ascertain. He said that it was a dry receivership.

Mr. Able then introduced as evidence a former agreement asserted to have been made by Schlicher and Page, but Schlicher repudiated the signature as being his.

Counsel for the plaintiff offered in evidence the correspondence between Schlicher, George Atkinson, of New York; Charles L. Patterson and W. S. Shirk, a broker of Baltimore, regarding the value of stocks and the possible sale of them to Shirk.

DOG CURFEW FOR MONTCLAIR AT FIVE DOLLARS A BARK.

A measure has been introduced for passage by the Montclair Town Council requiring that when the town bell rings at 9 o'clock at night all dogs shall cease their barking and remain as quiet as a Democratic Vice-Presidential candidate until 6 o'clock the next morning. The new ordinance does not stipulate this in the above language. It is couched in legal terms and entitled "An ordinance to control barking and biting dogs in the town of Montclair."

It is directed at the owners of the barking dogs more than at the animals themselves, for it provides that the punishment shall be visited upon the former. The ordinance, which was presented by Alderman Charles H. Hartshorne, a lawyer, provides that in case any resident of Montclair allows his dog to bark between 9 p. m. and 6 a. m. he may be fined $5 and $10 for subsequent barks. Another section of the ordinance reads that "no one shall allow his dog to attack or bite any one on the public streets," and imposes a penalty of $5 for the first offence. The second offence will be bad for the dog, for the ordinance stipulates that when a dog bites a person the second time it must be destroyed and the owner is liable to a fine of $10.

Opinion is divided as to whether the act will be passed.

BIGAMIST TO BOOT..

Got No. 1's Money and Also Savings of No. 2.

New Brunswick, June 10.—When Morris Levinson came here a few years ago and married Mollie Chadus and took the $400 which she had saved up and opened a tailoring establishment, she did not know that he was really Morris Levine and that he had another wife, who had been trustful to the extent of $250, living in Brighton, Mass. But such is the charge that is now made. Mrs. Levine is expected here today to press a charge of bigamy against the man.

The tailor's duplicity would not have been discovered had not Levinson abused his second wife here. She caused his arrest. Levinson pleaded illness at the jail and was removed to the hospital where it was said that there was nothing the matter with him, and he was sent back to jail. Then the authorities looked into his record to see why he was so anxious to get away and heard about the other wife in Massachusetts.

MASTER BAKERS MEET.

All of the Officers Except One Reelected in Jersey City.

Jersey City, June 10.—the third annual convention of the New Jersey State Association of Masters Bakers was held at Schindler's assembly rooms, Central avenue and Charles street, yesterday. About 100 members were present, most of them accompanied by their wives. These officers were elected: William E. Cutler, president (reelected); F. Bickel, Trenton, vice-president, to succeed L. J. Jacquin, of Elizabeth; E. Knapp, of Elizabeth, treasurer (reelected); J. F. Kieckle, of Jersey City, secretary (reelected).

The appointment of the legislative and other committees was left in the hands of the president, who said he would announce the committees later on. The delegations included numerous Newark master bakers.

PLATFORM IS MAPPED OUT.

Attorney-General of Ohio Gets Points from Washington.

Washington, June 10.—Wade H. Ellis, Attorney-General of Ohio, who has been in daily conference with the President and Secretary Taft regarding the platform to be adopted at Chicago, left last night for home, carrying with him a draft of the planks for the Republican platform that are desired by the President and the Secretary of War. Mr. Ellis denied that Secretary Taft was trying to frame a platform for the convention, and explained that it had been the custom of national conventions to consult the prospective candidate regarding the party platform.

After a brief stay at Columbus, Mr. Ellis will go to Chicago to lay before the platform committee the views of the President and Secretary Taft.

Bar "The Merry Widow" Waltz.

Roller skating, the "Merry Widow" waltz, cakewalks and other forms of diversion in the pavilion and the ballroom must be shelved if the United States is to keep abreast of other countries in the terpsichorean art. This was the keynote sounded yesterday at the twenty-fifth annual convention of the American National Association of Masters of Dancing, which met at Chicago. The waltz and the two-step will be retained. The new dances to be introduced and accepted have not been decided upon definitely. The typical American dance, the barn dance, has been officially recognized by the convention.

Don't Want Voting Machine.

A committee made the rounds of the voters in the first and fourth districts at Bridgewater township, Somerville, yesterday for the purpose of getting signers to a petition for the abolishment of the voting machines. Nearly every person approached attached his signature to the paper with pleasure, as the voters of both parties in these districts have for a long time been antagonisitc to the voting machines.

THE FORUM.

As to Colored Elks.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Like the majority of colored people of this city, I have been a constant reader of your paper, which I must admit seems to make a manly attempt to be on the square. May I ask you to give your views as to whether a negro has not the same right as a white man to be an Elk.

W. M. W.

(The Grand Lodge of the B. P. O. E., is the proper authority to decide your question. Just before the recent convention of the order in Philadelphia, we believe it was announced that prosecutions would follow any atempt on the part of colored people to wear the Elks' insigna or to represent themselves as members of the body.—Editor.)

Appeal for Unemployed.

Editor, The Daily Press:

During the present financial depression when thousands of men are out of work, it has been frequently stated by the press and at public meetings that if the idle men of the cities were willing to go into the country, farmers would be able to give work to these unskilled, unemployed men on their farms.

The conditions of last winter still exist, and the number of unemployed men is still large. These men come to the office of the Joint Application Bureau, 105 East Twenty-second street, New York, and beg for work. Many of them have no home, and there are few city positions in which they can be placed. Possibly if these facts should be brought to the attention of your readers, they might secure needed labor at reasonable wages, and so relieve distress.

We shall be glad, should any of your readers desire to communicate with us with this end in view, to send (passage prepaid at our expense, to be refunded out of their first wages) such men as we believe could fill the positions wanted. We would investigate to the best of our ability the qualifications of each man, and would try to send the best man, in each case, for the work desired.

It is almost impossible in the great majority of homeless cases, to thoroughly establish the truth of the statements made to us, so it can be readily understood that we would not wish to incur any responsibility for their conduct or honesty; we could simply do our best to ascertain the facts.

We have investigated the cases of many of the men who have applied to us, and have received favorable reports from their former employers.

May we ask you to give space in your publication to this letter, so that the opportunity of securing labor may be conveyed to your readers.

CHAS. K. BLATCHLY,
Superintendent.

DIVES INTO QUICKSAND.

Only Leg Visible When Friends Arrive and Pull Him Out.

Hoboken, June 10.——John Shannon attempted suicide Monday night by plunging headlong into the quicksand march at the foot of Eighth street. His act was seen by Michael Fitzpatrick and Charles Thomas, who rushed to the spot and saw one leg stick out of the mire.

Although they knew that the swamp was filled with quicksand and that to wade in it might mean their sinking out of sight, both Fitzpatrick and Thomas dashed for the leg, and, grabbing it, pulled Shannon out. It was ten or fifteen minutes after he was gotten to dry land before Shannon could talk, and when he had regained consciousness he attacked his rescuers and made a desperate attempt to dive into the swamp again. Both knew Shannon, and although he was raining blows on them as fast as he was able, the pair held him until his frenzy had passed and he was willing to go along with them quietly.

No amount of cross-questioning could make Shannon divulge the cause of his wanting to leave this world, and the only regret he expressed for his actions was that they caused Fitzpatrick and Thomas to ruin their shoes and trousers.

CAPTAIN SHOOTS AT COPS.

They Were Hunting Burglars in Neighbors' Back Yard.

Bayonne, June 10.—Mistaken for burglars, who have been operating extensively in the residential section, Sergeant Edward Jonas and Patrolman James McDonald, who were hunting for burglars, and were in plain clothes, were fired upon at 2 o'clock yesterday morning.

They were searching the yard of William H. Marion's residence, at 12 East Thirty-ninth street, when a dog belonging to Captain William Kavanagh, who lives in the adjoining house, heard them and began barking. This awoke Captain Kavanagh. As he looked out his bedroom window and saw the two men in his neighbor's yard one of the men said "Sh." Kavanagh got his revolver and fired a shot to scare the men. He succeeded.

"Don't shoot again. We're policemen," yelled Jonas. The policemen explained their presence and Kavanagh apologized. The shot awoke the entire block and caused much excitement.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., held its regular meeting last night. It is the intention of the veterans to "call off" their meetings during the summer months.

GIRL AIDED LOVER TO MURDER RIVAL

YOUNG MAN AND BRIDE, HAUNTED BY VICTIM, CONFESS TO AWFUL CRIME.

BENNETT LURED TO HIS DEATH

Miss Zane Then Struck First Blow After Which Others Finished Him—Tragedy Was Deliberately Plotted.

Wheeling, W. Va.—In an appalling confession made the other day by Charles Cook, 18 years old; his wife, Lila Zane Cook, 20, and Joseph White, 21, the police learned for the first time how Charles Bennett, a youthful rival of young Cook before the latter's marriage to Miss Zane, was murdered on Wheeling Island last September.

Mrs. Cook is a descendant of the aristocratic Zane family, which once owned all of Wheeling and the island. She is an athletic girl of unusual beauty and has held a prominent place among the young folk in local society. The police say the confessions of the three agree in every detail and there is no doubt they are telling the truth.

Bennett and Cook were bitter rivals for the hand of Miss Zane, and last summer fought over her. Miss Zane became embittered against Bennett, and then, it is declared, his murder was deliberately plotted.

Bennett was invited to visit the girl at her home on the island. When he called he found Cook and the quarrel was resumed. Bennett left the house, but Miss Zane called to him to wait for her.

"I want to talk with you," she said, according to her confession to the police.

Bennett and the girl walked toward the river. They were standing on the point of the island when Cook and White appeared. Just what object White had in aiding Cook has not been made plain.

As the men came into view, the girl says, she took a large club which lay on the river bank and struck Bennett a blow on the head, which felled him. As he rose Cook rushed forward and struck him with the butt of a revolver, fracturing his skull. Many other blows were dealt the unconscious man, White taking part in the attack.

She Struck Bennett a Blow on the Head.

When life was apparently extinct White and Cook took the body to the edge of the water and tossed it into the stream. It did not sink, and Cook, wading, pushed the body far out into the river.

When Bennett was reported missing by his parents there was a search made by the police. A week later the body floated ashore at Weegee, O. The skull was crushed, and that murder had been done was not questioned.

About this time Cook married Miss Zane, and when the body was discovered the young couple suddenly left Wheeling and went to Detroit. Chief of Police Clemens went to Detroit and had the pair arrested, but they told a straightforward story and were liberated.

Cook brought his bride back here a month ago. Both were haunted by their victim and couldn't get the crime out of their minds. Cook finally told his mother how Bennett had been killed, and his bride confirmed the story. The mother advised them to make a confession, which they did.

Hatched on Flying Car.

York, Pa.—Fourteen births in quick succession occurred upon a trolley car en route from Dallastown to York, to the interest and amusement of a lot of passengers. The new arrivals, all born during the seven-mile run, were 14 fluffy little chicks.

An old hen, setting upon a basket of 15 eggs, was part of an outfit which came by trolley from the lower end of the county. When the eggs began to hatch en route the mother hen was nearly distracted by the untimeliness of the event, but made the best of it, and the peeps were as bright and hearty as though they had opened their eyes in a barnyard.

For Elizabeth's Building Code.

Trenton, June 10.—Building Inspector Edward A. Brennan and Councilman Owen Farrelly, both of Elizabeth, came to this city yesterday afternoon for the purpose of getting information about the building code of Trenton. The visitors talked with Building Inspector Stevenson and City Clerk Salter relative to the code, and expressed themselves as being favorably impressed with it. The visitors say that they will recommend the adoption of a code similar to the one in operation here in their home town.

License to Sell Ice Cream?

Bayonne, June 10.—Recorder Hyman Lazarus today reserved decision in the test case which was brought by the police against an ice cream company of Jersey City, which peddles cream about this city. The police declare that the company has no right to sell cream here without obtaining a license, and yesterday arrested Daniel Hearn, an employe of the company. The venders declare that they are entitled to peddle the cream.

New Tax Ruling on Banks.

The State Board for the Equalization of Taxes sent letters to the county tax boards yesterday holding that it will be necessary for all banks and trust companies to prove to the satisfaction of the local authorities that exempt securities were purchased to represent capital stock, surplus and undivided profits. This action has reference to a recent court decision on the matter.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Yachtsmen at Atlantic City have reported that the bell buoy marking the entrance into the inlet has been jammed and that it no longer rings.

A battalion of forty life guards will go on duty at Atlantic City June 16, which will constitute the first formal opening of the bathing season by the resort. More men will be added as the season advances.

The funeral of the late Colonel Charles M. Sloan, at Mt. Holly, yesterday, was largely attended by insurance men, representative citizens, local secret societies and Relief Fire Company, of which he was president.

While driving on the Bridgeton turnpike, James J. Dunn and Jefferson Pierce, of Millville, were thrown from a carriage by a runaway horse. Dunn suffered a broken collar bone and his companion was badly shaken up.

At the office of County Clerk Patterson, in Camden yesterday, a contract for a new convent at Seventh and Federal streets was filed by Dean Mulligan. It will be two and a half stories high, built of Port Deposit granite.

Forgetting his key and attempting to gain an entrance to the rectory by the window, Rev. M. J. Hagerty, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Bridgeton, fell from a bench, on which he was standing, and broke his shoulder blade.

Mayor McBride, of Paterson, signed yesterday the tax ordinance covering the expenses of the city for sixteen months, the change in the fiscal year from March to July adding four months to the period usually covered by the levy. The expenses for the city are estimated at $1,625,000. The tax rate will be $1.75.

Offering to buy candy for little George Francis, to whom he took a fancy on the street, after being asked for a penny, Thomas O'Brien, a Trenton man, was suspected of kidnapping and narrowly escaped violence at the hands of the lad's father and a party of friends, who did not wait for an explanation.

The Bayonne Civic Club has gone on record as opposed to the proposition of Greenville residents of Jersey City to have the Hudson County Park Commission establish a Bayonne-Greenville county park and will make every effort to get a park for Bayonne alone. The site favored is along the Boulevard, from Thirty-seventh to Forty-sixth street. It skirts Newark Bay.

Bathers yesterday were instrumental in saving the life of a six-year-old girl who wandered into the breakers at Atlantic City and was caught in a big wave that carried her into deep water. The child was May Brock, of Philadelphia, and had become separated from her father. The rescue at Virginia avenue was witnessed by a great crowd of persons on the pier and boardwalk.

The celebration of "German day" by the Atlantic County branch of the German American National Band, took place at Egg Harbor yesterday. A large number of Germans from the county came on early trains. All business places were closed and decorated with German and American flags. In the evening a concert was given at the Aurora Hall, where addresses were made by Judge E. A. Higbee and Mayor William Mall.

After laboring three months to save the only remaining arm of Thomas Leyden of Burlington, physicians have determined that the member must me amputated to save Leyden's life from blood poisoning. A victim of a trolley accident at the car barn in Riverside, Leyden had an arm cut off and the other horribly mangled. Surgeons used every precaution to save the remaining arm, but have taken Leyden to the County Hospital for the terrible operation.

CARPETS OF PERSIA.

Price of Fabric Determined by Number of Knots.

The India Office has received a very interesting note on the carpets made in the Province of Kain, in Persia, from W. Howson, who, says the London Globe, was formerly British agent at Birjand. The carpets manufactured in the Kaimat are of two classes—the Baluch and the Bahluil—which are made by the nomad tribes of those names, and the Drukrshi, which are made in the village of Durukhsh. The first are small rugs of the darker shade of red and blue, with a grounding of brown camel wool, and the designs are very simple. The Drukhshi carpets are woven on upright looms with a white (English) cotton warp, and a woof of wool. Varigated colors are used, and the designs are numerous and effective. The manufacturers always sell by the 'muqata," the equivalent of 6,000 stitches or knots, and as the number of "muqatas" in any carpet cannot be calculated exactly before the carpet is finished, they have to be counted after completion, when the exact price is determined. At the time of ordering half the estimated price has to be paid in advance, and an agreement should always be taken binding the makers to use vegetable dyes, otherwise aniline dyes are certain to be substituted.

George E. Hall, of Belvidere avenue, has returned from a business trip through Connecticut and Massachusetts.

OUT OF THE GLOOM.

Many a Gloomy Countenance in Plainfield Now Lightens With Happiness.

A bad back makes you gloomy.

Can't be happy with continual backache.

The aches and pains of a bad back.

Are mostly due to sick kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys.

They have made many a happy home in Plainfield.

Read what a grateful citizen says:

Mrs. W. W. Mills, of 86 Summit avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I am willing to reiterate my former statement given in behalf of Doan's Kidney Pills, feeling that some other person may be benefitted thereby. I had suffered from a severe pain in the small of my back and across the hips, and if I did any lifting or stooping my back became lame and sore. I used plasters but they only helped me for the time being. I was feeling unusually bad when my attention was called to Doan's Kidney Pills and they were so highly recommended for troubles like mine that I procured a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. In a few days I felt their good effect, and when I had finished taking them I was relieved in every way. I am glad to recommend this reliable remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

THE SHEPHERD PSALM.

The following interpretation of the twenty-third psalm is probably the briefest and most comprehensive and satisfactory sermon in the English language. It is credited to a woman, Mrs. John R. Mott, and is in circulation in a number of religious weeklies:

"The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want."

I shall not want rest. "He maketh me to lie down in green pastures."

I shall not want drink. "He leadeth me beside the still waters."

I shall not want forgiveness. "He restoreth my soul."

I shall not want guidance. "He leadeth me in the paths of Righteousness, for his name's sake."

I shall not want companionship. "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me."

I shall not want comfort. "Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me."

I shall not want food. "Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies."

I shall not want joy. "Thou annointest my head with oil."

I shall not want anything. "My cup runneth over."

I shall not want anything in this life. "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life."

I shall not want anything in eternity. "And I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."—Indianapolis News.

The Copy Boy on Spring.

the day is warm and Pasing fair
The sky is blue and deep the breth of Spring is in the air
And the artists is asleep
nobody's working Very hard the Winds are fresh and soft and the boss is wearing evry Day
The frown that won't come off.

the Tired reporters mosey out
tew stroll off tew a Fire
And the foxy hello gurl is got a hairpin on the Wire the poet whiffs the air as if it was Sum vital drug
And rites a rapsody of spring which is the poets Bug.

the Porter cums along to sweep
a-dragging frum the Hips
And the elivvatur boy's asleep between infrequent Trips the Boss is on the job at 6
his taste is dark and brown
And you have tew rise at 4 a. m.
if you want Tew beat him down.

bijo But it is passing strange
what subtle poisons Lurk in Budding spring tew disarrange
the strict routine of Wurk
It is as if the world had ceased
it's mad pursoot of pelf
by jimminy I wouldn't mind
A few days off myself.

Spring Shopping.

It was the busy hour of four
When from a city hardware store
Emerged a gentleman who bore
6 screens, 50 feet of garden hose
1 rake, 1 wheelbarrow.

This gentleman with air distraught
A big department shop then sought
And there invested in or bought
40 yards mosquito netting,
1 hammock, 1 croquet set.

His business next our hero leads
Unto a place which retails seeds.
It takes to satisfy his needs
24 packages assorted annuals, 10
rose bushes, 1 peck mixed bulbs.

The sun was low behind a hill
When he got out to Lonelyville.
And then his wife in accents shrill
Pointed out that he'd forgotten the sprinkling can, the pruning shears, and the lawn mower!

Tale of a Transportation.

In times of athletic rivalry no sentiment expresses the thoughts of a Harvard man better than "To h—l with Yale." Dean Briggs, of the faculty, and the Rev. Edward Everett Hale, veteran clergyman and chaplain of the United States Senate, once went down to Soldiers' Field together at such a time.

"Where are you going, dean?" asked a friend.

"To yell with Hale," answered the smiling Briggs patriotically and with diplomacy.—Boston Herald.

Thoughtless.

He spoiled his springtime outing
Among the mountain streams a-trouting
Where the poet in his fancy loves to roam.
He had his fur coat and his mittens,
and his earmuffs, warm as kittens,
But he'd left his skates and snowshoes both at home.

Maying.

Oh, get your rubbers out, my love,
and let us two go Maying.
The skies are leaden-hued above and breezes cold are playing.
I think it well that heavy duds should for the jaunt be chosen
I would not have you, likethe buds, benumbed and well-nigh frozen.

Old times, or new times—
We're goin' right along;
An' life is still a-movin'
to the music of a song.
We're in the happy valleys
Where all the violets throng.

The Merry Widow

By ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY HENRY W. SAVAGE

"Sonia, you are unjust. If it had rested with me you should be my wife now, not another man's widow."

"If it rested with you?" she mimicked. "Well; let the whole story rest now. It's forgotten."

"By you, perhaps—never by me."

"Oh, no! I remember it every now and then for my own amusement. But it is hard to think of myself as the little Marsovian peasant maid to whom the dashing cavalry officer, Prince Danilo, was once engaged and whom his rich old uncle at the last moment forbade to marry because of her poverty. How differently that same rich old uncle would look on the match today! Twenty millions is a pretty dowry."

"At least it seems you didn't break your heart over losing me," sneered Danilo.

"No; my plebeian heart stood the shock excellently. I soon found consolation—an elderly husband who lived just one week after the wedding and left me all his wealth."

"Yes; I heard how your father forced you into the match. Next time you can choose a husband to suit yourself."

"Why should I marry again? I am rich, free. I have everything."

"Including love?" he asked, his eyes devouring her fragile beauty.

"I don't believe in love," scoffed Sonia. "All men are alike. Dozens of them are after my money and make love to me because they can't get it without me."

"Men are not all fortune hunters," he denied hotly. "I for one"—

"So they all say. Each says 'I love you!' Each means my fortune."

"They do?" cried Danilo, in rage at the strong insinuation. "Well, here's one that doesn't. I for one shall never say to you, 'I love you!'"

A strange smile stole across her face. She came very close to where he stood; so close that the faint perfume of her hair was sweet in his nostrils; so close that her breath was warm upon his lips; so close that his bewildered soul struggled in vain to hide from the glory in her eyes. Her voice was a musical whisper as she asked:

"You'll never say to me 'I love you?'"

There was an infinity of allurement in the tempting words. Danilo, with a mighty effort, shook off the spell and shouted:

"Never! Never! Never!"

"That's a comfort!" she said coldly, drawing away and seeking to veil her keen disappointment. "But," she added more softly, "why not say it if you really want to?"

"I don't want to!" he declared sulkily.

"And you promise faithfully you'll never say to me, 'I love you?'"

Again she was perilously close to him. Again his eyes tore themselves free from the pleading seductiveness of hers as he reiterated:

"I promise! I'm not going to make a fool of myself or be made a fool of."

"Is that a declaration of war?" queried Sonia.

"No—of friendship. Do you mean to say if I asked you to be my wife you would merely laugh at me?"

"Probably. All men are alike."

"They are not, and in time I'll prove it to you."

Before she could answer the ambassador and several of the guests came into the room. At first opportunity Popoff drew Danilo aside.

"Prince," said he impressively, "you have now been attached to this legation nearly four months and"—

"Few of my attachments last so long," observed Danilo.

"You refer to your love affairs? I have heard of them. They have brought you to the brink of ruin. You are almost penniless. Here is my plan to save you, also to give you a chance to save your country from bankruptcy. I want you to marry."

"To what?" cried Danilo.

"To marry—beautiful woman, my boy—twenty millions—Mme. Sonia Sadowa! Hey?"

"Never!" returned Danilo, angrily, as he rose to end the interview.

"Then a Frenchman will marry her, and her fortune and our country will be ruined."

"I won't marry her," repeated Danilo, "and she won't marry me. But for my country's sake I'll keep any Frenchman from marrying her."

"But how?"

"You shall see!"

CHAPTER III.

The Garden Fete.

THE gardens of Mme. Sonia Sadowa's villa, just outside Paris, were gayly decorated for a lawn fete. The grounds were dotted with laughing groups of brightly dressed men and women, for Sonia had particularly requested that all her Marsovian guests wear their picturesque native costume, and the result was a veritable kaleidoscopic carnival of color, a perfect riot of gorgeous hues and striking figures.

Ambassador Popoff, his long, lean figure draped in vivid green, was pacing the alleys of the garden near the entrance gate, pausing nervously now and again to scan late arrivals in search of some one. At length he descried the man he sought. Nish was just bustling into the grounds, and the ambassador at once beckoned to him.

"Now, then, Mr. Nish," cried Popoff as soon as the little clerk had shambled within earshot, "I told you to

"With the most dangerous suitor. Who is he?"

"Well," replied Popoff confidentially, "I've had my eye on her, and it seems to me that De Jolidon"—

"De Jolidon!" exclaimed Danilo. "Impossible!"

"Why impossible, pray? I think I have as good eyes as any man. I think, sir, I can detect love when I see it. And from the way De Jolidon looks at the widow—why, man, I don't know a single thing that doesn't point toward his being in love with her. If"—

"If I may say so, your excellency," put in Nish, shuffling nervously, "I think I could tell you of a 'single' thing, or, rather," he added, chuckling, "when I say 'single' I mean 'married.'"

"Mr. Nish," interrupted Popoff, "if you can stop wriggling around like an inebriated centiped long enough to talk plainly, will you do me the honor to put your blitherings into plain words?"

"Well, your excellency," stammered Nish, "I happen to know M. de Jolidon is already head over heels in love with a lady who has a husband. He"—

"Mr. Nish," thundered Popoff, "you are demeaning yourself to the contemptible act of talking scandal! Are you aware of that, Mr. Nish? If so, go on talking it and tell me who she is."

"You fool!" whispered Danilo in Nish's ear. "Everybody but the ambassador himself knows it is Mme. Popoff whom De Jolidon loves. Be careful!"

"Well, Mr. Nish," repeated Popoff majestically as he eyed the squirming clerk with lofty majesty, "I'm waiting to hear the name of the lady that De Jolidon is in love with."

"He—he neglected to tell me, your excellency," sputtered Nish.

"Then," decided the ambassador, "I shall discover her by diplomatic means, and when I find who she is she shall use her influence to lure De Jolidon away from the widow. Prince, will you help me in this?"

"Leave it all to me," suggested Danilo, with startling willingness. "Don't try to learn her identity yourself. Let me attend to the whole matter."

"All right," consented Popoff. "It will be a good lesson in diplomacy for you. Perhaps I can put you on the right track."

The ambassador drew an ivory fan from his pocket.

"Last night at the embassy ball," said he, "Nova Kovitch, who used to be one of my attaches, brought me this. He was crazy with jealousy. He'd just picked up the fan; said it was his wife's and that some man had written 'I love you' on one of the sticks. He was going home to beat his wife and make her confess who the villain was when I persuaded my wife to save poor Mme. Nova Kovitch by pretending the fan was her own. Ah, but my wife is a born diplomatist. Nova Kovitch was convinced, and I pocketed the fan for future reference."

Danilo took the trinket from Popoff's hands and read the penciled inscription.

"Why," he said on impulse, "this is De Jolidon's handwriting! How does it happen that he"—

"Then," squealed Popoff in triumph, "it is Mme. Nova Kovitch he loves. The whole thing is absurdly simple when a brain like mine is brought to bear on it."

Delighted with his own astuteness, the ambassador pattered off to join the other guests, leaving Danilo, fan in hand, blankly facing the astounded little clerk.

"Nish," observed the prince, "do you suppose it's possible De Jolidon can be in love with Mme. Nova Kovitch as well as with Mme. Popoff?"

"I'd—I'd like to think so," murmured Nish as he started faithfully off in the wake of his chief. "I'd like to think so. It—it would make it less exclusive, less of a monopoly. And to think his excellency never recognized his own wife's fan! Where ignorance is bliss why read up on divorce laws?"

Laying the fan on a nearby table, Danilo was turning away when a voice behind him called mockingly:

"Still in retreat? So you are afraid of me!"

Whirling about, the prince faced Sonia. She was bewitchingly pretty in the black and gold Marsovian dress that snowed to fullest advantage every willowy line of her figure.

"I'm not retreating," he contradicted, "only skirmishing in light cavalry fashion."

"And you are going away like that? Oh, you stupid man!"

"I can't tell what you mean," he answered, puzzled.

"And I shan't tell what I mean," she rejoined. "By the way," she added, "how do you happen to be here? You declined my invitation."

"I'm here," he replied bluntly, "because I'm making it my business to get rid of every Frenchman who shows signs of proposing to you."

"But why?" she asked in wonder.

"For my own amusement; that's all."

"You—you don't happen to be in love with me yourself?" she asked, a tinge of wistfulness in the light mockery of her tone.

"Certainly not!" he retorted, with suspicious promptitude.

"You're very, very rude!" she reproved. "But since you don't love me you ought to be able to give me good advice about accepting a man I really want to marry."

"Oh!" growled Danilo, chagrined. "Then there is some one you want to marry?"

She nodded.

"Whoever the man is, he's after your money," he sneered.

"No," she contradicted. "He is not—not this one."

"You said all men were alike."

"This man is different. He loves me."

"Then marry him! What is it to me? Marry any one you want to. I don't care. And I'll dance at your wedding. I'll dance till I wear holes through both my shoes."

"You silly boy!" she scoffed. "You're jealous!"

"Jealous?" he raged. "Jealous? I jealous? That's a good one!"

Words failed him, and he stalked away to a nearby summer house, where he paused, lost in seeming contemplation of the little building's architecture.

The neglected fan lying on the table caught Sonia's eye. She picked it up idly and opened it. The words "I love you" met her gaze. Quickly she glanced at Danilo.

"I understand," she murmured to herself. "He vowed he'd never say it to me, so he's written it."

Noting that Danilo's back was toward her, she furtively lifted the fan to her lips and kissed the written words. Then as she restored it to the table she whispered:

"Just the same, I'll make him say it. He shall!"

She crossed to where he stood.

"Have you nothing to say to me, prince?" she asked.

"Only one thing—goodby!"

"Goodby!" she echoed. "You're—you're not going?"

"I leave Paris tomorrow morning—by the first train—forever!"

"Then you won't be here, after all, to dance at my wedding?"

"No!"

"But you promised. And now, I suppose, I shall never see you again, for when I'm married I shall live in Paris."

"I thought you were more patriotic," he sighed. "It seems hard that you should turn your back on your native land, marry a Frenchman and settle here."

"Yet it is what I have decided," she answered. "This is probably the last time I shall wear our native costume or dance our wild national dances. Today's fete is a sort of farewell to old times."

"No; our dances and costumes would not appeal to a Frenchman. Who is it you are going to marry?"

"The engagement isn't announced yet," she evaded.

"Then," he returned, with a shrug, "I suppose I shall never know, for I leave early tomorrow."

"And you won't dance at my wedding?"

"I've told you I would not."

"If you won't," she cried, a sudden inspiration flashing through her mind and lighting her pale face to dazzling beauty, "dance with me now!"

She stretched out her slender white arms with an allurement that no mortal man could resist.

BASEBALL.

The Junior O. U. A. M. baseball team will play the Dunellen Field Club Saturday afternoon on Hope Common. The last time these teams met, two weeks ago, Dunellen won by a score of 3 to 1, and the Juniors expect to score a victory on Saturday.

RED HOT GAME ARRANGED.

Darktown and Blackville Baseball Teams Will Meet on the Diamond Friday Afternoon.

Local colored baseball circles are all agog over a game that has been arranged between West End players and which will take place on Hope Common Friday afternoon at 3:15. The aggregations will be known as the Darktown and Blackville nines and will be composed of the best available talent in the city. John Taylor will captain the Darktowns and his battery will be "Midge" Cline and "Aus" Green, the former a one-time member of the All-Cubans. "Jim" Warwick, formerly of the original Cubans, will captain the Blackvilles and be on the slab, while "Gee Wah" Willis will be behind the bat.

The other officials named for the game are "Jim" Babbitt, umpire, and Tom Bowser, scorer. "Fatty" Marsh has the frankfurter privilege. A side pool of $10 has been put up and the contest is expected to be red-hot.

N. P. H. S.—Westfield Game Off.

The game arranged between the North Plainfield High School and Westfield High School baseball nines for this afternoon, was cancelled yesterday afternoon by the Westfield management.

At 78 Takes a Bride.

Bridgeton, June 10.—William Rice who holds the record as the veteran clas leader in this Methodist Episcopal church in this city, was married Monday to Mrs. Anna Francis Carlisle, of Philadelphia. The bridegroom is 78 years old, and the bride is several years his junior. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. K. Hickman, pastor of Trinity M. E. church, and the couple were attended by the bridegroom's daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Powell. Mr. Rice has been a class leader for fifty-three years. Before retiring from business he owned the largest shipbuilding plant in this section.

Miss Mosher Starts Her Vacation.

Miss Margaret E. Mosher, physical director of the Y. W. C. A., left yesterday for a short sojourn at Washington, D. C. From there she will go to her home at Oberlin, Ohio, for the month of July, returning to this city in August. Gymnasium classes will not resume until October.

SUNDAY GAMES AT END.

Davis's Team Can't Play Longer in Hoboken for Money.

Hoboken, June 10.—Sunday baseball in Hoboken is doomed, at least games where admission is charged, which pactically means the stopping of semi-professional games. Mayor Steil was informed by Palmer Campbell, representative of the Hoboken Land and Improvement Company, that the County Park Commissioners had formally taken possession of the grounds, and it would not be possible for any company or individual to charge admission for any exhibition of any kind.

This seems like a hard knock on Bob Davis, whose team has been playing ball games on these grounds every Sunday to large crowds. The Park Commissioners have also reformed Mayor Steil that they are willing to bear the expense of any apparatus for the physical advancement of the children that he may suggest. Already the Mayor has in mind swings, carousels, handbars and other things which he thinks will make better citizens of the boys of Hoboken.

Governor Visits His Father.

Mt. Holly, June 10.—Governor J. Franklin Fort spent a few hours in Mt. Holly yesterday afternoon on a visit to his father, Andrew H. Fort. The trip was made, because Governor Fort wanted to see his father before going to Chicago to attend the Republican convention, to which he is a delegate-at-large, and yesterday was his last opportunity before his departure. He was pleased to find his father sitting on the porch waiting to greet him.

West Jersey Academy.

Trenton, June 10.—Governor Fort left this city yesterday afternoon for Carlisle, Pa., where today he will receive the degree of LL. D. from Dickinson College. Governor Stewart of Pennsylvania, and other distinguished men are to meet him there. Governor Fort will address the students. Wilbur Sadler, of Trenton, whose brother graduates from Dickinson this week, accompanied the Governor.

Nash-Furman Nuptials.

The wedding of Miss Ida May Furman, daughter of Mrs. M. A. Furman, of Dover, and Vincent W. Nash, Jr., of Prospect avenue, will take place at 8 o'clock tonight at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. W. W. Warnock, of Craig place. The ceremony will be witnessed by a small gathering of relatives and near friends.

Out of Work, Drowns Himself.

New Brunswick, June 10.—George Lasko, despondent because hhe was out of work, out of money and unable to collect $45 which he claimed a farmer owed him for work, committed suicide yesterday by drowning himself in the Raritan river just below this city.

Mrs. J. H. Heinrichs, a missionary to India, who spoke at the First Baptist church Sunday night, has returned to New York, after a visit of a few days here.

Miss Antoninette Barker, of Concord, Mass., and Miss Bessie B. Tolman, of Alston, Mass., are guests at the home of Mrs. G. S. Raynolds, of Jackson avenue.

Miss Mabel Van Deventer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Van Deventer, of Willow avenue, has returned from Utica, N. Y., where she has been teaching in the Balliol school.

Miss Schlegel, a teacher at the Groszmann School, will sail on the Kroonland, of the Red Star Line, Saturday, June 13, for a summer in Europe. She purchased her tickets through the agency of Mulford Estil.

Mrs. S. S. Higgins and daughter, Miss Ada Grace Higgins, who for the past thirteen years have been teachers at the Watchung public school, have resigned their positions and will soon move to Springfield, where Miss Higgins has been engaged as teacher in the new public school at Union for next year.

Civil Service Work.

The State Civil Service Commissioners will convene in Newark on Thursday to begin the task of classifying the departments of Essex county officials and employes. Pursuant to action of the Board of Freeholders there, the provisions of the law become effective Monday, June 29.

To Approve Form of Bonds.

The Common Council having fixed Monday night, June 29, at 8 o'clock, as the time when bids will be received for the $95,000 worth of school bonds, an adjourned meeting will be held Monday night to approve the form of bonds to be prepared by Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh.

SELECTION OF GIFTS FOR GIRL GRADUATES.

In selecting a gift for the girl graduate the shopper feels only the limitations of the individual purse. The array of suitable presents is comprehensive and bewilderingly beautiful, says the Chicago News.

Relatives of opulent purse now give jewelry or purses, the latter not always empty, to the young woman who has proved herself a credit to her family, but this is apt to cause bitter feelings among the girls in lesser circumstances, and simpler gifts are in better taste.

The jewelry fads of the moment are lavallieres and bracelets. The former is a slender, finely wrought chain with comparatively heavy pendant or pendants. The single pendant is oftenest a fresh-water pearl, combined with precious or semi-precious stones. If more than one pendant is shown they are connected by the finely wrought gold mesh, similar to that employed in the chain proper. The correct thing is to give the girl a lavalliere set with her birthday stones.

Young girls may give their graduate friends the most personal of gifts, like silk stockings, dainty handwrought lingerie, etc. Practical gifts are the new pompadour parasols or a sliken scarf for summer evenings.

Young men may give girl graduates only books, flowers or pictures. A photograph or etching of some famous college scene at home or abroad or a Christy drawing of college life, is a gift which any college girl will appreciate. All the book shops now keep editions of standing works intended especially for commencement day gifts, and this list includes some lovely single volumes done in college colors.

Convict Tells of Stolen Property.

Trenton, June 10.—Detective-Sergeant Lord, of Paterson, yesterday went to the State prison and interviewed Charles Halsey, serving a term of seven years on sentence from Camden county. Hausey is the flim-flam man who visited Chapman's jewelry store on North Main street, Paterson, about six months ago and secured four gold watches "on trial," which he stole. He told the detective where the watches were and they will be returned to the jeweler.

Recovers Money Lost in Wager.

Mt. Holly, June 10.—Samuel Gilbert, of Jacksonville, was given judgment for $50, by Justice of the Peace Slaughter, yesterday, the defendant being John White. Gilbert claimed his horse could beat White's and laid a wager of $50 to White's $25. The stakeholder decided Gilbert's horse was beaten, and paid White the money, Gilbert protesting. The court decided any betting was illegal, and White filed a bond to appeal the case.

Trunk Sewer Best For Paterson.

Paterson, June 10.—Allen Hazen the sanitary engineer who investigated for the Taxpayers' Association the various means of purifying the Passaic River in this city and below it, has made another report to the association in which he maintains the same attitude he did two years ago, that the trunk sewer is the best means for Paterson to handle its sewage.

Reception to Briggs.

Trenton, June 10.—The members of the Trenton Republican Club held a reception last night in honor of United States Senator Frank O. Briggs and Representative Ira W. Wood, who have returned home after the session of Congress. Many new members were added to the club.

Brunswick Bonds Go Slowly.

New Brunswick, June 10.—Common Council, Monday night made an unsuccessful attempt to sell $25,000 of 4 per cent. repaving bonds. Only one bid was received for $8,000 at par, and this amount was sold. Another attempt will be made to sell the rest.

THE LAUGH CURE.

When your wife resumes her nagging,
Laugh;
When the stock you've bought is sagging,
Laugh;
When you've lost your new umbrella,
Or somebody starts to tell a
Story you have heard a hundred times before,
Do not fail to cling to gladness,
Give the ha-ha to your sadness,
Throw your head back and emit a cheerful roar—
Laugh, brother, laugh!

When the hackman tries to beat you,
Laugh;
When the short-change artists cheat you,
Laugh;
If a thief should pick your pockets,
Or your feet should, like two rockets,
Leave the earth and cause your head to dent the ground;
Do not show the least resentment
Or give up to discontentment,
But look cheerful and emit a merry sound—
Laugh, brother, laugh!

—S. E. Kiser, in Chicago Record-Herald.

GRAND JURY COMPLAINT

Resolutions Sent to Governor Fort Suggest Relief from Petty Causes.

FIND SIXTY-NINE INDICTMENTS.

Large Proportion Concern Excise Violations in Elizabeth and Immediate Vicinity.

The Union County Grand Jury reported sixty-nine indictments to the court, this morning, a large percentage of which relate to violations of the excise laws and more particularly in Elizabeth and vicinity.

The jurors also brought to the attention of the court, through resolutions adopted by that body, that their department is greatly overburdened wih petty cases, which should be disposed of by minor magistrates. It was recognized that at present there is no law which will give the desired relief and the jurors petitioned the court to use its influence to have the laws extended to cover the trouble complained of. The resolutions will be forwarded to Governor Fort and later brought to the attention of the Legislature.

The condition complained of has existed for a long time, there being no other alternative than to refer such cases to the Grand Jury. Many of them prove to be of little importance and only serve to take up a great deal of the jurors' time. It is said that during the present term of court there has been an unusually large number of such cases.

The Grand Jury has not been discharged by the court and will resume its sessions whenever there is further business for it.

MISS FRENCH GETS $180 IN LANDLORD AND TENANT CASE

There was only one contested action in the district court, this morning, it being the landlord and tenant case of Miss Harriet M. French against Sachar & Sachar, in which the plaintiff sought to recover four months' rent for her store at No. 23 Somerset street.

The case was called for trial a week ago, but the action at that time was against Sachar, when it was held that it should have been against the firm of Sachar & Sachar. Chas. A. Reed, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, represented the plaintiff, and Francis J. Blatz the defendants. The case was submittd without argumnt, and Judge Newcorn gave a verdict in favor of Miss French for $180 and interest.

According to the evidence Sachar & Sachar moved out of the store and it was four months afterward before the place was rented again. It was for the four months' rent at $45 a month that the suit was brought. In giving his decision, Judge Newcorn stated that there was no question as to the liability of the tenants, the question to be determined being how much is due the plaintiff.

DEATH OF CHARLES ZIMMER.

Well-known Borough Resident Succumbs to Complications Following Paralytic Stroke.

Charles Zimmer, for many years a well-known local resident, died last night at his home on Manning avenue. He had been ill but two days with complications following a slight paralytic stroke. Mr. Zimmer was born in Germany in 1842 but came to this country when a young man and located in Plainfield. He was a cigar maker by trade and conducted a business for a long time on West Front street, where the A. & P. tea store is now. In recent years he has been employed by Henry Eggerding.

Mr. Zimmer is survived by a wife, two daughters, Mrs. Martin Roth, Jr., and Mrs. Augustus Rose, of the borough, and six sons, Philip, of Brooklyn; Charles, of East Orange; George, Fred, Clarence and Walter of the borough. The funeral will be held at his late residence Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

J. Evarts Tracy Property Sold.

T. W. Bakewell, who is occupying the Van Wyck property on Plainfield avenue, which was recently purchased by R. H. Hood, of New York, has bought the J. Evarts Tracy property on West Eighth street, and after making extensive improvements will move there. Mr. Hood will take possession of his property about October 1.

Luncheon for Bride-Elect.

Miss Marion Fitch, who has just returned from abroad to attend the wedding of Miss Lulu Randolph and Clifford D. Manning, gave a luncheon yesterday at the Hotel Martinque, New York, in honor of the bride-elect. Covers were laid for ten, there being guests from Brooklyn, Ridgewood and this city.

ENLARGES JURISDICTION OF THE DISTRICT COURT

According to a law passed last winter by the Legislature and which is now in effect, the jurisdiction of district courts throughout the State has been extended so that it is now possible to bring an action before that tribunal for damages up to $500, instead of $300 as hertofore.

In this connection there will be a jury trial in the local district court on Thursday, June -18, in which the damages asked for are $500. 8he case is that of Pierce Powell against Joseph Galbraith, of Scotch Plains. This is on contract. The plaintiff claims that he sold a bill of goods to the defendant, the agreement being that he was to receive so much money and a home. He contends that he sold the goods, but was not permitted to have a home. He now sues for the value of the goods, which he claims is $500.

Another jury case called for the same day in the district court is that of Calloway aganst Bohl. A week ago the jury failed to arrive at a verdict and it will be tried again. It is an action in which the plaintiff claims that he was assaulted by the defendant while playing a game of pool at a hotel on Somerset street.

Judge Newcorn has announced that hereafter all jury trial cases will be set down for the first and third Thursdays in each month. This arrangement has been decided upon so that such cases wil not interfere with other ones that may be set down for trial on other Thursdays in the month.

REFORMED SYNOD ENDS ITS ANNUAL SESSION

With an address by President William I. Chamberlain, a prayer by former President Edward A. Collier and the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," the 102d annual synod of the Reformed church in America closed yesterday at Asbury Park, after a week's conference.

Frank R. Van Nest, of New York City, was re-elected treasurer at an annual salary of $2,500. The expenses of the delegates to the General Synod amounted to about $6,000, and there was a lively debate over the matter, which resulted in a resolution being adopted cutting down the allowance to delegates hereafter to carfare only, and that by the shortest route. Should the delegates desire to eat en route and enjoy the comforts of a sleeping car the cost of these luxuries must be met by their own classis.

A resolution was adopted to appoint a special committee to consider the labor question. The committee will be named by President Chamberlain. Another resolution was adopted seeking to have the New York Legislature amend the charter of the Reformed church in order to permit the General Synod to become the trustee for funds raised for educational work and other purposes.

The General Synod decided to send two representatives to the International Federation of Sunday Rest Associations conference in December. The New Jersey Anti-Saloon League requested that the General Synod send a representative to its meetings, butt he committee on benevolent societies recommended that no action be taken, and it was so ordered. The General Synod has decided to raise $400,000 this year for missions. Of this amount $225,000 will be appropriated for the support of the foreign missions in China, India, Arabia and Japan and $175,000 for domestic missions. This is an increase of $75,000 over last year—$50,000 for foreign and $25,000 for domestic missions.

CARNIVAL QUEEN.

B. P. O. E.'s Candidate Still Holds The Lead.

The total votes cast to date for Queen of the Firemen's carnival follows: Miss Mattie De Camp, Jr. O. U. A. M., 1,167; Miss Margaret King, Foresters, 564; Miss Margaret Townley, B. P. O. E., 1,962; Miss Ella M. Adams, F. O. E., 1,157; Miss Sarah Hopewell, Woodhull & Martin's, 942.

At the carnival grounds, the Public Service Corporation is putting in the poles and arc lights today. The firemen are meeting with a ready response in the sale of tickets for admission to the grounds and the committee having in charge, soliciting for donations for the "Country Store" report very few refusals and when the store is opened Monday, one will be able to purchase anything from a needle to a parlor grand piano.

Miss Ella Serrell, who recently sold her property on Plainfield avenue to Abraham Kunzman, has moved to 931 Union street. Her telephone number is 547 M-2.

COUNTY NEW IDEA MEETING

Colbyites to Gather at Elizabeth Tomorrow Night to Discuss Campaign Plans.

MAY ENDORSE ACKERMAN.

Also Quoted as Being Favorable to Pierce—But Not So as to Moxon and Kirstein, It is Said.

A call has been issued for a meeting of the Union County Republican League for Equal Taxation at Elizabeth tomorrow night when it is expected that possible candidates for the county ticket will be discussed and plans mapped out for a vigorous campaign preceding the primaries. All the branches of the county league will be represented at this session.

From a reliable source it is learned that the New Idea men will probably endorse the candidacy of Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city for reelection to the State Senate as well as of Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford, for the Assembly. It is altogether probable, however, that the New Idea will put up a bitter fight if an attempt is made to renominate either A. F. Kirstein, of Rahway, or John R. Moxon, of Elizabeth.

Plainfield, it is said, will be well represented at the meeting tomorrow night. The local New Idea Republican Club will send several delegates and it is not improbable that a conference will be held on the line of action to be pursued regarding municipal tickets.

Report had it today that a resolution would be introduced endorsing the record of Senator Ackerman, but this could not be confirmed.

PLAINFIELDERS ATTEND WEDDING OF RELATIVE.

Miss Alice Kirby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ernest Kirby, and Frank Lamar Scheffey, both of Glen Ridge, were married last night in Christ Episcopal church, Glen Ridge, by the rector, Rev. Mr. White. The ceremony was witnessed by a large assemblage of society people from New York, the Oranges and other parts of New Jersey.

It was a full choral service and Miss Katharyn Mitchell, of Philadelphia, cousin of the bride, sang "O Perfect Love," during the ceremony. The bride was attended by her niece, Miss Adele Kirby, of North Plainfield, as maid-of-honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Isabelle Atterbury, a cousin of the bride and Miss Marjorie Berrian, of New York. Miss Margaret Scheffey, sister of the groom, was flower girl.

The bride is a neice of Rev. and Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, of the borough, and is prominent in society affairs. The groom is prominent in New York financial circles as a bond broker. The couple sailed today on the Baltic for an extended trip abroad. In the fall they will reside at Glen Ridge.

Fruit Stealing on the Increase.

As a result of numerous complaints received from residents in various parts of the city, Chief Kiely has in mind the organization of a "cherry tree patrol" to prevent fruit stealing by boys. Five indignant West End women called up on the telephone yesterday and asked for bluecoats to drive the young marauders out of their yards and others complain at the rate of two or three a day. Patrolman Saffron has been detailed to bike it through the West End in search of culprits and Patrolman Dobson will be on the lookout up Netherwood way.

A Natal Day Surprise.

In honor of the twenty-first anniversary of his birthday, Charles Ryder, of South Second street, was tendered a surprise party by fifty friends last night. The affair was arranged by Miss May Mattell and Harry Wierenga. Games, music and dancing were features of an informal program after which supper was served. The Owl Club attended the affair in a body and presented Mr. Ryder with a cake bearing twenty-one candles.

Reception to the Women.

The Men's Club of the First Presbyterian church will give a reception to the women of the church in the church parlors tonight. Rev. A. E. Finn will be te speaker, Rev. W. T. Sutchell being unable to attend, and the quartet choir of the church will furnish special music under the direction of Clifford S. Baider, organist.

Class '09 Organizes.

The members of the Class '09 at John Leal's School have elected these officers for next year: President, Russell Lawrence; vice-president, James Duke; treasurer, Murray Rushmore. Basketball, captain, Clarence Lawrence; manager, Murray Rushmore.

Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., will hold a convocation tonight and confer the master mark degree.

C. AMES BROOKS MADE A "M. A." BY PRINCETON

A little army of graduates marched forth from Princeton University yesterday to make the fight for honor, for position and success in the world. There was great gathering of alumnus, friends and relatives of the graduates, beside a number of distinguished guests, including Baron Takahira, Japanese Ambassador, upon whom was conferred the honrary degree of Doctor of Laws. Charles Ames Brooks, son of the late Charles E. Brooks, of this city, received the degree of Master of Arts on thesis.

The trustees, faculty and graduates, clad in academic costume and led by the United States Naval Academy band marched from Nassau Hall to Alexander Hall where the exercises were held. President Woodrow Wilson, of the University, announced the prizes for the year and Dean Andrews F. West conferred the Bachelor's Masters' and Doctor's degrees in course followed by the degree of Doctor of Laws to Baron Takahira, Professor H. A. Garfield, of Princeton, president elect of Williams College, and Mahlon H. Pitney, Chancellor of New Jersey. The degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon Wilford L. Robbins, dean of the General Theological Seminary of New York city.

L. B. GARDNER JOINS THE BENEDICTS' RANKS

Miss Marie Anita Dieterich, daughter of Mrs. Marie Dieterich, of New York, and Louis B. Gardner, son of William E. Gardner, of Watchung avenue, were married at 7 o'clock last night in St. Paul's Episcopal church, New York, by the rector, Rev. Dr. Bosch, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the couple in New York, this city and distant points.

The bride was attended by Miss Willma Luechs, of New York, as maid-of-honor, and Miss Louise Housman and Miss Selma Hartman, of New York, as bridesmaids. Miss Ruth Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fuller, of this city, was the flower girl. Harold Farington, of New York, was the best man and the ushers were Joseph Fuller, of this city, Maxwell Luecss, Frederick Dieterrich and Edward Dieterich, the last two named being brothers of the bride. Charles Dieterich, another brother of the bride gave her in marriage.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Gardner are now enjoying a two weeks honeymoon and upon their return they will reside in New York. Mr. Gardner is with a New York wholesale house as a salesman.

JERSEY'S DELEGATION WILL LEAVE TOMORROW

The New Jersey delegation to the Republican National Convention will leave for Chicago on Friday evening by special train, and it is supposed the chairmanship question will be settled on the trip. The delegation comprises: At large, Governor Fort, Senators Kean and Briggs and David Bird; First district, Representative Henry C. Loudenslager and E. Amler Armstrong; Second district, Robert E. Hand and Samuel K. Robbins; Third district, Thomas N. McCarter and George G. Smith; Fourth district, Ferdinand W. Roebling and D. Ledyard Blair; Fifth district, Ernest R. Ackerman and Richard Williams; Sixth district, William Barbour and John R. Ramsey; Seventh district, Winton C. Garrison and Thomas D. Webb; Eighth district, Leslie D. Ward and William F. Allen; Ninth district, Joseph A. Dear and Pierre Garven; Tenth district, John A. Blair and George Gonzales.

In addition to these there will be the four alternate at large, Vivian M. Lewis, of Passaic; General C. Edward Murray, of Mercer; Daniel S. Voorhees, of Morris, and Lewis E. Thompson, of Monmouth.

Civil Engineering in the South.

Herbert Rapalje, son of Rev. Daniel Rapalje, of Carlton avenue, has returned to the city for a brief vacation from his duties as civil engineer for the Carolina Trucking Development Company near Wilmington, N. C. The concern controls an immense tract of land in the most fertile part of the State and is colonizing it for the purpose of promoting truck farming. Mr. Rapalje has charge of the mapping out of the property and has been very successful in his work.

Mrs. William Griscom, of Sycamore avenue, has gone to Orr's Island, Maine, for the summer.

REV. MR. M'CREA A "D. D."

Popular Pastor of First M. E. Church Honored by Alma Mater, Dickinson College.

GOVERNOR FORT MADE LL. D.

Leslie M. Shaw, Edwin S. Stuart and Dr. Brander Matthews Make Addresses.

Rev. Abel C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, and one of the most popular men in the city, was honored by his alma mater, Dickinson College, yesterday. At the annual commencement exercises held in connection with the celebration of the one hundredth and twenty-fifth anniversary of the institution, the Rev. A. C. McCrea.

Plainfielder received the degree of Doctor of Divinity. He had already been honored with the degree of Master of Arts in addition to his bachelor's degree which he took on graduation.

President George Edward Reed, in the name of Dickinson College, conferred the degrees. Honorary degrees were conferred on a large number of distinguished Americans in commemoration of the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the college, as follows: J. Franklin Fort, Governor of New Jersey; former Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw, of New York city; Hugh McCormick Smith, A. M., Deputy Commissioner of the United States Commission on Fish and Fisheries, Washington, D. C.; Rev. Dr. William Burt, of Italy, Bishop of the Methodist church; L. Webster Fox, M. D., Philadelphia; Robert W. Archbald, Federal District Judge of Northeastern Pennsylvania, Scranton; Alexander Chenoweth, New York city.

The ceremonies closed with brief congratulatory addresses from distinguished visitors, including Governor Edwin S. Stuart, Governor J. Franklin Fort, New Jersey; Congressman Marlin E. Olmsted, President Bradford P. Raymond, Weslyan University; Dean Henry Wade Rogers, Yale Law; Dr. Brander Matthews, Columbia; Professor Robert W. Rogers, Drew, and a large number of representatives of other colleges and universities.

Fire Drill Interrupts Exams.

Members of the senior class, North Plainfield High School, were interrupted in their final examinations this morning at about 10:30 by the clang of the school fire alarm. The entire school was emptied of pupils in seventy-five seconds, establishing a new record for a fire drill. The best time at previous drills was ninety seconds. Supervising Principal H. C. Krebs held the drill to demonstrate the discipline to Miss Clara Savage, a teacher in one of the Egg Harbor Schools, who was a visitor at the Somerset Street School today.

Cows Damage Lawns.

Two Jersey cows and a heifer, belonging to George A. Beaton, broke out of their pasture on Rahway road late last night and played havoc with lawns on upper Watchung avenue. Especial damage was occasioned about the premises of A. W. Kleinecke before the police could be summoned. Roundsman Higgins and Patrolman Payne lassoed the animals after a hard chase and placed them in the pound for the night. They were claimed this morning.

Brown—MacMurray Wedding.

Miss Susan G. Brown, daughter of George E. Brown, of Stockton, became the wife of Charles G. MacMurray, of Grandview avenue, at a quiet home wedding at the residence of the bride's father yesterday afternoon. Mr. MacMurray, who is a letter carrier, is brother of City Clerk Charles T. MacMurray, and after a short wedding trip, will bring his bride to this city and make his home on Grandview avenue.

SUGGESTED SITES FOR THE FEDERAL BUILDING

It is altogether probable that Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou will receive at least a score of offers for the postoffice site here when he opens the bids on July 2. It is known that at least a half dozen property-owners in the business will place a price on their holdings. Of course the location will be on the north side of the railroad track in the heart of the business section, but the exact site depends entirely on the better bargain the Department at Washington can make. If fancy prices are placed on land, the Federal Government has the right to choose what it wants and to procure it through condemnation proceedings.

At the regular meeting of the consistory of Trinity Reformed church last night, this matter was discussed at length and it was rseolved that the finance committee of the body ascertain whether the church property, together with the S. O. Staats tract adjoining, would be suitable for the government's purposes. If a favorable report is made the matter will be presented formally to the congregation for its decision on the proposition to offer the church property to the government at a reasonable figure.

Among other properties that may be had are the Durlach, at East Front street and Watchung avenue; the Nelson, at West Front and Liberty streets; the Friends Meeting, at Watchung avenue and East Third street; the Kenney, in North avenue between Park and Watchung avenues, and a site on the east side of Park avenue, between North avenue and Fourth street.

MISS IDA MAY FURMAN BRIDE OF V. W. NASH, JR.

Miss Ida May Furman, daughter of Mrs. M. A. Furman, of Dover, formerly of Englewood, and Vincent W. Nash, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Nash, of Prospect avenue, were quietly married last night at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs W. W. Warnock, of Craig place. The ceremony was performed at 8:15 by Rev. R. W. Elliott, pastor of the Methodist church at Bernardsville, and was witnessed by thirty relatives and near friends.

The nuptial event took place in the parlor before a massed arrangement of roses and daisies, backed up by palms and ferns. Miss Edith Roseberry, of this city, acted as bridesmaid, while the groom was attended by his brother, Augustus Nash. Judge William N. Runyon presided at the piano and rendered the wedding march while the party was assembling.

Miss Furman wore a becoming gown of white mousseline over white silk with simple trimmings. Her bouquet was of bride's roses. Her attendant's gown was of pink chiffon over pink silk and she carried pink sweet peas.

Following the ceremony a reception was held during which Mr. and Mrs. Nash were showered with congratulations. Supper was served at 9 o'clock and at its conclusion, the young couple left for a wedding trip with Niagara Falls as the ostensible destination. On returning they will make their home in the Mulford apartments on North avenue.

Mr. Nash is a member of the Union county bar and has been a practicing attorney in Plainfield for several years. He is connected with several fraternal organizations and at the present time is chancellor commander of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P. His bride has been a local resident for the past twelve years and has a host of friends in the city and borough, a fact attested by the large array of wedding gifts. They comprised silverware, cut glass, furniture, bric-a'-brac and china.

The young couple adopted a novel ruse to escape well laid plans to shower them with confetti and rice on leaving and succeeded admirably. While the guests were occupied in various ways they eluded watchers singly and proceeded to the home of a next-door neighbor in order to don traveling attire. Their absence was discovered and the friends surrounded the coach to await their coming. A couple well bundled up finally came out and dashed into the vehicle after running the gauntlet. The horses were whipped up and sent along for a block only to stop around the corner and pick up Mr. and Mrs. Nash, who had gone out by the rear entrance of the house while a couple of friends had represented them in front. By this scheme teh newlyweds reached the depot and got away without a grain of rice getting on them.

—Neuman Brothers are now receiving the famous Colburn berries. They reached the store fresh picked every morning. Place orders early.

SYNDICATE WILL BUILD A FIRST CLASS HOTEL

Capitalists Promoting Enterprise to Announce Their Plans Within a Month.

SITE NEAR FEDERAL BUILDING.

Hostelry to Be a Credit to the Community—To Fill a Long Felt Need, the Promoters Say.

From authoritative sources it was learned today that a syndicate composed of New York and local capitalists has plans under consideration for the erection of a strictly first class hotel in Plainfield. The matter has been under advisement for some time and has reached the stage where details relative to location and size of the building will soon be made public.

The idea of the promoters is to give the city a hostelry of the style that is a hotel in every sense of the word, patterned after the large establishments in New York and Philadelphia and affording every convenience for transient as well as permanent guests. The tentative plans include a ball room, grill room, private rooms for wedding parties and receptions, banquet hall, auditorium, and all other requisites for a high class hotel. It is argued that just such a place would fill a long felt want in the community and that with the establishment of dinner and after-theatre supper service that visitors to town for afternoon and evening affairs would not feel the necessity of returning to New York for accommodation.

Any suggestion of a site for the hotel has been carefully witheld up to the present time but it is asserted that this will depend largely on the location of the proposed new Federal building. As soon as that matter is settled upon, the capitalists assert that it will facilitate the problem for them. The plot required will be a large one and must be in a central point, easy of access from the North avenue station and street car lines.

Those who comprise the syndicate are all men of means and have been identified with the hotel business in various capacities for many years. Several of the names mentioned in connection with the scheme include those of capitalists who assisted in the building of a large hostelry in Philadelphia and at present have interests in a New York establishment that has one of the most prominent names in the hotel world.

MISS ANNIE DUFFY THE BRIDE OF MARTIN DITSON.

Miss Annie Duffy, of Central avenue, and Martin Ditson, of Plainfield avenue, were married at St. Mary's church at 8 o'clock last night, by the pastor, Rev. B. M. Bogan, in the presence of a large gathering of friends. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Winnie Duffy, as bridesmaid, while John Cooney, of this city, was the best man.

After the ceremony the couple were given a reception at the home of friends on West Fourth street and later they left for a bridal trip to Niagara Falls. They will reside in this city. The groom is in the employ of Robert H. McCutcheon, of Plainfield avenue, and both he and his bride have a host of friends here. Mrs. Ditson received a large number of gifts.

Preparing to Improve North Avenue.

Work was started on North avenue today getting that thoroughfare in readiness for spreading a dust-preventative, as authorized by the Common Council. The New Jersey Central decided that before the preparation was put on the macadam it would like to extend the block pavement the entire distance in front of its property, a certain distance from the curb, believing that the constant travel there would warrant the improvement. The block pavement has been used for a long time directly in front of the North Avenue Station with success and it is now proposed to extend it from the driveway leading to the express platform to Watchung avenue. Depressions along the thoroughfare are being filled with crushed stone and this will be thoroughly rolled in connection with the work of putting on te preparation which is to keep the dust down.

Word has been received of the death of Mrs. Margaret De Mott, wife of J. Runkle De Mott, of Whitehouse Station, and mother of Mrs. J. Van Stillwell, of this city.

MARSHALL & BALL 12th ANNIVERSARY SHOE SALE

A Saving for Men, Women, Misses and Children

The advent of the Marshall & Ball Shoe Store, 12 years ago this month, was a long stride forward in shoe selling for Newark.

Aside from introducing footwear of striking individuality to satisfy every fancy, distinctive in style, shape and finish, we have given to Men, Women, Misses and Children the famous M. & B. Tru-Tred Shoe—the shoe that fits all over and which contributes more comfort, distinctiveness, style and economy than any other model. It's as near shoe-perfection as scientific modeling, worthy materials, trained skill and thoughtful care can produce.

Our Anniversary Shoe Sales always command unusual interest, but this 12th Anniversary Sale is going to overshadow all others. Since our last Anniversary Sale our space has been doubled, making 4,140 square feet, greater floor space than is alloted to shoes by any other store in New Jersey.

Marshall & Ball Shoes are economical at regular prices, but when a saving feature like this is introduced the tighest purse-string must feel a strong tug.

Trenton Y. M. C. A. against Plainfield Y. M. C. A., at Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoin. This will be one of the State League championship games. Scott and Conover will divide the twirling honors, and the other positions will be filled by the regular men, with Schoonmaker behind the bat.

Clinton Avenue will play the West Ends at Somerville Saturday afternoon and Manager Dorflinger is counting on a victory. Clifford Randolph will be on the slab and he can be depended upon to turn the trick.

It is said that Walter Nelson has been in town talking with the Clinton Avenue management with a view to becoming the regular backstop. The fans hope that this is true for the local team would be ace high with Nelson in the lineup.

Left-handed twirlers are said to be hoodoos for the Orioles. This is probably true in the face of McIlveen's win Monday and Jack Frill's two credits last week in Baltimore.

The Torinto Club has secured Caffyn, the young Cleveland outfielder, who has been playing with Trenton. The Maple Leafs are badly crippled by the absence of Grimshaw and Phyle from the team owing to injuries. Grimshaw is expected to get back in the game within a week, while it will be two weeks before Phyle is able ti resmue playing.

With Rube Waddell in the box the St. Louis Americans Monday shut out the Philadelphia Athletics by the score of 10 to 0. Shaughnessy, who went from the Washington Unions to the Athletics, in his first game yesterday made three singles.

President P. T. Powers summoned Manager Jack Dunn, of the Orioles, to New York this week for the purpose of inquiring into some of the player-manager's actions toward umpires in recent games in Baltimore. Dunn's removal from Monday's game, in the face of this action of Powers, will not help the manager any. Byers, who was suspended for an alleged assault on Umpire Sullivan in Baltimore on Saturday, was on the field in uniform, although the ban on the big catcher has not yet been removed.

Robert Miller, the Paterson boy who played first base for the Oil City (Pa.) team, until the disbandment of the Interstate League, made an exceptionally fine record in the twenty-two games he took part in, having a batting average of .335 and a fielding mark of .968. Miller, who is also a member of the Newark F. C. soccer team, is a good man and will probably catch on with some fast local team.

Manager Jack Dunn, of the Orioles, has closed a deal with the New York National League club for the purchase of Sammy Strang Nicklin, the Giants' utility infielder. Dunn had an option on Nicklin for several days, and the player is due to report to the Orioles here tomorrow, when he will take Brouthers' place at third base. The latter has been playing a good fielding game, but his batting has been very light.

Bill Hogg, the Yankee pitcher who is under suspension for failure to get into condition, may figure in a sale to the Detroit club. Hughey Jennings is negotiating with Clark Griffith for the purchase of the player.

GOLF.

Programs are out for the annual spring tournament if the East Jersey Golf League to be held over the links of the Forest Hill Field Club June 19 and 20. Arrangements have been made for two solid days of golf, combining both match and medal play. On the morning of the first day a start will be made with an eighteen hole qualification round, from which in the order of lowest gross scores four sets of eight will be formed to continue match play that same afternoon and the following day.

There will also be a team match of four from each club to start on Friday conditions calling for seventy-two holes of medal play, coincident with the other contests. A special handicap at eighteen holes open only to those who have failed to qualify or have been put out at match play will be run off on Saturday morning, while the general handicap at eighteen holes will follow that afternoon. The tournament committee consists of F. A. Wright, Robert Keubler and Robert Mitchell.

At the meeting of the delegates to control the British amateur golf championship—a league of five clubs—it was vited nit to include Deal, Westward Ho or Dollymount, in Ireland, on the schedule. Action in the matter was left to a sub-committee consisting of the five clubs over whose courses the championship is played. At Prestwick, on June 16, the eve of the open championship, this committee will meet and its decision will be reported to the amateur championship delegates at the meeting at Muirfield a year hence. This is in accord with the old time policy of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews. It is expected that a qualifying medal play round will be instituted to begin the amateur championship at Muirfield.

Some surprisingly low scores were made in the opening play of the Eastern Women Golfers championship tournament at the Oakley Country Club in Watertown Tuesday. Miss Katherine C. Harley of Fall River led the field of forty-nine starters in the qualifying round with a score of 86 for the eighteen holes. Miss Mary B. Adams of Wollaston, the present association champion, and Miss Fanny C. Osgood of the Brookline Country Club had 88 each. Miss Margaret Curtis, the national champion, and her sister Harriet did not qualif. The driving contest in the forenoon was won by Mrs. Clarence Vanderbeck, of the Philadelphia Cricket Club. The distance which she drove on three balls were 194 yards 11 inches; 196 yards 16 nches; 180 yards 17 inches, respectively.

A three cornered match has been suggested by the manager of the Briarcliff Golf Club that may bring about a good contest. He will offer a $1,000 cup to be played for by the best sixteen golfers in the United States, the nominations to be made by their clubs and all names over that margin to be cut out. Whoever wins the trophy, whether there is but one starter or sixteen, will receive the prize outright.

PERSONAL.

Miss Miriam Jones, of Westfield, has returned home after a visit with friends here.

Rev. and Mrs. A. C. McCrea, of Central avenue, are spending the week at Carlisle, Pa.

Mrs. Phillips, of Brooklyn, has been visiting her son, Frederick Phillips, of West Front street.

Mrs. Rufus Lincoln, of West Eighth street, is stopping at the Gotham, New York, for a time.

Mrs. Reynolds, of Orange, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Waring, of Park avenue, has returned home.

Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Freeport, L. I., has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. Eugene A. Hatch, of West Eighth street.

Mrs. Henry Hersey Andrew, of New York, who is now visiting Miss Edith Andrew at Hingham, Mass., will come to Plainfield this week and register at Truell Hall for the summer.

Rev. and Mrs. J. O. Kelvey and Miss Adele Kirby, of Grandview avenue, have been visiting relatives at Glen Ridge, where last night they were guests at the marriage of Mrs. McKelvey's niece.

Among those sailing today on the Baltic for an extended tour abroad are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley and daughters, Miss Mabel B. Hooley and Miss Ray Hooley, and Mr. and Mrs. John B. Dumont.

In the event of his failure to upset the official count, which now seems probable, the only decent thing for William Randolph Hearst to do would be to defray Mayor McClellan's counsel fees.

Following Plainfield's example, the Somerville Board of Trade has begun advertising the town along the right lines and through the proper mediums. Success to the Somerset county seat in its venture.

"The split in the Republican ranks in Union seems to be widening. The 'new ideaites' feel so much encouraged by the official plums and recognition that have come their way that they think all that is required is persistence, and they will get all that will fall from the plum tree."—Trenton dispatch to Jersey City Journal.

Distance lends division to the scene, apparently. Who else has heard anything about this "split-"—Elizabeth Journal.

Evidently the freight train and not the wire carries the news to Elizabeth. What's the sense of hiding the real situation?

PASSENGER TRAIN HITS CARRIAGE; TWO MAY DIE.

Freehold, June 11.—Heedless of the warnings of a freight brakeman at Marlboro, last night, John Mack, an aged farmer of near that place, drove on the railroad crossing near the depot and a passenger train crashed into his rig, killing the horse and perhaps fatally injuring Mr. Mack and his wife. Both were hurried to the Long Branch Hospital in an unconscious condition.

Mr. Mack, with his wife in the carriage, had been at the freight station and started to leave as a passenger train was approaching. A brakeman of a freight standing on a siding called to him that he would not have time to cross in safety.

Replying that he had a young horse and could cross quickly, Mack drove on. The horse was struck by the engine, turning the vehicle around so that it was "side-swiped" and demolished. Mrs. Mack received a badly lacerated arm and was bruised, the horse falling partly across her body. Mr. Mack received several gashes in his head and contusions about the body. He was found after the accident underneath the wreckage of the rig.

MEAT PRICES SOAR HIGH

Not in Twenty-five Years Has the Cost of Flesh Foods Been so Steep.

BIG PACKERS ARE BLAMED.

Starting With Them the Advances Are Taken Up and Charged to You by the Retailers.

"Porterhouse, and make it rare," will not be a household expression nor a hotel or restaurant commonplace for some time to come, if the present prices of beef are maintained "Small steaks" have soared to the realm of luxuries and rib roasts belong only to the affluent.

Prices of all fresh meats yesterday reached a war-time scale and quotations were the highest in twenty-five years. Packing houses started the price ball flying skyward, butchers and retailers, in self-defense, had to push it along, and the end is not in sight.

"We had to pay twelve cents a pound this morning for beef by the carcass, an increase of five cents a pound in a few months," said the head of a pure-food firm that has branches in several New Jersey cities, with headquarters in Newark, "and the retail price of all meat was raised two cents a pound this morning. The manager of our fresh meat business, which is very large, told me today we are not making any profits on meat, and he suggested that we close the meat stalls for two months this summer. He said a good many butchers will suspend business for a couple of months, for consumers are now not buying meat, but are eating vegetables and cereals.

"Well, there is no reason why people should eat fresh meat in hot weather. Doctors say it produces rheumatism and other diseases and that it is better to eat vegetables and cereals in the summer. Our sales of oatmeal, crushed oats and other cereals has increased greatly, lately, and our men report that vegetable dealers in Centre Market are doing a largely incresed business, and also that vegetables are plenty and low in price.

The "Big Four" Blamed.

"You ask what has caused the big increase in the price of meat. Why, the 'Big Four,' which controls the great slaughter and packing houses in the west and southwest, are booming the price on the veal that cattle on the hoof are scarce. But the truth is there are tens of thousands of cattle on the plains ready for market and are held there instead of being shipped to market to supply the demand and thus keep prices down. Fresh meat has not been so high in fully thirty years, and I think the Federal government ought to take steps to protect the people from the robbery by the meat barons."

A housewife who has dealt with one butcher for years and paid him a good price because he gave her splendid beef for roasting and fine steaks and chops, yesterday tried a butcher who she was told sold a couple of cents cheaper than the other butcher. But when she asked the price of lamb chops he said it was 2 cents a pound more than it was yesterday.

"He told me he couldn't help it, for the wholesalers raised the price on him this morning," she said to a reporter, "and that he was not making a cent on the meat he sold. He also said that if prices are not reduced soon he will have to close his shop, for people would stop buying meat and buy only vegetables and cereals."

Two Cents a Pound Raise.

Wholesalers said last night that they were charged two cents a pound more for a carcass of beef yesterday morning than they paid the day before. They declared that they were at the mercy of the Western packers and the only way to force the meat barons to reduce prices was for people to not buy any fresh meat this summer.

Choice porterhouse steak sold yesterday at 28 and 30 cents a pound, as against 26 and 28 cents early this week. Sirloin steaks were three cents a pound dearer and spring lambs were up from 20 to 22 cents, and the fresh cut rib roast was increased three cents a pound and is expected to go up to 25 cents.

"We do not know what to make of it," said a retail dealer. "Week after week the prices increase, and the result is a falling off in our business and poor profits on the business we do. For, you know, a house with an established line of patrons must look after its interests and proceed with extreme care in raising rates to meet the increase in the wholesale price."

Vegetable Dealers Easy.

Vegetable dealers say their business has increased in an extraordinary degree within a week because of the big advance in the price of meat to consumers. With public enlightenment as to the nutritive value of the products of the ground and the low prices charged for them, many who had meat on their tables at least once a day now do not have it more than twice a week.

The ground has been most bountiful in its gifts this season, according to vegetables dealers, and save for celery, which is now going out of season, prices are low. The best asparagus, for example, now sells at 25 cents a bunch. The market is filled with pink-skinned new potatoes two quarts of which are sold for 25 cents. All sorts of beans are 10 cents a quart; cabbage is 5 cents a head, and lettuce, onions, and the like, are all low. Carrots, turnips and beets are scarce just now, but the prices have not as yet been affected.

ACCUSES WESTFIELD LAWYER.

Society Man Makes Charges, Defendant Is Fined and His Counsel Gives Appeal Notice.

Westfield, June 11.—A disorderly conduct trial before Justice of the Peace E. R. Collins and a twelve-man jury, attracted much attention here Tuesday night. William G. Peckham, one of the wealthiest residents of this place, and a practising lawyer in New York, was the defendant, and John D. Gluck, a young society man of the town, was complainant.

It was shown that on last Saturday Gluck and three others were traveling along Mountain avenue in an automobile when they met Peckham, who was riding horseback. The automobile scared the horse so that it ran upon a lawn. This, it was claimed, so angered Peckham that he rode after the automobile and used such language that the complaint was based.

Frederick A. Taggert represented the complainant, and Peckham had Town Attorney Paul Q. Oliver to assist him in conducting his defense. The complaint was backed by the testimony of those in the Gluck automobile, and the defense had people subpoenaed from many houses on the block on Mountain avenue where the accident occurred, to show that his language on the occasion, while loud in tone, was mild as to terms.

After deliberating for nearly an hour, the jury brought in a verdict of guilty and asked the leniency of the court on account of provocation. The court imposed a fine of $5 and costs. The fine was not paid, as the defendant's attorney gave notice that he will try to have the verdict set aside.

SEEKING THE HEIR TO AN ESTATE OF $10,000.

Hoboken, June 11.—If a son of Mary Francis Rein Bulwinkle, of this city, wants to get $10,000 bequeathed to him by his grandfather he will have to appear before July 15, as after that date he will be treated as dead so far as the administration of the estate is concerned. John J. Pheelan, a lawyer, of 90 West Broadway, New York, yesterday began to advertise throughout the country in hope of finding the missing heir. If Bulwinkle is now living he is twenty-four years old. The heirs who are interested in finding the young man and who have retained Pheelan assert that there are those who know where the son is but refuse to tell. In case the young man cannot be found the $10,000 will go to the mother.

On March 31, 1883, Mary Francis Rein was married to Martin Bulwinkle, of this city. Soon afterward the child was born. Soon the child was placed in the care of others by its mother. It was said that none but Mrs. Bulwinkle knew where the child was placed. In 1903 Bulwinkle died and in 1904 John C. Rein, father of Mrs. Bulwinkle, a resident of Hoboken, died, leaving a will which disposed of about $30,000. After making several minor bequests and leaving $500 for the care of his family lot in the Lutheran Cemetery in Manhattan, Rein specified that the rest of his property should be divided equally and held in trust by Andrew Wolf, of 566 Eighth avenue, for the children of Mrs. Bulwinkle and for his own wife, Mrs. Anna Rein. The will also said that should none of Mrs. Bulwinkle's children be living at the testator's death, the $10,000 meant for her children should go to the mother.

The heirs interested in finding Mrs. Bulwinkle's son assert that it would be for her interest not to tell what she did with the child and to prevent them from finding out where he was. Assuming that this was her policy, the heirs decided to advertise extensively throughout the country in the hope that the young man may learn the facts. A liberal reward will be paid by the heirs to any one who tells the whereabouts of the son.

State Prison for Wifebeater.

Hackensack, June 11.—Hugh Weir, an habitual wifebeater, of Hackensack, was sent to State prison by Judge Demarest yesterday to serve two years. The court told Weir he was a despicable character.

A CONVENTION PRIMER

Important Information Concerning Past and Coming National Political Conventions.

METHOD OF SELECTING DELEGATES.

On what basis are delegates selected for the Republican and Democratic national conventions?

Two delegates are admitted in each convention for each electoral vote in the states, the electors of each state being equal to the whole number of senators and representatives in congress. In the Democratic convention each territory is represented by six delegates, in the Republican convention by two.

In what manner are the delegates from the states selected?

The four delegates at large (two for each senator) are chosen at a state convention, while the others, two in each congressional district, are chosen at district conventions.

How are the territorial delegates selected?

In the same way as those from the congressional districts.

What are alternates?

Men chosen to take the place of delegates in case of death or inability to attend the convention—largely an honorary position.

What is the primary system?

A direct vote of the people for candidates ratified by a formal convention.

When are the electors chosen?

At the same time the delegates to the national convention are selected.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Today is the last day of school in the Township. The graduation exercises of the grammar grades will be held in the New Market Baptist church tonight, when twenty-eight pupils will receive diplomas from President A. G. Nelson, of the Board of Education. Of these twenty-five are graduates of the eighth grade and three are graduates of the tenth grade. The address will be by Rev. George H. Gardner and Rev. C. W. F. Attlee, of South Plainfield, will also speak. Others who are to take part in the exercises are Superintendent W. F. Mets and Rev. H. N. Jordan, who will offer the invocation and benediction. The class motto is "Nulla Vestigia Retrorsum" and the class colors are pink and green.

Those who are to receive diplomas are the Misses Sarah Dayton, Jennie Dunn and Edith Giles, of the Tenth Grade; the Misses Barbara Bieler, Sarah Cole, Edna Dutcher, Zella Freeman, Marion Geary, Nellie Giddes, Norah McDonough, Hannah Nelson, Hazel Piddington, Edwina Reusch and Edith Schomp, Adelbert Barras, Antone Barone, Walter Grauert, Benjamin Giles, Mervin La Rue, Rene von Minden, Leslie Randolph and John Sebring, of the Eighth Grade.

Dodwell, Giddes and John Dutcher were photographed as members of the Plainfield High School baseball nine yesterday afternoon. The team will conclude a successful season with a game with Bayonne High School tomorrow at Bayonne.

W. G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., received three candidates for initiation at their regular meeting last night. A social hour followed the business session.

The Dunellen F. C. nine will cross bats with the Plainfield Jr. O. U. A. M. team on the local diamond tomorrow afternoon.

Commencement exercises of the Whittier School will be held next Thursday evening in the Presbyterian church.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The exhibition of school work held at the school yesterday afternoon was a most creditable one and was well attended by the parents and friends of the school. The exhibits being among the best the school has yet shown.

Joseph Swalbach has resigned his position with the Seeley Mill Company and wil take a position with the Hall Signal Company at Garwood.

The public school closed today for the summer vacation, the commencement exercises will be held tomorrow night in the Baptist church.

Ortlieb and Alberts will be the battery used by the local team against Flemington in the game at Flemington Saturday.

The borough street committee is having a roadway made from North avenue to the new borough hall.

Philip Jahn has started work on his new house on Park avenue, adjoining his mother's property.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The annual strawberry and ice cream festival which was held in Washington Hall last night by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist church was a big success and was attended by a large number of those old friends from the outlying districts who years ago were residents here, and some of whom were formerly members of the congregation in the days when the South Plainfield body was the only Protestant organization within a radius of several miles. The festival therefore became the meeting place of many old friends and the social part was an enjoyable in recalling many old memories. Mrs. Anna Augusta Ward celebrated her sixtieth birthday yesterday, so it is said, by eating a plate of ice cream for each year of her age.

Marjorie Voorhees is staying for a few days with her uncle at Lakeside house. Miss Voorhees has been studying too hard at High School and has been obliged to spend a short vacation in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Alletta McDowell, who was bitten by one of the Hunt club hounds on Sunday is recovering rapidly and no after results are feared, as the dog was young and its teeth showed no signs of virus.

Mrs. and Miss N. B. Smalley, of Plainfield, spent a pleasant day Wednesday visiting friends in the village. They returned to Plainfield this morning.

Mrs. Ida Harris went by auto to Tottenville yesterday and visited her aunt, Mrs. Mary Van Ness.

Mrs. Charles Shick, of Millville, went to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Edward Nessan, last evening, and, as her custom, entered the room without knocking. Not recognizing Mrs. Shick in the darkness the family's dog sprang at her throat and when beaten off renewed the attack, tearing her clothing to shreds and inflicting wounds five inches long on her arm. A doctor cauterized the wounds. The animal was killed.

CALLS CONGRESSMAN FOWLER "LABOR'S ENEMY"

In an address which was given up to a careful analysis of the labor situation before a large gathering of union carpenters in the headquarters on Elizabeth avenue, Elizabeth, yesterday, General Organizer J. D. Pierce, of Washington, referred to the political machinations of legislators who have allied themselves with capital, and attacked Congressman Fowler, for his open antagonism to the labor interests.

The Federation official exhorted union men to work untiringly along lines that will result in the unsating of representatives who have in their opinion failed to show a disposition to stand for fair consideration of organized labor, and he insisted that the most dangerous weapon in the hands of the toiler today is the ballot.

"Congressman Fowler is a great politician," said Organizer Pierce, "but he is drunk with the wine of his success in the national body and with the power he is in a position to wield through his association with the kings of finance. He has allowed it to be understood that no matter what claim may be made by organized labor it is not deserving of attention. The union man who does not fight his re-nomination will not be living up to his duty."

CLASSIFY POSITIONS IN THE CIVIL SERVICE

The classification of a majority of the positions in the different departments in the county service was tentatively arranged by the State Civil Service Commission at the Court House, at Newark, yesterday. President Willis F. Johnson, Colonel James R. Mullikin and Secretary Gardner R. Colby were present.

The heads of the various departments were consulted, and among the results reached was that all attendants, nurses and orderlies in the asylums and hospitals will be in the non-competitive class, while the keepers in the jail and penitentiary will go in the competitive class. The wardens and deputy wardens will go in the latter also and so will Chief Probation Officer John J. Gascoyne and his staff.

Those marked "exempt" are Timothy E. Scales, clerk of the Grand Jury, and Harry Hensel, chief clerk of the county auditor's office.

ORANGE CHRONICLE BUYER.

William E. Gilmore Will Organize Company to Conduct the Business.

William E. Gilmore, general manager for Thomas A. Edison's business interests, was the actual bidder for the plant of the Orange Chronicle on Monday. Alfred Yankauer, who bid in the building, plant and newspapres for $21,600, represented Mr. Gilmore. The latter is also the president of the Essex Press of Newark.

In the event of the sale being confirmed by the court, it is Mr. Gilmore's intention to organize a company and conduct the business under the management of Harry M. Friend, for many years connected with The Chronicle and now general manager of the Essex Press. The statement as to who Mr. Yankauer represented was authorized by Mr. Gilmore.

A report that Mr. Gilmore had resigned, or intended to resign, from the Edison interests was denied both by Mr. Edison and Mr. Gilmore.

AGAINST VOTING MACHINES.

East Newarkers Present Petition to Borough Council.

A petition bearing 250 signatures was presented to the East Newark Borough Council last night asking that a special election be ordered looking to the abolishment of voting machines. The question was referred to the committee of the whole, but several citizens present urged immediate action on the petition.

Mayor Cornelius A. McGlennon assured the citizens that their desires would be fully considered without serious delay.

Veteran for Vice-Presidency.

Should former Governor Murphy be chosen for Vice-President, it is stated that it would be, in all probability, the last recognition of a veteran of the War of the Rebellion on the National Republican ticket. He is now 62 years old, and he quit the service of the Union in 1865, forty-three years ago, when still under 20 years of age. Four years hence, most of those who served in the War of 1861-1865 will be past the period when public office entices them. The last President who was a veteran was William McKinley.—Salem Standard.

COMBINE IN PIANOS; CAPITAL $12,000,000.

Trenton, June 11.—The American Piano Company was incorporated at the Secretary of State's office yesterday with a capitalization of $12,000,000.

The incorporators are Ernest J. Knabe, Jr., C. H. W. Foster and G. G. Foster.

The principal office of the concern is at 15 Exchange place, Jersey City. The corporation trust company is the statutory agent of the new concern.

It is understood that the forming of this company is for the purpose of consolidating the Wm. Knabe Piano Company of Baltimore, the Foster-Armstrong Piano Company of Rochester and the Chickering & Son of Boston.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

J. T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., June 8, 1908.

A Supplement to an Ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance for the assessment of taxes for the year 1908," approved May 4, 1908.

WHEREAS, The Board of School Estimate of this district, that is to say, the school district comprising the City of Plainfield, has fixed upon and determined the amount of Thirty-five Thousand Dollars ($35,000) as the amount of money necessary to be appropriated for the use of the public schools in such district, for the ensuing school year exclusive of the amount apportioned to it by the County Superintendent of Schools (all amounts apportioned to said school district under and by virtue of Chapter 267 of the Laws of this State for the year 1908 having been applied in reduction of local taxation for said year) and has made two certificates of said amount signed by all the members of said Board of School Estimate, one of which certificates has been delivered to the Board of Education of said school district, and the other to the Common Council of said city.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That pursuant to the act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey entitled: "An Act to establish a thorough and efficient system of free public schools, and to provide for the maintenance, support and management thereof," approved October 19, 1903, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, the sum of Thirty-five Thousand Dollars ($35,000) be and the same is hereby appropriated for the purposes aforesaid as other appropriations are made by the Common Council, and that said amount shall be assessed, levied and collected for the year nineteen hundred and eight in the same manner as moneys appropriated for other purposes in this city are required to be assessed, levied and collected.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Children's Day exercises will be held on Sunday at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, under the auspices of the Sunday-school.

The members of the First Presbyterian church Sunday-school have prepared an interesting Children's Day program to be given Sunday morning.

H. E. Parker, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will lead the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Friday night. A question box will be a feature following the address.

Under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church a lawn party and musical will be held at the home of Miss May Randolph, on East Second street, Saturday night.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, will preach the eleventh sermon on the series on "The Apostles Creed," Sunday night. The series comprises twelve discourses and have attracted considerable interest.

The Young People's Association of the First Baptist church had charge of the mid-week prayer meeting at the church, last night and Rev. Charles Fountain, who has just been graduated from Crozier Thelogical Seminary, conducted the service.

The annual party of the children and teachers of the Primary department, including the cradle roll, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will be held at the home of William D. Murray, 205 West Ninth street, Saturday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock.

WESTFIELD.

Property owners on Mountain avenue, Westfield, have received ten days more in which to clear the culverts from the gutters in front of their premises. Those who have not removed the obstructions in that time will be prosecuted for the penalty for obstructing the road.

Westfield's town clerk has been directed to notify the telephone company that it is not complying with the terms of its franchise, as telephones ordered six months ago have not yet been installed.

Lloyd Thompson has been elected secretary and Leonard G. Venn treasurer of the Westfield Mutual Building and Loan Association.

What Stove for Summer?

Nothing adds to kitchen convenience in summer weather like a New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove. Anything that any stove can do the "New Perfection" will do, and do it better. Bakes, roasts, boils, toasts; heats the wash water and the sad irons, and does it without dissipating its heat through the room to your discomfort. The actually keeps the kitchen cool—actually makes it comfortable for you while doing the family cooking, because, unlike the coal range, its heat is directed to one point only—right under the kettle. Made in three sizes, fully warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo LAMP affords a mellow light that is very grateful to tired eyes—a perfect student or family lamp. Brass, nickel plated, hence more durable than other lamps.

If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 14, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic—How to choose a life work—I Kings iii. 5-15.

The choice of a life work is a subject of the greatest importance and oftentimes one of great perplexity and anxiety. It is often settled for us by the choice of our fathers before us. Multitudes of boys follow the profession, business or trade of their fathers, and to them the question has no concern. But the boy who stands upon the threshold of life, about to choose his life work, faces one of the great crucial moments of his career. That choice will have a tremendous influence upon his life. It will largely decide whether his life itself shall be a failure or a success. It requires, therefore, the most serious and prayerful consideration.

What, then, are some of the elements that should enter into the determination of this choice.

1. God should be consulted. Parents and friends will be interested. They will give advice and make suggestions. But God must not be left out of consideration. In prayer we should ask Him to guide us, nor should we ever think for a moment of engaging in a work that would be displeasing to God or that is in any sense disreputable or dishonorable. Our supreme business in life is "the King's business," and our life work should help us rather than hinder us in the service of God. William Carey, "the consecrated cobbler," once said, "My business is preaching the gospel, but I cobble shoes to pay expenses."

2. Natural inclinations should be an important factor in deciding our life work. Unless we do that in which we find real pleasure and joy, the work of life will be awfully irksome and an almost unendurable burden. A man who had made a great success in his chosen pursuit once said, "My work is my play." It was so congenial to him that working was like playing. And just here it is well to remember that no honest work in life is to be despised. If our inclinations do not lead us to choose a learned profession or a distinguished career, this should not influence us in our choice. The nobility of work depends upon the worker and not upon the work. The most humble work may be glorified by the dignity of the man performing it, and the most exalted labor may be debased by the character of the one engaged in it. Jesus was a carpenter and placed a halo about His trade. Pontius Pilate wore the purple robe, but disgraced it by cowardice and injustice. Better a carpenter plus manhood than a king minus it. But, on the other hand, if one of the higher professions or careers appeal to us, no matter what difficulties may seem to be in the way, we should courageously choose it. If willing to deny ourselves to attain an end in life, it can usually be attained. In placing a strong inclination in our hearts for a certain life work God has called us to it, and He will help us to attain to it.

3. Natural ability should be an important factor in deciding our life work. What we can do should be most influential in our choice. Youth has its dreams: It builds its air castles, but in the light of ability many of these must fade away, and yet many not appreciating their limitations "rush in where angels fear to tread." The result is incapables, misfits in all professions and business pursuits. Over a millinery store in Philadelphia is a sign that reads, "Miss Fitt, Milliner." There are many misfit milliners in more than name only and misfits in all occupations. Overfond parents often direct their children to callings for which they are not qualified. Many a good farmer has been spoiled to make a poor preacher. But saddest of all misfits in life are those where circumstances have forced men of real ability into a life work totally unfit for them. In many mills and factories, doing purely mechanical labor which to them is drudgery, are men of real genius and ability—artists plunging bars of iron into heated furnaces, architects blowing melted glass into various wares, men capable of weaving the destinies of others for good, quietly watching the weaver's shuttle as it adds a new thread to the texture being woven. Here are some of the real tragedies of life. And while many toil on, dreaming of what might have been, is it any wonder that others sometimes cry out against their fates and even against civilization and, as a drowning man catches at a straw, fly to socialism, and even worse, with the vain hope of finding relief? But patience should be their watchword. God moves slowly sometimes, but He moves, and a brighter day is surely dawning for the toilers in our land.

Whatever your life work be, do it well, to the best of your ability. If you seem to have made a mistake in your choice, spend not the days in vain regrets. Whatever your work, do it unto God and not unto men, and when He makes up the final records of life the great question will be not what was our life work, but how did we do it.

Need In India.

C. V. Vickrey, the popular secretary of the Young People's missionary movement, has been visiting India, and in India Christian Endeavor he gives his impressions regarding our social work in that empire. Among other things he says: "If I were [illegible] in comparison I should [illegible] say that important as it is [illegible] Christian Endeavor in the home land it is even more important [illegible] where the need for [illegible] in all forms is more urgent."

CHAPTER IV.

The Waltz.

"DANCE with me!" repeated Sonia.

The faroff orchestra had struck up a dashing, gay Marsovian air. Impelled by the music and her glance of daring, Danilo sprang forward.

In an instant the two were whirling madly amid the intricacies of a wild Russian dance such as has for countless centuries been performed from Siberia's ice plain to Tartar steppes—a dance of youth, agility, utter abandon.

Yet as they came panting to a halt at the last crashing note of music the face of neither reflected the exhilaration the swift motion and stirring measures usually evoked. In fact, Danilo's brow wore a very perceptible scowl. Sonia, too, was downcast. Had her rash experiment failed?

"You didn't enjoy that," said she.

"Not especially," he confessed. "Did you?"

"No. You don't dance as well as you did."

"You've probably grown to prefer French partners," he replied, piqued at the reflection on his dancing.

"From all I hear," she retorted, "you have little right to reproach me on that score. You dance a good deal at Maxim's, don't you?"

"Now and then," he admitted.

"And with what sort of partners, I wonder?" she scoffed, a touch of scorn in her sweet voice.

"With polite ones," said Danilo icily.

She winced ever so little at the reproof and went on.

"I suppose you dance better with them than with me."

"Possibly," he agreed. "You see, I, too, may prefer French partners."

She raised her great dark eyes to his, a world of meaning in them.

"Do you?" she asked, almost in a whisper.

The distant orchestra had been playing again, this time not a native air, but a dreamy, infinitely sweet Viennese waltz. The opening notes of the haunting melody, though softened by distance, were wafted none the less distinctly to the listening couple.

Again their eyes met. With a mutual impulse they drew toward each other. Then began a dance as different from the stiffly conventional ballroom waltz as moonlight differs from a gasoline flare. With more than a hint of the free, marvelously graceful poses of Slavonic dancers, Danilo and Sonia began their wondrous waltz.

Throwing herself back into the strength of his circling embrace, the girl's outstretched arms swayed like wind blown lilies in rhythm with the music, her light step scarcely touching earth as the prince guided her through the mazes of the dance.

It was a strange, dexterous blend of east and west, of lissom oriental posturing and of gliding, modern waltz steps—the very poetry of motion. Nor from the first note until the last strain of music died away did either dancer's eyes leave the other's.

Love, eager and eternal, was in the gaze of each. Eye said openly to eye what sullen pride forced back from the lips.

"A lady went into the summer house with a gentleman."

Then a last dreamy chord and the music was hushed. Danilo and Sonia started, amazed, as though from some vision of paradise. The widow, fearful lest by impulsive word she might wreck her plan of bringing Danilo to her feet, darted breathlessly away to welcome a new group of guests. The prince, left alone, stared after her, open mouthed. A clapping of applauding hands aroused him.

"Bravo, bravo, my dear prince!" wheezed the ambassador, toddling forward. "What a delightful little dance! But is it customary to catch one's partner in a jiu jitsu grip like that, or is it a fashion that has come in since my waltzing days?"

The old bore's feeble jest brought Danilo quickly back to earth and to a sense of everyday surroundings.

"Were you looking for me?" he asked, none too civilly.

"Only to see if you had succeeded yet in finding who the lady is with whom De Jolidon is in love. She must be made to win him away from any ideas of marrying the widow."

"To blazes with that and all the rest of your silly plans!" shouted Danilo. "Don't worry any more about the widow. It's no use, I tell you. She is going to marry a Frenchman in spite of us all! And," he went on bitterly, goaded by the chagrin and abject disappointment in Popoff's face, "I'm going to dance at her wedding."

"Going to marry a Frenchman, is she?" yelled the distracted ambassador. "Preposterous! I'll find a way of stopping it! And it is De Jolidon she thinks of marrying?"

"What's that to me? I don't know who she's engaged to, and"—

But Popoff waited to hear no more. Catching sight of Nish, he rushed upon that unhappy clerk.

"Find M de Jolidon!" he commanded. "Keep your eye on him all the rest of the evening. See if he makes love to the widow and report to me. I have already told Mme. Popoff to sound him on the subject. Among us all we ought to learn something before we're done."

"You'll learn 'something' if you keep on spying," muttered Danilo under his breath as he moved away. "But I'll bet a year's income it'll be something that will give you more surprise than pleasure."

Dusk was falling. Above the myriad colored lights that dotted the garden the moon was rising. Along one of the hedged paths leading to the summer house a man and a woman were strolling—Mme. Natalie Popoff and M. de Jolidon.

"And so your worthy husband set you the task of finding out whom I am in love with?" De Jolidon was saying.

"Yes," the ambassador's young wife answered. "He is afraid you will marry the widow."

"Why shouldn't I?" queried De Jolidon jokingly. "You told me to."

"But—but you won't, will you?" she pleaded. "Why don't you look at me? What are you looking at?"

De Jolidon's eye had fallen on the fan where it lay forgotten on the table.

"The fan you lost and that your husband pocketed," he said, handing it to her.

"Thank goodness!" Natalie exclaimed, seizing it; then:

"Lend me a pencil."

She wrote a sentence on the fan directly beneath the three words he had scribbled the night before at the ball.

"There," she sighed, handing it to him; "keep that as a reminder."

He held the fan up to the light and read:

"I—am—a—dutiful—wife."

"Remember that always," she adjured.

"Natalie!" he cried passionately.

"It is true—I am a dutiful wife. If I have been foolish enough to listen to your lovemaking, at least I have never encouraged it. I have always rebuffed you for conscience's sake. I am a dutiful"—

"Why remind me of the hopelessness of my love?" murmured De Jolidon. "You may refuse to reciprocate it, but you cannot prevent my telling you"—

"But I can. After this evening we must not meet again. My husband trusts me. This must be our farewell interview. Don't try to alter my purpose. I have made up my mind. After this evening I shall never"—

"Natalie, you can't mean"—

"I do. This is the last talk we two shall ever have together."

"Then," implored De Jolidon, "if it is really to be our farewell interview, why must we talk here in the garden, where at any moment others may come to claim your attention? Grant me a final half hour of your society all to myself. Let the talk be uninterrupted. Let us sit in the little summer house over there. See—it is empty."

They entered the little inclosed arbor. It was lighted by a string of Japanese lanterns, and two rustic chairs were at opposite sides of its round center table. There was a door at each end of the tiny room—an ideal spot for a tete-a-tete chat now that the moonlight had wooed most of the guests out of doors.

The light wicker door swung shut behind the couple. Natalie quite enjoyed the prospect of listening to her adorer's melodramatic words of farewell and of posing heroically as a self sacrificing, dutiful wife. In half an hour at most she would rejoin her husband with the righteous consciousness in her heart of having dismissed forever the one man besides Popoff who had ever made love to her.

So interested was Natalie in De Jolidon's parting speech that she did not hear the ambassador, just outside, declare excitedly:

"Nish, I'm sure I saw that summer house door close behind a lady's skirt! Let's see who is in there!"

(To Be Continued.)

THE MISSES WILDEY IN NEW YORK TENNIS FINALS

The Misses Edna and Natalie Wildey, playing together in the metropolitan championship tournament, won their way into the final round on the West Side Lawn Tennis Club courts, New York, yesterday, by defeating Mrs. A. G. Miles and Mrs. George L. Chapman in the semi-final round, 5-7, 6-4 and 6-4. The match was hard fought, the first set running to deuce games and the Plainfielders being defeated 7-5. The other two sets were also closely contested, the local pair winning out by scores of 6-4.

In the preliminary round, the Misses Wildey won from Mrs. Walter C. Auferman and Miss Brown in straight sets, 6-2 and 6-1, but it took three sets to decide the match in the first round, when the local players were matched against Miss Marie Wagner and Mrs. A. H. MacCarthy. The scores were 6-2, 2-6 and 6-4.

Miss Erra Marcus, of the Danforth Club, winner of the East Jersey Association singles tournament at the Country Club Saturday, was defeated in the second round of the women's singles tournament. Mrs. William H. Pouch defeated her after a three set match. The scores were 2-6, 6-3 and 8-6.

BASEBALL.

The Garwood B. W. C. baseball team would like to arrange games with any junior club, aged sixteen years. Return games guaranteed. Address John Brockfield, No. 6, Hallow avenue, Westfield.

P. C. C. WOMEN MATCHED IN CONSOLATION TENNIS.

The two County Club players in the consolation women's singles tournament of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association, Miss Mildred and Miss Janet Wildey, were matched to play each other in the drawings which were held last night. Miss Elizabeth Thomas and Mrs. A. H. Church, both of the Elizabeth Town and Country Club, are to be the other set of opponents in the consolation tourney.

Inasmuch as the pairings have divided the players by clubs in this way, the Plainfielders will play their match at the Country Club and the other match will be played at the Elizabeth Town and Country Club. It is probable that the match between the Misses Wildey will be played Saturday afternoon. The final round will be played at the Country Club. The winner and runner-up will receive prizes of cut glass and silver, offered by the club.

P. C. C. Boys' Singles Saturday.

A boys' singles tournament has been announced by the tennis committee of the Plainfield Country Club to be held at the club courts Saturday morning, play to begin at 10 o'clock. The affair is a club tournament, and boys under fifteen years of age are eligible to enter. Entries close with T. M. Day, of Carlton avenue, tomorrow night at 6 o'clock.

Y. M. C. A.—Trenton Saturday.

The Y. M. C. A. nine will meet the Trenton association team Saturday afternoon at Crescent Oval in a State league game. The Trenton nine has not yet played a game, both contests scheduled to date having been postponed by rain.

PAY FIVE DOLLAR FINE FOR CALLING WOMAN WITCH.

There was an echo in the Paterson police court yesterday of Old World superstition of a vampire that crawls through the keyholes and kills babies, and Joseph and Teresa Ferrissi were fined $5 for circulating such a story relative to Mrs. Annie Basile, of No. 61 Wayne avenue.

The Ferrissis live in lower Ellison street and have been in Paterson only a short time. Mrs. Basile and her brother have been in this country many years and have always had the respect of every one who knows them. When the Ferrissis arrived from Italy stories began to circulate about old country, and the deeds with which she was credited were preposterous.

Mrs. Basile declared yesterday that she traced the stories to the Ferrissis. The charge was denied positively, but Mrs. Basile and her brother were greatly agitated and very emphatic in their statements. They produced witnesses who had heard the rumors circulated, so the alleged slanderers were adjudged guiyty by Recorder Carroll and were fined.

SCHOOLMA'AMS SAVE COMPANION IN WATER.

Pennington, June 11.—Grasping a companion by her hair, yesterday, two school teachers, Miss Elizabeth Derr and Miss Ella Taylor, while out boating, saved her from sinking in the deep water of Stony Brook. The rescued woman was Miss Bertha Bacon, of Philadelphia.

After the close of school yesterday the young women went to Stony Brook, at a point a mile from this place, to take a boat ride. The bed of the stream where the young women embarked shelves straight down from the bank to a depth of ten feet.

As Miss Bacon stepped into the boat she lost her balance, and fell overboard. As they were too far from any place whence help could be summoned her companions were forced to act for themselves. Leaning far over the edge of the boat Miss Derr, grasped the hair of her friend, and, assisted by Miss Taylor, succeeded in bringing Miss Bacon to the bank. She was unconscious, and is was half an hour before she was able to walk.

DENTAL SOCIETY HOLDS BANQUET AT PARK CLUB.

The first annual meeting and banquet of the Plainfield Dental Society was held last night at the Park Club and was attended by about twenty members. An elaborate menu was prepared and served by Mrs. Johnson, after which these officers were elected for the coming year:

President, Dr. Frank Whitney French; vice-president, Dr. B. F. Leonard; secretary, Dr. Guy Hillman; treasurer, Dr. Frank T. Clawson.

Following the business meeting the members enjoyed themselves on the bowling alleys, and playing pool and billiards. The society is now one year old.

Seeks a Sixth Divorce.

Los Angles, Cal., June 11.—For the sixth time since 1884 Mrs. Grace Snell Love, daughter of the late Amos J. Snell, a Chicago millionaire, is petitioning for a divorce. It is the second time she has filed suit against her present husband, Hugh M. Love, secretary of the Los Angles Board of Health, whom she married in 1906. Cruelty and improper conduct by Mr. Love is alleged in the petition by Mrs. Love.

DOG ATTACKS MINISTER.

Animal Tears Trousers of Pastor on First Visit.

The Rev. Frederick C. Uhl, pastor of St. James' M. E. church, in New Brunswick, had a fight with a bull dog yesterday at the home of Lewis Ayres, a milkman, of Voorhees Station. He was making his way through the front yard when the bull dog ran out at him.

The preacher tried to pat it, when the animal made a grab at his leg. Quick action on the part of the minister saved his leg, but the animal got a firm grip on his trousers and held on with bulldog tenacity. Help arrived from the house, and Mr. Uhl was rescued.

Mr. Ayres had the dog tied up for a month, and yesterday was the first time he had let him run loose. He had the animal as a protection to keep wayfarers from the place. It was Mr. Uhl's first call at the home.

He had intended going still further into the country yesterday to make another call, but his trousers were torn so badly that he went home as soon as possible.

VICTORY FOR G. W. V. MOY IN DUNHAM—P. S. C. CASE.

The decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Garret T. Dunham against the Public Service Corporation, regarding the demurrer of the Public Service Corporation to the declaration filed by G. W. V. Moy, counsel for Mr. Dunham, is in favor of the complainant, and the case will now be tried on its true merits.

In this case Mr. Dunham seeks to recover damages from the Public Service Corporation for damages alleged to have been received while riding as a passenger on one of the company's trolley cars West Front street, near Clinton avenue. His injuries were such that he was confined to his home for months.

Entertained at Bridge Whist.

Mrs. Lemuel W. Serrell gave a bridge whist party at her home on West Seventh street, yesterday afternoon for a large number of friends, and all greatly enjoyed the social features. Those who received prizes after the game were Mrs. Joseph M. Shellabarger, Miss Virginia Hegeman, Mrs. W. L. Lockwood, Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs. John E. Faber, Mrs. C. H. Deknatel and Miss Lucy Otterson. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of play.

Cemetery Association Elects.

At the annual meeting of the Hillside Cemetery Association, William S. Tyler was elected a trustee to fill the existing vacancy caused by the death of Col. Mason W. Tyler. Alexander Gilbert, A. M. Runyon and J. Herbert Case were re-elected. The trustees have organized as follows: President, O. T. Waring; vice-president, Charles W. McCutchen; secretary and treasurer, Alexander Gilbert.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The congregation of Christ P. E. church, Millville, is raising funds for a fine new house of worship, to cost about $45,000.

The annual commencement musicale by the students of Peddie Institute, Hightstown, will be held in the chapel Saturday evening.

Assemblyman W. C. Cattell, of Wenonah, yesterday made formal announcement of his candidacy for Senator on the Republican ticket.

United States Senator Briggs and Congressman Wood were the guests of honor at a reception tendered last night by the Republican Club of Trenton.

James Trainor, eight-four years old, an inmate of the St. Joseph home for the Aged, in Beverly, is in a critical condition as the result of a fall from a chair, breaking his hip, yesterday.

Accused of being one of a crowd of youths who bombarded a grocer at Broadway and Walnut street, Camden, Russell Sweeten was sent to jail for ten days by Recorder Stackhouse yesterday.

Paul Mullin, nine years old, while playing tag with several children at Florence, yesterday, ran against an old board and a projecting rusty nail lacerated his face. The boy will be disfigured for life.

Falling from a trolley car at Sixth street and Kaighn avenue, Camden, last night, Nellie O'Hara, nineteen years old, of 500 Delancey street, Philadelphia, was injured about the chin and arms. She was taken to Cooper Hospital.

Bitten several nights ago by a mosquito, Mrs. Katherine Kirk, forty seven years old, of 125 Danenhower street, Camden, scratched the bite, and its was found at the Cooper Hospital yesterday that blood poisoning had developed.

Not satisfied with stealing $15 from the office of Samuel Albert, secretary of a loan association, at 703 Kaighn avenue, Camden, yesterday, thieves mutilated books and did other damage. City Detective Moffett is working on a clue.

Charles E. Snyder, of Lakewood, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Unitarian church, Franklin, Pa., and wil enter upon his duties on September 1. Professor Snyder has been a teacher in a preparatory school for several years, and has been prominently identified with the work of the Ocean County Anti-Bribery Society.

VARIOUS SUGGESTIONS FOR THE KITCHEN.

To preserve unused yolks of eggs, put the yolks in a cup or basin, dip a piece of kitchen paper in cold water and place over top of cup or basin. This will keep them for days.

When making suet crust, mix with boiling water instead of cold, and the result will be a much lighter pastry.

A mixture of three parts of linseed oil and one part of spirits of turpentine is the best preparation for restoring furniture that is marked or scrotched. It wil restore the wood to its original color and leave a lustre on the surface. Apply the mixture carefully and when dry polish with a woolen cloth.

When making pea soup, if the peas are boiled a little while, separately, with a pinch of common washing soda, they will be found to cook much more quickly. They do not need soaking.

It is not generally known that common alum, melted in an iron spoon over hot coals, form an exceedingfily strong cement for joining glass, china and metal, or breakages of any kind. Articles mended with this cement may be washed without fear of coming apart.

If new tinware is rubbed over with fresh lard, then thoroughly heated in the oven before it is used, it will never rust afterward.

To remove mildew from linen—Wash inwarm water with a good soap, and spread on the grass in the sun. Cover the mildewed parts with finely powdered chalk, dampening it from time to time as it dries, repeating the proces son the second day, and after washing, the stains will have disappeared. Mildew marks on leather can be removed by rubbing with a little petroleum ointment.

Paint marks on glass—Dip a penny in cold water and scrape off the paint with it, using the edge to scrape with. Another plan is to mix whiting with ammonia, and then add water to make it the consistency of cream. Put this on the paint mark, leave the paste on to dry, and then wash off with soap and hot water. New lamp glasses, if put in water and allowed to boil first, will last longer.

When stewing fruit, add the sugar after the fruit is cooked, but while it is still hot. By doing this a smaller quantity of sugar is needed.

A hint about mixing mustard—When mixing mustard, ad a saltspoon of salt and the same quantity of moist sugar, and mix with boiling water. It will be found to keep moist much longer and have a better taste.

Tennis Courts for Church Society.

Two tennis courts are being laid out in the lot next to the Grace M. E. church on Somerset street and they will be ready for play Saturday. The courts are for the use of members of the Epworth League of the church.

WHEN WASHING THE DELICATE COLORS.

An excellent laundress who has never been known to fade a summer frock says she has a special "fixative' for every color.

Alum used in the rinsing water will prevent green from fading. A handful of salt thrown into the rinsing water will set blue.

Oxgall is good to use for gray and brown. Hay water made by pouring boiling water over hay is excellent for washing tan or brown linen.

A tablespoonful of black pepper stirred into the first suds in which cottons are washed will prevent colors from running.

Five cents' worth of sugar of lead crystals dissolved in a pailful of water makes a solution which fixes the tone of pinks, blues and lavendars. he fabrics should remain in the sugar of lead bath half an hour or so before going to the suds.

These baths will not prevent a garment from fading if it is hung in the sun to dry. Delicate colors, in fact, any colors at all, are safe if dried in the house.

Vinegar is useful in reviving colors. Ad one teaspoonful of common vinegar to each quart of cold rinsing water. Thoroughly saturate the article, wring tightly and dry quickly.

If the color has been take out of silks by fruit stains, ammonia will usually restore it.

To wash brown Holland dresses, use bran, but no washing soda, and no soap unless the skirt is very dirty. Boil two handfuls of bran in one quart of water and strain through muslin. Put the bran on to boil again, as you will require a second supply of bran water for rinsing.

Cool the water by adding one quart of cold water to it. Then wash the skirt. You will be surprised to see how the bran extracts the dirt. Rinse first in bran water, then in plain water. Put the article through a wringer and iron while damp, on the wrong side.

P. H. S. Exams Began Today.

Final examinations in the Plainfield High School began today, when the pupils took tests in the subject they have the first and second periods of the school day. There are six periods and tomorrow the examinations will be held in subjects coming the third and fourth periods, while the subjects of the fifth and sixth periods will come Monday.

Fashionable Ostrich Plumes.

An exchange says that the loose curl, now so fashionable on fine ostrich plumes, can be obtained by holding the much bedraggled plume over the intense steam from boiling salt water. A shallow cake pan is half fielled with water and salt, vigorously boiled, and the ostrich plume is shaken in the salty vapor.

FORTY YEARS MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Woodruff Surrounded by Friends Celebrate the Event.

WEDDED LIFE SPENT HERE.

Well Known Real Estate Man and His Wife Have Host of Friends —Two Children From Their Union.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Woodruff, of East Second stree,t celebrated the fortieth anniversary of their wedding, last night, when a host of friends gathered to extend congratulations and wish the bride and groom many years of continued happiness and prosperity. The affair was an informal one and there were many features that combined to make it one of great enjoyment to all. The home was simply, yet beautifully decorated with flowers, roses and carnations being used chiefly in the parlor, reception and dining rooms.

In receiving the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff were assisted by their daughter, Mrs. Harry S. Potter, who came from her home in El Paso, Texas, to attend the anniversary. After congratulations the guests were invited to the reception and dining rooms, which join, and delightful refreshments were served. The large veranda and spacious lawn proved attractive places during the evening for those who did not care to remain indoors and from 8 until 10:30 o'clock all thoroughly enjoyed the happy event. The large number of beautiful gifts received by the bride and groom were also the objects of much admiration. They comprised cut-glass, chinaware, silverware and a profusion of flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff were schoolmates together in Rahway, where they were married. Mrs. Woodruff, whose maiden name was Miss Mary Beach, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beach, was born in Boston, but excepting a short time which she lived in Jersey City, her girlhood days were spent at Rahway, the birthplace of Mr. Woodruff. They were married Thursday, June 11, 1868, in the First Presbyterian church, Rahway, by the pastor, Rev. S. S. Sheddan, who has since died.

It was remarked by them last night that the day they were married, was almost identical with that of yesterday. Two weeks later they moved to Plainfield, taking up their residence on East Second street, where they have continued to live for forty years. When they first came to this city Mr. Woodruff engaged in the grocery business, but in 1872 he gave that up and entered the insurance and real estate business, opening an office on the second floor of the building, at Park avenue and Front street, where he has remained ever since.

During his long residence in Plainfield, Mr. Woodruff has always taken an active part in city affairs. He is a member of the Board of Trade, Plainfield Building & Loan Association, Columbia Lodge, A. O. U. W., and the Plainfield Exempt Firemen's Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff have for years been active workers at Trinity Reformed church, the latter being one of the prominent members of the Ladies' Christian Work Society. One of the most valued gifts received was a congratulatory letter from their former pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, who, because of his illness deeply regretted his inability to attend the anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff have two children, Mrs. Harry S. Potter, of El Paso, Texas, and Frank E., of Duer street, who is associated with his father in business. The guests present last night were from Rahway, Eat Orange, Newark, Elizabeth and this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Thomas of East Third street, entertained a number of friends at their home, last night, the program consisting of vocal and instrumental music, dancing and progressive euchre. Vocal selections were given by Clarence Rittenhouse and George F. Watts and mandolin solos by William Stewart. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Soper, Sr., Miss M. Soper, F. L. Soper, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George Doty, Mrs. George Demarest, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Thomas, the Misses Florence Windham, Emma Windham, Marion and Mabel Wakefield, Anna Doty, Florence and Edith Demarest, Martha DeCamp, Harriet Thomas and Messrs. Clarence Ritenhouse , Hugh Cornwall, William Stewart, William DeCamp and George Watts.

Monos Against East Millstone.

The Mono A. C., of this city, will play the East Millstone team at the latter place tomorrow afternoon. The local team has been playing good ball this year and it expects to score a victory tomorrow. The Monos also expect to meet the Bound Brook team in the near future.

ARRANGING TO MEET 1889 COUNTY ROAD TAX

The Fanwood Township Committee held a conference with Attorney W. R. Codington, last night, for the purpose of fixing upon the proportionate share of an $8,000 road tax assessment to be borne jointly by the township and the borough of Fanwood. The amount must be paid to the county treasurer next year and will be made up in the budgets of 1908 and 1909.

The assessment resulted from the county road improvements made in 1889 when South and Westfield avenues were mecadamized and widened. The connty shouldered two-thirds of the expense and the municipalities through which they pass the remainder. Twenty-four bonds were issued to meet the obligation and it is these that are now falling due.

At the time the pro rata share of the improvement was assessed. Fanwood boruogh had not been incorporated and the whole amount was placed against Fanwood township. With the separation of the two, no provision was made for the borough sharing a part of the cost and with the notice from the county collector that the money will soon fall due, steps were taken to settle upon the respective figures.

The proportion to be borne by the two municipalities was not fully decided upon last night but will be fixed at a future meeting.

NEW BRUNSWICK PRESS SUSPENDS PUBLICATION

"The Daily Press," published by the New Brunswick Publishing Company, did not appear yesterday morning, the publication having been suspended. The paper may be continued later. The bondholders have selected Charles A. Bloomfield and Robert Carson to look after their interests.

The paper is one of the oldest in Middlesex county. It was formerly "The Fredonian" and was an afternoon publication. When the plant was purchased by the present owners, in 1900, the publication was changed into a morning newspaper and has remained so ever since. Charles A. Prickett, of Metuchen, is the president of the company and Charles A. Bloomfield, of Metuchen, treasurer. W. B. Prickett, the editor and business manager, severed his connection with the paper on Saturday.

Plan Festival and Entertainment.

"The Loyal Band," Sunday-school Class, No. 24, of Trinty Refromed church, held a business meeting and social last evening at the home of Mrs. Edward Ross on Bank place, when it was decided to hold a festival and entertainment on Tuesday night, June 23, in Debele's Hall, provided the place can be secured for that date. The proceeds from the affair will be for the benefit of Trinity Reformed church. During the social hour that followed the business session last night, refreshments were served. Nearly all of the members of the class were present.

Will Sell School and Police Bonds.

Advertisements in The Daily Press today call attention to the fact that the Common Council will meet Monday night, June 29, at 8 o'clock, to receive sealed proposals for the proposed $95,000 issue of school bonds and $25,500 issue of police station bonws. The school bonds will be in denomination of $1,000 each, and will run from July 1, 1908 to July 1, 1958. The police station bonds will be in $500 denomination each, and will run from July 1, 1908 to 1916. Both issues will bear interest at the rate of four and one half per cent.

Wedding Serenader Hurt.

In his eagerness to tie noise-making instruments to a wedding coach on Fourth street, Wednesday night, James Lynch, a West End young man, fell and sustained a bad gash in the hand from a tin can. The wound was quite serious and required the services of a physician to sew it up.

NEW MARKET SCHOOL GRADUATES 22 PUPILS

Twenty-two graduates of the eighth and tenth grades of the New Market grammar school received diplomas from A. G. Nelson, president of the Board of Education, at the commencement exercises of the school held last night in the First Baptist church, Dunellen. The affair was well attended, parents and friends of the graduates being liberal with their applause of the various recitations and essays of the graduation program.

In his address to the class, Rev. George H. Gardner, pastor of the Baptist church, congratulated the pupils upon their work well done and upheld the ideals of manhood and womanhood. Rev. C. W. F. Attlee, of South Plainfield, also addressed the class, which was presented for diplomas by W. F. Mets. The invocation and benediction were offered by Rev. Henry N. Jordan, of the Seventh Day Baptist church.

The salutatory address, "The Launching," was by Miss Hannah Nelson, and the valedictory was given by Miss Jennie Dunn, in connection with an essay, the topic of which was "What Time Is It?" Music by an orchestra interspersed the program of recitations and the class song "Hail and Farewell," was a feature. Other pupils who took part in the program were the Misses Edith Giles, Nora McDonough, Sarah Cole, Zella Freeman, Edwina Reusch, Marion Geary, and Melvin LaRue and Walter Grauert. Aside from these, twelve other members of the class received diplomas. Their names follow:

The Misses Sarah Dayton, Barbara Bieler, Sarah Cole, Edna Dutcher, Nellie Giddes, Hazel Piddington and Edith Schomp, Adelbert Barras, Antone Barone, Benjamin Giles, Rene von Minden, Leslie Randolph and John Sebring.

COWS LOOSE ON SOMERSET ST., BARRY HALED BEFORE MAYOR.

Charles Barry, of Howard street, was haled before Mayor Townsend of the borough at a special session of court this morning. He was charged with allowing his cows to wander on Somerset street, and was released after a warning from His Honor.

Chief Marshal George Weiss arrested Barry early this morning upon finding his cows roaming around in the street at Somerset street and Codington avenune. He told the Mayor that the prisoner had been repeatedly warned about his straying cattle, but that complaints by the neighbors were frequent. Barry said that his boys were to blame. He said they took the animals to pasture and returned for the four horses, leaving the cows to stray as they would. Mr. Townsend hinted that a fine would be the result of another appearance of the stock owner.

Ballot For Carnival Queen.

Miss Margaret Townley, nominated by the Elks as queen of the firemen's carnival still proves the most popular of the candidates as reginal ruler of the carnival. Results of the balloting to date, including last night's collections, show that she now has a total of 2,467 votes. Miss Sarah Hopewell, the Woodhull and Martin store candidate, is now in second place, with 1,472 votes; Miss Mattie De Camp, Jr. O. U. A. M. is third with 1,368. Miss Ella M. Adams, F. O. E., has 1,233 and Miss Margaret King, Foresters, 900.

An Inter-Church Association.

Representatives of Protestant churches of all denominations in Somerset county will meet in the First Reformed church in Somerville next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, to consider, and, if the way be clear, to form a County Inter-Church Federation, along the lines of the National Council on Federation of 30 denominations held in New York in 1905. The representatives are to be the pastor and one lay delegate from each church in the county.

Wed at New Brunswick.

Miss Felma Mary Olson, of this city, and Otto Neher, of the borough, were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. John Hocker, at New Brunswick. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, officiated, and the ceremony, which was a quiet affair, was performed at 5 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Hocker were the only attendants. The couple will reside in this city, where the groom is employed in a local garage.

Hearings in Chambers.

A VICTIM OF APOPLEXY

Stricken While Returning Home, Judson Ianson Dies on the Road.

BODY FOUND EARLY TODAY.

Was Engineer of Jersey Central's Local Drill and Had Lived Here Nearly all His Life.

Judson Ianson, engineer of one of the Central's drill engines in this city, was found dead at an tive engineer on the New Jersey Central Railroad, was found dead at an early hour this morning near the Union avenue cemetery in Somerville. His remains were discovered by a farmer who was driving by. Officer Koch and Detective Totten were at once notified and they went to the place and identified Ianson. County Physician Long was notified and after he had made a careful examination the body was removed to Ianson's home on East High street.

There were no marks of violence on the body. Ianson's pocketbook and watch were missing and it was at first thought he may have been robbed, but they were later found at his home. Apoplexy is believed to have been the cause of his death. He was seen in town at a late hour last night, and was apparently in good health. Just how he came to be so far from home is a mystery, but it is thought he was slightly stricken when near home and wandered in a dazed condition until he fell. He was fifty-six years old.

Ianson was one of the best known railroaders in the state. He had only recently returned to work after an accident in which he lost two fingers of his right hand. He leaves a widow and two children, Harry, of Somerville, and Miss Ruth Ianson, of West Second street, this city. The deceased was born in Plainfield and had lived here the greater part of his life.

WATCHUNG GROCER MISSING; CREDITORS ATTACH STORE.

Several local concerns together with firms from New York have taken out attachment proceedings against Charles Frone, who conducted a grocery store at Watchung. It is said that he left the village Tuesday night, taking his family and furniture with him and that his whereabouts are unknown.

An Italian boy employed by Frone as clerk, opened the store as usual Wednesday morning but the proprietor failed to show up. He conducted business through the day and in the afternoon it was learned that Frone had gone away. The store has been closed by creditors and lawyers are seeking to straighten out the financial end of the tangle.

One of the heaviest creditors is the Dunham Grain Company which has retained Codington & Swackhamer to look after its interests. The building in which the grocery has been conducted is owned by Henry C. Meyer, of Scotch Plains, who succeeded William Demler in the business and in turn disposed of it to Frone.

Investigating C. H. Sulk's Sanity.

A commission to inquire into the mental condition of Charles H. Sulk, the well-to-do plumber, began its investigation yesterday in Jersey City. Sulk, who escaped from the State Hospital for the Insane at Morristown a few days ago, was sane enough to remain away, as officers were in waiting to take him back to the asylum. Sulk, who was in business for many years in Jersey City, moved to Newark a year ago. The insanity proceeding was instituted by his wife, who alleges he has been squandering his property, valued at $60,000, and is under the control of Adeline Smith, of Newark, to whom he has transferred some of the property. Sulk's counsel expects to show that his client has recovered his reason.

Want Grammar School Exercises.

Relatives and friends of this year's graduates of the Rahway public grammar schools are arranging to call a mass meeting to protest against the action of the Board of Education in doing away with commencement exercises in a church or public hall, and deciding to hold them in each school building. The school commissioners characterize the trouble as a tempest in a tea pot, declaring that practically all the other municipalities in the state have done away with elaborate grammar school commencement exercises.

Arthur Denton a Graduate.

Miss Pauline Denton, of Washington avenue, left today for Providence, R. I., where she will attend the commence ment exercises at Brown University, and witness the graduation of her brother, Arthur Denton. She wil also be a guest at the various social events held in connection with commencement week.

I. O. F. SUPREME COURT CONVENES ON TUESDAY

The Union county members of the New Jersey delegation to the triennial session of the Supreme Court of the Independent Order of Foresters, which opens at Toronto next Tuesday, will leave tomorrow. No little amount of interest in this meeting is being shown by Plainfield Foresters, mainly because of probable action in the matter of changing rates.

County Clerk James C. Calvert, one of the delegates from Elizabeth, expressed the opinion that the proposed change, which, in effect, is said to bar persons over 54 from insurance, will not be adopted by the convention.

Advance copies of the reports of officers to be made at the meeting have been received in this city, and that of the supreme chief ranger is seen to exhaustively review the situation as it affects insurance rates. At one point the report says:

"I am not unmindful of the fact that the members of our society have been led to believe in the past that they were paying for life protection, not term protection, and it will of necessity be a keen disappointment, and in many cases a great hardship to call upon them for additional contributions to make up deficiencies in the amounts they have paid in the past, which they had been led to believe were sufficient to pay for the benefits promised them. In view of this I hold that nothing but sheer necessity will justify the Supreme Court disturbing, by its legislation ,existing conditions with reference to the premiums or assessments to be paid by our membership"

In the report of the supreme secretary it is seen that the roll of membership December 31 last shows a total of 257,267, an increase during the year of 10,531.

SCOTCH PLAINS TEACHER GIVES FAREWELL RECEPTION.

Miss Halloway, a member of the teaching staff at the Scotch Plains school, tendered an informal reception to her pupils at the conclusion of the school year yesterday. The affair was of the nature of a farewell for Miss Halloway quits her duties as "schoolma'am" this term and will devote her time to mission work in future. Refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake, were served before the pupils bid their teacher a final farewell.

School work was concluded yesterday and the graduation exercises will be held at the Baptist church tonight. County Superintendent J. J. Savitz will make the address and Dr. F. W. Westcott, president of the Board of Education, will present the diplomas to the twelve members of the graduating class.

Advises Autoists to Observe Law.

The Montclair Automobile Club, in view of the activity of the Northern New Jersey authorities, has been appealed to by members who want some steps taken to resent what they term the aggressions of the police. The club, however, has informed the complainants that the best thing to do is to keep within the law. Whenever there is a clear case of aggression, however, a club member will take the case into the courts, and he will be backed in this action by the organization.

Presentation to Jacob Kirkner.

The Mark Master degree was conferred on two candidates at the regular convocation of Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., last night. During the evening there was presented to Jacob Kirkner a past grand priest apron as evidence of the high esteem in which he is held. Mr. Kirkner was the grand priest of the chapter last year and during his term he received a jewel emblematical of the office. Following last night's meeting refreshments were served.

Pleads Not Guilty of Murder.

Frank Zastera, when arraigned before Justice Voorhees and Judge Forster at Freehold, yesterday, pleaded not guilty to three indictments charging him with the murder of William B. Sheppard, Josephine Ryan Sheppard and Jennie Bendy on the Marlborough Squab Farm, near Wickatunk, on May 16. The court appointed former Judge William T. Hoffman and S. S. A. Patterson counsel to defend him.

Last P. H. S. Game Today.

Members of the Plainfield High School baseball nine left town on the 1:27 train today to play the closing game of the season at Bayonne. Their opponents will be the fast nine of the Bayonne High School.

NINETEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY BOROUGH DOG CATCHER

The summer campaign of open war against the stray dog who may become rabid began today in the borough, when Charles Mason, colored, was appointed dog catcher by Mayor Townsend. Mason, who is chaffeur for Dr. F. J. Hughes, the borough physician, is but nineteen years of age, and unusually quick on his feet. As soon as the Mayor told him he would get fifty cents for every dog he brought to borough police headquarters, he eagerly scanned Somerset street for his first half dollar. No dog was in sight at the time, but Mason said he knew where there were some and started off to make money.

The Mayor gave out the orders against wandering stray dogs, in enforcement of the ordinance, to Chief Marshal Weiss at headquarters today. The two were discussing possible candidates for the job, when Dr. Hughes happened along and named Mason. The lad was summoned from the auto. On hearing the offer, he at first refused the job, but when Mr. Townsend told him that there was a bonus of fifty cents per dog, Mason at once said: "Sure, I'll get 'em for you. Do I begin now?"

The dogs will be temporarily quartered at police headquarters, where they will be killed if not claimed at the expiration of three days. Chief Weiss is looking for a suitable building for a pound.

PRESBYTERIAN MEN HOLD A RECEPTION

The annual reception to the women of the First Presbyterian church by the Men's Club, attracted a large number of members and friends to the church, last night, and all enjoyed the informal program arranged by the men. It was expected that Rev. W. T. Stuchell, of the First Presbyterian church, Rahway, would make the address, but word was received that he had been detained elsewhere and would be unable to reach Plainfield.

It was then arranged to have Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, speak. His topic was "The Largest Room for Improvement," and in the course of his remarks he referred to the important place in church work taken by the men of the church. He complimented the club for the success attained during its existence.

During the evening the quartet choir, Miss Anna Lucretia Case, soprano; Miss Jessamine Burd, contralto; Herbert Byard, bass, and Andrew J. McClintock, tenor, rendered several selections under the direction of Clifford S. Braider, organist and choirmaster. Following the informal program, during which Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, the pastor, made a few remarks, refreshments were served by the members of the club The whole affair was arranged by a committee comprising President S. W. Dunning, Dr. N. W. Currie, Fred Dickerson, Jesse Lounsbury and George A. Ballantyne.

Swedish Champion Enters Big Races.

Axel G. Johnson, of Liberty street, is in training for the bicycle meet on the Vailsburg Velodrome next week, when twenty crack riders will compete in six races. Mr. Johnson is the winner of several big contests in Sweden, among them the Stockholm-Copenhagen handicap, and the Norwegian novice at Hammerfest. His trial spins are paced by a motorcycle and his road work shows that he si in good form.

Entertained Card Club.

The Misses Julia and Margaret Meaney, of East Sixth street, entertained the members of the Bronx Card Club at their home last night. Progressive euchre was enjoyed and the prizes were won by Miss Helen McCartney and Timothy Meaney, firsts; Miss Grace Byron and John Slevin, the latter, of New York, seconds. Dancing followed the awards and supper was served in conclusion.

SUSPEND EIGHT SENIORS

Summary Action by Board of Education to Enforce Fire Drill Discipline at N.P.H.S.

PUPILS WOULD NOT GO OUT.

Told Teacher They Knew It Was Only a Drill and Couldn't Spare the Time From Examinations.

Because they refused to leave the school building for a fire drill held at the Somerset Street School yesterday morning, eight of the fourteen members of the senior class of the North Plainfield High School have been suspended until Monday morning. The action was taken at a special meeting of the Board of Education last night at the request of Superintendent Henry C. Krebs. Before they resume their work at the school Monday, each of the pupils must apologise to Mr. Krebs. The pupils, one of whom is a girl, were taking final examinations in German and English, and they stated before the Board last night that they did not go out because they "knew it was a fire drill and hadn't the time to spare from the papers."

The formal charges of disobedience to the fire drill rule of the school and to the teachers who urged them to leave the building, were framed in writing by Mr. Krebs and presented by Principal Phelps at the meeting. In speaking of the incident, Mr. Krebs said:

"I was particularly surprised at such action on the part of these eight pupils, whose names I shall not divulge. They are pupils who have been exemplary in their conduct and during their entire course have been particularly faithful. I feel that such a refusal to leave the building when the alarm sounded was a direct breach of the school discipline. I insist on all pupils leaving the building immediately when that alarm is given, and the action of these who remained, if allowed to pass by without punishment, would create a spirit of laxity which might result in loss of life if fire should break out."

Of the eight pupils suspended, six were taking their final examination in German and two were at work on English examination papers. They were in class rooms adjoining the assembly hall on the second floor. In accordance with the fire drill discipline, the teachers in charge left the room for the street with the other pupils when the gong sounded. Miss Myrtle Montague, of the faculty, whose duty it is to go through the rooms after the classes have gone out and see that no pupils remain, saw the eight still at work and urged them to go out.

"We don't care to go out," was the reply, "we know it's a drill, and we're busy with our examinations."

Miss Agnes Scudder, in charge in the English room, also urged the two pupils who refused to go out to obey the signal of the bell. They refused The complaint was made to Principal Phelps and Supervising Principal Krebs. Mr. Krebs immediately called a meeting of the Board.

In a written report of the action taken by the board, President James R. Joy, supported the stand taken by Mr. Krebs. The pupils appeared before the school fathers and "pleaded guilty" to the charge. Every pupil left the building at a fire drill held this morning with Herbert Case, of the Board, present. Four of the pupils miss an examination in mathematics by their absence from school today, but will be allowed to take the test Monday.

Surprised After Business Meeting.

At the conclusion of the business meeting of the K. R. C., social organization of West End young men held last night at the home of Frank Rimmer, of Essex street, a surprise was sprung on the members by their president, Mr. Rimmer, who opened the door into the next room and revealed an assembled party of young women friends. The evening was spent with games and music, refreshments being served in the dining room by Mrs. Rimmer and Miss Elsie Rimmer before the meeting broke up. There were about thirty present.

Paving Work Finished.

Contractor C. M. Meeker having completed his job of laying the brick pavement, his men are now engaged in making a few slight repairs on Front street and Park avenue, there being a few depressions in the pavement due to the fast that the brick was laid before the concrete foundation was thoroughly hardened.

To Oil Plains Streets.

W. H. Weldon, of Rahway, has been given the contract for sprinkling oil on the Scotch Plains streets to lay the dust, and the work will be started next week. The expense of the improvement is being borne by the property owners, who started a fund a few days ago.

Two Plainfield friends conversing by 'phone at their New York office:

"Hello, Central, give me 26 John, please."

"Who is this? Is this you, Jim? This is Tom.. Say, Jim, are you going to the party next Wednesday?"

"Why, I don't know. I would like to go, but I don't see how I can. I am short of money and it takes the cash, you know, to get new clothes. I should need a new suit if I went. I suppose it will be quite a swell affair."

"Say, Jim, I'll tell you what you do, go to the PLAINFIELD CREDIT OUTFITTING CO. at 103 East Front Street, Plainfield; it's right at the corner of Somerset Street, one flight up, and tell them I sent you. They will fix you up all right and you can pay the bill a little at a time. They are very obliging there. I know you will like them. By the way, Jim, you can take your lady up there, as I saw them displaying some very pretty jumper suits and dresses just suitable for that occasion, and they sell them on the same easy payment plan."

"All right, Tom; thanks. You can expect me Wednesday night."

"Good bye, Jim; I'll see you on the 5:45 train tonight."

AN ORDINANCE

For the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield, with Permanent and Durable Macadam Pavement, and to Provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the following streets and parts of streets of the City of Plainfield, shall be permanently improved with durable macadam pavement to be completely laid and constructed on or before the thirty-first day of October, 1908, said macadam pavement to be of the depth and width hereinafter specified, and to be in every respect equal to the macadamizing on Park Terrace in said City, and all work to be given out upon contract to the lowest responsible bidder, and only after bids therefor shall have been solicited and received according to law, all bids to specify prices for each of said streets or parts of streets separately:

North Avenue, from the northeasterly curb line of Berckman Street to the southwesterly curb line of Terrill Road;

Leland Avenue, from the present macadam on East Front street to the present macadam on South Avenue;

Netherwood Avenue, from the present macadam on East Front Street to the northwesterly curb line of East Second Street;

Monroe Avenue, from the present macadam on West Seventh Street to the present macadam on West Eighth Street;

West Eighth Street, from the present macadam on Monroe Avenue to the City Line;

West Third Street, from the present macadam at Monroe Avenue to the present macadam at Clinton Avenue;

Clinton Avenue, from the present macadam at West Third Street to the City Line.

Section 2. That said streets and portions of streets described in Section 1 shall be macadamized for a width of sixteen feet and for a depth running from six inches at the center to four inches at the sides, excepting on West Third Street, where slag foundation has been laid, where the thickness of stone shall be two and one-half inches, and the macadamizing preparation shall be laid down to the grades already established by ordinance for said streets or portions of streets, respectively.

Sec. 3. That for the purpose of obtaining money by the sale of bonds hereinafter specified for the permanent improvement of said streets and parts of streets as aforesaid, in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits, the Common Council of the City do hereby, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, authorize the issuing of seventeen coupon municipal bonds of the City of Plainfield, of One Thousand Dollars each, amounting in all to Seventeen Thousand Dollars, which bonds shall bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, and be payable three years from said date of issue with the option of the city to redeem or pay off the said bonds, or any one or more of them at any time after one year from date of issue, and before three years from said date of issue, on giving personal notice to the said holders of said bonds or thirty days' notice by advertisement in the official newspapers of the City, of the intention to make such redemption or payment, which bonds may severally or collectively be sold for an amount not less than par value, and the interest on said bonds shall be raised annually by taxation and the principal be paid by the City at maturity, and the money derived from the assessments upon the property benefited, shall, when collected, be held as a fund toward the payment of said bonds.

Sec. 4. That after said improvements shall have been completed, the Common Council shall, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, apply to the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Union for the appointment of Commissioners to estimate and assess benefits upon the owners of the lots or parcels of land and real estate peculiarly benefited by such improvements, in proportion, as near as may be, to an amount equal to the amount of benefits actually acquired by the lands and real estate bordering on said streets or portions thereof respectively, by reason of such improvements respectively; and in case the costs and expenses aforesaid shall exceed the amount of said benefits, the excess thereof shall be paid by the City at large and raised by general tax; no property or owner thereof to be in any case assessed beyond the amount of benefit actually derived from said improvements.

Adopted by the Common Council May 4, 1908; Re adopted by the Common Council June 8, 1908, notwithstanding the objections of the Mayor.

Attest: J. T. MacMurray, City Clerk.

At the weekly meeting of the W. T. C. U., yesterday afternoon, several members gave reports of their recent visit to the Union at Port Richmond, S. I.

Sewer Assessments

SECOND NOTICE.

The subscriber, the Collector of Taxes of the City of Plainfield, hereby gives notice pursuant to section 25 of the act of the Legislature entitled, "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," Approved April 7th, 1890, and the amendments thereof and supplements thereto, that unless the assessments hereinafter specified, with interest thereon at the rate of six per centum per annum, and all costs and fees shall be paid to the subscriber, at his office, No. 151 North Avenue, Plainfield, N. J., within thirty days after the first publication of this (being the second) notice, the subscriber will, on at his said office, No. 151 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, between the hours of one and five o'clock in the afternoon, that is to say, at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, proceed to make sale of and to sell at public auction, the several parcels of land and real estate upon which the said assessments shall remain due and unpaid, being those hereinafter particularly described, for the lowest term of years, but in no case exceeding fifty years, for which any person will take the same and pay the amount of such assessment, with the interest thereon as aforesaid, and all costs and fees, including the expense of advertisement and sale. The assessments above referred to are the assessments made by Robert A. Meeker, Samuel P. T. Wilbur and Harry B. MacDonald, the Commissioners of Assessments of the City of Plainfield heretofore appointed under the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to provide for the appointment of Commissioners of Assessments to assess damages and benefits under and by virtue of the act entitled 'An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State,' approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto," Approved February 8th, 1905, as ratified and confirmed by the Common Council of said city, August 5th, 1907, containing the assessments of damages and benefits or expenses as the case may be, for the making and constructing of sewers and appurtenances, (including house connections) under and by virtue of the act of the Legislature entitled "An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," Approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and ordinances and other proceedings of the Common Council had under said acts of the Legislature, said report and assessments covering the whole of said system of sewerage and appurtenances then already completed (not covered by assessments heretofore made) in and through the following named streets and parts of streets, to wit:

Darrow Avenue; North Front Street; Park Lane; Park Terrace; Irving Place;
Essex Street, between Spooner Avenue and Darrow Avenue;
Midway Avenue, between East Third Street and Berckman Street;
East Sixth Street, between Richmond Street and Central Street;
Columbia Avenue, between Frederick Street and Leland Avenue;
East Seventh Street, between Leland Avenue and Belvidere Avenue;
Berckman Streett, between East Front street and North Avenue;
East Fourth Street, from Richmond Street to 750 Feet West;
East Second Street, from Berckman Street to Netherwood Avenue;
Leland Avenue, from Columbia Avenue to North Avenue;

including house connections, and including appurtances of said sewerage system in connection therewith; the said streets and parts of streets in which the same were so made and constructed, and the location and dimension of the several lots, tracts and parcels of land and real estate so assessed being delineated on a certain set of Maps Numbered, "1," "2," and "3," and each map marked "Sewer Construction Map, dated June, 1907," and attested by the signatures of said Commissioners, and filed in the office of the Collector of Taxes, July 1st, 1907. Said report and assessments were originally filed in the City Clerk's office, July 1st, 1907, and ratified and confirmed by the Common Council of said city on the 5th day of August, A. D. 1907.

A brief abstract of said assessments, showing the name of the owner or owners, when known, a brief description of said lands and real estate, and the amounts of unpaid assessments due thereon, is as follows, the maps referred to in said description being those hereinabove mentioned and described:

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The game scheduled between the Plainfield Jr. O. U. A. M. nine and the Dunellen A. C., was cancelled yesterday after a confab between Manager Walters and Manager Bogardus. The Plainfielders wanted two of the series of four games provisionally arranged to be played in Plainfield, but Manager Bogardus wanted tomorrow's game, the second of the series, played at Dunellen. A deadlock resulted and the entire series has been called off. The Dunellen nine will play the St. Joseph's of Bound Brook, on the local diamond tomorrow afternoon.

A nine of unmarried men will play the benedicts' team at New Market tomorrow and the proceeds of the game will be devoted to the piano fund of the New Market School. The game scheduled between the two nines for Decoration Day was interrupted by the storm.

Rev. E. C. Dutcher and family were in Plainfield last night attending the fortieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Woodruff. Mr. Woodruff is Mrs. Dutcher's cousin.

A neat sum was netted for church work as the result of a strawberry and ice cream festival held last night at the Methodist church under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society.

"Annie Ashley," the trotting mare owned by Liveryman John C. Dilts, is entered in Class B for the matinee races to be held at the Plainfield Driving Park tomorrow afternoon.

A special program of music and recitations has been prepared for the Children's Day celebration at the Seventh Day Baptist church tomorrow.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The local ball team will line-up at Flemington in the game tomorrow the same as against Somerville last Saturday: Flannery, lf; Baldwin, ss; J. Alberts, 3b; H. Alberts, c; Frentz, 2b; Allen, 1b; Eller, cf; Reick, rf; Ortleb, p. This line-up should keep the Flemington team busy if nothing else. A number of the fans will accompany the team. Train leaves Plainfield at 2 p. m.

Robert Murphy, who has been seriously ill, continues to improve and will soon be able to be around again.

William Spicer has resigned his position in Westfield and has taken a position with the Seeley Mill Co.

William Reynolds has been making extensive improvements about his property on Bartle avenue.

SOMERVILLE.

The engagement of John Barcalow, of Altamont place, and Miss Mae Shields, of Bound Brook, has been announced.

Mrs. George V. Van Norturck has returned from Philadelphia, where she had been visiting her sister.

Misses Anna and Susan Alwang are spending a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Raube.

Mrs. Henry V. Voorhees is a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Smith, at Haddonfield.

Mrs. L. E. Thorne has returned from Orange, where she spent two weeks.

Miss Martha Kellar has been spending several days at Phillipsburg.

Miss M. E. Weeks has been visiting her nephew, William Weeks, in Newark.

Mrs. W. T. F. Ayers is a guest of relatives at Neshanic Station.

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

After spending some time with relatives in Phillipsburg, Mrs. John S. Stradling and daughter, Miss Lillian Stradling, have returned to their home in Bound Brook.

Miss Stella Wilkinson, of Elizabeth street, South Bound Brook, is spending several days as the guest of her cousin, Miss Mamie Patterson, of Philadelphia.

The commencement exercises of the Pearce School in New Bound Brook will be held to-night in the Baptist church of New Market.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Long, of South Bound Brook, are entertaining Mrs. Peter Lund, of Plainfield, at their home in Prospect street.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sandahl are entertaining Charles A. Brassler, of Brooklyn, at their home in Church street, Bound Brook.

Edward S. Hoagland, of West Second street, Bound Brook, has been visiting friends at Somerville.

Charles Long, of West Main street, Bound Brook, has returned from a visit to friends in Somerville.

WESTFIELD.

Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig A. Lightfoot, of Westfield, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Beulah Flenton, to Alfred Egan, of Plainfield. The wedding will take place next Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents.

Westfield's Board of Education is advertising for bids for the new Fourth Ward schoolhouse. Bids for constructing the school will be received and opened at a meeting of the board next Monday.

A prize debate will be held by the scholars of the Mountainside Public School next Wednesday.

The Stillman Grammar School team defeated the R. B. A. Club, at Somerville, Wednesday afternoon by a score of 4 to 3. Vail and Nash formed the battery for the Plainfield team, and the former fanned fifteen men. A feature was Nash's long drive for three bases. The same teams will play again on Crescent Oval tomorrow morning.

On Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon the local Y. M. C. A. team will meet the association nine from Trenton, and judging by report the visitors will bring one of the fastest amateur clubs in the State to Plainfield. They are especially anxious to take this, the first contest with Plainfield, but on the other hand Manager Listman wil be fully prepared to give them the hardest fight possible. The game should attract one of the biggest crowds of the season.

The Clinton Avenues will be accompanied by a large crowd of rooters when they go to Somerville tomorrow. It will be the first clash between the locals and the West Ends and the contest will be a lively one. Both Managers Dorflinger and Conklin will extend themselves to take this game and the player who is responsible for defeat will hear something drop.

The fact that R. H. B. Dailey has resigned as umpire for the Clinton Avenues will be regretted by the fans. He has always handled the indicator in a fair manner and while there has been objections to his decisions, this can be said to be true of those who officiate in the big league games. He is thoroughly familiar with the game and all the rules and it is hoped that he may be persuaded to continue in the position.

Fred Clarke has been in the National League for fifteen years and has not lost a bit of his class.

The Chicago Cubs are considerably crippled. Howard, Evers, Sheckard and Zimmerman are on the hospital list.

According to Secretary Locke, the Pittsburgers played to the biggest total attendance in Philadelphia on their last trip there.

The Washingtons were beaten by one run in their four games in Chicago and then lost their fifth straight by one run in St. Louis.

Western team occupy first, second and third places in both of the big leagues, while fourth place in each league is held by a New York team.

Twenty runs for opponents and none for yourself in two consecutive games is getting it in the neck some. That's what the Athletics have just experienced.

The New York Americans are said to want Capt. Londrigan, the University of Pennsylvania second baseman, to join the Hillmen.

Connie Mack, says a paragraph, pronounces Indianapolis the best minor league team he has seen this year. That doesn't mean much unless it is known what other minor league teams Mack has seen.

What's in a name? There is a Ball on the New York Americans and a League on the navy nine.

Chance's men have quit spending the world's championship money they hoped to win next fall, to consider plans to capture the pennant this season.

Philadelphia is well supplied with crafty players. Mack has a Fox and Murray a Foxen.

Chairman Herrmann, of the National Commission, purchased the release of Dave Brain from Boston, and then fined Boston $25 for selling the man. It is dangerous to do business with Mr. Herrmann.

Umpire Dalley Resigns.

R. H. B. Dalley, who has been filling the position of umpire for the Clinton Avenues, announced yesterday that he had tended his resignation, the same to take effect immediately. No cause is given for the action. His work this season, as in the past, has given general satisfaction and his resignation is regretted.

GOLF.

When the announcement was recently made that the Baltsurol Golf Club had decided to come to the rescue of the professionals in the metropolitan district by offering its course for an open championship the last week in September, expressions of approval generally were made by followers of the game in this vicinity. It might also be added that these expressions conveyed a note of surprise as well, for it had come to be pretty well agreed that the outlook for the metropolitan "pro" was anything but bright.

SAYS SATAN PURSUED HIM.

Supposed Irrational New Yorker Therefore Flees to Monastery in West Hoboken.

West Hoboken, June 12.—Believing that he was pursued by a personal devil, Charles Church, of 22 St. Mark's place, New York, fled from that city Wednesday and took refuge here in St. Michael's Monastery. He spent nearly the entire day in the monastery, and when requested in the evening to depart, he told the priests a rambling story or how Satan had pursued him and was trying to pull him down to eternal torment and that the only time he succeeded in eluding him was when he hit the devil and ran for the monastery.

The priests said that aside from this delusion he seemed to be rational, but they felt that he was safer in the hands of the police. Therefore, a policeman was called in and escorted him to police headquarters. At the station-house he said that Satan had given him the power to see spirits and he could see Satan standing at the cell door grinning at him and taunting him by saying that he was now in his power.

Friends were communicated with in New York, and they came this morning and took him away, saying that they would put him in a sanitarium. They said that Church is intelligent, and well to do, but at times became irrational on the subject of a personal devil, and at such times he neglected his business and himself.

AID WANTED FOR LIBERIA.

Booker T. Washington Saw the President About It—No Definite Decision Reached.

Washington, June 12.—An absorbing subject in administration circles Wednesday was the petition of the government of Liberia that the United States intervene in the dispute between that country and England and France. President Rosevelt and two members of his Cabinet devoted much time to the troubles in Liberia.

President Roosevelt gave Booker T. Washington and others, who called to discuss the subject, no definite assurance that this government will interfere in the dispute, but he assured Mr. Washington and the others of his great interest in their cause and strove to make them feel that he is alive to the welfare of the colored race in Liberia as well as in this country.

Appointed Dental Inspector.

Elizabeth, June 12.—Dr. Joseph Wagner was appointed dental inspector of the public schools after a contest at the Board of Education meeting Wednesday night, his opponent for the position being Dr. G. Carlton Brown. A petition, signed by nearly every local dentist, was presented in favor of Dr. Brown. After some debate on the subject, however, Dr. Wagner won out, his competitor receiving but two votes.

RICH FARMER A SUICIDE.

Caleb W. Rush, of Greenwich Township, Ends Life With Paris Green.

Stewartsville, June 12.—Caleb W. Rush, a wealthy farmer of Greenwich Township, committed suicide Wednesday by taking a dose of paris green. He left home at 8:30 o'clock in the morning, and was found unconscious lying beside the Lackawanna Railroad tracks at Snyder's lane, about three miles from his home, at 6 o'clock last night. He died several hours later. He had been seen at 10 o'clock, when he passed the farm of George Reimer and asked for a drink of water. Mr. Rush had been acting queerly for some time, but there had not been any thought that he would take his life.

He was about sixty years old, and leaves a widow and one daughter, Elsie, who has been attending the State Normal School at Trenton. Besides being a member of the Greenwich Township Board of Education, Mr. Rush was also a member of the Warren County Democratic executive committee. He was also a prominent member of Stewartsville Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and Warren Lodge, I. O. O. F.

CALL SIGNATURE GENUINE.

Handwriting Experts Testify in Suit to Recover Heard in Trenton.

Trenton, June 12.—The signature of Peter Schlicher to an agreement repudiated by Schlicher, was declared to be genuine by handwriting experts William J. Kingsley, of New York, and Loren C. Horton, of Newark, in the trial here Wednesday, of the suit brought by Schlicher to recover $20,860 from Thomas R. Allen. Schlicher's repudiation was of an agreement made with R. H. Page, whereby Schlicher is alleged to have exchanged cash, and a note for shares belonging to Page.

Abel B. Harring, president of the Union National Bank of Frenchtown, testified yesterday afternoon that he has had business dealings with Schlicher for many years, and claims that the disputed signature of Schlicher's was genuine.

Atorney-General McCarter, who represents Schlicher, endeavored to show animus by eliciting from Herring that he was interested in a suit against Schlicher in the Court of Chancery.

CLERGYMAN ROUGHLY HANDLED

Priest of Jersey City Grecian Church Beaten and Kicked in Bayonne Street.

Bayonne, June 12.—Father Zena, of the Russian Greek church of Jersey City, was roughly treated by members of the United Greek church of this city here Wednesday night. He had been invited here to preach by members of the United church, who had favored dissolution with the church and the forming of a separate congregation.

The priest was to have preached in Kasper's Hall, but when he alighted from a trolley car on William street he was attacked by the members of the church who do not favor the dissolution. He was beaten and kicked. The police reserves rescued him, but when taken to headquarters he refused to make any complaint.

State Encampment G. A. R.

Asbury Park, June 12.—The State encampment of the G. A. R. will take place here June 25 and 26. Department headquarters will be in Grand Avenue Hotel. The council of administration will meet at headquarters the evening of June 24. The sessions of the encampment will be held in the Casino. There will be a short parade the afternoon of Thursday, June 25. Julius Koenig has been named as standard bearer. The camp fire will be held in the Casino Tuesday evening, June 25, to which members of the Woman's Relief Corps and Ladies of the G. A. R. are invited.

Takes Girl Stowaway to Bremen.

The North German Lloyd liner Grosser Kurfurst sailed for Bremen yesterday with Miss Marie Julich, an eight-year-old stowaway, who boarded the steamer at Bremen just before the Kurfurst's departure on her last westward trip. Curled up in a chair she was not discovered until the steamer was several hours out of port. A stewardess cared for her and the first cabin passengers made up a purse of $40. A wireless message was sent to the child's parents in Bremen after the steamer left that port, saying that she would be well cared for and brought back.

Gets Divorce on Fourth Trial.

Mineola, Long Island, June 12.—The fourth trial of the suit for absolute divorce brought by Augustus Mott, of Hempstead, against Katherine S. Mott, heard yesterday before Justice William Carr, resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff. The trial lasted less than two hours. Lincoln B. Haskin, a lawyer of Hempstead, was named as co-respondent. He was in court, but Mrs. Mott was not represented by counsel, and no defence was offered.

Elizabeth Police Inspection Today.

Elizabeth, June 12.—The annual inspection of the police of this city will be held this afternoon in City Hall Park. The men will afterward parade up Jersey street to Broad street and will countermarch to the city hall, where they will be reviewed by the Mayor and other city officials. The parade was originally to have taken place Memorial Day, but was postponed because of rain.

Thinks Rahway Water Is Impure.

The Board of Health of Rahway is investigating the drinking water in that place. After every rain Garwood sewage is said to be carried into the Rahway river, from which the local water company derives its drinking supply. The Garwood officials say that this can be avoided only by allowing to Garwood the use of the Cranford sewer.

THE FORUM.

The "Mad Dog" Scare.

Editor, The Daily Press:

In the present outbreak of alarm on the "mad dog" question, Plainfield seems to be very deficient, and much needing to be aroused in regard to the great number of unlicensed curs abounding in the city, which not only threaten our children and citizens with a frightful danger, but by barking and snapping are a constant nuisance. The police when applied to do nothing and are wholly indifferent. The barking of dogs in the rear of Watchung and Hillside avenues at night often makes sleep out of the question, and an ordinance like the proposed one in Montclair the only hope for peace and quiet.

FRANCIS WILLIAMS.

June 12, 1908.

GIRL SWINDLER DUPES ASBURY PARK MERCHANTS.

A girl about eleven years old, representing herself to be the niece of a prominent physician at Asbury Park, has managed to have a number of articles charged to the doctor's account from local tradesmen and has so far eluded detection. It is believed the child has an older accomplice.

The physician who has been used as the decoy is Dr. B. S. Keator, and as he has no niece, he was surprised to receive a bill of $3.50 for a pair of roller skates yesterday. He was still more surprised when a bill of the same amount for the same kind of articles came from another firm. The child then tried a pair of glasses from a local optician, but this tradesman became suspicious. When the girl first came to him he refused to give the articles she asked for on account. The child went away, and shortly after the merchant was called on the telephone by one who represented herself to be Mrs. Keator. The woman said that she was very much displeased at the discourtesy shown her niece, but to the optician the voice did not sound like that of Mrs. Keator, and upon telephoning her later he found that he had been fooled.

Mrs. Beatrice Ely, a cottager of Bradley Beach, was sent from the Asbury avenue bathing grounds Wednesday by order of the lessees of the bathing pavilion at that place, because she had not procured her bathing house or suit from them. Mrs. Ely attired herself for the sea at her home, and in company with some friends came to the beach to enjoy the surf. Life Guard Edward De Bow ordered her from the beach.

Jury Frees Indicted Motorman.

John W. Dukin, a Newark motorman, was acquitted by a jury in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in that city last night on an indictment charging manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Mary E. Bradfield, mother-in-law of Robert L. Ross, tax receiver, of Newark. Mrs. Bradfield was run down and fatally injured by Dukin's car at Washington and Warren streets on November 25 last. The jury was out for six horus.

Will Assist in Firemen's Carnival.

The committee in charge of the Firemen's Carnival has accepted the offer of Prof. A. S. Herr, of the Plainfield Business College to let the pupils of his school manage the attractions for one night, and it was decided to set aside Thursday night for that purpose. It was also decided to invite the Exempt's association, of North Plainfield, to help along in the good work by giving them Wednesday night to show their skill in gathering in the shekels.

Mrs. W. W. Warnock, of Craig place, has been entertaining her sister, Mrs. S. H. Lawrence, of Leonia.

He will present his formal report at the meeting of the council tonight.

CRIME TO MISUSE COMMUTATION

Two Fined $2,000 Each for Wrongful Use of a Ticket.

Judge Hundley, of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Alabama, has handed down a decision which has startled many people who are in the habit of using borrowed monthly or family commutation tickets when they want to go to the city.

Thomas Williams, a resident of Memphis, Tenn., owned a commutation ticket between his home and Birmingham, Alabama, which contained the usual provision that it should be void if presented for passage by anyone other than person to whom it was issued. He loaned his ticket to a friend of his, Daniel Pounds, who presented it to the conductor on the train who happened to know Williams. The conductor permitted Pounds to ride to his destination, but telegraphed to Birmingham for a United States marshal to meet the train. When Pounds arrived there he was arrested, being charged with a violation of the Interstate Commerce Act, which makes the acceptance of free transportation a high crime.

Judge Hundley's opinion holds that Pounds was guilty of accepting free transportation on the ground that the ticket when he presented it became void because of the provision contained in it, and by riding on it he was accepting free transportation. He was fined $2,000.

Williams, to whom the ticket was originally issued, has since been tried and convicted of aiding and abetting Pounds to commit a high crime and was also fined $2,000.

New Jersey commuters who loan tickets or use borrowed tickets not only run the risk of the penalties of the Interstate Commerce Act but are also in danger of fine or imprisonment under an act of the New Jersey Legislature, passed in 1904, which makes any person who barters, sells or transfers any railway ticket or evidence of right to transportation guilty of a misdemeanor, which is an offense punishable by a term of imprisonment in State's prison.

Displeased with Congressman.

Atlantic City, June 12.—Members of the Atlantic City Business League have called on Congressman John Gardner to appear and explain his failure to secure harbor improvements for this city. The business men say that Gardner's part in the securing of a big appropriation for Cape May and failure to help Atlantic City was a blow at this resort and they may take a hand in the fight to be made against Gardner's re-election this fall.

For City Library in Elizabeth.

The final hearing on the question of a city supported library in Elizabeth was given last night before the committees on finance and law of the Elizabeth Council, after an afternoon spent in Newark looking into the library situation there. A petition signed by several hundred citizens calling for a referendum on the library question is now in the hands of the joint committee.

Corporation Notice.

Proposals for Sewers.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at a regular meeting held Monday, June 1, 1908, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on Monday, July 6, 1908, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the construction of such portions of the sewers contemplated in the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of an addition to the system of sewerage already constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved Nov. 6, 1897, as provided for in the plans and specifications adopted by the Common Council, June 1, 1908, and filed in the office of the City Clerk, No. 151 North Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals, the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Council.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $200.00, payable to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield.

The Engineer's approximate estimate of the quantities of material required, and the work to be done, is as follows:

710 feet 8 inch Vitrified Pipe Sewer, 6 to 8 feet deep.
36 feet 8 inch Cast Iron Pipe Sewer, 6 to 8 feet deep.
1 Manhole.
2 Flush Tanks.
34 Branches on 8 inch Vitrified Pipe.
1 Flush Tank changed to Manhole.
100 feet 4 inch Vitrified Pipe House Connections.

Duplicate plan may be examined, and forms of proposals, specifications, contract and bond, may be obtained at the office of the Engineer, 151 North Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

Proposals should be endorsed "Proposals for Sanitary Sewers."

JAMES T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.
ANDREW J. GAVETT,
City Surveyor.
Dated June 1, 1908.

CHAPTER V.

To the Rescue.

NISH, who had obediently followed De Jolidon and Natalie at Popoff's orders until they had entered the summer house, now wriggled forward in confusion on hearing the ambassador's voice.

"Did you call me, sir?" he asked.

"I most surely did call you, Mr. Nish!" cried Popoff. "And I told you I was certain I saw a lady, or, rather, a lady's skirt, disappearing into that summer house. Who was she?"

"I—I don't know, your excellency," tremblingly lied Nish.

"You ought to know!" scolded Popoff. "You were standing nearer the summer house than I was. Didn't you see her at all?"

"Yes, sir—yes, I saw her, if I may say so, but I don't know who she was, I really don't. I"—

"Was she alone?"

"No, your excellency, not quite alone. There was, if I may say so—there was a gentleman with her. At least he looked like a gentleman, but I didn't recognize him either."

"Well, well, well!" chuckled the ambassador, seating himself in a garden chair and eying the summer house with delightful interest. "A little flirtation, eh? Gone in there to whisper sweet nothings where no one can interrupt 'em. I wonder who they are! Now, I really wonder! Mr. Nish, I would not for the world have you think I am the least bit curious. But—I'll just sit here awhile, for a joke, and watch them come out. In the meantime, Mr. Nish, you might slip around to the rear of the summer house and see if there is another door there. If there is, you might lock it. Understand?"

"Ye-yes, your excellency!" mumbled panic stricken Nish, scuttling away among the bushes. The little clerk never paused until he had found Sonia. To her he poured forth the whole story, gazing with wild horror as she broke into a peal of uncontrollable laughter.

Suddenly she grew sober.

"Her husband will never forgive her," she murmured, half to herself. "He will never understand that it's just a silly, harmless, sentimental talk they're having."

Memories of the ways of jealous Marsovian husbands flashed into her mind. In that primitive fatherland wives had been beaten—yes, and murdered—for less. Something must be done, and done quickly."

"Don't worry!" she consoled the terrified Nish. "Say nothing to any one else. I'll get Mme. Popoff out of the scrape if I can."

Before Nish could reply she had disappeared down a path leading to the rear door of the summer house.

Meantime Popoff, his curiosity mastering him, had left his seat. Stealing forward on tiptoe, he put his eye to the keyhole of the wicker door.

He had scarcely bent over this when Danilo, happening to pass by on his way to the gate, paused in amazement at sight of the Marsovian ambassador thus assuming the role of Paul Pry.

"Why, hello, old chap!" cried the prince. "What are you up to?"

"Hush!" warned Popoff in an excited whisper. "A lady went into the summer house a few minutes ago with a gentleman. I can't see them very clearly. There's too much fluff in the keyhole. But they're sitting opposite each other with only a little table between them. The lady's back is to me, but it somehow looks familiar. The man is talking as earnestly as if he were trying to borrow money. Now he's bending across and kissing her hand, and she doesn't seem to mind. It's—why, bless my soul, it's that fellow De Jolidon? Well, well! Of all things! Now, if only the lady would turn her face so I could see her"—

"Come away, sir!" begged Danilo, the whole situation bursting upon his mind. He caught Popoff's sleeve, but the ambassador shook him off.

"Let me alone!" he whispered. "Can't you see what it all means? It means we've found the lady De Jolidon's in love with, the very woman we've both been looking for! And now if she'll just turn her head a little I'll be able to see her face, and then"—

"Then you don't know who she is?" queried Danilo.

"No. But I'll"—

"Then take my advice and don't try to find out. Let well enough alone. Come away, old chap, and"—

"No, no! There; you pulled my head away just as she was turning around. I'd have seen her in another second. They're getting up. Maybe they'll go out by the other door, and then I shan't be able to know who"—

"Let me do the looking," suggested Danilo. "If either of us has to play the eavesdropper I'll"—

"No. It is my place," asserted Popoff. "But I'll bet you a hundred francs it's Mme. Nova Kovitch."

"It would be like stealing a drunken man's watch. I won't take the bet. Come away, sir, and let the matter drop where it is. For your own happiness"—

But Popoff was once more at the keyhole.

"They're standing up to go," he reported. "Now she's beginning to face this way. It's— Oh, good Lord!"

The poor old man staggered away from the door as though struck between the eyes. Reeling to a chair, he collapsed and buried his face in his hands.

NON-RESIDENTS' LICENSES

New Jersey Game and Fish Laws as They Now Exist for Sportsmen.

SOME RADICAL CHANGES MADE.

State Now Divided in Two Sections—Gigging Season Extended—Earlier Shooting Season—Fines as Provided.

Some interesting and important infromation, of which all sportsmen and gunners of every sort should take particular notice, has been prepared for public distribution by the Fish and Game Commission. It consists of a succinct synopsis of the fish and game laws of the State, as to what is and what is not lawful at all times. Many thousands of these are to be printed in English and other thousands in Hungarian and Italian, to be sent broadcast throughout the State. They will be accompanied by small charts showing in colors the open and closed seasons, while 2,000 larger charts are being printed for use in public places. These pamphlets and charts wil probably be ready for distribution next week. Among the things that are illegal at all times are these: To capture, kill or injure, or have in possession insectivorous and certain other birds and to rob bird's nests. To hunt geese, ducks or any water fowl, except between one hour before sunrise and until sunset. For any unnaturalized foreigner to hunt without obtaining a license. To permit dogs to run rabbits at night or to run at large in woods or fields inhabitated by rabbits or game birds, except between Oct. 1 and Feb. 1.

The most radical change is one which divides the State into two sections relative to open seasons. Passaic, Sussex, Morris, Warren, Essex, Hunterdon, Somerset, Hudson, Union and Bergen counties constitute the northern section. In these counties the open season for woodcock, ruffed grouse, quail, English or ring-neck pheasants, prairie chicken, wild turkey, rabbit and squirrel is from Oct. 15th to Dec. 1st inclusive. In the remaining counties of the State, which constitute the southern section, the open season on the above species of game is from Nov. 15 to Dec. 31, inclusive.

In the northern section as described above the open season for geese, duck, brant, swan and all water fowl, is from Oct. 15 to Jan. 1, inclusive.

Open season for ducks and other water fowl, except geese and brant, in the southern section is from Nov. 1 to March 15, inclusive. Open season for geese and brant in same section is from Nov. 1 to March 25.

It is unlawful to remove game from the State except in the case of non-residents holding license, who may remove 15 birds and 10 rabbits, providing they are exposed to view. To kill more than thirty marsh hens or mud hens in one day. For non-residents to hunt without license. Said license, costing $10.50, may be obtained from the County Clerk. To hunt or kill deer at any time. To have trapped game in possession. To hunt on Sunday or to carry firearms on that day. To hunt rabbits, quail, partridge, pheasant or woodcock when there is tracking snow on the ground. To hunt reed birds after sunset or before sunrise.

To catch or keep trout less than six inches in length, black or white bass less than nine inches in length, or pike, perch, pickerel and pike less than 12 inches in length. To take trout, bass, pike, pickerel and pike perch between 9 o'clock at night and daylight. The open season for spearing eels and suckers in all streams and in all lakes and ponds of less than 100 acres is from Feb. 20 to June 30th, both dates inclusive. It is unlawful to pollute streams. To use medicated bait or explosives of any kind for taking fish. To draw off water to take fish. To use set lines in waters inhabited by pickerel pike, perch, bass or trout, or to use any contrivances in fishing having more than three hooks or on burr of three hooks. To permit the erection or maintainance of unlawful contrivances for taking game and fish; applies to owners and tenants of lands. To take fish through the ice in fresh water.

Fines for violations of the above laws are from $20 to $200. Dogs running at large may be killed under municipal regulations. Farmers and fruit growers have the right to trap rabbits under certain restrictions. Any farmer who will sow buckwheat and allow it to remain standing as food for quail will be furnished free seed for the same by the commission.

GOLF.

For further proof of the unenviable condition the professional phase of the game has reached in this country it is only necessary to point to the difficult the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association is having to find a club willing to handle its third annual championship. The officials of the organization seem determined to have their next tourney decided over a course in this section and in the near future, but the rub comes from the fact that whatever club offers to take the event must likewise be prepared to contribute at least $300 in prize money.

Compare this with the situation in Great Britain, where the professional attracts more attention throughout the season than the amateur. Over there professional tournaments and special matches, for which liberal purses are offered, follow each other in rapid succession, so it is of little wonder that the salaried set on the other side are rated in a class ahead of the "pros" here.

At the outset of the 1907 season it was officially announced that the Metropolitan Golf Association had provided the means for holding an annual open championship. The constitution had been amended so as to increase the annual dues, the express purpose being to put the association in a position where it would be able, at least in part, to finance an auual open event. Because in 1905 and 1906 the entire burden of expense was borne by the club offering its links for the tournament, it was figured that, with the M. G. A. doing its share, no further hitch could possibly follow. In spite of this, the 1907 season came and went without a single club in the metropolitan district offering to take the open. For that matter, it is doubtful if Baltusrol would have decided to come to the rescue this time had it not been for the fact that the club felt that some such act of appreciation was due to its professional, George Low, who won the open title the last time it was played for in 1906 at Hollywood.

There are those who seem to believe that the open tournament, in whichprofessionals and amateurs are equally eligible, is not desirable. They contend that the social environment is bad for the professional players, and thus prejudicial to the best interests of the game, but, on the other hand, good judges are willing to agree that professional players have not been harmed by tournament play, though the open events on various occasions may have been managed improperly.

It has often been said that the game of golf in this country does not require any special encouragement in a competitive way among professionals, who, it is also claimed, have quite enough done for them. Aside from this, it really resolves itself into a question of what is best for the game. Amateurs, of course, play golf for recreation and amusement, but those having the best interests of the game at heart are desirous of seeing the quality of play improve in both classes. Few will deny that it is next to impossible to develop first-class golf without tournament play and the fact that golf associations the country over have been so active in encouraging tournament play is practically responsible for the steady and rapid improvement of the American amateur. It was this encouragement to the competitive game that enabled the United States in the short span of ten years to develop a homebred amateur capable of winning the British championship.

No such headway is being made with professional golf and the standard of play here certainly falls far short of what it should be. Encouragement of special matches would unquestionably do a world of good and if some of the individuals interested in the game, who can afford it, were to throw a little of their "loose change" that way, professional golf would enjoy a boom such as it never experienced before in this country.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Sutherland, of West Sixth street, leave tomorrow for Richfield Springs, N. Y., where they will spend a part of the summer.

Water.

But very few people, without doing some figuring, have any definite idea of the quantity that falls during what is called a heavy shower. One cubic foot of ran water weighs sixty-four pounds, and measures six and a quarter gallons. In one gallon there are two hundred and seventy-seven cubic inches, and it weighs ten pounds. One inch of rain fall would measure, to every square mile, fourteen and a half million gallons, or four hundred and sixty thousand barrels.

HELPFUL HINTS TO HURRIED HOUSEWIVES.

A little sugar or a quarter of a teaspoonful of molasses added to stove polish will make the polish appear much blacker, prevents dust from arising and gives a better lustre.

Unpainted wood wil remain whiter if scrubbed with cold water and soap; hot water and strong alkali will make the wood yellow.

If lettuce is kept for several hours it should be laid on a wet towel and placed on the cellar floor or in the refrigerator.

Sweet apples will cook better and have a more delicious flavor if a little lemon juice or pure cider vinegar is added.

Olive oil will remove tar stains from dress goods. Wash afterward with white soap and tepid water.

Alcohol and whiting makes a good silver polish and is excellent for polishing plate glass or mirrors.z

If porcelain vessels are placed directly over the gas flame they will clean much better by rubbing lard over the outside of the pan before putting it over the flame.

If the sink pipe is clogged remove the strainer and insert the hose into it and turn the water on full force. In almost all cases it cleans the pipe.

When flower leaves crinkle and turn gray it is a sign of mildew. Use flour of sulphur to correct the fault. Rose larvae are destroyed with hellebore, and the much dreaded aphis is killed with snuff, powered tobacco or tobacco soapsuds. Meal bugs dislike strong soapsuds.

COOKING MEAT IN WATER.

Stewing meat is the most economical method, for the long slow process makes the toughest meat tender, little fire and little attention being necessary, while all the liquid can be used as gravy, and the vegetables stewed with the meat make it go a long way.

Stewing meat should be placed into cold water, and brought quickly to the boil, but once it has boiled a stew should never be allowed to boil again. Let it simmer gently with the lid on the pan.

In braising meat the bottom of the pan is celery and herbs and about half a pint of stock. The meat is cooked resteing on the vegetables, but not touching the stock or the herbs. The pan is placed over a gentle heat, with the lid tightly put on, and must be allowed to simmer. After the meat is cooked it is placed in a hot oven for a very few minutes.

ORDER SPECIAL ELECTION

North Plainfield Voters to Decide Voting Machine's Fate on July 21.

ALSO DISCUSS THE TAX RATE.

Borough Physician Not to Get Double Pay—Change in Street Names Also Considered.

To decide whether or not voting machines will be retained in the two voting districts of North Plainfield, a special election has been announced for Tuesday, July 21. This was the discussion of the Borough Council at the special meeting last night. The agitation for the election has been through the efforts of Walter Linbarger and Charles A. Place, who circulated petitions among the voters. The lists, including twenty-five per cent. of the voters, were presented at the meeting a week ago, but held up became affidavits as to genuineness of the signatures were not given. Mr. Linbarger gave these affidavits at the meeting last night, and the action of the borough fathers followed, in accordance with Chapter 168 of the State laws.

Aside from deciding upon the borough budget, several matters of unfinished business came before the borough fathers at last night's meeting. Objections having been filed to the change in the name of Maple avenue on the outskirts of the borough to Forest avenue, passed on first reading at the last meeting, brought the matter before the Council for reconsideration. The reason for the objection is that there are several houss on this Maple avenue, while on the Maple avenue connecting Magnolia avenue and West End avenue, there is but one house. Feeling that th change would not involve so much complication for this reason, the Coucil ruled that the name of the latter Maple avenue be changed to Tappan avenue. The old Tappan farm is the only house on this street.

The vote to change the name was carried and the adoption of the change on the first reading also passed unanimously.

Mrs. Caroline Cook, who lives at 114 Summit avenue, appealed as to the justice and validity of a contract she made with the P. S. C. to wire the house at a cost of $23.41, the money to be refunded, with interest, in course of time. The matter will be taken up by the police and lamps committee.

A formal petition to the Somerset County Tax Board was passed, requesting the power to exceed the legal tax rate limit by thirty cents on a hundred dollars valuation. This is in accordance with the requirements of the law recently passed limiting the tax rate of boroughs and taxing districts. In speaking of the matter, Mayor Townsend said that the limiting law had been passed with this provision,—that if the rate is liable to exceed the rate in the new law, application must be made to the State Board. The resolution is a provisionary one.

The Council decided that Dr. A. H. Dundon should not receive further renumeration from the State Medical Board for the registration of vital statistics, claiming that the salary paid by the Board of Health includes pay for this. The Council also decided to take up the matter of laxity on the part of the P. S. C. in installing lights in Orchard Park with officials of the company. The council ordered the installation of the lights several meetings ago, but no lights have yet been put in position.

Summer School at the Plainfield Business College.

The Plainfield Business College will begin the special summer school course for tutoring pupils of the public schools on June 22, continuing up to September 1.

The instruction is so largely individual that backward and timid pupils receive just the care, encouragement and help necessary to enable them to make substantial progress in their studies.

Instruction will be given in the following subjects: Geometry, Algebra, Arithmetic Penmanship, Spelling, Grammar, Punctuation, Composition, Rhetoric, Letter-Writing, Stenography and Bookkeeping.

VOTES POURING IN FOR CARNIVAL QUEEN CONTEST

As the time for the opening of the Firemen's carnival approaches, votes for the local young woman to be selected as queen commence to be cast in large numbers. The B. P. O. E. candidate, Miss Margaret Townley, now has a total of 2,920 ballots to her credit, giving her a safe lead for first place. Miss Margaret King, who represents the Foresters, made big gainst since yesterday and is now second with 2,127. An enthusiastic cast 1,000 votes for her just before noon today.

The standing of the other candidates is as follows: Miss Mattie Decamp, Jr. O. U. A. M., 1,590; Miss Sarah Hopewell, Woodhull-Martin store, 1,552; Miss Ella Adams, F. O. E., 1,408. Miss Hopewell's showing to date is considered a very good one inasmuch as she is the only contestant who is not supported by a large fraternal organization. Her personal following, however, is very large and she is proving a strong candidate.

The carnival will come to Plainfield Monday from Jersey City where it has been for the past two weeks. It was visited there by many Plainfielders who assert that the line of attractions is the finest ever seen with a similar organization. The feature show is Ferari's trained animals, the program being the same as the proprietor gave during his long engagement at Brighton Beach and the Jamestown exposition last year.

BOROUGH TAKES ACTION ON DODGER NUISANCE

In accordance with the suggestion by the Mayor that any borough ordinances needed be presented at once so as to be included in the newly compiled set now being prepared, several ordinances were passed on first reading at the special meeting of the North Plainfield Council last night. An ordinance regarding papers and rubbish in the streets was the first brought up. This provides for a penalty of $20 fine, seven days' imprisonment, or both, for the distribution or advertising circulars, periodicals and dodgers in the borough, unless subscribed for by boroughites. It also prohibits littering streets and properties with rubbish, fruit skins, wood, etc. The ordinance is to go into effect August 1. It will be revised before its second reading. There is a similar ordinance in Plainfield, upon which this was modeled.

Councilman Nichols, who proposed this ordinance, also brought up a measure on carrying concealed weapons, this ordinance provides for a penalty of $20 fine, seven days' imprisonment, or both, for anyone carrying concealed weapons in North Plainfield. Although the word "concealed" is used, the weapons which are not to be carried include "spears" and "swords."

UHRHAHN WANTS PROPERTY CLEARED OF TAX ARREARS.

William Uhrhahn, as administrator of the estate of Angelina Uhrhahn, petitioned the borough council at the special meeting last night to clear the property at 264 Somerset street of a tax account amounting to $292.88. This sum is the original tax assessment of $77.28, levied in 1880, and accrued interest. No record of the account is on the borough assessor's books and the Ohrhahns had no knowledge of it until recently.

Corporation Counsel Reed advised that the account was outlawed and could not be collected by process of law. It was the concensus of opinion that the account at this stage was an pnjust one, and it was referred to the law, ordinance and taxation committee with power. A release will probably be given to clear the title.

FLAG DAY OBSERVANCE AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Flag Day will be observed at the First Baptist church tomorrow. In the morning the service will be appropriate to the occasion and in the afternoon the Sunday-school will celebrate the event in the main auditorium. The pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, will preach morning and evening.

Sentence Suspended on Clay.

Preston Clay, the North Plainfield colored youth, who pleaded non-vult to a disorderly conduct charge preferred by the local police, was arraigned before Judge Atwater this morning. His counsel, S. S. Swackhamer, made an earnest plea in his behalf and sentence was suspended.

Jagged in the Borough.

Henry Lewis, colored, was arrested by Borough Marshal Lemuel Pope late last night, joyously jagged. Recorder Dolliver freed him today after a lecture.

BORO' BUDGET $30,250

Deficit from Last Year Makes North Plainfield Raise More for Adequate Provision.

MAYOR TOWNSEND'S POLICY.

All Departments Demand More Money Than Was Estimated Last Year—Comparative Figuring.

Conservatism in consideration of the expenses of the various municipal departments of the borough marked the fixing of the tax budget by the North Plainfield Council last night. The gross amount is required to be raised by tax for the year 1908 is $30,250, against $25,800 for last year. The effort to raise the percentage assessment valuation being made by the Somerset County Board of Taxation makes it impossible to state at this time the tax rate. The detailed statement of the amounts needed follows:

Borough General expense, $4,375; bonds and interest, $2,360; fire department, $3,800; water, $1,290; police department, $4,000; street department, $7,000; poor account, $1,200; street lighting, $5,625; Board of Health, $600; total, $30,250.

In every case the amount asked for is in excess of the corresponding amount for 1907. This is because the amounts estimated last year proved inadequate for running the various departments. Mayor Townsend, in a message to the Council last week urged a consideration of this before deciding upon the budget, for last year the borough was $4,557.09 behind because of the under estimate. Of this $2,608.45 is the deficiency as shown by the 1907 report, $948.64 is the amount of taxes prior to 1907 considered uncollectable, and $1,000 is the estimated further loss thruogh uncollected taxes.

It is conservatively estimated that the borough wil receive $5,412 from licenses this year, and this will make up the deficit without asking for more money on the budget. The Mayor is anxious to leave the borough treasury without a hole in it, and this year's budget is framed with that view. In making up the budget the borough's expenses from January 1 to May 1 have been used as a proportionate guide in framing the year's figures, and the councilmen have spent many weary hours working over the figures for the different departments.

"BUCKET-SHOP GIRL" A PUZZLE TO COURT

Horace A. Blackmur, of New York, and Miss Edna Van Arsdale, of Dunellen, were found guilty by a jury in the United States District Court in New York yesterday afternoon of using the mails to defraud stock investors in a bucket-shop business conducted at 18 Broadway. Blackmur received the verdict cooly, but Miss Van Arsdale wept bitterly and was on the verge of collapse.

Blackmur was at once sentenced to three years in State prison at Clinton, N. Y., by Judge Hough, who referred to the fact that the prisoner was an old offender.

"There is no penitentiary in this State," went on the judge; "to which I can send this woman with the hope that she will come out better than she went in. I understand she has been faithful to the other prisoner for other than financial reasons, and that she has been employed by a Fifth avenue real estate man for the past three months, and I will remand her for sentence until next Monday. Something might be done for her if she could be kept apart from her old associates."

Funeral of William Harper.

The funeral of William Harper, who was drowned in the brick yard pond on Leland avenue, Tuesday night, was held at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Harper, of East Third street, yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich assisted by Rev. J. W. Musson, and was attended by a large gathering of the young man's relatives and friends. The floral tributes were numerous and included a set piece from his shopmates at James C. Hansen's. Burial was at Hillside.

Ministers to Meet.

Ministers from all over Hunterdon and Somerset counties wil attend the meeting of the Raritan Ministerial Association in the chapel of the First Reformed church in Somerville Monday morning, commencing at 10:30 a. m. Rev. Dr. William S. Cranmer will read a paper on "The Promise to Abraham as Developed in the Scriptures."

This will be the last meeting of the association for the summer.

WHO'S THE BOROUGH WIT?

North Plainfield Councilmen Get Spicy Fun from "Music Ordinance."

BURLESQUES MONTCLAIR'S ACT.

Provides Instant Death to Those Who Grind Out "Canned Music" During Sleeping Time.

While the Borough fathers were gravely considering the passage of ordinances to make North Plainfield "The Borough Safe and Sane," Borough Clerk Fred A. Martin read an ordinance providing for the instant killing of any person playing upon alleged musical instruments, characterized as "nerve-racking, make-night-hideous devices."

The petition follows:

"Whereas, During the dog days, the maintenance of public health, temper and sanity is rendered sufficiently difficult by causes which cannot be eradicated; and

"Whereas, While owing to the heated atmosphere, our citizens are obliged to keep open the doors and windows of their dwellings, and for this and other reasons are peculiarly unable to escape from annoying and irritating sounds and noises, which persisted in unduly tend to produce nervous prostration or worse;

"Therefore, the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield, do enact as follows:

"Section 1. That no person shall cause, permit or suffer between sunset and sunrise during the months of June, July, August or September, in any year, the playing or operation within the borough of North Plainfield, except as specified in section 2 hereof, of any mechanical instruments such as a caliope, phonograph, piano-player or hurdy-gurdy, the supposed intention of which is to produce by machinery alleged music, but which in truth are nerve-racking, make-night-hideous devices. Penalty for violation of this section shall be sudden death, which may be inflicted at any moment while such noise continues, either by any policeman, neighbor or passerby. After killing the operator and all accessories, the mechanical musical device shall also be destroyed.

"Section 2. Any person within the borough whose descent from the original savage has not been sufficiently prolonged to overcome the natural savage delight in barbarous noises may operate during said season closed for machine-made music, any such device, provided he, she and it are strictly confined within some tightly closed cellar, room or place from which no sound may escape; provided, also, that such person shall have in his or her possession a certificate signed by at least one cigar, merchant of at least ten years experience, to the effect that he or she is not sufficiently savage to be dangerous at large.

"Section 3. This ordinance shall take effect as soon as possible, and sooner than possible, if possible."

Feeling hurt that he, as owner of a piano-player and phonograph, should be thus singled out for the punishment of the law, Mayor Samuel Townsend was speechless for some time after the Clerk finished reading. Finally, in the quavering tones of a man acting from a sense of duty, he ordered the resolution turned over to the "waste basket committee" and announced that it would be acted upon at the July meeting.

All sorts of suggestions as to who is the framer of the resolutions were rife, but it is conservatively stated that Tax Collector George F. Brown, the wit of Somerset street, is the "one best bet" as the author.

BOROUGH TO JOIN CITY IN SEWAGE INVESTIGATION.

The North Plainfield Council was formally informed of the scheme for a joint sewage disposal system to tide water, proposed by Mayor C. J. Fisk, of Plainfield, at its meeting last night, when a communication from City Clerk James T. MacMurray accompanied the outline of the plan.

Upon motion of Councilman McGee, Mayor Townsend was empowered to appoint a committee of two or more boroughites to confer with representatives of boroughs and towns affected by the proposed improvement, and the members of the Council voiced their approval of the scheme. The Mayor was given power to appoint this committee in anticipation of a conference, and the action last night wil do much to save delay if such a conference is called.

Somerset Court Notes.

There were no sessions of the Somerset courts at Somerville yesterday, as Judge Louis H. Schenck was busy in New Brunswick holding court for Judge Booraem. During July and August there will be court in Somerville only on the last Friday of each of the months.

THEODORE M. FRENCH DEAD

Well Known Real Estate Man Succumbs Suddenly to Heart Trouble.

SON OF LATE P. M. FRENCH.

His Wife Died Six Weeks Ago—Four Children Left Surviving Him.

Theodore Franklin French, a lifelong resident of the city and widely known in the two Plainfields, died suddenly at his home on East Front street at an early hour this morning. He had been ailing somewhat from heart trouble for some time, particularly since the death of his wife, which occurred April 28, of this year, but his condition did not occasion any especial concern. He was taken with a serious attack last night and passed away while seated in a chair in his room. The body was discovered when the customary call for breakfast was unheeded.

Mr. French was a son of the late Phineas M. and Mary Oswald French and was born at the French homestead on Somerset street. He was associated with his father in the milling business for many years and with him placed on the market a patent buckwheat flour that is still made by a big Eastern firm. When the Somerset street mill business was disposed of by the family, Mr. French became secretary and treasurer of the Plainfield Water Company, holding the position until a few years ago. Since then he has been in the office of Elston M. French & Company.

In the volunteer fire department days of Plainfield, Mr. French was an enthusiastic member of No. 2 engine company and was one of the first chief engineers. He was also at one time secretary of the Board of Fire Commissioners. His business life included an active part in al ocal building loan association and several real estate companies. He was a member of the First Baptist church.

Mr. French is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Edward M. Howell, of Morristown, and a son, Charles Gray French, of St. Paul, Minn. He was a brother to Louis M. French and Mrs. George H. Whitney and half-brother to Elston M. French.

MAJ. MARTIN QUALIFIES FOR OLYMPIC MATCHES

Major W. B. Martin, formerly captain of Company K, this city, did some remarkable shooting on the range at Camp Perry, Ohio, yesterday, when he qualified for the selected team of ten National Guardsmen, which is to compete at the Olympic shoot in Bisley, England, within the next month. With a score of 851 out of a possible 900, he was tied with three other marksmen for fifth position, and he was highly complimented for his fine work.

The new Springfield rifle of the U. S. A. was used, after a week's practice, and the army officers who had charge of the competition declare that the scores were phenomenal, considering that the men have had so little practice. Those who qualified and their scores follow:

Eastman, Ohio, 864; Leuscheur, New York, 861; Simon, Ohio, 860; Casey, Delaware, 856; Bennedict, Ohio, 851; Martin, New Jersey, 851; Jeffers, Massachusetts, 851; Winder, Ohio, 850; Greene, Marine Corps, 850; Hessian, Delaware, 840. All of these scores were out of a possible 900.

Out of Cops' Latitude.

The steward at the Watchung Hunt's clubhouse telephoned to police headquarters, last night, asking that an officer be sent there to arrest a man who had threatened his life. As the steward has only been out of New York a short time he probably hasn't had a chance to study local geographical conditions and didn't know Plainfield cops are for Plainfield only. He was advised to get in communication with the Middlesex county authorities.

Watchung Hunt Club Active.

Although the hunting season is over for the Watchung Hunt Club, the members are planning a number of enjoyable events for the summer at its handsome new clubhouse on Plainfield avenue. Every Saturday night table d'hote dinners are served and they are proving popular among the members.

Plans to Sell Pavement Bonds.

At the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, Monday night arrangements will be made for the issuing of the brick pavement bonds and fixing a date when bids will be received for them.

MARSH, VICE PRESIDENT OF STATE BAR ASS'N

At the annual meeting of the State Bar Association at Atlantic City yesterday the members went on record as favoring the judiciary amendments of the Constitution. Last night a banquet was given at the Marlborough-Blenheim, which most of the judges and attorneys of the State attended. The officers chosen for the ensuing years were:

President, Clarence Cole, of Atlantic City; vice-presidents, Samuel Kalisch, of Newark; Craig A. Marsh, of Plainfield, and Howard Carrow, of Camden; treasurer, Lewis Starr, of Woodbury; secretary, William J. Kraft, of Camden; directors, George S. Tennant, of Jersey City; Halsey M. Barrett, of Newark; John B. Vreeland, of Morristown; Walter H. Bacon, of Bridgeton; Judge C. Joline, of Camden; George S. Silzer, of New Brunswick; William J. Lewis, of Paterson; Judge John D. Horner, of Mt. Holly; Frank S. Katzenbach, of Trenton.

At the banquet the speakers included Dean George W. Kirchwey, of Columbia University; Dr. Britton G. Evans, County Judge E. A. Higbee, Supreme Court Justices Swayze, Bergen and Parker.

This morning addresses were made by Professor George W. Kirchwey, dean of the Law School of Columbia University, and former Chancellor William J. Magie. Mr. Magie's address was commemorative of the late Cortlandt Parker, of Newark, and was in lieu of the usual address by the association's president.

P.H.S. COMMENCEMENT DANCE ARRANGEMENTS

The committee of Plainfield High School graduates from the classes of 1906 and 1907 has completed arrangements for the reception and dance to be tendered the members of the graduating class of the school Thursday night at the Casino, and the affair promises to be one of the leading social events of the season among the younger set. There will be twenty dances on the card, including the American barn dance, and supper will be served at the conclusion of the tenth dance. Frank's orchestra, of New York, will furnish the music, and the decorations will be especially elaborate. School and class colors will predominate, and there will be a profusion of college bunting used. Potted plants and cut flowers will complete the decorations.

C. Bertram Leggett, 1907, chairman of the committee, is assisted by Miss Florence Prior, 1907; Miss Antoinette Aalholm, 1906; Miss Eva Rogers, 1906, and Fred Smith, 1907. Tickets for the affairs may be secured from the oemmittee.

AWARD BRIDGE CONTRACT TO SERRELL CONTRACTING CO.

There was only one bid received yesterday at the office of County Engineer F. J. Hubbard on Park avenue, for the building of an extension to the Jackson avenue bridge, as advertised by the Union County Board of Freeholders. It was from the Serrell Contracting Company and being for $300 the amount of the appropriation the contract was awerded. Freeholder J. Hervey Doane is the chairman of the committee in charge of the work.

The plans provide for an extension of one end of the bridge which will bring it to the side-line of Midway avenue. Heretofore, there has never been the need for this improvement but recent changes on the avenue have now mad it necssary for the freeholders to act.

William Slape Seriously Ill.

William Slape, who has been ill at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Newell, on Westervelt avenue, is said to be in a serious condition. He and Mrs. Slape came to Plainfield from Brooklyn a few weeks ago to visit the latter's parents and soon afterward he was taken with a violent hemorrhage while being taken home by former Judge W. A. Coddington in his automobile. Since then he has been confined to his bed.

Complaints on Street Sprinkling.

William L. Gloak, chairman of the Councilmanic street committee, has received numerous complaints recently about the street sprinkling and he has been obliged to get after thec ontractor who has this work. The complaints state that in some instances streets are skipped or forgotten entirely, while in others too much water is being used, causing a muddy condition to exist most of the time.

COLBYITE ENDORSEMENTS

Union County New Idealtes Demand Renominations for Ackerman and Pierce.

TO WAGE STRONG CAMPAIGN.

Platform to Be Adopted, Committee Being Named to Draft It—G. W. V. Moy Acted as Chairman.

As predicted in The Daily Press some days ago, the Union County Republican League for Equal Taxation at its meeting in Elizabeth last night unanimously endorsed for renomination both State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, and Assemblyman Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford. While no definite action was taken, it is certain that it will put up a bitter fight against any attempt to renominate either Assemblyman A. F. Kirstein, of Rahway, or Assemblyman John R. Moxon, of Elizabeth.

The political situation in the county was thoroughly discussed and before the meeting adjourned a committee was appointed to plan for an active campaign in every section. This committee will also draft a platform and will make its report at an early date. The membership of the committee, which was appointed by George W. V. Moy, of this city, who acted as chairman, consists of Thomas M. Debevoise, of Summit; William F. Groves, of Elizabeth; Thomas V. W. Anthony, of Cranford, and James G. Allen, of New Providence. Mr. Groves acted as secretary at the meeting.

The resolution commending both Ackerman and Pierce follows:

"Whereas, the records of Senator Ernest R. Ackerman and Assemblyman Carlton B. Pierce demonstrate that they have been faithful to the trust reposed in them and that they are eminently fitted to represent Union county in their respective bodies in a manner which will serve the best interests of the State. Be it resolved, that the Advisory Committee of the Union County Republican League for Equal Taxation unanimously endorse Senator Ackerman and Assemblyman Pierce for re-election."

BERKELEY HEIGHTS GETS LIGHTS AFTER HARD FIGHT.

After a stiff fight at the township committee meeting at Berkeley Heights last night, the franchise for installing fifty street lights was granted to the Commonwealth Water and Light Company, of Summit, and the work of installing street lights in Berkelye wil be started at once. The expense of installing the lights will be about $750, of which $300 has been subscribed by William Jeffery, "The Bungalow Man."

An effort to defeat the lighting scheme was organized by Henry S. Fullerton, chairman of the committee appointed to decide the matter. This faction brough up the proposition of underground wiring for the street lights, and advocated this, realizing that the expense of installing such a system, (about $7,000 a mile) would be too great for the villagers. The Jeffery forces were victorious and within a short time street lights will glimmer on the street corners of the bungalow tract and light up the facade of the Berkeley Lyceum.

Children's Day at Tabernacle.

The following program will be given at the Children's Day exercises at the West End Tabernacle tomorrow night: Recitation, "I Am a Tiny Little Girl," Agnes Christianson; hymn, "Jesus Loves Me," class seven girls; recitations, Ermie Pennoyer, "Little Drops of Water," Bessie Medick; "Our God in Love is Reigning," Helen Taylor; "When I'm Old Like Grandpa," Theodore Martin; "Keep on Doing," Willie Ptesron; "Just a Litle Child," David Christianson; "Children's Day," Carrie Pnennoyer; "A Child's Prayer," Florence Taylor; "A Litle Girl," Bessie Ryan; hymn, "Flower Garden," six girls. An address will be given by James Church. The exercises will be in charge of Robert Love, superintendent of the Sunday-school.

$20 Fine for Disorderly Conduct.

Samuel Ambrose, an Italian section hand employed by the New Jersey Central, was fined $20 in police court this morning on a charge preferred by Lambert Edmunds, of West Front street. It was declared that the defendant had acted in a disorderly manner on Oxford place and that for several days past he had annoyed little girls. Ambrose denied the charge but his explanations proved unsatisfactory. He paid the fine.

The Baraca class held its monthly meeting last night at its class room at Faith chapel. Gratifying reports were read an a good time enjoyed.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The West Jersey Presbytery will hold a conference in the First Presbyterian church, Ocean City, next Tuesday.

The State Tuberculosis exhibit, now at Woodbury, will be held over until Monday, when it will be shipped to Texas.

Thomas Hutton, twenty-four years old, was found dead in bed at his home in Hightstown by his mother yesterday. Death was due to heart disease.

Colonel Harris has found some valuable relics on his property at Ewanville. They consist of a Bible carved out of wood, some Chinese money and a foreign coin dated 1760.

Tinsmiths of Trenton have won their strike for the retention of the wage scale of fifty cents an hour, which the bosses wanted to cut because of depressed building conditions.

The Jersey City Fire Commissioners have asked the Finance Board for an appropriation of $471,670.97 for the maintenance of the department the next fiscal year. The allowance for the current year was $331,452.50.

Telling his companions that he would show them how to swim, William Bertolina, aged fourteen, of Fainton, plunged into the Cohansey river into what he thought was shallow water, and was drowned in sight of his father and companions.

Suffering from a dog bite received eight years ago, J. E. Hegaman, thirty-seven years old, of 919 Ferry avenue, Camden, applied at Cooper Hospital yesterday for treatment. Two years after attacking Hegaman the dog bit a girl and was then killed.

The visiting nurse committee of the Charity Organization Society of Paterson has leased the old brownstone front house at 45 Ward street, that city, occupied in years gone by by the late Dr. Quinn, for the purpose of extending its work among the sick poor of that city.

By the falling of a wooden girder at the Victor Talking Machine Company's works, Camden, yesterday, three men were hurt. The most injured was Edward Powell, 550 South Sixth street. He was struck by the falling girder on the head. The other two were but slightly hurt.

While responding to an alarm of fire, Herbert Hibbs, a member of the Kaighn avenue truck company, Camden, missed his footing on the truck and was dragged a considerable distance, the rear wheels lacerating and bruising his legs. His injuries were treated at the Homeopathic Hospital.

As Douglass Hanson, sixteen-year-old son of George Hanson, of Hessian avenue, Woodbury, was going home late last evening he was shot in the right thigh by a pistol he was carrying in his coat pocket. Dr. Campbell found the wound so dangerous that he ordered the boy taken to the Hahnemann Hospital, Philadelphia.

While on his way home from work shortly before 5 o'clock last night, Anthony Proche, of 9 Prince street, Paterson, collapsed at Straight and Godwin streets. Persons in the vicinity thought he was overcome with the heat. He was taken to the General Hospital. His condition today was grave. Proche is fifty-two years old and is employed at Riverside as a dyer.

In the Circuit Court, Camden, yesterday, a jury gave a verdict of $4,000 for Martin Pfrom, administrator of the estate of John Pfrom, against the Public Service Corporation. About a year ago George and John Pform were driving in a carriage along Federal street, when a trolley car crashed into them. John was fatally injured and George received injuries that will cripple him for life.

William Collier, a member of the Passaic County Fish and Game Protective Association, made a tour of the fish stands about lower Main and River streets, Paterson, last evening, and when he came to a store owned by Louis Schwartz, of 97 River street, he found three wall-eyed pike which were less than the length allowed by law for the capture or possession of the fish. Schwartz was fined the usual penalty, $20 and costs.

FIRE DESTROYS A CHURCH.

Flames Starting in Spring Lake Laundry Communicate with Adjoining Structure.

Spring Lake, June 13.—The Colored Methodist Episcopal church and the old Franklin Laundry, on Pennsylvania avenue, were destroyed by fire yesterday. The damage amounted to about $3,000, and, while the church property was insured, it is said Frank S. Closson, of Perth Amboy, carried none on the laundry, which he owned.

Owing to the inability of the local fire department to start the borough's engine, the fire became uncontrollable. It is not known how the blaze originated, and David Closson, a son of the owner of the laundry, who was in the building a half hour before the fire was discovered by Arden Patterson, says there was no fire at that time. The church and the laundry adjoin each other, and the flames from the latter soon ignited the church.

Fred Winters is at Richmond, Va., representing Westfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., at the couvention of the Funeral Benefit Association connected with the organization.

Westfield Lodge of Odd Fellows will decorate the graves of Odd Fellows in Fairview Cemetery tomorrow afternoon. The lodge members will go to the cemetery in stages.

The Seneca Athletic Club of Westfield, is preparing to hold an athletic meet July 4 at Fair Acres track.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Tomorrow will be Children's Day in the churches and the Flag Day celebration will combine with the program for the occasion at some of the services. At the Presbyterian church, the service will be held in the morning, and pupils of the Sunday school will take the principal part in the program. A special feature will be "Voices of the Summer," and the rite of holy baptism will be administered by Rev. W. W. Casselberry in connection with the service. The program at the Methodist church will be an elaborate one and a successful rehearsal was held at the church last night. A committee composed of Mrs. George H. Gardner, Mrs. Foster Sofield and Miss Iva Dayton is in charge of the program at the First Baptist church, where the services will be in the evening. About a score of pupils will take part.

Charles Clark is arranging to have tennis courts laid out on the Craig Marsh property opposite the Whittier School, and they should be ready for play next week. He is acting for the Young Men's Tennis Club, which has again organized with J. A. Bogardus as president.

Mrs. Adrian Lyon, of Perth Amboy, was the speaker at the meeting of the Young Ladies' Sewing Circle held yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Lyon is secretary of the young people's work of the Presbyterian Women's Home Missionary Society.

Mrs. John M. Dayton is sojourning with friends at Peekskill, N. Y.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

For the first time since he has been President of the Board of Education, and that is a number of years, Dr. F. W. Westcott missed giving the graduates their diplomas at the commencement exercises held last night. The Dr. was unavoidably absent, his place being taken by Mr. A. D. Beeker, vice-president of the Board.

The local team was accompanied to Flemington this afternoon by some of the dyed in the wool fans. The delegation was small as the majority of the fans thought the trip too long a one.

Children Day exercises will be held tomorrow night in the Methodist church. An interesting program has been arranged and the friends of the school are cordially invited to attend.

Rev. W. W. Dieterick will have charge of the weekly prayer and praise meeting, to be held at the Methodist church tonight.

James H. Buckley, who is located at Baltimore, with the Pullman Company, spent Friday with his wife and family.

Miss Caroline Lent, of the corps of teachers, left today for Palmyra, N. Y., where she will spend her vacation.

Wm. Stanbury, who is a student at a military school near West Point, is home for the summer vacation.

This season has been noted for the number of minor league players who are making good in the major leagues. Among those who have caught on in good fashion are Manning and Lake with the Highlanders, and Crandall with the Giants. All three pitchers have proved their right to travel in fast company. Besides there are a host of in and outfielders who are doing great work.

The Clinton Avenues are playing the West Ends at Somerville this afternoon, and their friends feel confident of victory.

Manager Dorflinger is using "Billy" O'Loughlin behind the bat today. Last year he proved to be a good backstop and he did better work than Moffett, who has been behind the rubber this season.

Manager Walters, of the Juniors, says that all games with the Dunellen Field Club are off for this season. He refuses to schedule another contest with them. The trouble was that Manager Bogardus wanted all the games played at Dunellen, which the Juniors declined to consent to. One game had already been played at Dunellen.

The game on Crescent Oval this afternoon between the Plainfield and Trenton Y. M. C. A. teams should prove interesting. It is the first time the teams have met this year and it will be the first game for Trenton. They are sure to put up a fast article of ball.

"Lou" Wiltse pitching for Jersey City against the Baltimores on Thursday, was given miserable support and in consequence lost. The team was credited with nine errors, four of which were by Manager Joe Bean and three by Fitzgerald, the catcher. With such work the best pitcher on earth could not win. Looks as though they did not want to support Wiltse.

GOLF.

There will be the weekly play for the President's, Club, Summer and Challenge trophies at the Park Golf Club, today. These events have been the means of increasing the interest greatly and there is a marked improvement in the attendance each week on the links.

Weekly competition for the Spring Handicap cups at the Plainfield Country Club will be the chief event of interest today.

The professionals in the Metropolitan district are showing these days that they are on their game. Within a few days in matches with amateurs Aleck Smith has made successive rounds at Nassau of 70, 69-139 and 70, 66-136. The latter round is a new thirty-six hole record for Nassau and the afternoon card but one stroke above the record for eighteen holes Smith attained last season.

The 31 home beat the holes of the record score a stroke and has only been equalled by Aleck Smith, Barker, of Garden City and Jock Jolly were guests recently of Isaac Mackie and Jack Pearson, playing a four-ball match at Richmond County in the morning and at Fox Hills in the afternoon. They were all square on the day, but Mackie and Pearson were 1 up for Fox Hills, having a best ball of 69 to Barker and Jolly's 71.

The Plainfield Country Club has been well represented in the various golf tournaments this season at Englewood and Baltusrol, among the members taking part being Frank O. Reinhart, Leighton Calkins, W. Lester Glenney and Dudley H. Barrows. Despite the fact that they all played a good game they failed to get a place.

Among the well-known golfers who are missed this season at tournaments is Robert Abbott, of this city. He is now following the game as in the past, when he won the intercollegiate and other honors.

There will be the weekly dinner-dance at the Plainfield Country Club tonight, under the auspices of the House committee, of which Willard Wadsworth is the chairman.

The social features at the Park Golf Club are proving an enjoyable part of the weekly program and attract many members every Saturday.
